The Council of Women has taken the lead in many worth-while movements in Peterborough, and offers an effective and sensible way in which the viewpoint of the city's women upon matters of public interest can be expressed.

Reports presented at the annual meeting help the public to realize how varied and extensive are the matters considered by the Council each year, while the address of the President Mrs. C. H. Edwards outlined a program that shows the organization has no intention of resting upon its oars during the present year.

The Council of Women will concern itself, among other things, with pressing for a rest-room for women, the securing of better accommodation at Inverlea Park and furthering so far as is possible the Old Home Week.

In these efforts the Council can count upon the full support of The Examiner; we are glad to ally ourselves in a campaign for the first two aims and, of course, we are for the Old Home Week with everything we can throw into the enterprize.

PUBLIC OPINION INDICATED.

The city fathers should have little difficulty in deciding that public opinion is opposed to the erection of a service station opposite Confederation Square.

The eloquence and persuasive powers of Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., have failed to induce a meeting of Peterborough's returned men to withdraw a motion of protest passed at a similar meeting some time ago.

The returned men present could see no reason for changing their minds—and only four out of an attendance of sixty supported the service station proposition.

In addition to the stand taken by these ex-service men, public opinion in the matter is indicated by resolutions passed by the executive of the Canadian Legion, and by the Local Council of Women, representing 31 women's organizations and a membership of 2,500 women of the city, and a protest from the Public Library Board.

These representative bodies have unhesitatingly condemned the proposition, and their action is indicative surely of the general view of the citizens.

They speak for the bulk of the people when they declare that the erection of a service station at this point is detrimental to the public interest.

The Council know what the citizens of Peterborough desire them to do in this affair, and The Examiner is satisfied to leave it with them to protect the interests of the community.

So far as we are concerned we have no axe to grind, no hostility towards this particular company or any other company.

We have fought against this undertaking because we feel that there must be an end to this invasion of what should be restricted areas.

Service stations are a necessity, but there must be some limit to where they are to be allowed to locate.

CANADA AND RUM-RUNNING.

(From the Montreal Star)

It is most assuredly our business to do everything in our power to prevent our land from being used as a pirate base from which "war" can be levied upon a friendly nation. We should not allow men to conspire in Canada to violate the laws of the United States. We should not allow them to twist and torture our laws and regulations, established for perfectly proper purposes, in such fashion as to build them up into "blinds" from behind which they can issue to commit crime successfully in American territory.

We would not think of doing this if the crime were murder or house-breaking or even smuggling of an international sort. But because prohibition is still a debatable subject among most peoples, some of us are too inclined to wink at operations which find an asylum in Canada and a field of profitable crime in the United States. As good neighbors, we should do this no longer. As common-sense people, living next-door, we should do nothing which either increases underworld activities just across the border or invites these pernicious actors to frequent our own country.

The summary of figures for the Workmen's Compensation Board of Ontario for the year 1928 shows that there has been awarded in benefits during the year $7,067,946.93, as compared with $6,084,654.87 during the prior year, the present year's figures being made up of $5,901,439.39 compensation and $1,166,507.54 medical aid.

The accidents reported numbered 79,396, as compared with 71,979 accidents during 1927. The fatal accidents showed an increase from 429 during 1927 to 553 during 1928. In December there were 6,455 accidents reported, including 36 fatalities, which was somewhat lower than November when 7,021 reports were received, including 51 fatalities.

Commenting on these figures R. B. Morley, general manager of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, has called attention to the division of employers by the Compensation Act into schedules 1 and 2 and Crown cases. The Crown cases are those of the Federal and Provincial Governments. Schedule 2 includes the steam and electric railways, and telegraph and telephone companies, school boards, municipalities, etc. In schedule 1 there are approximately twenty-five thousand industries, these being by payroll largely of the manufacturing interests of the Province in which there has been a remarkable increase in employment over former years.

The plants included in schedule 1 showed an increase in the number of accidents reported during every month of 1928, except in January only, when the figures were lower than in 1927.

The total medical aid awarded in schedule 1 in 1928 shows an increase of over one hundred thousand dollars and total compensation awards over six hundred thousand dollars. The accident fund of the board received several heavy blows during 1928, including the Manasoo disaster and the Hollinger fire.

Records now available indicate an increase in 1928 over 1927 of eight per cent. in employment, an increase of eleven per cent. in total number of accidents reported to the Workmen's Compensation Board and an increase of sixteen per cent. in total awards by the board.

UNFORTUNATE.

Nothing could be more unfortunate than the threatened rail building war between the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific. While it is desirable to be continually opening up new sections of the country, not now served by proper rail transportation, the country is not in a position to support anything in the nature of a building competition between the two leading systems, one owned by the people and the other by a private company that has had large public backing.

The present discussion has been initiated by the announcement of the Canadian Pacific that it proposes to outlay $50,000,000 during the next five years in northern line extensions in the Prairie Provinces. This, it is said, is with the idea of checkmating C.N.R. expansion in a district hitherto regarded as exclusively C.P.R. territory. The rural sections of the West are reported as supporting the Canadian National program, while the cities and towns are throwing their weight behind the private company.

The Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways, has already interceded with the presidents of the two railways, Ottawa says, in an endeavor to procure an agreement that will minimize the conflict, and the prospects are that Parliament will take a hand in the discussion at the forthcoming session. Everyone is anxious to see all the extensions made that are necessary for the proper development of the country, but it would be a mistake of the first water if the two systems, purely for reasons of commercial jealousy and business supremacy, were to embark upon a program of duplicating facilities in sections that are new and that, for obvious reasons, cannot be expected to provide sufficient business for two lines for many years to come.

That Canada has had too much duplication of railway facilities in the past, is a fact that is all too true. The taxpayers know this to their sorrow. With the mistakes of the past before us, therefore, there is little excuse for further moves along the same line. Perhaps it can be shown that the proposals of both systems in respect to new branch line developments in the West are justified and in line with actual needs. If this be the case, of course, the situation is entirely different. If, however, as despatches intimate, there is to be costly and unnecessary duplication of facilities, then the matter is one in which the people have a very direct interest and concerning which the authorities may be looked to to make firm and effective protest.

In an exhaustive statement made public to-day, Mr. E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific, accepts Sir Henry Thornton's challenge to let Parliament decide the matter. From Conservative sources comes the suggestion, however, that the Government would like to have a compromise arrangement before Parliament sits, in order to avoid possible embarrassment, and that efforts will be directed along this line. One fancies, however, that whether the Government likes the idea or not, the Commons chamber will be the scene of a lively discussion of the whole situation. And this, of course, is as it should be, for the subject is one of importance and there is no reason why it should not be thoroughly aired and settled by the people's representatives.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Those professional hockey clubs seem to have lost sight of the fact that the main idea of the game is to score goals.

The good work of the Salvation Army must still go on despite the controversy over the high command.

Peterborough old boys are writing to say they will be glad to come home for Old Home Week. And Peterborough will be just as glad to have them come.

The punster of the Toronto Star had better look to his laurels. The Globe perpetrates this atrocity: "Two Budapest tailors the other day fought a duel with scissors over a girl. That seems like a shear disgrace."

Some idea of the distress and suffering in the Welsh mining area may be obtained from the fact that a million dollars has already been expended in providing shoes and clothing for children of the unemployed.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

DAD'S NEW IDEA

"Where are we going tonight?" they yell
As soon as the dinner's finished. Well,
I've thought of the places we have been:
There isn't a house we've not been in,
There isn't a show we haven't seen,
Of course, the movies is what I mean;
And yet tonight when the meal was through
They asked the question they always do.

Perhaps you were passing at the time
And thought our house was a scene of crime.
You heard a scream, and you thought, no doubt,
The roof fell in or the wall fell out.
For Mother fainted, and Daughter cried,
And Sonny swore, I am satisfied.
You may have wondered, you may recall,
What terrible thing had caused it all.

Well, I'm the fellow to blame, their Dad,
Because of a new idea I had.
But when they asked me that thing again,
"Where are we going tonight?" just then
That new idea popped into my head,
Though this was all that I really said:
"'Where are we going?' Well, not to roam—
Tonight we are going to stay at home."

THE LUCKIEST LADY — By — Ruby M. Ayres

THE STORY THUS FAR:

BIDDY SAUNDERS—the Little Flapper—always called her young adopted mother, MARNA PAGET, the Luckiest Lady, for she thought Marna had everything heart could wish—youth, beauty, wealth and the love of a devoted husband. But Marna was unhappy. She had married without loving GEORGE PAGET, and three months later had met HUGH HUBBARD and given him her heart. He had gone to China, but after years of separation they find that they love each other as much as ever. As the Little Flapper grows older she realizes something of the situation and worries about it. Hugh returns after five years, and is a guest of the Pagets. Biddy realizes that she is herself in love with Hugh. DOLLY BENSON, the Big Flapper, friend of Biddy, and RENNY MARTIN, in love with Marna, both realize how things stand between her and Hugh. So does MRS. BLAIR, an old friend. Marna, suddenly weakening, decides to return to China, but reaches the pier after his boat has sailed. Biddy is recovering from pneumonia. The Big Flapper tells Biddy that she must give her forty pounds for silence about what she knows of Hugh and Marna. Biddy without telling what it's for, gets it from Marna. At a night club George discovers Marna in Renny Martin's arms, when he is trying to kiss her. When Paget fights Martin, Martin asks him why he isn't jealous of Hubbard.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XXXVII—WHAT'S WRONG WITH MARNA?

Life went on. Nothing particular happened, and yet so much seemed to happen that the Little Flapper found herself bewildered.

Everyone tried to behave as if no thought of tragedy had entered into the happy routine of life, and the very pretence but deepened it.

Renny Martin had left London, and for some time Dolly Benson had not been to the house.

The weather had turned suddenly and unexpectedly warm, and there were swelling buds on the trees in the Park, and clear, sunny skies smiling down on London.

George Paget seemed to be almost his old cheery self. He was devoted to Marna. It seemed as if he could not sufficiently atone for his jealous suspicions.

"I ought to be kicked for it," he told her more than once in self-abasement. "Don't know what possessed me. I'm not naturally a Bluebeard, am I? I don't deserve to be forgiven. It's not many women who would forgive me, I know."

"Let us forget all about it," Marna pleaded. "You were not to blame, any more than I was."

But George could not let it rest. He was bitterly ashamed of himself.

"Can't imagine what old Hugh would say if he knew," he said once wretchedly. "He'd think I'd taken leave of my senses don't cherknow! Can't think what possessed me!"

"He's never likely to know," Marna said with an effort. "And it's no business of his."

"No, no! 'Course not!" George Paget paced up and down the room, a little frown on his usually smiling face. "Can't think why he doesn't write," he said in a puzzled way. "Never was much of a correspondent, of course, but he might write now and then."

"What does it matter if he writes or not? Didn't you tell me he was going to be married? If he is, that would account for it. He's too busy."

"By Jove, yes!" Paget beamed at his wife. "Fancy old Hugh married, after all! I say, shall we send him a cable?"

"What ever for?" Marna asked sharply. "It's no business of ours, anyway, and besides, it may not be true." She controlled herself with an effort, and tried to laugh. "What does it matter to us if he is going to be married or not?"

"Thought you'd be interested. Thought you liked Hugh," Paget submitted slowly.

"So I do, so I do, but—oh, George, if only you would talk about something else!"

Paget apologized humbly and changed the conversation, but he kept looking at his wife in wistful bewilderment.

He was like a strong oak-tree in whose gallant heart a canker has begun to grow and cannot be killed.

That same evening, although he had meant to keep his trouble strictly to himself, he inadvertently confided in the Little Flapper.

Marna had gone to bed, pleading a headache, and Paget and Biddy were alone by the drawing-room fire.

Biddy had tried to read and given it up; she had tried to work at a jumper she was making, and had given that up, also, and now she sat on her favorite humpty stool by the fire, her chin in her hands, almost painfully conscious of Paget's dejection.

It was so unlike him to sit hunched up in his chair and silent; she felt as if there was a third unseen presence in the room, casting a spell on the quiet happiness they had known.

Presently she spoke.

"What's the matter, Uncle George?"

Paget started, sighed, and tried to laugh.

"Got the blues a bit," he admitted. "I shall be all right tomorrow. Don't like Marna being ill. Hate the house when she's not somewhere about."

Paget shook his handsome head.

"She's not been all right for weeks—months! Looks ill—looks rottenly ill. Mrs. Blair notices it, I can see, and she's no fool. I like that woman for all her queer clothes and strong-minded opinions. Haven't you noticed it, Biddy? Come now, I'm sure you have."

"Marna tired herself out nursing me when I was ill."

He shook his head.

"'Tisn't only that she's tired," he insisted. "She's not the same woman she used to be." He rose to his feet and began pacing the room restlessly. "There's something between us!" he broke out with sudden eloquence. "We used to be so happy! You know how perfectly happy we were, Biddy. And now it's all changed. Dare say it's my fault. I'm a blundering fellow, and Marna's just the sweetest. Know I'm not half good enough for her. It'd serve me right if she grew to hate me. Lots of women would for less than I said to her the other night."

"They could," he declared gloomily. "I made a fool of myself. I behaved like a jealous fool, and—well, there was no cause. She never cared for Renny Martin. I might have known that she never did. The fellow just pestered her with his beastly attentions. If he ever comes here again I'll break his damned neck for him!"

The Little Flapper laughed. She was immensely relieved. It was all right if George was only jealous of Renny Martin; she had dreaded to hear another name.

"As if Marna would ever look at a man like that!" she said scornfully.

"I know. I was a fool to ever believe it. I don't believe I ever really did, but when the brute dragged Hugh's name in——"

"Oh!" said the Little Flapper softly. "Hugh's a different matter," Paget blundered on agitatedly. "He's a man, if you like! The sort of fellow any woman would take a fancy to—eh, what? Don't you think so, Biddy?"

"Yes."

"Oh! You do think so, do you?" Paget came to a standstill in front of the Little Flapper's humpty stool, and glowered down at her very much as a mastiff glares at a kitten. Somehow that little word of admission had been so eloquent; almost like fresh fuel thrown on to the smouldering fire of the jealousy which he could not quite extinguish.

He remembered that he had once thought the Little Flapper was in love with Hubbard; he remembered that even Dolly Benson had admitted to an infatuation for him. Why, then, should Marna be any different?

"Biddy!" he said sharply.

"Well?" But she did not look up.

"Look at me," Paget commanded.

The Little Flapper slowly raised her eyes, hot and troubled.

"Do you think—do you know—oh, hang it all! If you know anything," Paget said agitatedly, "you wouldn't make a fool of me, Biddy, would you? I've always been straight with you—always been straight with everyone as far as I could. If there's anything in what Renny said—you'd tell me, wouldn't you? You'd be honest——"

Biddy rose to her feet and took his hand in both hers.

"Silly! Silly!" she cried. "What are you imagining now? What is there for me to tell you? Oh, Uncle George, don't be such a Bluebeard!"

She was terrified because she knew that something in her face or manner had aroused his suspicions once again; she laughed and teased him and scolded him till the ugly look of doubt left his eyes and he laughed with her.

"We all want a holiday," he said rather hoarsely. "We're all gettin' on each other's nerves—eh, what? Would you like a holiday, Biddy? Where would you like to go?"

Biddy let him talk. It gave her breathing-time, but she knew that the danger which had been threatening them all since Hugh Hubbard came home was drawing nearer.

Later she tried timidly to warn Marna but Marna was unapproachable.

"I'm tired, leave me alone," she so often said that now when the Little Flapper went to her room or attempted any caress. But one night about a month after the dance at the Star Club, Biddy woke suddenly to the feeling that someone was in the room with her, and when she sat up in bed, with a little gasp of fear, Marna spoke to her through the silence.

"It's all right, Biddy. Don't be frightened. I just came to see if you were asleep."

"Marna! You woke me. What's the time darling?"

"It's not late. Only just half-past twelve, but George isn't in yet, and I'm waiting for him."

The Little Flapper was wide awake now; she groped beside the bed and put on the light.

Marna was standing beside her in her evening-gown. She looked white and tired, and yet her eyes were so bright—brighter than the Little Flapper could remember having seen them before.

"Is anything the matter?" she asked quickly.

"No, nothing. I wanted to talk to you, that's all. I'm sorry if I woke you."

She sat down on the side of the bed, and Biddy wrapped the quilt round her.

"You'll get so cold," she scolded. "Your hands are like ice as it is."

She felt very happy. It was so long since Marna had come to her room for one of the old beloved talks; it almost seemed as if the recent shadowy days were wiped out and forgotten.

"I'm glad I woke up," she said. "I'm glad you came."

"Yes, Biddy!" But for some minutes Marna did not go on, then she said almost painfully: "Do you remember I once told you that if ever there was anything you could do for me I would let you know?"

"Yes."

"Well, there is something I want you to do for me now."

"You know I will."

"Thank you." Marna shivered a little. "It's nothing very much. It's only to promise, if anything should happen to me—I don't mean that it's going to, but if it should—I want you to promise to send a letter for me to—to Mr. Hubbard."

"Yes."

There was a little silence, then Marna went on:

"You need not feel shocked, Biddy; there's nothing in it to be ashamed of, and if he ever gets it I shan't be here, so it won't matter—it won't matter what anyone thinks any more. Only I don't want George to be hurt. He's hurt already. That's the worst of life. Things can't happen to you without hurting other people, too."

The Little Flapper lay very still, but she knew perfectly what Marna meant.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE SHIVER

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

Perhaps you have wondered why you shiver when you are cold. If you stay in the water too long you begin to shiver and shake all over. You have a similar experience if your clothes are insufficient or if the cold is so intense that you can't keep warm despite the most proper dress for the occasion.

We shiver whenever the temperature on the surface of the body drops below a certain point. Some people can stand more cold than others; some can stand more heat. The amount and condition of your blood as well as the amount of fat makes a difference.

As a rule women can stand more cold than men. This ability enables them to stay in the water longer than a man, and to wear lighter clothes than men without getting sick.

A woman's flesh is differently constituted from a man's. She has more fat under the skin, which gives the skin a smoother and more velvety appearance as well as furnishing more protection from cold.

No matter how well developed a woman's muscles may be they do not show as prominently as a man's because of this same fatty tissue in the skin.

Women as well as men, however, will shiver when the temperature of the skin drops considerably below normal. We shiver to stimulate the circulation of the blood. The shiver, nature's method of protecting the organism against cold and illness, consists in exercising the skin to keep up the circulation. In addition to shivering, one may also shake violently. The object is the same as that of the shiver. Both are automatic—quite beyond the control of the individual.

We shiver, then, just as we blink the eye when some object is thrown at us. Both are reflex actions and quite beyond our control. Both are preventive. On a very cold day you see people moving about at a lively pace, stamping, rubbing their hands and slapping their arms across their chests. The obvious purpose of such action is to increase blood circulation and to keep warm. We shiver for the same purpose, except that we do it automatically, thus keeping the blood on the surface of the skin.

Final arrangements have been made for the big draw in aid of the Legion relief fund, to take place at a concert on February 12. Merchan'ts have kindly assisted by donating prizes, adding a large sum to the treasury of the Legion.

The short time remaining to sell tickets means that every member will need to do his share quickly. A book of ten tickets, to be sold at 25c each, is being sent on Monday to every member. When this is sold, he should apply to the president, 'phone 1601 or 3537, for another book. The work of the Legion is so widespread that every dollar is needed, and members can help out in this way by selling tickets for the draw. The prizes are particularly good.

The following have been donated:

2nd Prize—Ton of Coal, donated by Sanitary Ice Supply.

3rd Prize—Purchase Note valued $10, donated by McNabb's Ladies' Wear (Comrade J. A. McNabb).

6th Prize—Ham, donated by Gordon S. Matthews.

7th Prize—Electric Heater.

10th, 11th, 12th and 13th Prizes—24 lbs. Flour each, donated by Maple Leaf Milling Company.

19th and 20th Prizes—3 lbs. Tea each, donated by Fitzpatrick and Geraghty.

The draw will be held in public, at a concert at the Legion Hall, on Tuesday, February 12. A prominent citizen will be asked to draw the tickets.

All proceeds of the draw will be used for the relief work of the Canadian Legion.

Horoscope

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

SUNDAY, JANUARY 20, 1929.

(Copyright, 1929, McClure Syndicate.)

Benefic aspects conflict with adverse stars today, according to astrology, but the kindly influences dominate.

This is a fairly fortunate planetary government for the churches, although doctrinal controversies will be frequent through the year.

Ministers may find it difficult for congregations to fix attention on sermons, for there will be a tendency for minds to contemplate personal affairs.

Many fine church edifices are to be built in the United States, it is forecast, and beautiful cathedrals will rise as evidence of religious interest.

While this is an auspicious sway for constructive thought and the working out of important plans, it is wise not to write what one thinks.

Letters today are subject to rather an unfavorable direction of the stars, and love missives may be unusually perilous to send.

It is not a lucky day to travel by airplane or to take any risks in transportation.

Those who desire to make the most of this planetary government should concentrate on friendly visits and important conferences.

Under this rule there may be undue interest in dress, but the wearing of new clothing may be most unlucky.

One of the adverse aspects seems to presage storms at sea and even frightful wrecks or accidents.

Although the stars give assurance that the year will be prosperous and extremely eventful, there will be much cheating and double-dealing, it is forecast.

Corruption and vice will continue to flourish, although there may be much agitation about the punishment of evil doers.

Many cities are subject to a planetary government making for graft and the growth of power on the part of criminal classes.

Persons whose birthdate it is may meet with disillusionment and disappointments in the coming year. Care should be taken to avoid all undesirable acquaintances. Business affairs should be satisfactory.

Children born on this day may be extraordinarily talented. Many artistic persons are born on this Capricorn-Aquarius cusp. Both boys and girls have the augury of success and even fame. Literature is one of the most fortunate channels of expression.

MONDAY, JANUARY 21, 1929

On this day it is well to be cautious, according to astrology, which reads in the stars certain sinister influences.

The early morning is an auspicious time to plan any sort of active work, for then the mind should have a special clearness of vision.

Under this planetary government all standardized or routine work should be pushed with great energy, but it is not wise to start any new enterprise.

Lawyers have the forecast of a busy year in which there will be legal cases of world note.

Educators are subject to kindly aid from the stars, for they must meet many problems that cannot be ignored.

At this time it would seem that an unusual gap extends between brain-workers and those who have trained hands.

The stars appear to presage more contentment among the intellectuals and less among those who belong to the ranks of industry.

This is read as a promising rule for inventions of various sorts, and again discoveries in the occult world are foretold.

Man having conquered the land, the water and the air on the physical plane, will now turn scientific attention to the spiritual forces of which he has become recently more keenly aware than in any other age, the seers proclaim.

There is a menacing sign for a branch of the industrial world, and labor will have cause for dissatisfaction.

Leaders who have passed the meridian of life and who represent past attainments in science, the arts and industry will pass on in great numbers this year which will practically divide all that pertains to the past from the present, astrologers foretell.

Landslides and seismic shocks as well as heavy storms may be expected from now on until spring is far advanced. Many destructive fires wiping out valuable city properties are prognosticated.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year in which they may expect prosperity. Elders will favor them. The stars presage for them financial security.

Children born on this day probably will be successful in their chosen vocations. Many of the subjects of this sign, Aquarius, have more interest in the past than in the present. They are fond of history and of antiques of every sort.

News From the Mines

Through
Solloway, Mills & Company

Big Missouri

A report from Montreal Thursday stated that Big Missouri were negotiating for the purchase of Black Forest holdings, a silver-lead property adjoining the Missouri mine in which operation the company owns a 51% interest.

Treadwell Yukon

A field report just received states the tonnage of the Errington pilot mill will be increased to 240 tons in the near future by the re-starting of the second ball mill which has not been operating for some time. All mill feed at present is coming from development faces at No. 1 and No. 2 shaft a crosscut is being driven north toward the area in which diamond drilling indicated what is known as the Bradley orebody. Diamond drill results indicated this to be the richest orebody so far discovered at the mine and it should be intersected by crosscut by the middle of February this year.

Reeves-MacDonald

The president of Reeves-MacDonald, adjoining Pend Oreille on the Canadian side of the International boundary is credited with the remark that the recent strike on Reeves will add approximately 2,000,000 tons of ore to the 2,000,000 already in sight.

Vipond

According to reports, drifting at the 500 foot level of Vipond has opened up approximately 300 feet of ore. The last few rounds have been running much higher than previously, assays up to $60 a ton having been secured. The extent of this high grade is not yet known, as the side walls have not been tapped, being over drift width. Ore is being developed at 4 other levels and crosscutting is under way at two levels.

Coniaurum

The mill continues to handle 350 tons daily at Coniaurum. There has been a slight increase in tonnage treated due to increase in quantity of ore from the 500 foot level of the old Goldale workings. Stopes are now being prepared on this level and a steady increase in mill heads may be expected from the fact of this ore running approximately $12 a ton.

Waite-Montgomery

Shipments to the Noranda smelter continue at the rate of approximately 2,000 tons per month. It is believed that the mining plant will have to be increased considerably before greatly enlarged shipments may be made. We believe a agreement was recently made between Waite and Noranda in regard to smelting charges, and the former rate charge was considered by some to be excessive.

New Nickel Registers Biggest Gain Of Year

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 19 (Canadian Press)—New York, Montreal and Toronto stock markets witnessed yesterday the most spectacular movement that has yet taken place in the New International Nickel. More than three-quarters of a million shares changed hands, for the broadest gain in any one day since the new stock was listed.

The total turnover of shares was 789,970; the gain as recorded in New York was 7⅝ points per share, or on the $13,758,258 shares of common stock an appreciation of $104,006,116; more than a hundred million dollars increase in value in one day.

INCREASE SHOWN BUILDING PERMITS

New Record Set For Construction in Canada—$41,651,358 Increase.

OTTAWA, Ont. Jan. 19. —(Canadian Press.)—Building permits issued during 1928 totalled $220,265,100. This was an increase of $41,651,358 over the figure of $184,613,742 for 1927 which was the previous high record. Figures were issued yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The value of the building permits issued in December 1928, was the highest for that month since this record was begun in 1920, the authorizations being valued at $16,742,139; this was an increase of 5.8 per cent. as compared with December, 1927.

Detailed statements were received from some 45 cities, showing that they had issued nearly 600 permits for dwellings valued at some $3,000,000 and about 1,400 permits for other buildings at an estimated cost of approximately $12,000,000.

Montreal and Toronto registered increase in the value of the building permits issued as compared with November and also in comparison with December, 1927. In Winnipeg and Vancouver there were losses in the former and gains in the latter comparison. Halifax, Sydney, Brantford, Chatham, Guelph, Kingston, Kitchener, Ottawa, Stratford, Riverside, Walkerville, Woodstock, Regina, Nanaimo, Point Grey and South Vancouver recorded advances in both comparisons.

RICH COPPER ORE FOUND IN FROOD

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 19 (Canadion Press).—Arrival of J. L. Agnew, vice-president of the International Nickey Company of Canada, in this city with samples of copper ore recently taken from the lower levels of the Frood Mine was the signal for another outburst of buying in nickel shares yesterday. Curiously enough while Montreal was buying the shares Toronto and certain interests close to Nickel here were selling the stock.

"We have, as predicted, now reached our footwell ore body at the 1,200 foot, 1,600 foot, 2,400 foot and 2,800 foot levels.

"Samples taken in crosscuts on the work accomplished to date show 100 feet averaging approximately 5 per cent. copper-nickel at the 1,200 foot level; 45 feet averaging approximately 6 per cent. copper-nickel at the 1,600 foot level; 75 feet averaging approximately 6 per cent. copper-nickel at the 2,400 foot level; and 62 feet averaging approximately 22.5 per cent. copper-nickel at the 2,800 foot level.

C.N.R. Earnings

The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ending Januaay 7, 1929, were $3.582,844, as compared with $3,777,897 for the corresponding period of 1928, a decrease of $19,053 or five per cent.

INCREASE IN CITY FIRE LOSS

Lockworks Fire Accounts For $51,800.61 of Total Loss in City.

369 ALARMS.

That the number of alarms and fires in the city was lower in 1928 than in any year during the last five, although the fire loss was about double, is shown in Fire Chief Gimblett's annual report just tabulated. The number of fires was only 36, at least ten below any previous year, and the alarms numbered 369, a material decrease. The fire loss totalled $61,175.35, but of this $51,800.61 was the result of one fire, that of the Peterborough Lock Company, leaving the balance of only $9,339.63 to be distributed among the other 37 fires.

	Fires	Alarms	Loses
1928	36	369	$61,175.35
1927	54	438	33,045.59
1926	48	465	76,438.20

IMPERIAL OIL GIVEN PERMIT

Service Station Is To Be Built At Corner of Burnham and Hunter Streets.

COST $7,000.

The Imperial Oil Company, through its local manager, Arthur Blade, was yesterday granted by the City Engineer, a building permit, for the erection of a service station, valued at $7,000, on the South corner of Hunter and Burnham streets, purchased almost simultaneously with the George street property in front of Confederation Square. This latest East City undertaking will be completed on or about June 1, 1929.

According to the permit, the service station will be 36 feet in length and 28 feet in width, with a concrete foundation and walls of brick and stucco. Four rooms will be contained in the one story of which it will consist, all to be served by a hot water heating system. A brick chimney and fire proof roofing will be features.

National Distilleries Report For Fiscal Year

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 19.—(Canadian Press). — The Financial report of National Distilleries, Limited, for the first fiscal year ended November 30, 1928, shows earnings on the 78,000 shares of common stock outstanding equivalent to about forty-five cents a share, after providing for preferred dividends on the preferred stock of the company; these earnings were before providing for depreciation.

Profit and loss account shows surplus at organization of $20,268, to which is added net profits for the period, before depreciation, amounting to $62,494, leaving balance at profit and loss of $82,762.

HON. T. A. BURROWS DIES IN WINNIPEG

Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba Passes Away After Appendicitis Operation.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 19 (Canadian Press).—Hon. Theodore A. Burrows, 71, Lieutenant Governor of Manitoba, died in hospital here last night. Death occurred shortly before midnight.

Mr. Burrows was operated on for appendicitis a week ago and his recovery had been anticipated until late last night, when he suffered a relapse.

It was a week ago last night that Mr. Burrows was stricken with appendicitis. He was rushed to hospital and an operation was performed at midnight.

A blood clot on the heart was the immediate cause of death, his physicians announced.

U. S. STEEL SETS A NEW RECORD

New York Exchange Continues Advance—Prices Irregular.

MODERATE TRADING.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Jan 19. —(Canadian Press). — Operations for the advance were again carried on in vigorous fashion on the stock market to-day, under the leadership of U. S. Steel, which was once more boosted to a new high price for all time. Considerable week-end profit taking cropped out, however, and imparted some irregularity.

The bulls seized upon the drop in call money to 6 per cent. which rate carried over the week-end, in the face of the large increase in brokers' loans, as an excuse for a demonstration, but uneasiness over the credit situation still persisted, with time money again somewhat firmer, and the public was inclined to stay on the side lines. Trading was only moderately active, although a number of transactions of 5,000 to 10,000 were recorded. Total sales were only about 2,300,000 shares for the abbreviated sessions.

Another small shipment of gold from Canada, amounting to $1,000,000, was announced.

U. S. Steel was the outstanding feature of the day, shooting up to the unprecedented price of 189, an overnight gain of nearly 9 points, and a gain for the week of more than 22 points.

Coppers, Utilities, Amusement and Steel shares were strong, while oils and motors lagged. Woolworth, Real Silk Hosiery, and Johns Manville mounted about 4 points.

U. S. Industrial Alcohol, North American, F. G. Shattuck, Kennecott, Allied Chemical, Bayuk Cigar, and National Cash Register, moved up 3 points and more, while Pere Marquette, Rock Island, American International, Anaconda, Loews, Fox Film, Vanadium, International, Nickel and Eaton Axle gained 2 points and more.

NICKEL LEADS TORONTO CURB

More Than 42,000 Shares Change Hands During Morning Session.

PROMINENT ISSUES GAIN.

TORONTO, Ont., January 19 (Canadian Press). — Reports of valuable discoveries at the Frood property continued to have their effect on the demand for International Nickel on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. In a turnover of more than 42,000 shares during the two-hour trading period, Nickel rose to a high price for all time at 67⅛ after opening strongly at 67. When nearing the final bell, the issue began to slide and touched a low spot of 64½, but later recovered to 65¼ for a net increase of 1⅛ points.

With the exception of Nickel and about half a dozen of the prominent leaders, bright spots were isolated on the board. International Petroleum provided the day's second high light when in very active buying it jumped two points to 63, while Imperial Oil, after reaching 104, closed for a net increase of 1¾ at 101¾. British-American firmed 1½ points higher at 55½.

Brazilian more than recovered its loss of yesterday and closed with a net gain of 3¼ points at 79½, while British Columbia Power advanced 1¼ to 89¼.

The industrial, beverage, and bank sections were unusually quiet.

BIG MISSOURI FEATURE ISSUE

Kirkland Lake Listed Among Favorites On Standard Mining Exchange.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 19 (Canadian Press).—Big Missouri provided a good deal of the trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange this morning and firmed one point higher at 1.41. Kirkland Lake was another active issue, and in transactions of more than 25,000 shares, reached a high mark of 1.83 and closed for a gain of six points at 1.76. Noranda was softer, registering a decline of 40 cents at 62.00. Amulet was subject to week-end profit-taking and suffered a net loss of 10 cents to 3.20.

Amongst the lower-priced stocks, Dunkin was active with a gain of 3 at 25. Vipond Consolidated, in active trading, registered a gain of 3 at 1.14. Sudbury Basin and Sherritt-Gordon both recorded a decline of 5 points at 8.25 and 6.95 respectively. Coniagas in slow trading gained 45 cents to 2.50.

Trading generally was weak, with the losses outnumbering the gains. Total sales stood at 700,537.

CHICAGO, Ills., Jan. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Active buying for leading houses led to advances in wheat values to-day after an early setback. Reports were circulated that prospective cold weather would find many fields without protection and likely to be damaged. Corn weakened on word of scattered rains in Argentina. Opening unchanged to ⅝c off, wheat sagged all around, and then scored gains. Corn started ⅝ to ¾c down, and receded a little more. Oats also were easier. Provisions, too, inclined downward.

FOUR AND HALF FEET OF WATER IN CELLAR OF MILLING COMPANY

day as there is a wash-out at Port Hope. The train is re-routed to Belleville and will not arrive until 8:00 this evening.

ST. THOMAS, Ont, Jan. 19. —(Canadian Press).— Flood waters, rolling down Kettle Creek, last evening, carrying with them hundreds of tons of ice and debris have caused damages estimated at $50,000 or more to fishing craft and has created an ice situation in the harbor that is extremely grave. Lakemen said to-day that unless the ice that is packed in the harbor, solidly to the bottom, is cleared before another break-up, they fear the greater damage will result to the tugs and other boats.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 19—(Canadian Press).—Ten person were rescued early to-day as rising waters of the Cuyahoca and Chagrin rivers swirled about their homes.

Three men braved the swollen waters of the Chagrin river, which had overflowed into a ravine, to rescue one family of four while two men were taken from the roof of a shack after the Cuyahoca river had risen three feet in an hour and awakened them in their bunks.

Coast guardsmen saved another family marooned at the mouth of the Chagrin river. Two children and theirm other and father were carried to safety in a collapsible boat.

A rainfall record of two inches in 24 hours was established here last night.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 19.—(C.P.) The Ganeraska river at Port Hope was a particular source of anxiety, driving merchants whose premises were on the river banks to salvage measures and forcing other citizens to safer points. One family of eleven were reported marooned early to-day and in grave danger. Three stores were swept downstream. The river abated somewhat to-day, however, and the prospect of serious damage appeared to be averted.

Toronto streets, particularly in the northern section, were in cases flooded. The three children of A. E. Pickering, living in a four-roomed home on Merton street, in North Toronto, were carried from the house during the night, the water having risen to a depth of six feet in one of the rooms.

The bursting of two dams north of Tillsonburg caused several thousand dollars' damage to Woodstock property and the plant of the Canadian Milk Company there, water flooding a highway to a depth of six feet for a stretch of several hundred yards. City employes and members of the Council worked throughout the night to keep the streets of the town free of the ice brought down. Anxiety prevailed to-day for the safety of the waterworks dam for if it failed to hold the town's water supply would be cut off.

MISSION WEEK NEARING CLOSE

Instructive Addresses Heard at Mission Held in St. George's Church.

Due allowance being made for the adverse weather condition of the past two days, the Church Army Mission being held in St. George's Church this week, has made its mark among the people. Two well-attended women's meetings have been held, conducted by Sister Brookes. The earnest and thoughtful messages delivered in a quiet, sincere manner will be long remembered by her hearers. Instructive talks and bright singing have featured the children's services, conducted by Sister Brookes and Captain Hughes. The evening mission services have been capably handled by Captain N. Humphries, who is in charge of the mission here. All three Crusaders have had a part in these services, Captain Humphries delivering the chief message each evening. His addresses have been marked by clearness of thought, simplicity of speech, quiet, earnest tone, and full appeal. Captain Hughes, as the "singing Crusader," ably coached the congregation in the learning of new choruses, while his rich, full-toned voice in the singing of Gospel solos has indelibly impressed his hearers.

Sunday next will bring the mission to a close at this church. Sister Brookes will give another interesting talk to the children at their service at 10 a.m. Captain Humphries will preach at the 11 a.m. Eucharist, while the three Crusaders will deliver their final messages at the mission service at 7 o'clock.

Men who desire to hear a strong and forceful message are urged to take advantage of the opportunity of hearing Captain Casey at a special meeting for men only at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Captain Hughes will be the solist at this meeting.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED.

Mission Band of Murray Street Church Holds Annual Election.

Miss Leota Wilson was elected president of the Mission Band of Murray Street Church at the annual meeting held last evening. Supper was served at 6 o'clock and the program following was presided over by the past president, Miss Dorothy Gavine.

Mrs. A. A. Haddow spoke to the children of some of the amusing customs of Bolivia and her four children sang in Spanish. A duet was also enjoyed, being sung by Jean Barriger and Vivian Grier.

Other officers elected were: Vice-president, Florence Lasenby; secretary, Freda Ricky; treasurer, Morris Wearing; program committee, Helen Wilson; membership committee, Florence Lasenby; pianist, Phyllis Rome; ushers, Don Shiner and Norman Wilson.

Mrs. George Post is the very able leader of the Band, and the work during the past year has been most encouraging. There were about sixty children in attendance last evening.

HORSEMAN DIES.

George Curtis Died Suddenly at Lindsay Fire Hall Last Night.

LINDSAY, January 19 (Examiner Correspondence). — George Curtis, a widely known horseman throughout the Midland district, died suddenly at the Fire Hall here last night about six o'clock. He had engaged in a social game of cards, and was about to leave for his home when death overtook him. He is survived by his wife and one brother.

NO SKATING TO-NIGHT AT BROCK STREET RINK

Ice Is Being Saved For Next Week's Skating and Hockey.

Owing to the continued mild weather and the rain, it has made the ice at Brock Street Rink rough, which cannot be remedied until it is flooded again and a frost, consequently there will be no skating to-night.

GLEANERS CLASS PUTS ON CONCERT

Fine Program Was Presented By the Ladies of the Congregation.

The concert given in Mark Street United Church last evening, under the auspices of the Gleaners' Bible Class, in aid of the building fund, was very well attended, considering the inclement weather, and a fine program was presented by the ladies in charge, with the president, Mrs. T. Hill, as general convenor.

The program included the following numbers: Piano solo by Miss Helen Clancy, Hawaiian guitar selections by the Misses Hamilton, vocal solo by Miss Stella Brady, quartette composed of Mrs. T. E. Curvin, vocalist, Miss May Pollock, Pianiste, and Messrs. Curvin and Smith playing banjos; readings by Mrs. G. H. Rowe, John Krogh, and Max Peters; vocal solo by Miss Olive Howland, piano solo by Miss Berenice Doxsee, quartette composed of Miss Grace Curry, Messrs. Batcheller, and Forbes, playing piano, auto harp, and harmonica, and L. Agnew, vocalist; harmonica and auto harp duet by Messrs. Batcheller and Forbes; and reading by Mrs. W. Binks. The pastor, Rev. A. E. Thornley, also gave a brief address. The chair was taken by Dr. J. E. Middleton and the Sunday School Orchestra provided some good selections in intermissions in the program.

At the conclusion of the music, refreshments were served by the Social Committee, with Mrs. W. H. Cooper as convenor.

WESTERN THRILLS ON CITY STREETS

Runaway Horse Cause of Much Excitement On George Street.

A wild runaway on the city streets yesterday afternoon brought back memories of those days when such occurrences were the spice of life. The horse's gr'lopin rampage which started behind Water street, came to a dead stop in front of the Home Lunch when it slipped and fell on the icy sidewalk, just as it seemed to be headed straight through the plate glass and in amid the pastry and pies that were displayed in the window of that establishment. The horse is the property of Frank Dawson and said to be new to city etiquette

Yesterday afternoon it was patiently and peacefully waiting its load in the lane that runs behind the stores on the east side of Water street when a car frightened it and it immediately bolted, running madly down the lane, rounded the corner on to Water street and in doing so caromed into Basil Hall's car, which was parked there. Unimpeded by the impact and desiring to cause real excitement, it galloped down Hunter street and turned south on George street. Having made the turn in a wide sweep it found its wild course down the road hampered by the approach of several cars and it headed for the sidewalk, but tripped and crashed heavily to the pavement before any further damage could be done.

C.G.E. SECRETARY IS COMING TO CITY

W. W. Trench Will Speak On "Industrial Organization" On Monday Night.

The Canadian General Electric Co. has been successful in securing the services of W. W. Trench, Secretary of the General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y., who will speak on "Industrial Organization," at a smoker to be held under the aspices of the local company at the Canadian Legion Hall, Murray Street, on Monday, January 21st.

Mr. Trench is a very forceful and eloquent speaker and this lecture which is a continuation of a series of similar lectures on industrial work which have been given at the local plant should be a treat to those intrested in industrial management.

The program which is to be preceded by a few musical numbers will start sharp at 8 o'clock, and it is requested that invitatons be presented at the door.

EGGS ARE CHEAPER ON LOCAL MARKET

Butter Sold at 45c. Per Pound and Chickens 33 to 35c.

The price of eggs was on the down grade at the farmers' market this morning. They were selling from 35 to 50 cents a dozen, the former in good quality. Butter was priced generally at 45 cents a pound and chickens were 33 to 35 cents a pound.

Mixed honey was 50 cents for a five pound tin and clover honey was 65 cents. Amber sections were 15 cents apiece.

Potatoes were $1 a bag and other vegetables were at prevailing prices.

Whitefish was 20 cents a pound, salmon trout 23 cents.

Lamb was quoted at 23 and 25 cents pork at 15 to 18 and beef 16 to 18 cents.

Two little rabbits, ready for the pot, were a quarter each.

The Weather

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 19 (Canadian Press).—The depression which was over the south-western states yesterday morning has moved quickly north-eastward to the Lower St. Lawrence Valley, with increasing intensity, causing heavy rain from Ontario to the Maritime Provinces. The weather has continued cold in nearly all parts of the West.

Forecasts.

Lower Lake Region and Georgian Bay—Fair, with somewhat lower temperature to-night and part of Sunday; probably followed by snow.

Northern Ontario—Mostly fair and moderately cold to-night and Sunday.

Superior — Mostly fair and somewhat colder to-night and Sunday; local snowflurries.

Manitoba—Mostly fair to-day and Sunday, with stationary or higher temperature; local snowflurries.

Saskatchewan and Alberta — Fair to-day and Sunday; not much change in temperature.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, N.Y., January 19 (Canadian Press). — Foreign exchanges easy; Great Britain demand $4.84 9-16; Canadian dollars at 16-64 of one per cent. discount.

Belanger Knocks Out Nando Tassi of Italy

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 19.—(Canadian Press). — Charley Belanger, Canadian light-heavyweight knocked out Nando Tassi of Italy, in the fourth round of a semi-final to the Lomski-Braddock fight at Madison Square Garden last night.

The Canadian flattened the Italian with one right to the body in one minute and 40 seconds of the fourth spasm. There were no previous knockdowns and the battling was rough and fairly even until the Canadian flashed his finishing punch. Belanger weighed 177½, Tassi 180.

JUDGE MOTT'S ADDRESS OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

Boys of Peterborough and Their Parents Invited To Hear Famous Visitor.

A ROTARY EVENT.

Service Club Brings Juvenile Court Judge Here To Talk To Citizens.

The coming to Peterborough on Monday of Judge Mott of the Juvenile Court in Toronto is a notable event for the boys of the city and for their parents. The Rotary Club have made its possible for the public to hear this famous authority on boys' work and the message he is to give on Monday night in the Collegiate auditorium will be full of interest. There will be no admission charge and the boys of Peterborough and their parents are cordially invited to hear the man who has earned the title, "The Boys' Friend by reason of his consistent efforts to help youths.

There should be a capacity audience at this meeting, arranged by Rotary as a contribution to community welfare.

Prior to the lecture the boys who attended Camp Skookum in 1928 will be entertained at a reunion and banquet in the Y.M.C.A., after which the boys will go over to the Collegiate Institute to hear Judge Mott.

IN POLICE COURT

In police court this morning a local man was charged with and pleaded guilty of being intoxicated on Simcoe street on Friday. He was fined $10 and costs, this being his first offence.

Another Peterborough man was given stern advice and the minimum fine of $100 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of procuring lodgings in a local hotel for himself and a woman whom he falsely held out to be his wife.

Canada's income tax returns in 1927-28 were $9,000,000 more than in 1926-27 despite rate reductions.

SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS MEETING

C. E. Burnham Appointed Delegate to Ontario Educational Association Convention.

W.M.S. MEETS.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 19—(Examiner Correspondence).—The inaugural meeting of the local school board was held in the office of the secretary-treasurer on Wednesday evening, when J. Arthur Vance was elected chairman; G. E. Burnham was elected chairman of the managing committee, and also appointed delegate to the Ontario Educational Association convention to be held in Toronto during Easter week.

Scholarship Awarded

The Norman Allen Scholarship has been awarded to Gordon Armstrong; as the boy with the best all round record at the Millbrook Continuation School for the year. Those previously having this honor were: Allen Pitt, Ernest Burnham, Robert Shaw, Kenneth Skitch, Dickson Hutchison. The scholarship was established by Mrs. (Dr.) Norman Allen in memory of her husband, who in his boyhood days was a pupil of the local school.

Reports Given

Thirty or more members were in attendance at the January meeting of the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of the United Church, held in the Sunday School auditorium on Wednesday afternoon, the president, Mrs. W. W. Jones, presiding.

The report read by the treasurer, Miss M. E. Hetherington, was one of the interesting items of the day, the figures being:

Annual members' fees (71)	$ 35.50
Easter and Autumn Thankoffering	131.05
Envelopes	63.77
Other sources (including donations, mite boxes, etc.)	88.38
Total amount raised	318.70
Less expenses	8.70
Amount remitted branch treasurer	$310.00

While this amount was somewhat below the allocation, it represents the largest total ever raised by the Auxiliary, through voluntary offering, without any help from legacies or any new life members, in its history.

The president reported that the International Day of Prayer has been fixed for Friday, February 15, and as the custom has always been for the three Auxiliaries of the community to join for this event taking it in turn, it was noted that the Anglican church will be the place of gathering for 1929.

Two minute talks on three essentials in all auxiliary work, if it is to be successful, were given as follows: "How to Make Our Auxiliary Efficient in Prayer", by Mrs. J. Albert Brown; "How to Make Our Auxiliary Efficient in Raising Its Funds", by Mrs. H. E. Smith; and "How to Make Our Auxiliary Efficient in Securing New Members", by Mrs. V. C. Lambert.

Delegates to the Presbyterial Conference to be held at Brighton on January 30 and 31, were elected, the president, Mrs. W. W. Jones; the secretary, Mrs. C. W. Richards; and Miss Estelle Hetherington. Mrs. J. McKnight and Miss C. Luxon will represent the Mission Circle. Mrs. Richards referred to the fact that Mrs. G. Raymes, now of Brighton, but formerly a Millbrook girl, had extended an invitation to the delegates from Millbrook to be her guests during the stay for the convention.

Mrs. J. H. George, who is the Presbyterial Associate Helpers' Secretary, will also attend the gathering at Brighton, by virtue of her office.

On motion of Miss Burnham, seconded by Mrs. George, the appointment of Mrs. M. McDowell and Mrs. Lambert as joint superintendents of the Sunshine Mission Band, was ratified, the choice being unanimous. A donation from Mrs. G. W. Sayles, now of Toronto but formerly superintendent of the mission band here, was gratefully received by the present leaders.

As a number of the group leaders were absent, it was not possible to have the full reports from the several groups received; these will be looked for at the February meeting, which it is expected will be in charge of Mrs. F. Smith's group.

The meeting was dismissed with prayer by the president, after Miss Hetherington had taken up the chapter from the study book, "Drums in the Darkness" in a most interesting manner.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 (Canadian Press).—Buying rushes yesterday swept all corn and oats as well as July delivery of wheat and rye to beyond the season's former top price levels. Rainless burning skies over Argentina were reported as continuing to dwarf the corn yield there, and the crop outlook for United States winter wheat was giving reason for more apprehension.

Closing quotations on corn were strong, 1¾ to 2¼c net higher, wheat 1⅝ to 2c up; oats showing 1¼ to 2½c advance, and provisions varying from 5 to 7c decline to a rise of 10c.

More than 20c a bushel advance from the bottom price of the crop was reached yesterday by May delivery of corn, with March delivery showing a still greater gain, nearly 23c a bushel. Moreover, the March delivery climbed yesterday to $1.00 even and thus all corn future contracts were at or above the dollar mark, a rare event for this time of year. Attendant circumstances, however, also were decidedly unusual, advices yesterday stating Argentine rainfall in the past week has only been one-fourth of normal, and that there has now been five consecutive weeks of deficient moisture as well as inordinate heat.

Detailed reports indicated the bulk of Argentine corn acreage is involved in the precarious situation which has developed, and that on top of this South Africa, the other chief corn producing country of the southern hemisphere, also was suffering now from drought in various sections. In view of the fact that a widespread shortage of corn supplies in Europe this season has been generally admitted, leading Chicago trade authorities yesterday were stressing chances of probable renewed export activity in corn from the United States. Notwithstanding heavy profit-taking sales, the corn market as a whole finished at within about ½c of the day's highest figures.

Wheat and oats proved responsive to corn strength. Buying of wheat against sales of corn to undo so-called "spread" transactions was a feature. Other purchasing of wheat was based largely on talg current that alternate thawing and freezing conditions in domestic wheat territory was based largely on talk current that winter-killing.

In the provision trade, hedging sales of lard counted as more than an offset to firmness of hog values.

PRODUCE MARKET

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 19 (Canadian Press).—Canadian egg markets are unchanged:

Halifax.—The local eggs market is holding fairly steady and receipts of fresh stocks are increasing. There is good demand for fresh firsts, but the other grades are moving rather slowly. Paying and jobbing prices are unchanged.

St. John.—While prices have been dropping fast for several weeks there is now some signs of increase in demand. Storage eggs are fairly well cleaned up except for some importations by the packers. It is generally felt now that prices have about reached bottom for the present time. Prices to retailer are: extras 47-50c, firsts 43-45, seconds 36-38c.

Vancouver.—The egg market here is unchanged. Dealers are quoting extras 25c, firsts 22c, seconds 20c. Prices to retailers are extras 35c, firsts 32c, seconds 30c.

New York.—Unchanged.

VANCOUVER WHEAT

VANCOUVER, Jan. 19 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices here yesterday were:

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 19 (Canadian Press).—The foreign demand for Canadian grain here yesterday continued of a limited character and little business was transacted.

On account of the continued strength in Western grain markets and the further advance in spreads for all lines, local cash prices for car lots were again marked up. The feature was the rise in oats of two to five cents per bushel. Manitoba No. 6 wheat sold at $1.12, feed wheat at $1.06, Manitoba feed barley at 85c per bushel.

The feature of the flour trade was the stronger feeling that developed for Spring wheat grades and prices were advanced ten cents per barrel. This was attributed to the continued strength in the Winnipeg market for cash wheat of late. The demand was moderate. Winter wheat grades were unchanged.

The trade in all lines of millfeed was active and the tone of the market was firm. Standard grade of rolled oats continued in good demand.

Prices for all grades of fresh and storage eggs were firmly maintained under a good demand. Receipts were 1,950 cases.

A moderate amount of business was done in butter and values were firm. Receipts were 32 packages.

The cheese trade was again dull and featureless. Receipts were 98 boxes.

A stronger feeling developed in the market for beans, and prices were advanced 25c per bushel to $5.75.

The only potatoes offered yesterday were New Brunswick Green Mountains which sold at 70c per 90 lbs., in bulk.

STEAMER MISSING.

CURLING, N.F., Jan. 19.— (Canadian Press.)—Much concern was felt yesterday for the safety of the schooner Madeline Adams which sailed from the Bay of Islands on Dec. 26, with a cargo of herring for Gloucester, Mass. She has not been reported since and other vessels which sailed at the same time reached port with their sails blown away and their deck cargoes gone.

SALARIES INCREASED.

Windsor Board of Education Votes School Teachers Salary Increase.

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 19 (Canadian Press).—Salaries of the women teachers of public schools here were increased Thursday night by unanimous vote of the Board of Education. The minimum for both first and second-class teachers remains at $1,100. The maximum for teachers holding first-class certificates was placed at $2,000, an increase of $200. The maximum is to be reached in fourteen years. The change involves an addition of only $4,000 to the pay-roll this year, although there are 202 teachers. The new schedule starts immediately.

Says that All Other Remedies Failed

Ontario Man Speaks Highly of Dodd's Kidney Pills

"I was suffering from a Chill in the Kidneys, Bladder Trouble, also Impure Blood, which caused boils to break out upon my face and neck," writes Mr. R. Lister, 228 Balliol Street, Toronto. "I tried many so-called wonderful remedies with no results. But after trying one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills I knew that I had found something good at last. I felt a lot better and my skin took on a healthy color. Am now on my fourth box and am very pleased to say I am feeling in the pink of condition. I always recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills. They are worth more than 50c a box." Even when well, an occasional dose of Dodd's Kidney Pills will fortify the Kidneys.

Outstanding Chevrolet
of Chevrolet History
- a Six in the price range of the four!

NEVER has a new motor car come to the public more thoroughly proved in every detail than The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History.

During the last four years, over a hundred six-cylinder motors—representing every conceivable type—were built by Chevrolet engineers and tested on the General Motors Proving Ground before the present motor was developed and pronounced correct.

While the new six-cylinder motor was in process of development, other Chevrolet engineers were perfecting other parts of the chassis . . . the springs, wheels, axles, brakes, steering mechanism,—all were developed concurrently with the motor so that the entire chassis represents a finished example of balanced design.

And during this time another great automotive organization—the Fisher Body Corporation—was devoting its gigantic resources to the creation of beautiful new bodies to match the new Chevrolet chassis.

As a result, The Outstanding Chevrolet offers an order of well-balanced excellence that is extraordinary in a low-priced automobile. From every standpoint—power, speed, smoothness, acceleration and quietness—its performance is truly amazing. Its handling ease and road-ability are exceptional. And its outstanding beauty, smartness and luxury are exciting wide-spread admiration.

A WARNING FROM JACOBI

Cold weather struck our old river bank this week, but it didn't keep any of us boys indoors. No, sir! Winter sports are very popular with us, and what with skating on the frozen backwater and coasting down Dobel's Hill, we had plenty to do. Johnny McLarren built a snowman in the hollow back of our clubhouse, and Bill Darby and Lew Hunter built a snowfort and challenged Roy Dobel and Jerry Moore to a snowball fight. That was on Wednesday, right after we held our meeting as we always do every day, when school is out.

Jerry Moore came in and begged me to join his side in the snow battle; but I told him I had to stay in and write, and then he went to Perry Stokes, but Perry said he had to stay and clean up the clubhouse. Jerry was disgusted with us both; he said we were afraid of the cold.

"You might get your feet wet and get the sniffles," he mocked, "You guys ought to go home and sit behind the stove. That's where you belong."

It was good that Perry and I could laugh at things like that; else there might have been a fight right away. But Jerry got Dick Ferris and Shadow Loomis to join him, anyway, and so he went away satisfied. That sort o' got Perry's sense of fair and square.

"Look here, Hawkins," he says, "am I to believe Jerry is going to have four boys on his side and fight Bill Darby and Lew Hunter alone? I mean just those two, sir, against Jerry's four?"

"Search me, Perry," I said, with a sigh; "I wish that was all I had to worry about. I've got to write the minutes and send a letter to Harold the twin, and then go up and see Doc Waters about something, and then go down to my daddy's office and then—"

"Excuse me, sir," broke in Perry. "That is enough for you to do, sir But I haven't anything like that to do, so I think it is only right that I should go out and help Bill and Lew. Those other fellows can pack a pretty hard snowball, sir—"

"Go ahead, Perry," I said, with a grin. "Give it to 'em, hot and heavy."

And Perry pulled on his old plush cap and went out. Something about it took my mind off everything I had to do. I got up and walked over to the window. I watched Perry as he made for the hollow, and it seemed that every step he went faster, until he was finally running very fast.

"By Jinks!" I said to myself, "It does seem like each side ought to have the same number of fellows. If Johnny McLarren is still working on that snowman—well, I guess I'd better go and help."

And so I put on my old winter cap and went down to the hollow. Halfway down I had a good view of the operations. There was not yet any snowballing going on—both sides were busily working on their snow forts, and I want to say one thing, when ew boys start to build anything, it usually is pretty good. You wouldn't expect to see such nice castles as those fellows had built out of snow on each side of the hollow. Little turrets on each corner, nice smooth walls running from one turret to another, and cute little windows peeping out here and there, with ramparts all round. I stood smiling at the sight, when all of a sudden I heard my name called, and turning my head to the left, I saw Johnny McLarren, standing beside a big snowman he had built, and motioning for me to come down.

So down I went. I certainly had to laugh at the snowman—boy! it was a whopper, and so nicely built, it looked like a statue—

"Love o' Mike, Johnny!" I exclaimed. "You're sure goin' to be a sculptor some day. You know what? You ought to get some modeling clay and keep on working all the time at statues. By Jinks! You're a wonder, kid? Gee, that's swell. I never saw a snowman like that."

"Cut out the compliments!" said Johnny, with a serious face. "You don't have to tell me I'm good—I know it. None o' those other guys in our club can make figures out o' snow like I can—or anything else, as far as that goes."

"That doesn't go very far, does it?" I asked, with a grin. "You never made anything else that I ever saw."

"Just like you, Hawkins," he said, "Well, up on the island last summer, when we were camping, and you were always so busy writing and running around for one person or another. I used to make figures on the beach, in the sand—"

"Oh, is that so? Well, I never heard of it. I would never have thought of it, Johnny!"

"There's a lot of things you'd never think of," said Johnny.

"Meaning what, please?"

"Oh, well, you just don't give credit where it belongs, Hawkins. You know me. You know I've got the best brains in our club. You know I was the first captain the club ever had. That's enough, isn't it?"

"Gee, you're stuck on yourself, Johnny. If you had the most brains why aren't you still the captain?"

"Forget that, Hawkins. I don't want you to do anything, except think."

"By Golly! I'm thinking as hard as I can right now, and I don't know what you're driving at, Johnny."

"It's cold," said Johnny, closing one eye.

"You said it!" I snapped, beating my arms about me; "it's doggone cold, Johnny."

"And yet you don't get the idea?"

"Can't say as I do!"

Johnny came over closer to me and took hold of the lapel of my coat, and then, staring down into my eyes, he said:

"What about that little hobo kid we left up in the little house he built in the treetop? This weather is cold enough to freeze a fellow to death. How's he goin' to keep warm? And if he doesn't keep warm, how in the world is he goin' to live? And if he desn't live——"

"That'll do!" I said, holding up my mittened hand. "I understand you, Johnny. Forgive me for everything I said, won't you? I want to tell you right now, I take off my hat to you—I'll say this, you're the best thinker we've got in this club, with the best brains, too. By Golly! Why didn't I think of it—come on, Johnny, we've got to go to him right away—"

"Shan't we call the other fellows?"

"Let them fight their snow battle the best way they can!" I shouted. "We've got to get to Little Gil and that tree house, Johnny. By rights we ought to have told Judge Granbery about that little beggar, living up in that perch, all alone, with nobody to look after him and nobody here knowing anything about him. And if any thing happens to him—"

"If he should be found there, some morning, frozen to death," said Johnny; "well—"

"Ugh! Don't talk about it, Johnny! Let's be goin'."

We ran all the way, back up from the hollow, and into the woods, and we didn't stop until we came to the big tree, in which was perched, in the prong of three stout branches, the little tree house built by the stranger, whom we knew as Little Gil.

But we didn't worry much when we came up to it. No. A little tin smoke pipe sticking out of the roof of the little shack in the tree told us that we need have no fear about its occupant. The smoke was pouring out of that little smoke pipe! The rope ladder still hung down to the ground. I grasped it and began to climb up. Johnny came right behind me. I stepped off at last at the top of the rope ladder, onto the little wooden landing in front of the door. I waited until Johnny had joined me, and then I knocked.

"Don't come in!" came a shrill "Wait till I see who it is!"

There was a little shuffling sound inside, and then the door began to move slowly inward. And from behind it peeped the thin, scared face of Little Gil. He stared at us. Around his eyes there was a reddish look, as though he might have been weeping. He did not seem to recognize me.

"Hello, Gil," I said, softly. "It's me—Hawkins—you know."

He nodded his head, slowly.

"I know," he said, and pulled the door wider. "Come in. Don't stay long. I'm not well. I been freezing to death."

We went in, and Johnny closed the door. I stared at a tiny, iron stove, that was so red-hot you could almost see through it. The place was stifling hot. It was only a one-room little shack, and the boards of the walls seemed to be bulging outward from the heat.

"You mean to say you're freezing? I said, pointing to the stove.

"Makes no difference," said Little Gil, with a shake of his head, "no matter how much fire I make, I don't seem to get any warmer. It ain't that! I guess I'm all wrong. It's the heart, you know. Sometimes your body can freeze, and your heart will keep it warm and alive; and then, it seems, sometimes your body can be warm, and your heart stays cold. Cold as stone!"

We had taken seats, Johnny and I, on two low, wooden boxes near the door, while Little Gil sat close up in front of the glowing red-hot stove, and stared into its ruddy glow.

"Cold as stone!" he repeated, and there was a tremble in his rich, silvery voice. "You wouldn't believe a fellow's heart could grow so cold!"

For a few moments I did not know what to say to him. I nudged Johnny—he had more brains than any of us in the club—but he nudged me back. I heard him swallow hard, and he turned his face away from the little tramp who sat so close to the red-hot stove.

"Gil," I said, in a low tone, "just what makes you feel like that?"

He did not answer me. The thin face seemed only a mask as it moved slowly from side to side, in the glow of the red-hot stove.

"No matter," I went on, "how cold your heart may be, Gil, no matter whose heart may grow cold, there is always something that can touch it, and make it warm again—and maybe make it sad, too. We want to watch out for that, you know—we want to watch out for that, Gil."

I reached over and laid my hand upon his. And I almost drew it back instantly. For his hand was cold as ice.

He turned his face slowly toward me; and now there was not the hard, worried look in his eyes that we had seen when we entered his queer abode. There was a sad smile only, and a soft look as he said:

"Please go. I could not be rough with you, Hawkins—even if I wanted to be. But there is a song in my heart, and it is not a song of gladness. You've been wonderful to me—you boys, you did a lot for me—I wish I could be nice to you—but I can't! I ain't worth it, Hawkins—I'm just a poor old bum—that's al—and I don't even know how to be grateful—please go, now! Please! Won't you go?"

We rose, both of us, but we were so embarrassed, I think, that we hesitated—didn't want to seem to be rushing out, you know—and the next moment Little Gil shouted:

"Get out o' here, you two! Get out o' here, you bums! I ain't no worser than you—I ain't no worser than any body—I'm only Little Gil—I got a right to be what I am—I am—"

We didn't wait to hear more. I bet we got down that rope ladder quicker than any acrobat that ever performed in a circus. And once upon the snowy ground, we beat it otfoot for our clubhouse. And neither I nor Johnny said a word to each other or to anyone else about the strange happenings in that house in the treetop. Johnny was satisfied that the little hobo would not freeze to death, anyway, but I was worried about the red-hot stove—

We arrived at the clubhouse just about the same time as the other fellows came back from their snow battle in the hollow. They were all wringing wet, and were drying their clothes by the stove. Perry Stokes had heaped a lot of wood into it, and the place was warm and snug.

"Where in the world were you two slackers?" asked our captain, Dick Ferris.

Before either of us had time to answer, there came a loud tap at the window to the left of the door. We all swung around, and saw an ugly face looking in—it was the face of Jacob,—the old tramp who had lured Little Gil away from his hobo daddy, old Daddy Joe, and from whom we had coaxed Little Gil away, to his little home in the treetop.

I didn't have time to reach the door, or I would have run and bolted it. In fact, all of us were so struck by that ugly face at the window, that we stood like statues, and the next thing we knew, the ugly face disappeared, and we heard quick footsteps on the porch—the door was opened with a wild shove, and there stood old Jacobi, in all his ugliness, from head to foot, and you can believe me or not, there was nothing of friendliness in his face, as he came in and swung the door shut behind him.

"Well," he sings out, "yere I am. You expected me, didn't ya, you kids? Well, yere I am, I ain't goin' to stay long—jest long enough to tell yer that if Little Gil ain't back in the dugout by six tonight, you kids gotta take what yer gonna git, and that's all. I knows ya took him! Don't ask me how I knows. I knows, and thet's ernough. See? Get me? Awright—now get Li'l Gil and sen' him back ter me!"

He started to go out. But here is where Johnny proved that he had more brains—

"Wait a minute, mister!" called out Johnny. "You've got a reason, most likely, and we've got a reason. So I guess we ought to let each other know what it's all about. Why do you think we ought to turn Little Gil back to you? I mean, if it happens that he doesn't want to go back to you of his own free will. He belonged to Daddy Joe, didn't he, before we took him away from you?"

"What diff'rence do that make to you?" snarled old Jacobi. And, believe me, boys, that old Jacobi knew how to snarl! He frightened us—even Johnny recoiled, but he came right back again—

"It makes a lot of difference," says Johnny. "We like Little Gil—"

"So do I!" snapped old Jacobi. "So do I like him! He's the apple o' my eye—you don't think I'd come here yappin' and snappin' like this, if I didn't like that kid heaps, do you? Not so you could notice it! Not only like him—I want him! An' I aim to git him, even if I have to burn your house down—"

Something seemed to make Jacobi pause.

"Don't worry, Jacobi," I said, stepping forward, for I thought I saw that it was time for me to take a hand in this. "We don't want you to burn our clubhouse down. We don't want any trouble at all. We haven't got Little Gil, but we will try our best to get him back to you, if that's what you demand—"

"I sure do demand!" said Jacobi, nodding vigorously. But again we seemed to pause and listen—and then we all listened, for a song seemed to come to us from far away—I could not catch the words, but, by Jinks! I knew the voice. Only one silvery voice could sing like that, and it was Little Gil. Yet even as we all stood there, silent, listening to that song, it came to my mind that it was got a song of gladness—

But it was enough to take that ugly figure out of our doorway. With a slam he banged the door and went out into the growing darkness, leaving us alone there, to stare at one another and strain our ears for the sound of that singing that was dying out slowly, as though the singer was traveling fast away—

And the silence that followed was broken by the simple command of our captain, Dick Ferris:

"We've all got to stay and see this through. Hawkins, you lead the way, to Little Gil's tree house. We've got to tell him bout this—"

"It means as much to us as to Little Gil, sir," spoke up Perry Stokes, excitedly. "Old Jacobi will harm us just as quickly as he will Little Gil, sir!"

"Listen, Pigeon-Eye!" said Johnny McLarren, as he tapped Perry's chest, "you're only the janitor of this clubhouse, see? I'm the guy that's supposed to have the brains of the club. So I'll tell you fellows what to do. We've got to get Little Gil out of that tree-house right away, and I'll ask any of you to suggest what to do after we get him out of there!"

No one spoke. By that, all admitted that Johnny was right in saying that he had the most brains in our club. No, not even our captain, Dick Ferris, spoke. Of course, I didn't. It would have been foolish.

"So," continued Johnny, "leave it to me. I'll lead this. You all follow me."

No one knows to this day what Johnny would have done. I wish to goodness I knew what his intentions were. Sometimes when we talk it over, Shadow Loomis says that even Johnny didn't know what he was going to do had we found Little Gil there.

But that's just it. We didn't find him. No. Worse than that, we didn't even find his tree house. Lucky that we even found a part of his tree. All that we did find was a charred tree-stump—yes, sir! the tree in which the little house had been perched, the little house in which we had sat just an hour or so ago—all was burned and blackened—cinders and smut upon the snow-covered ground below—nothing else.

"The old Jacobi!" whispered Johnny to me.

"No, brains!" I snapped back. "The red-hot stove!"

And still Johnny, with all his brains, didn't seem to understand. But I didn't stop to argue with him.

"This club will consider itself adjourned," said our captain, "until 7 o'clock tonight, when we will all meet for singing practice."

Which we did.

Indigestion

Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drug store.

ONE IS KILLED MANY INJURED IN TRAIN WRECK

escape. In addition to both legs broken, it is feared he suffered internal injuries. He is at St. Joseph's Hopital.

J. Sweeney, express messenger, in the baggage car, was pinned under a quantity of package freight when the car turned over, but he escaped with minor injuries.

That the train was prevented from following the engine over the mountain is a miracle. There were four other coaches, and all of the carried a fairly full complement of passengers.

As the engine left the rails the steam connection was broken the lights went out and the car was filed with scalding steam. Panic ensued; yet most of the passengers were too dazed and terrified to know what had happened or what to do.

Edgar Mellenby is said to have broken a window in the seat near him and climbed out to drop to safety. Instead he dropped 20 feet down the side of the mountain, but escaped with a sever shaking up and scalds on his hands and face.

Suffered Scalds and Cuts.

All the passengers in the day coach are said to have suffered scalds and cuts. At the General Hospital last night it was stated that none of these injuries appeared to be serious. Most were suffering from shock more than anything else, doctors said.

This was the first serious wreck that has ever occurred on the T. H. & B. during the 31 years of its existence. It had the reputation of never having lost the life of a passenger.

When word of the wreck was received a relief train was organized, and Dr. George S. Rennie and other physicians, as well as company officials went to the scene, followed by the auxiliary equipment to clear the roadbed. Other trains were sent via the C.N.R. to and from Buffalo.

Ricker, the unfortunate fireman, lived at 32 Marion avenue, Hamilton. He had been on this run but two days, it was stated his body, it is expected, will be recovered by daylight.

A freshet of water was said to have been pouring down the side of the mountain under the tracks. The night was extremely foggy, and the fact that the train was going at a moderate speed is believed to have been a factor in preventing the remaining coaches from leaving the rails. Some passengers told of having felt a sudden jolt before the wreck occurred. This is believed to have been the application of the brakes, it is thought that Engineer Grant might have seen the danger and done his utmost to avert it, realizing what a dangerous spot it was for a mishap to occur.

Dr. Thompson of Stoney Creek and other physicians of the district were called and they and Hamilton doctors at the scene worked valiantly to relieve the suffering of scalded passengers.

The accident happened about 8 o'clock at a point where trains are almost at the bottom of the grade leading from the mountain. The heavy rains of the past two days, following upon the severely cold weather earlier in the week, resulted, it is said, in the frost coming out of the ground and the roadbed heaving.

Wires Are Down.

Telegraph wires of the company were torn down when the train left the track ,and this interrupted communications between despatchers. The motor car which runs to Brantford was got ready and rushed to the scene with Dr. George S. Rennie, Company Physician, and other doctors, as well as officials. The Niagara, 9, crack train which runs from Toronto to New York, and is due here at 6.05, was an hour and 56 minutes late, as its engine broke down en route from Toronto. When it reached here it had to be sent over the Canadian National tracks to St. Catharines, as was another through train from Toronto to New York, which is due here at 9.05 p.m.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

DOUGLAS HAWTHORNE.

WARSAW, Jan. 19.—The funeral of Douglas Burgess Hawthorne, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hawthorne, was largely attended on Friday afternoon. Rev. H. B. Herrington conducted the services at the house and at the cemetery. There were several tributes of beautiful white flowers.

The pallbearers were Teddy Rose (a cousin), Russel Greystock, Percy Drain and Tommy Hawthorne, cousin. Burial took place in Warsaw cemetery.

MRS. KEIR.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, Jan. 19.—The death occurred on Wednesday, January 9, of Mrs. Keir, of Merrickville, mother of Mrs. H. B. Herrington, of Warsaw. The late Mrs. Keir was eighty-two years of age and was born in Rawdon Township. After her marriage she lived in Campbellford for some time and moved to Merrickville about thirty years ago. She had been in poor health for some years, not being able to leave the house for some months. On Monday, January 7, Mrs. Herrington received word that her mother was not likely to rally and she passed away on the following Wednesday.

The late Mrs. Keir was a member of the Methodist church before the Union and was especially interested in Ladies' Aid work.

THOMAS KELLEHER.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 19 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—The remains of Thomas Kelleher were brought here from Toronto yesterday morning for interment in St. Mary's Cemetery. The late Mr. Kelleher was in his eighty-eighth year, and is the last member of one of the old families of Seymour. He was born in Seymour East, and until recent years, operated a farm in that district. Since retiring from active life, he has resided in Toronto. He was a member of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church. Surviving him is one son, Albert, who resides in Winnipeg, Man. The remains were met at the 9.45 train and conveyed to St. Mary's Church, where service was held. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery. The Reverend Father Phelan officiated as clergyman. The pall-bearers were: Emmerson Woodruff, Toronto; Charles Kelleher and Peter Kelleher of London, Ont.; George Kelleher and Joseph Kelleher of Seymour and Richard Mahoney of town.

MRS. ELIZABETH A. NORISH.

(Examiner Correspondence).

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 19. — Elizabeth Ann Bickell passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. B. C. Preston, in Smith, on Saturday, January 12, after an illness of three weeks' duration.

The deceased was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Bickell, and was born in Smith Township eighty years ago. After residing there for fifty years, she moved to Lakefield and was an active member of the former Methodist Church. The last few years of her life she lived with her daughter in Smith. Her husband, William Norrish, predeceased her forty-two years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss one daughter, Mrs. Bruce Preston, and two brothers, Harry Bickell of Smith and George Bickell of Lakefield, also four grandchildren.

The funeral service was held on Tuesday, January 15, at 2 o'clock, the Rev. J. O. Totten of Selwyn United Church officiating. Two suitable hymns were sung, "Asleep in Jesus" and "Forever with the Lord." Mr. Totten spoke in the highest terms of the deceased lady, and pictured her as asleep and not dead. He brought comfort to the bereaved ones by the words of hope and in picturing the life everlasting, where broken earthly ties are re-united and all is joy and peace in God.

The pall-bearers were all nephews of the deceased: Herbert Girven, John Bickell, Bruce Bickell, John Botterill, William Bickell, and Trueman Jewell.

The cortege proceeded to the Lakefield Cemetery for interment, followed by a large number of sorrowing friends.

(Examiner Correspondence),

HASTINGS, Jan. 19.—On Wednesday, Jan. 16, the funeral of Mrs. Isabella Roberts, relict of James Roberts, of Roseneath, was conducted by Rev. A. C. Hie, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Baker, Hastings, where she died on Monday, January 14, after a lingering illness. Burial took place in Centenary Cemetery in Alnwick Township. By request, the hymns used were "Peace, Perfect Peace," and "Asleep in Jesus, Blessed Sleep." Rev. Mr. Hie based his remarks upon Ps. 116, 15: "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints," and John 11, 25: "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth on me, though he die, yet shall he live."

The pall-bearers were five grandsons and one neighew, viz., Messrs. H. Doidge, Clifford Baker, Stacey Montgomery, L. Roberts, Douglas Turney and H. Howson. The attendance at the funeral, and the many floral tributes of friends and relatives, revealed the love and esteem in which the deceased was held. The floral tributes were: Wreaths from Mrs. J. M. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Turney, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hendricks, and Nora, Stacey, Fred, Melville, and Oressa Montgomery. Sprays from Mr. and Mrs. L. Stinson, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kelley and Hayden, Hastings United Church, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Tate, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Johnston, Miss Pansy Runnels, Miss Carrie Doxsee, Miss Mae Doidge, Mrs. Allan Blair and Miss Olive Keogan.

Out-of-town relatives who attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Montgomery, Stacey and Miss Nora Montgomery, Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell, Norham; Mrs. William Sewell, Detroit; Miss Mae Doidge, North Bay; Mrs. E. Hendricks, Trenton; Mr. C. Howson, Peterborough; Mrs. H. Doidge, Castleton; Mr. Clifford Baker, Queen's University, Kingston; Mrs. William Roberts and son Louis, Roseneath; Mr. and Mrs. Robert McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. F. Taylor, and Mrs. Greenbank, Norwood; Mr. and Mrs. G. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. G. Howson, Mrs. C. Plunkett and Mr. H. Howson, Keene.

Friends who also came from outside points were: Mrs. George Ingham, Peterborough; Miss A. Brown, Roseneath; Mr. and Mrs. Baker, Warkworth; Mr. and Mrs. J. Braithewaite and son Edgar, Roseneath. Besides the afore-mentioned, a large circle of friends and acquaintances extend sympathy to the bereaved ones.

JOHN WIGGINS.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, January 19. — On Wednesday morning, January 16, John Wiggins passed away peacefully at his home, a victim of pneumonia. He was descended from Dutch stock, who came to Ireland in 1688 with William, Prince of Orange, and who after serving through the campaign including the famous Battle of the Boyne, settled in County Fermanagh. His father, George Wiggins, was married in 1840 to Catherine Downey, and in 1842 they took passage from Belfast for Canada. Sailing on the ship Ann Hall, under the command of Captain Wiley, they were eleven weeks on the Atlantic. During the passage John Wiggins was born.

After passing through the usual hardships common to immigrants of that time, the family settled in the 4th Concession of Marmora Township, where the subject of this obituary grew to manhood. In 1876 he was united in marriage with Mary Jane Morrison, who departed this life July, 1880 . One son George a resident of Niagara Falls, N.Y., was born to this union. In 1882 he was again married to Rachel McConnell, who predeceased him in May, 1900. Seven children were born, five of them surviving—John T., William G., Laura E., Theda and Robert. The children, with the exception of William, who was unable to be present, were all at the bedside when the end came.

The late Mr. Wiggins always lived a vigorous life and took great interest in local matters. Sixty years ago he was affectionately known as the 'Daddy of the North" on account of the use made of his mental abilities in the assistance of his fellow-men. He served on the Cordova School Board as a member and as secretary-treasurer for over forty years. He was a staunch Conservative in politics. A loyal Orangeman, at the time of his death, being a member of Cordova L.O.L. 520, and honorary member of Marmora Golden Star. No. 748, Royal Black Knight Preceptory. In bygone years he was a member of L.O.L. 319, Marmora, having the master's chair of that Lodge for a number of years, initiating most of the present old members. He was aso originaly a member of R.B.P. No. 65, Madoc. In religion he was a member of the United Church and served on the Church Board of North Marmora Methodist Church, now known as the Standard Church having also assisted in its erection.

Besides the children, two sisters, Mrs. E. J. Williams of Cardinal, Ont., and Mrs. S. W. Colquhoun of Richmond, Ont., and one brother, James Wiggins of Cherry Valley, Ont., are left to mourn his passing.

The funeral service was held on Friday in the United Church, Marmora, under the joint auspices of R.B.P. 748 and L.O.L. 520. The bearers were Sir Knights T. E. Potts, W. Gray, and W. J. Cottrell, representing the Preceptory, and Bros. A. Palmateer, H. Clemender, and J. Vansickle, representing Cordova Lodge. Rev. J. N. Lovelace, of Ivanhoe, former pastor of the Cordova Circuit, took the service, assisted by Rev. C. J. Beckley, of Marmora, and Rev. E. Joblin, of Cordova. The choir of the United Church, in addition to leading in the beautiful hymns selected, rendered very ably "Sunset and Evening Star' 'and "Peace, Perfect Peace."

Rev. Mr. Lovelace, who preached, gave a striking message on II. Cor. 4, 18: "The things which are seen are temporal but the things which are not seen are eternal." At the conclusion of his sermon fitting tribute was paid to the character of the deceased.

Interment took place in the family plot in Marmora Protestant Cemetery. The last rites of the church having been concluded by Rev. Mr. Lovelace, the rites of the Preceptory were taken by Sir Knights H. G. Potts and W. J. Cottrell.

Among those from a distance attending the funeral were James Wiggins, Cherry Valley, Ont.; J. E. Williams, Cardinal, Ont., nephew; S. J. Kilpatrick, and R. Downey, of Ivanhoe.

KEEP YOUR APPETITE YOUNG

If the things you used to like disagree with you, take a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin after a meal. It displaces the excess acid in the stomach, sweetens your food, and digests it. The nourishment from it produces good, healthy tissue and blood; you gain weight and strength, and with that comes a healthy, youthful color.

Thousands of people who suffered from stomach trouble for years, praise Pape's Diapepsin for their good health and young appetite. They can now eat anything they want. That's why 5 million packages are used a year.

Any druggist will supply you with Pape's Diapepsin, because it is indispensable in every home.

Climbing

First, Ziegfeld picked her for his "Follies." Next, she was chosen for "Rio Rita" and now Warner Brothers will present her in the movies. Dainty Agnes Franey is climbing; helped by clever dancing and seldom equalled beauty.

Miss Franey says: "I don't believe in overlooking anything which helps add to your attractiveness. I am most particular about my hair and so many friends compliment me on its softness and lustre that I am sure my method of caring for it is right. Nearly all the girls I know here in New York are using it, now. It is so easy. All we do is put a little Danderine on our brushes each time we dress our hair. It makes my hair easy to dress and holds it in place wonderfully. It has gotten rid of my dandruff. It keeps my hair and scalp so comfortable, that I don't shampoo half as often as I did before. And best of all, it gives my hair a softer, more silky and lustrous appearance than anything I've ever found."

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from your hair; brings out its natural color, makes it fairly sparkle! Dandruff usually disappears when you use Danderine. Waves, "set" with it, stay in longer. It's delicately fragranced; isn't oily; doesn't show. It's economical. The 35c bottles will last several weeks. All drug stores recommend and guarantee it.

APPEAL MADE BY DIVORCEE

Stable Manager Who Wed Society Debutante Seeks Custody of Child.

WOMAN KEEPS SILENCE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19. — The marital and divorce story of Walta Linforth, society debutante of a few years ago, and William S. Threkeld, stable manager, started in on a new chapter the other day when Threlkeld moved to appeal the divorce granted to young Mrs. Threlkeld by Superior Judge George H. Buck of San Mateo County early in September.

Through his attorney, Henry G. Sadicoff of Los Angeles, Threlkeld filed an application in Redwood City for a transcript of all the evidence taken in the divorce suit.

Will Take Appeal.

"I am going to appeal the divorce granted by Judge Buck to my wife," Threlkeld said when asked the reason for securing the evidence transcript. "The divorce and the reasons given for it were unjust. It will be on the general ground that the appeal wil lbe taken. When it will be filed is a matter for my lawyer to decide."

Threlkeld's lawyer, Attorney Sadicoff, who is also attorney for Irving H. Hellman, who employs Threlkeld to manage his stables at the Circus Club, Menlo Park, had not decided the other day when the appeal would be filed.

Wants to Get Child.

"What I want most of all," said Threlkeld, "is to be given possession of our child. Billie Marie, now nearly three years old. I love the child. The court, in the divorce decision, awarded the child to the mother, but since the divorce was granted the mother has taken little interest in Billie Marie."

Threlkeld, who was permitted by the divorce decision to see the child occasionally, had Billie Maria at his guest at the Menlo Park Circus Club and spent the afternoon driving with the little girl.

Woman Bans Topic.

Neither Mrs. Threlkeld for her father, Walter Linforth, wealthy San Francisco attorney, would discuss Threlkeld's new move. Mrs. Threlkeld referred inquirers to her father and Linforth referred them to his attorneys, Sullivan & Roche, who were uninformed as to any plans Threlkeld has for appealing the divorce decision.

THOROLD RESIDENT SEVERELY BURNED

Attempted To Light a Fire in Kitchen Stove At His Home.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Jan. 19 (Canadian Press).—George Argentine, an employee of the Ontario Paper Mills, Thorold, is in the general hospital here suffering from severe burns which are expected to prove fatal, received when he attempted to light a fire in the kitchen of his home in Thorold township Friday morning. His wife and seven children were in the bed at the time, the majority of them being ill. His second daughter, smelling smoke arose and found her father in the yard and the kitchen full of smoke. She summoned firemen who succeeded in putting out the blaze after a loss of not more than $300. The wife and children were safely taken from the house without injury.

DISTRICT CHURCHES

ROSENEATH UNITED SERVICE

ROSENEATH, Jan. 18 (Examiner Correspondence).—Rev. M. R. Brown took up the study of Elijah at the morning service of the United Church on Sunday. He took his text from 1 Kings xix: 9 "What doest thou here?"

"The man to whom they were addressed was not doing anything. He was lying flat on his back, whining because life was hard. He was a man of ability; he had shown capacity for leadership. Yet here in the face of difficulty he had flattened out. His will had gone lame and his lamp of hope had gone out.. All he had to offer the world was a curl of the lip, a sneer and a sob: 'O Lord take away my life, the people have forsaken Thy covenant, they have thrown down Thy prophets with the edge of the sword. They are a bad lot altogether; selfish, godless, worthless. I, even I only, am left and they seek my life to take it away.'

What a broken hearted wail to come from the lips of a man who in the days of his strength had denounced a wicked king to his face, and had on Mount Carmel hurled defiance at all the enemies of sound morality and pure religion! Elijah's trouble is very common to everyone in this audience. First Elijah became cynical. The cynic is like a snarling dog or as one given to sneering at evidences of virtue. The cynic is one who never sees a good quality in a man and never fails to see a bad one.

This man Elijah in his distress, insisted that all people were bad; they were cowardly, self-seeking and insincere. Human nature had fallen so low in his esteem that none was worthy of his notice. But Elijah was too great a man to stay cynical very long. He soon learned that there were other virtuous people in his country. There are very few people that are really skeptical—they merely live in their own world which is altogether different from Christianity, so that when Christian principles are mentioned, they sit in the seat of the scornful."

In closing, Rev. Mr. Brown urged the message by saying, "Think of living on that loathsome idea when we could live on. Now we are the children of the Eternal and it is not yet made manifest what we shall be. What a piece of work is man! How noble in reason! How infinite in faculty! In form and moving, how express and admirable! On action, how like an angel! In apprehension, how like a God! My friends, dread cynicism as you would the Black Plague, and if you would keep healthy and escape its infections, keep closer company with Jesus Christ! If ever anybody in history had an excuse for being cynical, it was he. His family thought him crazy; his church thought him a heretic and excommunicated him; his country thought him a traitor, and crucified him. His friends thought him a failure and disowned him. Yet at that last dark hour he had such faith in men that he accepted the dying thief, took him in his flight to eternal rest, with the words on his lips, "This day thou shalt be with me in Paradise.

Could you, O man of sin, in the face of that great scene, return home and "sit in the seat of the scornful?"

FOUR ARE KILLED IN BOMB EXPLOSION

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 19 (Canadian Press). — Four persons were believed killed and two were injured seriously when a bomb wrecked a small store and apartment building at Gratiot and Harper Avenues early yesterday. Police believed the bombing an echo of the fatal shooting of an Italian marcher in a Columbus Day parade, last year. The shooting was attributed to warfare between Fascisti and Anti-Fascist factions.

Maria Tells How to Keep Linen Closet Up-to-date

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet,
Or dims the radiant light,
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal,
The good of all mankind

WARSAW.

Dr. Munro's offer to speak, in the near future, on pre-natal care, to the ladies brings up a slogan of the Women's Institutes, namely, "Make Maternity Safe."

Very often doctors, especially in the country, do not have a chance to give pre-natal advice, or perhaps the advice is not sought soon enough. Often, too, advice, and even strict orders, and decided warnings are disregarded, because the patient feels physically able to do as she pleases. Trouble often happens; the wonder is it does not happen more frequently. These facts are recognized by the Institute as a whole. The Institute also recognizes that pre-natal care saves suffering, complications and often death of the mother; it is also conducive to the health of the child.

In cities these clinics to which one goes, and another goes. In the country it is different, especially where there is no general practitioner near. For that reason, some of the "Little Blue Books" mentioned last week are extremely useful. Just such lectures as Dr. Munro will give are urged, and attendance of all the women of the neighborhood, whether Institute members or not is urged.

Just in this connection, our Warsaw Doctor is noted for his success in these cases. He has not been consulted, but in his nearly twenty-two years' practice here he has had many, very many, patients, many critical, and by speaking with a great many, one or two is all that have failed, and had he been consulted and obeyed, it is not at all likely that there would have been a death.

This district owes more than it realizes to the man who has tried to keep the people well.

Dr. Munro has addressed the Institute several times. He thought he could do more good generally by speaking at an open meeting in the evening than at the afternoon one, and the Branch is only too glad to make the change.

The Institute also pays great attention to the care of the child.

Deaths among the young are very rare here. The great majority of those who pass out are quite elderly, or at least past middle life, but that does not alter the fact that we must not go asleep. If we do we go back, for we cannot stand still.

MILLBROOK

Quoting the prediction that "food will be the medicine of the future," one of the speakers at the Provincial Women's Institute convention in Toronto, urged each individual Institute to study home economics under such headings as Food, Clothing, and Shelter, and especially to have the girls of any community where a short course on this important line of development is being held in attendance, in as large numbers as possible.

This advice has been taken locally since the new year, the short course in Home Economics having started this week, and continuing until the February 1; the Institute secretary, Mrs. Will Armstrong, and other officers, have done what they could to impress upon the young married women, and the girls, the importance and helpfulness of the course, and induce them to attend the classes.

Unity among the Institutes of the province, and maintaining a high standard of home life, is the gist of the latest message from the provincial president, Mrs. J. W. Stone, of Bond Head; and special emphasis has been placed upon the importance of local branches studying the Laws of Ontario as a text book so individual members may be well versed in legislation which is o interest to all women, such as the Married Women's Property Act; the Adoption Act; and laws relating to the making of wills. In this manner it is hoped that Institutes will add their weight to that of other women's organizations in presenting petitions for special legislation to the government; the pressure of women's organizations has resulted in the amending of several laws, and it would be well if this fact were more generally known.

CAVAN

George A. Putnam, Superintendent of Women's Institutes, who has done so much to build them up and improve them since he accepted his position, gave this splendid address to the delegates assembled at the Women's Institute Convention in Toronto, in November.

"Thirty years ago the only Women's Institutes in existence were in the Province of Ontario. When I became Superintendent twenty-four years ago on the first of March 1928, there were only 220 branches in Ontario, and none of the other provinces had yet followed Ontario's example, although some of those who had gone from Ontario to western provinces, were beginning to ask how to proceed in organizing.

The extension and development of the work is a very interesting story, but I shall content myself with outlining a few of the features which have most impressed me.

Possibly the most significant feature, and the one which promises the most for the future, is the development of community consciousness. In the beginning the Institutes centred their thoughts, discussions, and study largely on matters relating to the housing, clothing and feeding of the family; but the members, most of them mothers, soon realized, that if they were to serve their families and their homes effectively, they must look well to community equipment service and activities. So, through co-operative effort, the Institutes have done much to provide community homes, good literature, wholesome social opportunities, and have contributed and rendered service where the need existed. The power of women through co-operation to serve their communities well has been forcefully demonstrated in the Institutes.

One of the outstanding features is the discovery and development of talents in the women of rural Ontario.

At the Provincial gathering, twenty-years ago, with two hundred delegates from various sections of the Province in attendance, it was difficult to arouse discussion, and only a very small proportion were ready to take their place on the platform and assist in the programme. Today in every county in Ontario we have numbers of women who can take their place on the platform with credit in the discussion of features in which women and children are concerned. The excellence of the papers prepared and the addresses given largely along practical lines, but many of them cultural and entertaining in character, are a credit to the women of the Province. These women have a very keen appreciation of the literature published by the various Departments of government bearing upon their work, and are utilizing the same to good advantage. The hearty response to the appeal for assistance when the world War came was an evidence of the loyalty and spirit of service of the members. The first appeal was from the Red Cross for feathers, and it was only a few weeks until those in charge had to send out notice that the supply more than met the demand. Then the appeal for socks, shirts and supplies of various kinds met with most liberal and hearty response throughout the conflict. The regular work of the Institutes was largely given up for war work, and it took some years after the cessation of hostilities before the women got back to the old level in educational and community service work, for they, as an organization, were somewhat exhausted after their strenuous efforts and liberal giving of time, money and supplies.

In referring to the educational features of the Institutes, the members speak of it as "A school for Grown-ups" or "Our Rural University," and there is no doubt but that the Institute is one of the greatest factors making for efficiency in the lives of thousands of country women.

Premier Bladwin on his recent visit to Canada stated that Canada's greatest contribution to the Mother Country is the Women's Institute which has been adapted to the needs and possibilities of the communities in which it has been introduced in the British Isles.

May we enumerate at this time some of the underlying principles which have made for success in this organization which has proved its worth where women are desirous to acquire efficiency, enjoy a wholesome social life, and render service of lasting worth to the community. (1) A membership composed of women of responsibility who were anxious to acquire greater efficiency as homemakers and community builders.

(2) Adherence to the principle of recognizing no class, sectarian or party distinctions, and avoiding the introduction of features which would antagonize groups of members.

(3) The adoption of a democratic basis of election in the branch, district, subdivision and provincial organizations.

(4) The spirit of service in the home and to the community, then to public institutions and provincial undertakings.

(5) The stand for a wholesome social life in the community, and assistance in providing amusement and entertainment of a constructive, educative and elevating character.

(6) A definite basis of effective co-operation on the part of Government service and local voluntary organizations. The Department of Agriculture undertakes to provide instructors and literature to the Institutes along lines which are of unquestionable value to women of responsibility, provided the Institute members will hold regular meetings of educational value at which local talent and the literature available is utilized in such ways as are thought to be of the greatest value to the individual members. This co-operation has undoubtedly enabled the Government to render efficient service at less cost than would have been possible without the voluntary local organizations; and, on the other hand, it would have been impossible for the Institutes to have carried on so effectively without the literature furnished, lecturers and instructors provided, and assistance in formulating a basis for organizing and extending the work through district, subdivision, convention area, and provincial organization.

It has been a very happy effective and mutually beneficial co-operation between government service and voluntary local groups. It is stated by those who have had the opportunity of studying systems of Government assistance in other countries that Ontario presents an example, through co-operation of the Government with Women's Institutes, of most effective results at a minimum of outlay.

May I be allowed to repeat that the most valuable development in the Institutes is a realization on the part of the women of rural Ontario that they have through their local groups the power to materially raise the standard of efficiency, to foster a wholesome social life, and to render most valuable service to the community.

The accomplishments of the present day in hundreds of community groups would have been looked upon as impossible by the leaders of twenty-five years ago. Groups of women in the rural districts would no more consider effective effort towards individual advancement, a wholesome social life, and efficient community service without a Women's Institute or similar all-embracing local organization, than they would think of trying to provide adequate education and training for their children without a school.

FASHION'S FORECAST.

IT'S NEW!

A quaint printed wool jersey, that follows the adult mode with its hip yoke, scalloped across front with box-plaits below in skirt, which is gathered in all-around styling. A belt is stitched at each side, which gives the bodice a slight blousing, leaving front and back in panel style. THOUSANDS OF MOTHERS USE NO OTHER MEDICINE

Baby's Own Tablets Are the Ideal Remedy for Babies and Young Children.

Canadian mothers are noted for the care they give their little ones—the health of the baby is most jealously guarded and the mother is always on the lookout for a remedy which is efficient and at the same time absolutely safe. Thousands of mothers have found such a remedy in Baby's Own Tablets and many of them use nothing else for the ailments of their little ones. Among them is Mrs. Howard King, of Truro, N.S., who says: "I can strongly recommend Baby's Own Tablets to mothers of young children as I know of nothing to equal them for little ones."

Head lettuce is 10 and 15 cents a head, and 2 for 25 cents and leaf lettuce is 5 cents a bunch. Parsley is also 5 cents a bunch and green onions for salads are 5 cents a bunch.

Celery hearts are priced at 15 cents a bunch. Well bleached celery is priced at 15 and 20 cents a head and 3 for 25 cents. For greens the housewife might choose spinach which is 20 cents a pound and 2 pounds for 35 cents. Hothouse tomatoes are 40 cents a pound. Grapes are 25 cents a pound and 2 pounds for 35 cents in many of the stores.

DAILY READING

A FEW MINUTES A DAY WITH THE BEST OF THE WORLD'S AUTHORS CONDUCTED BY THE NEIGHBORS AND MARION

To-day, just for a change, I am going to give you one of my own favorite poems, "The Bells," by Edgar Allan Poe. And I wish to ask a favor of those who are unacquainted with it—please read it aloud, in order to thoroughly enjoy it.

The poem is made more interesting because to-day is the anniversary of the birth of Poe, 120 years ago. He died October 7, 1849.

JANUARY 19, 1929

Hear the sledges with the bells.—
Silver bells!
What a world of merriment their melody foretells!
How they tinkle, tinkle, tinkle,
In the icy air of night!
While the stars that oversprinkle
All the heavens, seem to twinkle
With a crystalline delight;
Keeping time, time, time
In a sort of Runic rhyme,
To the tintinnabulation that so musically wells
From the bells, bells, bells, bells,
Bells, bells, bells,—
From the jingling and the tinkling of the bells.

* * * * *

Hear the mellow wedding bells,—
Golden bells!
What a world of happiness their harmony foretells!
Through the balmy air of night
How they ring out their delight!
From the molten golden notes,
And all in tune,
What a liquid ditty floats
To the turtledove that listens, while she gloats
Oh, from out the sounding cells
On the moon!
Oh, from out the sounding cells
What a gush of euphony voluminously wells!
How it swells!
How it dwells
On the Future! How it tells
Of the rapture that impels
To the swinging and the ringing
To the swinging and the ringing
Of the bells, bells, bells,
Of the bells, bells, bells, bells,
Bells, bells, bells,—
To the rhyming and the chiming of the bells!

* * * * *

Hear the loud alarum bells,—
Brazen bells!
What a tale of terror, now, their turbulency tells!
In the startled ear of night
How they scream out their affright!
Too much horrified to speak,
They can only shriek, shriek, shriek,
Out of tune,
In a clamorous appealing to the mercy of the fire,
In a mad expostulation with the deaf and frantic fire,
Leaping higher, higher, higher,
With a desperate desire,
And a resolute endeavour
Now—now to sit, or never,
By the side of the pale-faced moon.
Oh, the bells, bells, bells!
What a tale their terror tells Of Despair!
How they clang, and clash, and roar!
What a horror they outpour
On the bosom of the palpitating air!
Yet the ear it fully knows,
By the twanging,
And the clanging,
How the danger ebbs and flows;
Yet the ear distinctly tells,
In the jangling,
And the wrangling,
How the danger sinks and swells,
By the sinking or the swelling in the anger of the bells.
Of the bells,—
Of the bells, bells, bells, bells,
Bells, bells, bells,—
In the clamor and the clangor of the bells!

* * * * *

Hear the tolling of the bells,—
Iron bells!
What a world of solemn thought their monody compels!
In the silence of the night,
How we shiver with affright
At the melancholy menace of their tone!
For every sound that floats
From the rust within their throats
Is a groan.
And the people—ah, the people,—
They that dwell up in the steeple,
All alone,
And who tolling, tolling, tolling,
In that muffled monotone,
Feel a glory in so rolling
On the human heart a stone:
They are neither man nor woman,—
They are neither brute nor human,—
They are Ghouls;
And their king it is who tolls,—
And he rolls, rolls, rolls,
Rolls a paean of the bells,
And he dances
And he dances and he yells;
Keeping time, time, time,
In a sort of Runic rhyme,
To the paean of the bells,—
Of the bells:
Keeping time, time, time,
In a sort of Runic rhyme,
To the throbbing of the bells,—
Of the bells, bells, bells,—
To the sobbing of the bells;
Keeping time, time, time,
As he knells, knells, knells,
In a happy Runic rhyme,
To the rolling of the bells,—
Of the bells, bells, bells,—
To the tolling of the bells,
Of the bells, bells, bells, bells,
Bells, bells, bells,—
To the moaning and the groaning of the bells.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion at The Examiner Office.

"Dear Marion:

I have just had some experience instructing my daughter in setting up house, and I wonder if some of my suggestions would prove acceptable to you and the other neighbors. That looks as if I expected you to be taking the leap into matrimony soon, doesn't it? If you haven't, and if you do, I sure hope you don't stop writing for our pages in The Examiner. So pick a man like you have been telling us—one who will not protest if you DO write!

I impressed upon my daughter that one of the most important sections of her home is the linen closet, and if you don't mind I'll write out some of my ideas along that line. This is appropriate, because nearly everyone finds this the time of year to restock; in the States, where I came from, the stores all have January 'White' sales.

Of course, the linen closet is not what it used to be. There is color there now, where we of the last generation had only write. What a shock it would have been to us to have seen Nile green of Delft blue bed linen! And yet I have come to like the variety, and I have three sets of colors and intend replacing other of my white linen with colors just as I can conscientiously say it is worn out. I have one set in solid color, and the other two are white with a colored border. I am better pleased with my solid-color maize sheets in a bedroom where blue predominates than any other scheme I've tried.

Every January I go over all my linens (I take quite a lot of pride in them) and write out a list with such remarks as 'frayed, torn, worn out,' and so on; then decide what I can afford to replace, and then go shopping. One secret of keeping a linen closet is just the same secret that the farmer is learning: rotation. So many women place the latest ironed sheets and table cloths on top of the pile in the closet, thus using the same ones over and over till they are worn out. I always bring the bottom of the pile up, placing the last-ironed at the bottom.

In buying, I never forget the weight consideration. I have found heavy cotton sheeting difficult to launder, and not so agreeable to handle (or sleep in) as something lighter, such as percale. Heavy weight, I find, doesn't always mean long wear. Linens will last longer with careful handling and equal use—be specially careful in pulling them from the bed if they have been 'tucked in,' and in ...dering.

...her point I watch is size. I ...test sheets that are too short, wide enough to 'tuck in' at the

The extra cost (so little) is made up in comfort and appearance. I get 90-inch for the lower sheet and double beds I use 81-inch width. By 108-inch for the upper, and on my keeping to these sizes I avoid a lot of trouble and "sorting" when changing the linen.

It's not only in bed linen that the housewife may spread herself with enjoyment. I am a believer in having lots of towels—I always had small towels for the small children, different colors, so that every child knew her own. In our family the turkish towel was always favored over the smooth face towel—and I never objected, because this preference saves time on ironing day!

I do hope I haven't taken up too much space, Marion, and that some of my ideas may help neighbors as much as theirs have helped me.

Yours faithfully,
Maria."

I think your letter is just splendid, "Maria," with its suggestions which every housewife can put into practical use. I hope you write again soon, giving us more from your store of knowledge.

"Dear Marion:

I would like very much the pattern or diagram of your little boudoir cap. I got one other pattern and it is really fine.

Also I am sending in something as a preventive for 'flue. I have not noticed this as yet in your Whatnot column. A way of using grapefruit, cut out the seedy centre and fill with honey instead of sugar for breakfast—wonderful for lung trouble.

Yours,
Mary Lou."

Thank you, "Mary Lou," for your hint on preventing 'flue. I have used honey for sore throat but never heard of the combination with grapefruit. I'm glad you like the helps.

"Dear Marion:

I am enclosing an original poem which you may use in the 'Little Songs of Love' column, the W.P.B., or wherever you see fit.

You mentioned some time ago that you would 'run a series of hints on Bridge, if enough were interested. I, for one, am and I hope you have not forgotten.

Sincerely,
Kismet."

Thank you for the poem, "Kismet," which I am using. You are the only one to express interest in the Bridge articles, so the enthusiasm isn't overwhelming, is it?

Thanks for the nice things you write about our pages.

About thirty of the members of the choir of Mark Street United Church enjoyed a pleasant social gathering on Thursday evening in the basement of the church. During the evening, two of the members of the choir, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Agnew (nee Beatrice Castle) whose marriage took place recently, were presented with a handsome fern and fern stand. The presentation was made by Messrs. J. Speer and V. Boorman, with an address read by Miss M. Reynolds. The choir then sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" and after Mr. Agnew had acknowledged the gift in suitable terms, the Rev. A. E. Thornley proferred the well wishes of the gathering to the bride and bridegroom. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing games, followed by the service of dainty refreshments.

The twenty-first annual dance of the Belmont Club was a very successful affair, held last night in the hall of the Canadian Legion, where decorations were carried out effectively with panelled walls of two-tone sateen in the colors of the Club; orchid and purple. Ropes of gilt tinsel and club emblems in gold decorated the panels, which lined the walls from floor to ceiling, and the electroliers were draped with long basket shades of the same two colors in silk. A lounging room at the rear was attractively arranged with lighted floor lamps and wicker furniture. Excellent music was provided by Burton Till and his orchestra, from Toronto, and arrangements were in charge of the social committee, composed of Messrs. F. H. Jobbitt, A. C. Sharpe, H. G. Mason, G. Logan and N. Lewis, with S. D. Haskill, honorary secretary, and the Board of Directors of the Club, Messrs. S. Curtis, S. D. Haskill, A. Hood, N. Lewis, H. G. Mason, J. C. Green, T. H. Holyman, F H. A smaller attendance than usual was due to sickness amongst the members and the inclement weather. The president, Mr. Robert Veitch, was in the chair, and Mr. D. Anderson conducted the whist drive. Prizes were won by Mrs. G. Nimmons, Mrs. J. Reid, Mrs. Lister, Mr. Robt. Veitch, Mr. G. Moffatt and Robert Nimmons. At the conclusion of the card games, dainty refreshments were served by the ladies' committee, Mrs. A. Jackson and Mrs. A. Moffatt, assisted by the executive, in charge. A social hour was spent in dancing to music supplied by Mr. Robert Gilmour on his melodeon. Mr. Veitch announced that the committee had completed arrangements for the annual celebration of Burns' Night, and a fine program is anticipated, with several well-known local men as speakers. The tickets, Mr. Veitch said, are selling fast, and those wishing to attend should procure same at an early date.

The Rev. T. J. O'Conor-Fenton of Norwood, who was in the city yesterday in connection with the Church Army Mission being held in All Saints' Church, was a guest of the Kiwanis Club yesterday at their weekly luncheon at the Empress Hotel.

Mr. B. A. Reid of the staff of the Teco Store has been in attendance during the past week at the furniture exhibition in Kitchener and Stratford.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Northey of Lakefield received word on Thursday that their son-in-law, Dr. A. J. Crum, passed away on Wednesday in the Hospital at Lansing, Michigan. Their son, Mr. Wilbert Northey, left on Thursday for Bath, Michigan, where the funeral will take place from the late residence of the deceased.

BIG SISTER COLUMN

In which Examiner Neighbors answer letters from girls. Address correspondence to Marion, please.

WANTS A BOY BACK.

Dear Marion:

I enjoy reading your page very much. Well Marion, here is my problem which I have come to you for advice.

There was a boy came to our house some time ago (I have known this boy for about five years). Well anyway, he took me to a party and that night when he brought me home he told me he was going away for a week's vacation, but named a night he would see me the next week, but I have not seen him since.

I like this friend splendid and he seemed to think a lot of me. Could you advise me of any way to gain friends with him again or do you think he will come back again? I will be waiting anxiously for your answer.

Yours sincerely,
PINE TREE.

(Reply by "A Shut-In")

Dear Pine Tree:

I think your boy will come again, especially if, as you say, he thinks well of you, and this is the only condition under which you would want him to come, is it not?

There may be numerous reasons why his coming has been delayed: perhaps he has decided to take a longer vacation than at first intended, or, he may have taken the "flu" since coming home.

Do not worry, Pine Tree. If he thinks well of you and desires your company he will come to you again. That is the boy's privilege.

But if not, you will doubtless meet him again soon at another party or social gathering. When this time comes, be your own 'Sweet Self,' be friendly with him as before, but do not let him know that his failure to return, greatly concerned or worried you in any way. As I understand your letter he has not as yet taken you out very often and therefore you have no claim on him.

Boys to-day are just as old-fashioned in their ideas as in olden times. They enjoy encouragement from the fair sex by smiles and friendships, but, if they get the faintest idea that they are being chased after, they soon make a speedy retreat.

Your Big Sister,
A SHUT-IN.

YOURS IS THE VICTORY! For when the one great scorer comes to write against your name, He writes not that you won or lost, but how you played the game."

This, prettily printed, came to me a few days ago, and I think it the most inspiring thing I have seen, especially at the end of this week when we have been writing our resolutions and reading the resolutions written by other neighbors.

It doesn't matter, neighbors, whether you win or lose; it doesn't matter whether you are successful in keeping your resolutions; all that the Great Scorer takes into account is HOW YOU PLAY THE GAME.

What an inspiration to those of us who seem to be ever losing! Our good intentions go for nothing, because try as we will we cannot carry them through to success.

Does what you have set your mind upon seem to turn to ashes, despite your every endeavour? When you have lavished kindness and consideration on others, do they seem to turn away from you? Do the children whom you have reared with sacred tenderness now turn aside to find their happiness away from your side? Does your husband's leaping ambition close his eyes to your enthusiasm in his service? . . . Worry no more . . .

YOURS IS THE VICTORY! For when the one great scorer comes to write against your name, He writes not that you won or lost, but how you played the game.

But remember, neighbors, you MUST play the game the best you can. There is no defeat except for those who think defeat. You must keep on playing, to win, clinging with tenacity to the expectation that you will win—and that will be counted in your favor on the score board of life.

It is my opinion that much the same requirements exist for success in home making that are called for in the business world. There must, as fundamentals, be intelligence, imagination, and ambition.

• • •

Every woman has intelligence of a degree, and so long as she makes the best use possible of the intelligence with which she is endowed, she is playing the game to her utmost.

Imagination is necessary, because without it no woman would ever look beyond the confines of her kitchen routine, there would be no vacuum cleaner, or sewing machine, or washing machine.

And ambition is not that "shadow's shadow" of which Shakespeare writes—it is the impulse which stirs imagination into life to use intelligence.

I presume every neighbor wishes to progress in company with her husband, or in the business in which she is engaged. But wishing will never bring success in any endeavour. Many people confound wishing with ambition.

• • •

Decide at what port you desire to arrive, and then set sail, hopefully, intelligently, and decisively. Don't waver, once your mooring ropes are cast off. Play the game, play it through to the end.

I would like to see every neighbor take up some interest outside her duties, because this will quicken her mentality, stir her imagination, and she will gather ideas that will help her in her daily work.

Here is an idea of the difference between wishing and ambition. One woman will see a dress in a store window, and will exclaim: "My, I wish I had a dress like that. But it is so expensive!" Another will see the same dress; she will go back to look at it again; she will buy the material, get busy at her sewing machine; and in a few days, lo! she has the dress she desired. This latter is AMBITION; the first is WISHING.

Another woman will recognize the beauty of a house where she visits, and will envy the chatelaine. Her own house never satisfies her; she tells her husband at every meal how nice Mrs. So-and-so's house is, and wishes she had the money to furnish hers as nicely.

Her friend, with no more of this world's goods than she, admires the same home, but instead of nagging her husband about the difference, she buys a little lacquer and refurbishes the aged furniture. She takes scraps and makes comfortable-looking cushions. She takes more scraps and makes light shades. She trims her old carpets, since she cannot buy new ones, and adds fringe that costs only a few cents a yard.

She may not achieve the perfection of the decorations the first woman envies, but she is turning her wish into ambition, and her ambition into achievement.

Having made your resolutions for this year, neighbors, and formed your wishes, now get busy and turn your resolutions into improvements and your wishes into realities.

Don't bind your intelligence to your kitchen, and your thought to books. Let your thoughts and your intelligence go outside and look over the world. It is not a bad idea to build air castles, so long as that does not become one's only accomplishment.

And having done all you can, rest content, remembering the quotation with which I opened this Whatnot. And your New Year will be happy and prosperous.

Is your dust cap worn out, or have you had it so long you are tired of it? This week's help will tell you how to make a new one in a few minutes. The diagram and sketch, accompanied by full directions, will be gladly sent free on receipt of the coupon.

If you haven't been wearing a dust cap when going about your housework, you should start right away. It is so convenient to keep dust out of your hair, and to keep your hair in order when stooping over your work.

The same pattern will do equally well for a boudoir cap made of georgette or some lacy material.

I wish to thank all the neighbors who have suggested extracts for our Daily Reading. Many have been new to me, and I enjoyed reading them. If every neighbor will make it a poin to suggest just one extract—till we get around everyone—what a variety of reading we will have!

It is not necessary to write out the suggested extract. I have so many books in my library that I can usually find what is desired there, or I can copy it in the Public Library. If both fail me, then I can call on the neighbors to help out.

• • •

And thank all you neighbors, too, who contributed entries in the New Year Resolution competition. I enjoyed a lot reading your letters.

My New Year's Resolutions

The following have been entered in a competition, the result of which will be announced on Saturday.

(By "Lucinda.")

"Dear Marion:

Of course, nobody has kept his or her New Year's resolutions except those who are so "precise" that they haven't needed to make them at all. The rest of us have been extra virtuous and kind and patient and sweet, those last couple of weeks. Now we are due to fall off the pedestals upon which we have climbed with a dull, reverberating thud and resume the practice of our particular pet sins.

Therefore it would be well to revive the quaint practice of making New Year's resolutions, and I suggest the following for the year 1929:

I hereby resolve—

First—That I will constantly bear in mind that wifehood is the career that I picked out for myself, and that I will do my best to make a success of it, and to furnish my husband with a home that is a place of quiet and rest in which he may build up every day his shattered nerves and worn body and from which He will go forth refreshed.

Second—That I will not whine and complain over the duties I have to perform. I will not ruin every dinner by telling my husband how long I stood over the cooking stove preparing it. Nor Nor will I bewail myself because I have not all the things that the wives of millionaires have.

Third—I will cut out nagging, and I will not remind my husband of the money he lent to an old friend and never got back, nor reproach him for the bad investment that he made.

Fourth—I will not interfere with my husband's personal tastes and habits, nor try to boss him and tell him what he shall eat, and forbid him to smoke, and deprive him of a latchkey, and generally treat him as if he were a child instead of being an intelligent adult human being.

Fifth—I will strive to be a ray of sunshine in the home, to keep myself as attractive as a wife as I was a sweetheart, and use to hold my husband the same arts of cajolery and flattery and petting wherewith I caught him, and I shall daily tell him how much I admire him and appreciate all he does for me (actions speak louder than words), and that my guardian angel must have been on his job when I got him for a husband.

Don't you think this would be a pleasanter world if we kept even a few of these resolutions during 1929?

I will close with a thought of Home Attractions:

Home Attractions.

As homeward comes the married man, he's met by wife at door.
With fond embrace and loving kiss, and — "Baby's throat is sore!
"And did you think to stop at Brown's, and get that marabout
I ordered yesterday? And, dear, Fred's boots are worn out!
"I'm glad you are so early, John, so much I miss you, dear—
I've had a letter from mamma—she's coming to live here.
"How very glad you look, dear John, I know that you would be,
The flour's out, the butter, and you must send home some tea.
"That plumber has been here again—if you don't pay he'll sue;
And Mr. Pendergast called in to say your rent is due.
"Fred's trousers are half cotton, John, you thought they were all wool—
Oh! that reminds me that your son was whipped to-day at school.
"The roof has leaked and spoiled the rugs upon the upper hall;
And Jane must go, the careless thing,
she let the mirror fall.
"To-day as she was moving it (the largest one, dear John),
Of course it broke, it also broke the lamp it fell upon.
"What makes you look so grave, my love, take off your things and wipe
Your feet—and only think, to-day Jane broke your meerschaum pipe.
"Oh, John! that horrid, horrid word! You do not love me, dear;
I wish that I—boo-hoo—were dead—you're cross as any bear!"

Sincerely,
LUCINDA."

RESOLVED FOR THE NEW YEAR, 1929.

"I would be true, for there are those who trust me;
I would be pure, for there are those who care.
I would be strong, for there is much to suffer.
I would be brave, for there is much to dare.
"I would be friend of all, the foe, the friendless,
I would be giving, and forget the gift.
I would be humble, for I know my weakness.
I would look up, and laugh and love and lift.
I would be learning day by day, the lessons my Heavenly Father gives me in His Word.
I would be quick to hear His lightest whisper,

A NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION BY HELEN HUPPE.

When I had time to take in John's new lighter and suspect his handkerchief was the silent bearer of a tender message from Maggie whose sisterly solicitude seems to be lost on the dear fellow, I saw around his eyes a drawn look expressing something between pain and embarrassment. Wel, friendship's friendship, and I might as well get it over. "Is anything wrong, John? Better out with it. Christmas not right?"

"Oh, bother Christmas; it's New Year's."

"You don't mean to tell me you are steeling yourself to a resolution to read more; and I can't conceive you reading less. Something else perhaps?"

"No, it's the books. I've been making a list of what I read in nineteen and twenty-eight; and it isn't altogether satisfactory." The dapper little man was sorrowful.

"It is priggish," I tried to comfort him. "Reading to a program gets dull. Besides we are of our own mind and time however much we like to think we are equally at home in the Renaissance or the Rome. Read something modern, only don't lose touch otherwise. My idea of a good general scheme (not inflexible and not to be toiled at like a slave) would be to get somewhere into 1929. Let balance and variety be worked out as you go along. See that your net is wide enough and I'll risk its quality. There is just one resolution I'd like to see you take on. Never continue past page fifty if you are not interested. Have the moral courage to quit what you don't really like—classics as well as new books. Let taste develop. Don't feel that because you have bought a book you must read it out of either economy or pride. Life's too short, your time is worth more than the book. Get all the fun you can out of it, quit when bored.

"That's a comfortable doctrine," said John. "Try it out," I urged, "and I won't need to wish you any further good luck in the New Year."

Daily I will seek Divine help to keep the following resolutions:

1st—To keep the Golden Rule.
2nd—To make the best of circumstances and look on the bright side.
4th—To help others when opportunity arises.
5th—To be grateful for all blessings.
6th—To be sympathetic.
7th—To guard the tongue from evil speaking.
8th—To develop a broader outlook on life.

Another year has gone. We step to-morrow
Into another, fresh, and clean and new.
Help us to keep, dear Lord, these days so precious,
Spotless from deed unkind, or word untrue.
May they be filled instead with loving service,
High aims, sweet thoughts and duties nobly done,
May we blot out by steady, strong endeavor,
The failures of the Old Year that has gone.

Neighborly Helps

This column is used by Examiner neighbors to help out others who have requested recipes or advice. You may use it freely by addressing Marion.

Here's a recipe for shrimps that I found among my clippings. It is requested by "Shrimp."

For jellied shrimp salad, cook together for fifteen minutes one quart of tomatoes, one cupful of water, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, four cloves, one bayleaf, one tablespoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of mustard, and one small onion. Strain and pour mixture over two tablespoonfuls of granulated gelatin, which has been softened in one-fourth cupful of cold water. Cool until beginning to stiffen and add one and one-half cupfuls of shrimps thoroughly cleaned and cut in halves, one-half cupful of finely diced celery, and one-fourth cupful of diced green pepper from which the skin has been removed by parboiling. Pour into wet, individual moulds and put in a cool place until hardened. When ready to serve, turn out on beds of lettuce and garnish with boiled or mayonnaise dressing, as preferred.—Marion.

APPETIZER

The young people of the First Baptist Church will have a little pet-together at the church parlors on Friday evening. A light lunch will be served afterwards.

Give freely When your Children Cry for It

Mothers, who take one simple precaution, are seldom worried. With a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria in the house they can do what their doctor would tell them to do, when baby is fretful, feverish, colicky, constipated or stuffed-up with cold—give a few drops of this pure vegetable, pleasant-tasting preparation. It comforts Baby and soothes him to sleep in a jiffy. It's perfectly safe for the youngest infant. Use it freely—and as often as needed, specialists advise. A more liberal dose is all it takes to comfort and relieve older children, when feverishness, bad breath, no appetite, colds, etc., show they need a good purging. The mark of genuine Castoria is the Fletcher signature on the wrapper. Look for it to avoid imitations.

Fletcher's CASTORIA

A delicious Sunday night casserole is an escalloped dish of canned tomatoes and corn, in alternating layers, seasoned thoroughly.

INFLUENZA LEAVES THE BLOOD THIN, THE NERVES WEAK

No pestilence in years has caused more widespread suffering than the epidemic of influenza which swept over Canada in the fall and winter of 1918-19 and again this winter. The danger from this trouble is seldom over when the characteristic symptoms, the fever, headaches and the depression of spirits have passed away. Influenza leaves behind it weakened vital powers, thin blood, impaired digestion and over-sensitive nerves. Men and women who were robust before stricken with influenza find their bodies racked by pains previously unknown to them. This condition is due to an abnormal thinning of the blood and leaves the system an easy prey to other serious troubles. This is the time when the convalescent from influenza should build up the blood, with a reliable blood-making tonic such as Dr. Williams Pink Pills. Weak blood means impoverished nerves, impaired digestion, a feeling of tiredness after even slight exertion, and sometimes even more serious symptoms. When the blood regains its rich red quality the nerves recover their strength and the organs of the body function naturally. In fact building up the blood will vitalize the whole system.

WEAK AND DESPONDENT.

The experience of Mr. Andrew Marty, Bathurst, N.B., will prove of value to a host of influenza sufferers who still suffer from the effects of the disease. Mr. Marty says:—"The new life an consequently new hope brought into my life through the use of Dr. Williams Pink Pills is almost beyond my power of expression. Following a severe attack of influenza in 1918 I found myself rapidly failing in health, and was naturally much alarmed. I began to lose in weight, could not eat, did not sleep well, and in a word I was reduced to a mere shadow. I was forced to discontinue work because of my weakened condition and things had a very blue outlook. I tried a number of suggested remedies, but without benefit. And then one day Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were suggested to me. I acted on my friend's advice, began taking these pills and soon felt an improvement. Every day I seemed to grow stronger, and after four weeks' treatment I felt fully restored to my old-time health. From my own experience I feel that, if given a fair trial, there is no medicine superior to Dr. Williams Pink Pills in building up a run down system."

THE TIRED FEELING GONE.

Mrs. E. Mae Pothier, Glace Bay, N.S., is another who has found the way to new health following a severe attack of influenza. She gives her experience as follows:—"Last winter I suffered from an attack of influenza, and being somewhat anaemic when the attack came on I had a very hard time of it. For days I had a high fever and had to keep to my bed for some weeks. When I finally was able to get up I found that the trouble had left me in a thoroughly weakened and rundown condition. My eyes were dull, the color had entirely left my face, and my appetite was so poor that I hardly ate enough to keep me going. I was always craving for something different from what I had to eat, and when I got it a taste was all I wanted. My nights, even though I felt exhausted, were restless and when morning came I would rise so weak and worn out I could hardly dress and get down stairs. At this stage a friend who is in the drug business suggested that I try Dr. Williams Pink Pills. Following this advice I had not been taking the pills long when I felt an improvement, and by the time I had taken five or six boxes I felt like a new person. The old tired feeling was a thing of the past, my appetite had fully returned, and by spring I was in a strong and healthy condition. From my experience I can gratefully recommend Dr. Williams Pink Pills to those in a weak or run down condition."

AGAIN WELL AND STRONG

Further proof of the undoubted value of this family tonic is offered by Mr. Ronald J. Gillis, Margaree Harbor, N.S., who says: "I suffered from an attack of influenza last winter, and after getting over the acute stage of the disease, I experienced the usual dire after effects. I was left weak and run down, and although my appetite seemed to be all right I did not gain strength and would get all fagged out, with even very light work. As this condition persisted I began taking Dr. Williams Pink Pills, a box of which my brother had purchased for me, largely, I confess, as an experiment, as I had never used the pills before. By the time the box was gone I began to notice beneficial effects, and I continued using the pills throughout the spring, and by the first of May felt as strong and as well as ever I did in my life. The pills had brought me renewed strength and vigor, had improved my appetite, purified my blood and I am sure will prove equally beneficial to others who may be suffering from impaired or an impoverished condition of the blood."

A MEDICINE WORTH TRYING.

Dr. Williams Pink Pills are a tonic not a stimulant. They build up the blood, and not only the disastrous after effects of influenza but also troubles due to poor blood, such as anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion and the generally worn-out feeling that affects so many people, disappear. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Petes Win Their Third Straight Victory

INTERMEDIATES PLAY STEADY GAME TO DEFEAT OSHAWA 4-2; SIMCOES TALLY FIRST COUNTER

Game, Although Fast, Was Held Up By Sticky Condition of the Ice.

GOAL MINDERS GOOD.

Oshawa Displays Some Effective Combination in First and Third Periods.

The Peterborough Intermediates made it three victories in a row by defeating the Oshawa Simcoes 4 to 2 in a fast game on sticky ice at the Brock Stree Rink last night. Considering the condition of the ice, which was decidedly soft toward the end, it was a tidy, ding-dong battle from bell to bell and both goalies had a busy evening handling the shots that were heaved at them.

Oshawa proved to be a tricky, fast-skating, hard-working bunch of players and they extended the Petes to the last ounce. They started in with a burst of speed right from the outset scoring the first goal in less than five minutes of play on a nice combination effort. Burr drilling a wicked shot into the nets when he received the pass from Peterson. The Petes, playing a steady game, were bound to get results and they did before the conclusion of the first stanza when Dundas banged in the puck from a scrimmage after it had been sent sailing twice across in front of the Oshawa goal.

Petes Best.

The Petes had the best of the argument all the way through the second period, only the clever netminding of Garrison, who was badly shaken when he made a sensational stop of one of Legon's high shots, repeatedly turning them back after sweeping attacks. Howeve, Kennealey stole the puck at centre, broke fast, skirted the defence and picked the corner putting the blue and white in the lead. From then on the game was never much in doubt, Foley repeating Kennealey's solo effort, a few minutes later stretched the twine for the Petes' third goal. Oshawa pepped up at the beginning of the third period working some effective combination in spite of the soggy ice. Burr intercepted a pass at centre ice going through on top of Lebarr for Oshawa's second goal. The Petes kept the play well up the ice and Dundas, who had been drilling shots at Garrison from the right boards, keeping that gentleman on the jump, scooped the rubber past him from a scrimmage. The Motor City outfit sent up for men in their desperate attempts to garner goals, but the Petes' defence never lagged, even to the final gong both teams pushing the puck, although wearied out by the heavy going, in well-tried goaling excursions.

All Worked Hard.

The Petes all worked like Trojans although they could not show their real form on the soft ice. The whole front line broke into the scoring sheet and all took a hand in the energetic backchecking. Dundas was a continual threat on right wing and never eased off a moment going strong at the end. Legon and Lackey played a strong defensive game and offensively their atacks were always timely, both rocking the goalie with powerful shots. Jack Lebarr was called upon frequently and he handled every shot coolly and carefully, even though the Oshawa gunners were accurately aiming at the corners. Jarvis, who played with the St. John's junior team last season, playing his first intermediate game showed real promise and his shooting was especially dead on the mark. Creighton was borrowed from the juniors and he went to work every time tossed on.

The pick of the fast skating Oshawa team, and the one who caught the fan's eye was Whitton, the husky little centre man, with his tireless efforts and tricky playing. Burr at right wing was always in position for a pass and his shooting was particularly deadly. Garrison, the goalminder, made some great saves and only those from close in were able to beat him; he cleared swiftly when the Petes bored in on him too.

The teams:

Oshawa Simcoes—Goal, Garrison; defence, Walton and Peterson; centre, Whitton; left wing, Brinning; right wing, Burr; alternates, Conlin and Atkinson.

Peterborough—Goal, J. Lebarr; defence, Legon and Lackey; centre, Kennealey; left wing, Foley; right wing, Dundas; alternates, Creighton and Jarvis.

GAME POSTPONED.

The Scheduled Game Between Campbellford and Marmora Called Off On Account of Weather.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 19 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Rain that has fallen during the last two days first reduced the roads to sheets of thawing ice and later to slush. In spite of the treacherous nature of the going there have been no serious accidents. The biggest disappointment to the majority of the local citizens comes in the form of the postponed hockey match between Campbellford and Marmora in Marmora. The game was to be played last night but the open air rink in Marmora did not permit it. This is the fourth game of the schedule of the Trent Valley League to be postponed so far. There have been ten games played and there are still twenty-eight on the list, not including the four postponed.

In England one out of 200 children is said to be affected by word-blindness.

FAMOUS HOCKEY GAMES OF PETERBOROUGH TEAMS

By F.D.C.

The Peterborough Intermediates of 1914 were eliminated in the second round of the O.H.A. race that year when they were thrown in against the Orillia team.

There was no consolation in the fact that the biggest factor in that defeat was the playing of George Ross who had worn a Peterborough uniform the season before, and who in the first game of the series at Orillia scored six of the Northerners' eight goals, Orillia winning 8 to 4.

It was a spectacular battle that game in Orillia. Right off the reel Ross scored on a pass from the side in 45 seconds, and before the Petes could find the nets the former Peterborough player had beaten Janes on two more occasions, and Orillia were in front 3 to 0 at the end of less than fifteen minutes' play.

It looked like a runaway for the Northerners, but then the Petes got going. Park made it 3 to 1 on a pass from Denison. Bradshaw converted a Kelly pass into a second counter, and before half-time Kelly banged in a rebound on a shot by Denison, leaving the score tied half-way home.

It looked rosy for the Petes at that stage, but early in the second Ross went on another rampage. He worked inside for a pretty goal, and came back with another on a shot from the side. Perryman caught the contagion and dashed down the boards to drive home another goal, and Orillia were three in front. Dave Bradshaw gave the Petes some fresh hope when he scored their fourth goal, but Orillia came strong again, and before the game ended Nealon wound up a big night's work by driving home his sixth marker of the game.

"Lovie" Jupp, star of the Orillia Junior champions of the year before, and Ross were outstanding, while Grover Halpin, the Junior captain, was probably the best for the Petes.

Referee—Chad Toms, Toronto.

JUNIORS WILL MEET OSHAWA ON MONDAY

Petes Tangle With Shamrocks Here in First Encounter of Season.

The Peterborough Hockey Club's Juniors will be treated to the acid test on Monday night when they hook up with the league-leading Oshawa Shamrocks at the Brock Street Rink. It will be the first time the Petes have played the Shamrocks this season and they are planning to take a fall out of the cocky Motor City youngsters. They showed a vast improvement in their second game in Bowmanville on last Monday night over their first appearance and they have been continuing the good work by studious practices all week under the able coaching of Jimmy McMartin and Jim Coursey. Their combination was working smoothly, breaking fast three man abreast, in practise Thursday, and their gunners have got their batting eye and were whacking the rubber into the corner of the nets. It will be a smart sextette that the fans will see in action against the Shamrocks, a fast skating, hard backchecking aggregation, who are going out in earnest to win their spurs. Verne Dallin, one of the fastest forwards in the city, who was out of the last game with the "flu" will be back on Monday night to help his team.

The Petes played rings around Bowmanville with their speedy skating, astonishing the fans in the Rubbertown. Their forward line consists of Jones at centre ice, Creighton and Dallin on the wings, with two able alternates in Ellis and Bill Cripps. The defence is well looked after by the husky pair, Hatton and Calladine, who also make speedy rushes on occasion. In Jimmy Gillespie the Petes have a goalminder of great experience who is steadily improving.

Shamrocks Team of Battlers.

The Oshawa Shamrocks are a team of battlers, who go out to get goals right from the first face-off. They too are a speedy, fast-skating lot depending mostly on their speed for success. They forced the Bowmanville team into submission twice and are leading the chase in the group. In Black and Rowden they have two of the best junior players in the province and the Petes wil have to watch this pair closely.

The game promises to be one of the hardest fought arguments of the season because the Petes are out to win and Oshawa are taking no chances in dropping this game.

Both teams play the same style of dashing atacks that catches the fans' fancy with it senational wide-open play.

$100,000 GUARANTEE.

Kingston at R.M.C., and Peterborough at Oshawa, intermediate, on Friday, Jan. 25, and Lindsay at Peterborough St. John's and Peterborough at Oshawa Shamrocks in junior series.

Gananoque plans a junior game at Kingston on Saturday, Jan. 26.

'CAYGEON SCORES TWO GOAL LEAD IN OPENING STANZA OF CLOSE O. H. A. HOCKEY FIXTURE

Game Called With Score 2-2 On Account of Sticky Condition of Ice.

FEW PENALTIES.

Teams Equally Effective On Night's Play—No Spectacular Plays.

With a record of three straight wins hanging proudly from their belts, the Peterborough St. John's made a flying invasion of Bobcaygeon last night, handed the Northerners a two point lead in the first three minutes and then spent the remaining fifty-seven of the regulation hour knotting the count at 2-2. In view of heavy ice conditions both teams agreed to call it a night rather than go into overtime for they had found it wet at the start, sticky in the middle and just about as heavy as it could be at the end. Referee Bill Jackson figured it a wise decision too for he called the game, thereby making necessary a tie breaker, to be played later.

All credit to the 'Caygeon lads. They started off with a rush on ice that was already wet on the surface, and within a minute, young Lorne Nichols had pounded home the first counter of the evening, followed two minutes later by J. Wright's tally from a scramble. With such a balance on hand, they put up plenty of opposition to defend their lead, and eventually to get an even break on the night's rations.

The Petes, justly reputed fast on fast ice last night proved themselves good muckers too for though the sticky ice rendered combination hockey out of the question save occasionally, they stuck to their guns doggedly and ere the first session had passed into history, they had gained back half the ground lost on a neat and deserved goal by "Rosy" Hewett on an assist from Captain Cuthbertson.

Teams Well Matched.

Whether or not the same would hold good on fast ice (which it didn't when Bobcaygeon played in Peterborough) the rival factions were about equally effective last night, neither having any appreciable edge. Though the going was almost heart-breaking, the subbing was not more intense than in former games and Referee Bill Jackson was called upon to hand out very few penalties—three to each team. Another effect of the sticky ice was the minimising of the goalies' work for while called upon to perform smartly on occasions, neither Miller, of Peterborough, or Nicholls, of Bobcaygeon had particularly busy evenings. But despite all that, there was plenty of excitement dished out to the disappointingly small number of customers that turned out to see the Tourist town lads perform against their conquerors of a week or two ago. Stars there were none.

The teams lined up as follows:

Peterborough—Goal, Miller; defense, Frost and Howe; centre, Cuthbertson; wings, Dunkerley and Hewett; subs, Meagher and Burke.

Referee—W. Jackson of Peterborough.

Score Two Goals.

The play opened up fast with Cuthbertson leading his coterie into enemy territory on a nice rush that went astray in a corner, but back came the homesters, to dicker the rubber up to the Petes' blue line. The defenders failed to clear quickly and L. Nicholls, finding the rubber unattended, heaved it at Miller who was partly blinded by his own players. It registered just the same and two minutes later Jack Wright dribbled it through to beat Miller again. Then followed a quarter of an hour of end to end struggle with neither team getting results from inside the blue lines. There was some five-man hockey too for when Daniels had returned after serving time for dropping Hewett, Frost and Carty were unsuccessful in concealing a budding feud and both were chased. About this time Daniels, Bobcaygeon defenseman came into prominence with his solo rushes that usually ended in a wicked but long drive from the blue line but the real break came when Cuthbertson worked in on Nicholls only to lose the puck. Hewett happened along and capitalized on the unsettled state of affairs provoked by his teammate.

Petes Tie Count.

The middle stanza started out very much as had the first save that the Saints held their opposition in close quarters for several minutes. Then they in turn were forced to go into retirement, and so it went for nearly fifteen minutes with hard but clean hockey being played. It looked as if the invaders were to go on without a count this period when, within forty second of the end, Cuthbertson paved the way for Dunkerley's well-directed shot that sent both outfits off the ice evenly divided.

Remain Deadlocked.

While both factions climbed in desperately in the final stanza, both showed tendencies to slow up as the heavy going made itself more noticeable.

The puck was continually overskated, while all offensive was of the one-man, disorganized variety that proved unsuccessful. Dunkerley drew a penalty for an accidental trip while Daniels and Cuthbertson drew their second and first enforced rests respectively for taking each other too seriously at the 'Caygeon end of the rink. With the period ended and no winning goal scored, there were hurried consultation as to the advisability of overtime. The Petes were not in favor of thirty minutes extra if they could avoid it in view of the poor ice and 'Caygeon was willing to do either but preferred the latter. Had Jackson seen fit to order them to play and they had refused, it would have meant a loss for each; had they played the extra half hour without declaring a winner, it would have counted a point each, while any arrangement that would mean an extra game in Bobcaygeon represented a financial problem for the Petes. And so, with the consent of referee and both teams the fans were deprived of the extra value for their money.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, we ain't been doing too badly in hockey this week neither, what with the intermediates grabbing off a neat win in Bowmanville and the Saints winning 2 from the Lindsay Monarchs. Both of them teams has a nice start in their group race and should oughta go through. Mister Jim Coursey's Peterborough jrs. has a tougher row to hoe, but he has some smart kids there and the brakes can't always be so bad as they was in Bowmanville Mon. night when this kid, Johnny James, the B's goalie, which oughta be called Jesse, judging by the way he robbed the young Petes of scores, almost beat the visitors single-handed. Mon. nite the Coursey entry tangle with the Oshawa Shamrocks at the Brock st. ice palace and 1 of the best jr. battles of the year should be on the cards. The Oshawa kids look like the team to beat, and the Petes youngsters hafta grab off this fixture or watch their chances fold up like a concertina.

Although a coupla of our intermediate puck chasers suddenly decided to double-cross the fellow who said, "Go west, young man," and to go east instead, they is still plenty of stuff left, and it should oughta to be possible to build up a winning combination. The lads has already beat Bowmanville twice, and as the Bowmanville gang has trimmed the Oshawa Simcoes, the Petes can't hardly be kept outa the playoffs, especially as the 1st and 2nd clubs in the group clashes in the finals.

Saint Johns, too, have earned themselves a nice lead in their section of the jr. group and have a good chance to come home in front and meet the winners of the other section in the playoffs.

I see where Mister Teddy Oke is much peeved over the lack of customers for his Millionaires. Apparently the Queen City bugs don't want that brand of hockey, and they ain't going to turn out to see it no matter how nice a fellow is running the club. The fans is funny people to figger out any time. Take right here in town, Mac. They'll pack the rink for a coupla outside intermediate teams of no particular class and yet our own jr. teams, upon which we gotta depend for what hockey we'll get in future years, is not earning enough to pay their expenses in their own groups. Even at two-bits admission you can't pull in 'em, Mac, and the City League, offering 4 games in a nite and more action than the stock market offers, looks like it will starve to death.

Small as the patronage is, Mac, at some of the games they is always some of them dumb birds what thinks they is helping the home team by telling them to "lay on the wood." I heard a coupla of them at a jr. game not long ago, and they give me a pain in the neck. We don't want to educate young players to lay on the gad—they is some of 'em ready to do that any time without no encouragement—but what we gotta do is learn them birds that hockey games is won by the guys out there on the ice, not the dumbells that earn themselves penalties when they're needed the most. So long as they is nit-wits along the side lines hollering for blood it's going to be a tough job making some players realize it pays to be clean. They is more than one jr. prospect that is being ruined right now by listening to goofs up in the pews, who would be the 1st to hit for cover if they was in danger of getting in a jam.

The Tankard games was played off here this week, Mac, and once again them pesky curlers from Lindsay took home the bacon. Dicky Butler, who is running the O.H.A. this year in the spare time he has left over from curling, hit us a 9 shot wallop in the finals, and it was enough to win, even though Walter Oke and his sunkist curlers put the skids under Frank Carew. We made it close, but not close enough for the boys to get a jaunt up to Toronto, and so we ain't taking no chances this year of spoiling our consistent record of never copping the silverware in the big series.

Well, Mac, they don't seem nothing more to be said except to point out that the jr. teams hold the cards here next week with the Petes playing Oshawa Mon., as mentioned already, and Lindsay clashing with St. John's Fri. And if Peterborough really wants hockey, the fans oughta get out and give the youngsters some support.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

SUPREME ... in the field of low priced sixes

De Soto Six—the vogue in design, new in style, new in performance, the supreme new value among all the sixes under $1250 at the factory—is the most significant car of the year.

In five months' time it has won a greater popular triumph than ever before accorded to any new car. Yet its newness singles it out today as it did on the day of its introduction.

In its class, there is no match for its sparkling individuality; there is nothing to equal its obvious quality and inspiriting performance. Because it is Chrysler-built it stands at the very pinnacle of value in its price range.

New today as any car can be, thousands of owners are already enjoying the distinction and satisfaction which play so large a part in De Soto ownership.

LESLIE AMES STAR PLAYER

AMES SCORES CENTURY.

HOBART, Tasmania, Jan. 19. — (Canadian Press Cable).—The touring English cricket team to-day defeated an eleven representing Tasmania by an innings and sixty four runs. Scores were: England 223; Tasmania 66 and 93.

The match was great practise for the English bowlers, none of the Tasmanians being able to make a stand against them. All the English batsmen but Leslie Ames, the wicket keeper, made a poor showing. Ames scored his first century of the tour and carried out his bat for an even hundred runs. He scored on powerful strokes, ten of his hits going to the boundary for fours.

English scores:—

M. Leyland, run out	3
M. Tate, V. James, B. Townley	39
P. Mead, C. Geoffrey-Martin B. Wardlaw	11
W. Hammond, L.B.W. James	7

RICKARD LED AN ADVENTUROUS LIFE

The early days of the famous promotor, the late George T. (Tex) Rickard, were full of adventure, none more than his sojourn in the Yukon. Rickard journeyed over The Pas and pulled his sled across the lakes early in the spring of 1896. In crossing Lake Le Barge the ice gave way and he was precipitated into the chilly waters. He managed to pull his heavy boots off and drag himself out after having been in the water for ten minutes. He was then compelled to run two miles to camp in his stocking feet with the thermometer registering 15 degrees below zero. He arrived at Circle City on May 25 and got a claim on Deadwood Gulch. When the news of the strike in the Klondyke reached Circle City, Rickard and a friend, Jack Dodson, started over the 300-mile of frozen river to the new diggings and took 20 days to make the trip. He purchased and located a number of claims on Bonanza and Eureka creeks. He was called "Tex" because he formerly lived in Texas, and to distinguish him from a short-legged gentleman from the same state he was called "Tall Tex." He specialized in dog teams and during the coldest days in the winter he prospected outlying districts for a radius of 60 miles, living in a tent.

VIEWS ON SPORTS

The Petes defeated Oshawa Simcoes 4 to 2 in one of the cleanest games ever played at the Brock. There were only two penalties.

This Oshawa Simcoe crew will be a hard team to beat when they hit their stride, being a hard skating crew and most persistent in their efforts to get goals. Whitten, their little centre player, was the best man on the team.

* * * * * *

The Petes took their time, let Oshawa bring the play to them and then made a rush as soon as an opening occurred. In this way they played a steady game and were always getting close in on their attacks.

* * * * * * *

The Petes by their victory last night, making three wins in three starts, are bound to get into the group play-offs and are headed in a fair way for the group championship. The Port Hope Ontarios will likely prove their hardest nut to crack.

* * * * * * *

After Bobcaygeon had taken a lead of two goals in the first three minutes of play the St. John's team had their work out out to even up on the heavy going caused by the soft ice. However they did it.

* * * * * * *

St. John's with half the schedule over and having played two games with each of the two other teams have a big margin on entering the home stretch. They have won three and tied one.

* * * * * * *

The Millbrook lads have been out practising hockey and believe they have a pretty smart team because a letter was received in this office yesterday challenging any Junior City League team to a game. The letter was from Charlie Garsick, box 24, Millbrook and states that the Independent Hockey Team of Millbrook will take on any junior team in the city composed of players under eighteen years of age.

* * * * * * *

The St. John's hockey team will play an exhibition tilt with the Grove School on the Lakefield rink, Wednesday evening, January 23. The Grove always turns out real hockey players, many of their graduates playing on O.H.A. teams throughout the province and this should help to keeep the St. John's in trim.

* * * * * * *

Teddy Oke, the Toronto millionaire who has been the "sugar daddy" on sport in the Queen city for the past two years, is fed up with the poor support the fans have been giving his "Millionaires" in the Canpro loop and is forthwith transferring them to new fields. Stratford has been selected as the city which will be given the opportunity of seeing Oke's pets at play.

* * * * * * *

The fans are getting a chance of seeing good hockey in the City League and they should support the game and the youngsters by their presence.

* * * * * * *

It was a goodly crowd of real died-in-the-wool fans that braved the rain and paddled into the Brock last night to see the Intermediate game. Believe me the players appreciated them and were warm in their praise in the dressing room.

* * * * * * *

Oshawa Simcoes proved themselves to be not only clean players but they even brought etiquette into their gentlemanly behaviour, begging the Petes' pardons on several occasions when they inadvertantly bumped over a blue and white player. These little things help the game.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

FANNY'S FIRST PLAY AND THE DARK LADY OF THE SONNETS

To-day is the only opportunity that theatregoers in Peterborough will have of seeing Maurice Colbourne's All-English Company in plays by George Bernard Shaw.

"The Dark Lady of the Sonnets" and "Fanny's First Play" will provide excellent entertainment at both matinee and evening performances.

In the Dark Lady the role of William Shakespeare will be played by Maurice Colbourne himself, one of the finest Shakespearean actors of the day. It is a short play but full of romance, the setting being at the Court of Queen Elizabeth and is as witty as only Shaw can be. Mr. Colbourne is ably supported by Miss Constance Pelissier who has established herself such a favourite with Canadian audiences, will play Queen Elizabeth.

"Fanny's First Play" is one of the gayest and most amusing of Bernard Shaw's comedies. The plot is centered in the escapades of the younger generation of the two highly respectable families, each priding themselves that such things would never happen in their families—but the pride of each in turn has a fall, and it must be left in the more than capable hands of Mr. Colbourne's Company to show how Mr. Shaw dealt with the various entertaining situations. Miss Phillis Coglan will play "Darling Dora." She has not appeared in either of the other plays and is a treat in store for all who will make her acquaintance Mr. Colbourne will play Juggins a mystery footman who has learnt much of the philosophy of life. Mr. Barry Jones as Bobby Gilbey scores a great success. The rest of the company will delight all as they have during the early part of the week.

AT THE CAPITOL.

Lewis Stone, veteran stage and screen star, began a long-term contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with a prominent role in "A Woman of Affairs," co-starring John Gilbert and Greta Garbo, which will open at the Capitol Theatre on Monday.

In this film, from a dramatic love story by Michael Arlen, Stone has the part of a mutual friend who harbors a secret but fervent love for the sweetheart of his chum. Stone, whose most recent roles were in "The Patriot" and in "The Private Life of Helen of Troy", will be with the M-G-M organization for some years.

RAILROADER DIES.

J. E. Dalrymple, Formerly Vice-President in Charge of Traffic of C.N.R.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 19 (Canadian Press).—J. E. Dalrymple, formerly vice-president in charge of traffic of the Canadian National Railways, died here last night. He was 60 years old and retired from the railway service December 31, 1926.

Mr. Dalrymple had been ill four week with influenza, which developed into pneumonia. The deceased was well-known in this district.

Canada stands among first six nations of world as an exporting and importing country.

the lovely member of Maurice Colbourne's All English Company, who scored such a success in the roles of Mrs. Clandon in "Candida" and Miss Pressy in "You Never Can Tell." She will be seen at the Grand Theatre today as Queen Elizabeth in "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets" and as Mrs. Gilbey in "Fanny's First Play."

ARMY OF RECRUITS FOR CLUB MANAGERS

Boston Will Have Largest Crop of New Talent in National League.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (By Brian Bell. Associated Press Sports Writer).—At least one hundred ambitious young baseball players will drop in on baseball training camps of the eight National League clubs next spring trying to break into major league box scores. A score of men who have had trials before under the Big Top will be on hand for another chance and a few stars in the senior loop will be on familiar ground wearing strange uniforms.

The Boston Braves, with a chance of make nineteen changes in their personnel, will have the largest crop of new talent. Some critics of the Braves' baseball behaviour last season may be unkind enough to say they need it. In addition to the hard-hitting Hornsby, who moved by the trade route, the Chicago Cubs have combed the highways and hedges of the minors for untried players and recalled a number who have been found wanting at least temporarily in other years. Hornsby of course comes from the Braves. Fred Maguire, Percy Jones, Louis Seggett and Harry Seibold are transferred to Boston. Pittsburg gave Glen Wright to Brooklyn for Jess Petty and Harry Riconda. Tommy Thevenow will take Heinie Sands' place at shortstop for the Phillies.

The St. Louis Cardinals will attach fewer players to the club than any other major league outfit, but unless plans miscarry two of the infielders brought on from Cardinal farms, Shortstop Gelbert and Second Baseman Selph will find steady jobs awaiting them. Two other new Redbirds were recalled. Mancuso, a catcher, comes from Minneapolis, and Herman Bell, right-handed pitcher, from Rochester. Elliott from Waco and Hallahan from Houston, are other pitchers.

In addition to the four former cubs and Catcher Pat Collins from the Yanks, the Braves will be privileged to inspect the wares of many up and coming youngsters. R. B. James, a second baseman, batted .323, stole 30 bases and hit 16 home runs for Omaha last season. C. Fitzberger, a first sacker, was recalled from York, and E. B. Clark is on his way back from Providence with an impressive batting mark of .373.

Clarence Mueller, with Toledo, gets another chance as does A. J. Moore, from Buffalo; G. V. Leverett, a pitcher, from Indianapolis, and G. A. Perry, pitcher, from Wichita. R. W. Wertz was recalled from Buffalo and C. Touchstone was purchased from Providence.

The Phillies have high hopes of Thevenow and some of the promising players developed last year striking a winning combination. H. H. Peel, from Houston, has a good chance to take an outfield post. E. W. Caldwell, a pitcher, was purchased from Waco. Among the recalled pitchers are Lecatur, Rochester; Green, Williamsport; Milligan, Syracuse; and Baecht, Rochester. P. Collins, pitcher, was drafted from New Orleans.

Charley Tolson, the big first baseman, will be back with the Cubs after batting .351 in 150 games for Los Angeles. Blair, a second baseman, advances from Little Rock, and Tom Angley, a hard-hitting catcher, will be up from Atlanta. Murphy, another catcher, was purchased from Fort Worth. New outfielders include Kern, Williamsport; Moore, Reading, and Taylor, Memphis.

New Chicago pitchers are D. L. Cunningham, Los Angeles; Mike Cvengros, recalled from Wichita Falls; C. Day, Omaha; R. E. Hansen, Elmira; J. V. Welch, Reading; E. Holley, Louisville, Berly Horne, Jersey City.

Pittsburgh, long without a capable left-hander, now has two, Petty and Lawrence French, the latter purchased from Portland, in the Pacific Coast League. Half a dozen other pitchers have been added by recall or purchase, including L. J. Bartholomew, Dallas; L. Chagnon, Lynn; R. Erickson, Boise; L. Mahaffey, Columbia; G. Spencer, and E. S. Tutwiler, Savannah.

W. B. Windle, first baseman, comes from Columbia; C. Jones, shortstop, from Brideport, and Claude Linton and J. F. O'Connell, catchers, from Decatur and Canton. Outfielder Carl Frey from Wichita and L. A. Martin, another fly-chaser from Witchita Falls, will be given a trial.

J. M. Stroner, a third baseman, purchased from Wichita, batted .367 and stole 11 bases.

The Giants have a wide variety from which to choose replacements. H. M. Thomas, second baseman, will be back from Buffalo and R. B. Jordon, third sacker, was recalled from Toledo. Marshall, shortstop, was bought from Beuamont, and C. P. Fullis, outfielder, recalled from Toledo. Tony Kaufmann, former pitcher now an outfielder, was drafted from Rochester. Two other hard-hitting outfielders are Price of Birmingham and Beltman of Springfield, and C. R. Crawford, all-around infielder, comes back from Toledo. The pitching recruits include: Boney, Waterbury; Kelly, Memphis; Levy, Hart, Ford, Ogden, Buffalo; Pyle, Chattanooga; Walker, Toledo.

Cincinnati's new material includes V. Shiell, first baseman, from McCook of the Nebraska State League; Bill Lutzke, third baseman, from Newark; L. M. Dixon, catcher, from Baltimore; McMullen, catcher, from Minneapolis; Jack White, shortstop, and Christensen, outfielder, from Columbus; Shane, outfielder, from Chattanoogo, and Pitchers Ash, Columbus; Gudsi, Dayton; Johnson, Rock Island; Meeker, Columbus; Pyle, McCook; Smith, North Platte; Wykoff, Columbus.

Brooklyn reached out to Atlanta for Third Baseman Gilbert; Outfielder West, and Second Baseman Rhiel. The Robins recalled Shortstop Bader, Catcher Lopez, and Outfielders Lee and Tremper from Macon, where all were .300 hitters. Frederick, outfielder, was bought from Memphis; Neitzke, an outfielder, recalled from Pueblo, and Rosenfeld, outfielder, bought from Birmingham.

N. W. Ballou, former American League pitcher, was drafted from Milwaukee; W. W. Moore, was purchased from Macon, and C. E. Dudley from Atlanta.

Greenleaf Favored To Win Tournament

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—Ralph Greenleaf of New York, now enjoying a substantial lead, has every prospect of winning his 1,500 point pocket billiard match with Charles Seaback, former resident of Montreal who claims the Canadian championship through victory in a tournament held in Montreal in 1912. The match will end tonight. Seaback goes into the afternoon block with a score of 1,024 against 1,262 held by his opponent. Seaback led in yesterday afternoon's play with a score of 141 to 134 but Greenleaf came back at night and rolled up 128 against his opponent's 39.

POISON BOTTLE FOUND

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—Placing an armful of lillies at the head of her husband's grave in Inglewood Park Cemetery, Mrs. Anginette Link 43 years old, kept her last tryst with her former mate and after an all-night vigil ended her life by taking poison shortly before dawn the other day.

An unloaded revolver in the woman's handbag, a partly emptied bottle of deadly poison and a brief farewell note told a story of loneliness and despair since the death of her husband, Robert Link, five years ago.

Sees Only Sorrow.

"I have missed my husband and mate so long," Mrs. Link wrote in a note that she left in her room "There is no use to go on without him. At this time of the year people should be happy, but there is only sorrow for me."

The despondent woman, according to Deputy Sheriffs Croushorn and Brewster, evidently went to the cemetery at about 10 p.m the other night. This information was obtained from a cab driver who told of having driven a woman with an armful of lillies to the burial grounds at that hour where she dismissed him.

Mrs. Link, her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Whalen, listened to the radio a short time following dinner at Mrs. Link's home, 2019 Claudina Street. Whalen said He and his wife retired early and left Mrs. Link alone. She appeared cheerful during the evening, but Whalen said he and his wife knew she had been despondent for many years ove rthe death of her husband, who died of acute indegstion at the home where Mrs. Link resided.

The next morning relatives found Mrs. Link's room vacant and instituted a search for her. When all other clews had failed they remembered Mrs. Link's devotion to her late husband and frequent visits to his grave.

In the cemetery the woman's body was found on the ground beside her husband's grave. The freshly cut lillies were placed at the head of his grave while her arms were entwined around them in a last gesture of affection. The half-empty bottle of poison lay at her side."

A note found in Mrs. Link's handbag said: "I do this wtih my own hand because I am so tired I must have rest."

To Rest By Husband.

It also requested that her sister, Mrs. Etta Whalen, be notified and that the undertaking firm of Cunningham & O'Connor be notified.

Mrs. Whalen had been visiting her sister here for several weeks after she learned that Mrs. Link had been growing more despondent over the death of her husband. Mr. Whalen came here from the Whalen home in Williams, Minn.

Although no time had been set for funeral services, Whalen said interment will be beside her husband in the same plot where her body was found.

Mrs. Link was born in Grinnell, Ia., but spent most of her life in Minnesota. Her husband was a railroad man, and his death occurred shortly after the couple had built the Claudina street home.

THREE KILLED BY COAL GAS.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 1 .—(Canadian Press.)—Louis Blake, 60, and wife, and their daughter were killed yesterday by coal gas and 15 other persons were overcome in a 25-family apartment house in Brooklyn.

Milkmen on their rounds in the early morning discovered the presence of gas rising from the furnace room of the building.

PIONEER SPIRIT IS URGED BY MERCHANT

Gordon Selfridge Offers Help to Miners Who Will "Blaze a Trail."

LONDON, Jan. 19 (By the Canadian Press)—The spirit of Henty, of Ballantyne, of Fenimore Cooper, and the covered waggon trail, has moved Gordon Selfridge Sr., to make an offer of help for the unemployed miners. Mr. Selfridge has offered to help those who are willing to help themselves, who are prepared to go out and blaze a trail as pioneers. He has been down into South Wales preaching his gospel of adventure.

"If someone will act as a leader of 50 or 100 men," said Mr. Selfridge at a meeting at the Miners' Hall at Merthyr, "and if they will plan something together, help would be available for them. I will help them myself. Is it necessary for you and I to remain in the territory where we were born?"

"I do not mean to 'send' them out abroad," Mr. Selfridge said later. "That is not the spirit of the thing. If people are sent out under somebody else's scheme they are critical, and possibly discontented. Let them go out and make their way and they will be self-dependent, as pioneers ought to be. Pioneers take whatever offers and make the best of it.

"They go out and break virgin soil and carve farms out of the wilderness. They are willing, if need be, to work as farm hands. That is the proper spirit—ready for anything. If I could find a band of men, of courage, making life an adventure, I would make it possible for them. It is not for me to suggest what they should do."

MAKES RECORD.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jau. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—The liner Mauretania has again broken the speed record from New York to Plymouth, the New York office of the Cunard Line was informed that the ship, reaching Plymouth yesterday, had made the trip in four days, nineteen hour sand fifty-five minues, breaking her former record by two hours and two minutes.

According to law civilians not only may, but must arrest anyone whom they see committing a felony. The arrested person must be handed over to a policeman at the first opportunity.

ASPIRIN

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If the name Bayer appears, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Aspirin—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assure the public against imitation, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trademark.

NINE DEATHS IN TORNADO

More Than 30 Reported Injured in Middle Western States.

SCHOOL COLLAPSES.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 19. — (Canadian Press).—Nine deaths and injuries to about 30 persons, mostly children, was the known toll last night of a tornado which swept through four middle western states Ohio and Wabash River valleys, the twister struck first 20 miles south of Cape Girardeau, Mo., where two children were killed. At Mannie, Ill., where a school building collapsed two children and a woman were killed and about 25 school children injured. Three persons were reported drowned along the Ohio River and as the storm turned north, a woman was killed and her two grand-children injured at Foot Branch, Ind.

The storm was reported centred about Cleveland and the Lake Erie district last night, with indications that it would pass on up the St. Lawrence Valley.

Alberta Organization Is Pointed To As a Model For Ontario To Follow.

SHOULD ASSERT INFLUENCE.

GEORGETOWN, Ont., Jan. 19. — (Canadian Press).—Miss Agnes MacPhail, M.P., and A. G. Morzer-Bruyns, Georgetown, addressed a meeting of Farmers' Clubs of the district here last night.

Miss MacPhail highly lauded the United Farmers' Organization of Alberta and pointed to it as a model for the Ontario farmers to follow. The organized farmers of Canada should be in such a position that they might assert an influence in the legislative bodies of the Dominion, she maintained.

Mr. Morzer-Bruyns claimed that immigration propaganda was a distress signal and maintained that migration itself must flow of its own accord without persuasion in order to be successful.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

At the annual business and devotional meeting of the Teen Age Group of St. John's W.A., held on Tuesday evening, the following officers were elected for the coming year:—Dorothy Paterson, president; Sadie Miles, vice president; Dorothy Pitchford, secretary; Gladys Sage, treasurer; Sylvia Vollans, E.C.D. secretary-treasurer, and Gladys Dafoe, refreshment convenor.

A very interesting talk on Northern Ontario was given to the members by Miss Lottie Drope of the Red Cross Emergency Hospital at Quibell.

GOITRE NOT A DISEASE.

Milwaukee Doctor Makes Remarkable Discovery.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—It has been brought to light by scientific research that goitre is not a disease and is not to be treated as such. Dr. A. A. Rock, Dept. 797, Box 737, Milwaukee, Wis., a prominent goitre specialist for over 24 years, has perfected a different method of treatment for his patients that has proved remarkably successful. This same method is now being used for a home treatment of goitre cases all over the country with astonishing results. The Doctor states that goitre is a condition which grows worse with neglect and recommends immediate attention no matter how small the growth may appear. He strongly opposes needless operations Dr. Rock is the author of a book that tells in a simple way about treating goitre at home. He has published this book at his own expense and will send a copy free to anyone interested. Write him today.—Adv.

How SUN LIFE Policy Holders share SUN LIFE PROSPERITY

IN 1926, Agent Roberts of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada assured his friend Bates for $10,000.

He told Bates that in 1924, a man of his age had taken out a similar policy; that this man had already received two dividends; and that the second, received in 1926, amounted to $73.80. Bates felt that an equal dividend accruing to him in 1928 would be highly satisfactory.

Roberts delivered a cheque for Bates' second annual dividend the other day. Instead of $73.80, it was $91.00. The expectations of two years ago had been exceeded by 23 per cent.

Sun Life prosperity is being shared with its policyholders in the form of dividends much in excess of those anticipated when the assurance was taken.

To-day, on the threshold of a New Year is an opportune time in which to get details of these exceptional advantages, from the Company's representative in your district.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR

God's word is—"thou shalt surely die," Gen. 2:17.

Satan's lie is—"ye shall not surely die," Gen. 3:4.

Many men and women in Christendom accept Satan's lie, and even make a stronger denial than Satan, for they say man has an immortal "soul" that "cannot" die, making themselves, in this particular more guilty than Satan himself.

These untruths are proclaimed from pulpit and desk, and hymn books are saturated with the same untruthful statements.

Some may imagine God is trying to stop Satan and his willing agents in their nefarious work—but not so. God has all power, and never tries to do anything. God permits for a purpose. In the glad day of judgment, Satan and his agents will be restricted, and all the living and the resurrected dead will be tried. Then whosoever will may partake of eternal life and escape the second death, from which there is no resurrection.

OBITUARY

JAMES ROBINSON.

The funeral of James Robinson, one of the oldest residents in the district, took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from Belleghem's Undertaking Parlors to Hillside Cemetery, Lakefield. Many friends attended the service and there was a profusion of floral tributes showing the place he held in the hearts of many.

Rev. J. D. Paterson conducted the service and he spoke in very impressive terms of the fine old man, who had not only lived his fruitful years of the three score years and ten but almost four score years and ten, being in his 89th year. He was one of the pioneers of the district conducting his farm near Gilchrist Bay for more than half a century and also guiding on the lakes.

Rev. A. W. Mackenzie of Grove School conducted the service at the grave side.

BENJAMIN EDWARD WINDSOR

The death occurred, last evening, of Benjamin Edward Windsor, aged 87, at his late residence, 376 1-2 Water Street, after a long illness. Mr. Windsor was born at Plantagent, near Ottawa and moved to this district while yet a young man, being one of the first settlers in Apsley. He has lived for the past fifteen years in this city. He was a staunch supporter of the Loyal Orange Order being an active member all his life.

He leaves to mourn his loss beside his sorrowing wife, seven sons: Simon of Apsley, Abner of Lakefield, James of Ottawa, Archibald of this city, Reginald of Fenelon Falls, Howard and Darcy of this city and five daughters, Mrs. C. Robinson and Mrs. William Wigg of this city, Mrs. Fred Young of Apsley, Pearl of Beamsville and Mrs. W. Fife of Indian River, and also thirty-nine grand-children and fourteen great grand-children.

The funeral service will be held at his late residence on Monday morning at 9 o'clock with Rev. D. Paterson officiating. Interment will be in the Apsley cemetery.

HOME RULE IS ENDORSED

industrial areas remain overshadowed by distress in the coal fields. The latest reports from the distressed areas indicate an easing off in the situaton so far as absolute want is concerned. Local committees are reported busily at work distributing immediate help. But the great problem of the coal industry still calls for solution. A report from the Ministry of Mines shows that for the quarter commencing last September there was a loss of nearly 34 cents a ton over the whole output. The number of workers employed in the mines fell from 1,079,000 to 859,000 in the same period. And the extent to which the miners are being forced in certain cases to work short shifts is reflected in the earnings of those at work now average only about $9.16 a week.

At the same time, figures submitted to the League of Nations Economic Committe at Geneva show that while coal production dropped in Britain since the war, in all other coal producing countries of Europe production has increased. For this, a variety of explanations is advanced. Some attribute the condition to payment by Germany of Reparations to Italy in coal owing to the adoption of oil fuel, too rapid resumption of the gold basis curtailed British exports generally, including coal. Again there is the charge that the mines post-war strikes resulted in transfer of foreign orders to the continental mine-fields, and that the latter have since largely retained this business.

Omissions inadvertently made from the list of Christmas donations to St. Vincent's Orphanage were those of J. F. McCarthy, who gave a bag of flour and Messrs. Maher and Wesley, donors of four large boxes of candy.

Story of Jean Val Jean

IN ST. JAMES' UNITED CHURCH — MONDAY EVENING AT 8

Mr. G. A. Warburton, for years General Secretary of Central Y.M.C.A., in Toronto and New York City, writes:

"No lecture that I have ever heard is more likely to be warmly received than Dr. Cleaver's marvellous story of Jean Val Jean. I have heard it several times, and if it were given to-night I would go to hear it again. It ranks with such lectures as "Acres of Diamonds" by Russell Conwell, and in addition to being exceedingly graphic and full of interest, has enormous educational value in making clear and vivid one of the greatest if not the greatest work of fiction that human genius has produced. I regard this lecture as one of the best and most useful that I have ever heard."

Dr. J. Wardle Stafford, ex-president of the British Wesleyan Conference, and for several years preacher in the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, writes:

"I want once again to hear Dr. Cleaver's great lecture 'Jean Val Jean,' the greatest picture utterance on the lecture platform to-day —on either side of the Atlantic."

Dr. Cleaver has given this story some seventy times in Toronto, repeating it as many as four and five times by request in our largest churches."

"ALL CITY MILK SHOULD BE PASTEURIZED"

(By Prof. E. V. McCollum of John Hopkins University)

ALL MILK should be pasteurized because when it is derived from several herds as is all city milk, there is every likelihood that some of the cows will be infected with tuberculosis and that their milk will contain living germs of the disease.

It is hardly possible to prevent a worker in a dairy from occasionally infecting milk. He may not feel that he is sick enough to make it necessary to quit work. It is a hardship on the other workers if he does quit and go to bed, for they must then do his work as well as their own.

It may be only after one or more days of slight illness that it becomes certain that the infection from which he is suffering is serious. By this time the milk which has been delivered at a large number of homes has been handled by him and perhaps infected. By pasteurization of all milk such possibilities of epidemics can be easily avoided.

AERIAL ARTIST PASSES AWAY IN PORT HOPE

Signor Gilarma A Farini, Sensational Tight Rope Walker, Is Dead.

WALKED OVER NIAGARA.

Daring Reached Its Zenith Just After Close of American Civil War.

PORT HOPE, Ont., Jan. 21.—(Special to Examiner).—Losing out in his last great dance with death, "Farini The Great" was laid to rest in his 91st year following a solemnly impressive funeral service in Anglican church here Saturday.

Signor Gilarma A. Farini, the name bestowed upon him for professional purposes by a special act of the British Parliament won international fame as an aerial artist and in his specialty, tight rope walking, through his sensational walk on a tight rope across Niagara Falls in 1864. Later he walked over the churning waters of the Chaudiere Falls at Ottawa and with a young teammate he picked up in Boston and trained, toured England, Europe, Russia, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and practically all the world.

He was born in 1838 at Lockport, N.Y., William Leonard Hunt. His stage career started early, rapidly rising to fame as an aerialist and equilibrist.

Reaches Zenith

His daring on the tight rope reached its zenth just after the close of the American Civil War when he crossed the gorge at the Falls on a tight rope carrying with him his partner, a Miss Hacker, (aunt of Controller Albert Hacker) of Toronto. All went well with the daring Farini until just as he was about to step off the rope to shore when raising his hands in a a salute to the thousands of cheering spectators who lined the shore caused his partner, Miss Hacker to lose her balance. She slipped and as she started to fall Farini grabbed her

King Wants Back His Crown

Former King of Afghanistan Organizes Troops in Province of Kandahar.

THREE KINGS IN WEEK.

Rebel Chieftain Is Consolidating His Position in Capital of Province.

PESHAWAR, India, Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—The Province of Kandahar in Afghanistan is supporting ex-King Amanullah and the Shinwari tribes which were recently pacified by Amanullah's Governor at Jalalabad, will move against Kabul, according to authoritative information received here to-day. The fate of the throne, which changed hands three times last week, appears to be in the hands of the Ghilzais. This is the most numerous and strongest tribe in Afghanistan.

Reports of Amanullah's intention to try to regain the throne from which he was forced by rebellions against his westernization program have been current ever since it became apparent that his older brother and successor, Inayatullah, could not hold out against the Northern raiders under Bachao Sakao, the "water boy."

Proclaimed King.

A report from New Delhi to-day said that the Northern chieftain, who proclaimed himself King under the name of Habibullah Khan, was trying to form a ministry in the Palace at Kabul.

Kandahar is in the south-east section of the Kingdom.

Jalalabad, where the Shinwaris were pacified, is directly east of Kabul and the territory of the Ghilzais is along the eastern section of Afghanistan, between those other two centres. Tradition has it that the Ghilzais entered Afghanistan in the tenth century and that they are of Turkish origin. They are divided into clans and have developed into leaders in both military and commer-

AUNT QUESTIONED.

Medical Expert Convinced Dead Woman Poisoned By Some Vegetable Poison.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 19 (Canadian Press).—A coroner's jury under Coroner Lorenzo Prince Saturday held George Schnabel criminally responsible for the death of his wife, Mrs. Florence Schnabel, who disappeared from home on September 2 and was found later lying dead in a disused canal near Cornwall, Ont. The members of the jury did not retire to consider their verdict, but rendered it on the spot as soon as Coroner Prince concluded his summing up.

Traces of morphine were found in the viscera of Mrs. Florence Schnabel, Dr. Wilfred Derome, Provincial medical expert, reported to Coroner Prince at the inquest yesterday. Dr. Detrome said that the body showed no signs of violence or drowning. Though it could not be absolutely denied that signs of the latter could have been present and have disappeared through putrefaction.

Mrs. Florence Schnabel disappeared from her home here in September and a body, buried as that of an unknown woman after being found in a disued canal in Cornwall was identified as that of the missing woman and brought here for an autopsy.

George Schnabel, husband of the dead woman, dropped out of sight here in December, and no trace of him has since been found.

Police Stationed Around Building.

When the inquest opened at the morgue before Coroner Prince yesterday morning it was found necessary to station a squad of police around the building and in the court room, on account of the large crowd of people present.

Dr. Derome's report said that Mrs. Schnabel was enceinte a few weeks. He added that although the body was decomposed there were sufficient characteristics to permit perfect identification. The organs showed no modifications resulting from sickness which could have caused death. The body, Dr. Derome reported, had been partially embalmed. In the organs he found no trace of metallic poisons such as mercury, arsenic, etc., but they showed the presence of an alkaloid poison, which reacted under tests for morphine.

"My impression is that if the poison is not morphine, it is one of the near neighbours of morphine. But I am prevented from giving a positive statement, because all the re-actions we get do not agree with that substance. But my conviction is that Mrs. Schnabel was poisoned by some vegetable poison of such a nature that its indications would disappear as the body underwent decomposition," said Dr. Derome.

Body Identified.

The court then turned to the identification of the body. After testimony the jury declared itself convinced that identity had been established.

Mrs. Mort, of Hamilton, Ont., testified that her neice, Mrs. Schnabel was quiet and home loving. Her family life with her husband had appeared happy until a year ago when Mrs. Schnabel had told witness that she had had trouble with her husband and that the latter was going out with a young woman employed at the plant where he worked.

Roy G. Crooker secretary-treasurer of the Ruberoid Roofing Company, found in the body many facial features that resembled Mrs. Schnabel, he said.

Melville C. Cookes an Oxford Avenue neighbor of the Schnabel family identified the dress taken from the corpse as the one Mrs. Schnabel was wearing when he last saw her.

Mrs. P. W. Pugh, of 181 Burris St, Hamilton, Ont., who stated she was an intimate friend of Mrs. schnabel, was positive it was Mrs. Schnabel's body. She had particularly noticed the hairs on the chin, the pointed chin, the high forehead, and high cheek bones.

George Walter Schnabel, fifteen-year-old son of the couple, stated that the last time he saw his mother alive was about 6 o'clock on September 2. He identified the dress taken from the body as that worn by his mother the last time he saw her.

Mrs. Emily Mark, 965 Dunsmere Road, Hamilton, Ont., Aunt of Mrs. Schnabel, also positivcly identified the body, and recognized the dress as one Mrs. Schnabel had bought in Rochester, N. Y.

George Allan, of Hazelton, Pa., said the body was that of his sister, Mrs. Schnabel.

The coroner's jury expressed themselves as convinced the identity of the woman had been established.

London Night Club Queen's Plea For Separate Trial Refused By Court

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 21.—(Associated Press).—Mrs. Kate Meyrick, mother-in-law of two peers and night club proprietor, was moved to tears to-day in court when she failed to gain a separate trial on a conspiracy charge which involved her with a police sergeant and a restaurant manager. Many fashionably dressed women were in the crowded courtroom.

Mrs. Meyrick is accused with Luigi Aobille Rebuffi, a restaurant manager, of bribing George Goddard, a police sergeant. They are also charged with conspiracy to violate the licensing act by selling liquor in an illegal manner.

Mrs. Meyrick is further charged singly with selling liquor without a license, an offense for which she has already served two terms in prison.

Goddard is accused of accepting bribes.

CONFERENCE TO DISCUSS WAYS OF PREVENTING INTERFERENCE DECLARES JUDGE E. E. SYKES

Radio Members From Two Countries Gather in Ottawa For Discussion.

PRIORITY TO CHANNELS.

Plans Being Made For Several Stations To Use Same Wave Length.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 21 (By Canadian Press).—An agreement to prevent interference rather than a definite division of channels between the two countries would be sought by United States delegates to the Radio Conference on intermediate bands which opens this afternoon.

"The whole 639 channels in this band will be open for discussion," Judge E. C. Sykes, chairman of the United States delegation stated this morning. "We feel that there should be an agreement which will prevent interference in the air where it is liable to occur.

Members of the delegation explained that of 639 channels all but 235 were set aside by International agreement for amateurs for ship to shore communication and for other services. Among the 245 there would also be a large number suitable for common use among various countries on the continent. There were certain cases where serious interference in the air might occur. It would be necessary therefore to give certain channels a priority.

Rapid development in the technical side of broadcasting indicated that within ten years it would be possible for several stations to transmit on the wave length without intereference. Accordingly it was not wise to lay down any sharp divisions of channels between Canada and United States. The agreement should be on broad lines and should merely aim at preventing a clash in signals.

April First Chicks Lay Two Very Large Eggs

Two eggs were brought into The Examiner office on Friday of a most unusual size, one measured seven and a half inches by six inches and the other seven and three-eighths by six and an eighth. Both eggs were laid by white leghorn hens hatched April 1st, 1928. The proud owner of the large white eggs was Mrs. Israe Lowes of Mount Pleasant.

C.N.R. WORKMEN ARE COMMENDED

A. E. Warren General Manager, Pays Tribute To Men of Belleville Division.

TRAFFIC IS NORMAL.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—The following statement with respect to interruption of Canadian National Railways train service as the result of floods was issued last night by A. E. Warren, general manager, central region:

"Following hours of intensive effort by officials and men of the Belleville division, damage brought about by the flood conditions following two days of unprecedented heavy rain for this time of year, has practically been repaired.

"Normal traffic conditions are reported on the Lakefield and three other sub-divisions affected and train service has been restored between Port Hope and Campbellford. Work is still under way on the Deseronto sub-division, but latest reports indicate that this will be completed during this afternoon. This is the only sub-division at present affected by the recent floods.

"Such track damage as was done on the Balla sub-division of the Capreol division by the overflowing of the Don River has also been repaired and normal traffic conditions restored.

"I would like to take this opportunity on behalf of the company to give due recognition to the splendid spirit and loyalty shown by the men of the Belleville and Capreol divisions in their efforts to repair the roadbed. Faced by numerous obstacles, they unhesitatingly and carefully labored day and night, and to them must go the credit of the remarkably fine showing made in the re-establishment of traffic upon the lines affected."

SERVICE CLUBS MAKE PROBLEM CASES EASIER

Judge Mott Declares Organizations Came Along Just When Most Needed.

SPEAKS TO-NIGHT.

Juvenile Court Judge Will Address Meeting in Collegiate Hall.

That the case of the problem-boy was much easier to handle nowadays because of the different atmosphere created by the advent of the service clubs was the tribute paid to such organizations as Rotary and Kiwanis by Judge Mott of the Juvenile Court Toronto, in addressing the Peterborough Rotary Club and an unusually large number of guests to-day. Judge Mott, who is to speak on boys' work at a public meeting under the auspices of Rotary in the Collegiate Auditorium to-night, delivered a most eloquent and inspirational address.

President W. R. Morris was in the chair and the guests from out of town included, Rotarian George Hambley, Rotarian Frank Oldfield, and Rev. W. Harold Young, of Toronto.

Rotarian George Hambley, president of the Toronto Central Y.M.C.A., and a member of the Toronto Rotary Club's special committee to assist in the Bowmanville Boys' Farm project, made a plea for support for the gymnasium which the Rotary Clubs of the province are to present to the Bowmanville institution. Praising the work that was being accomplished there Rotarian Hambley urged the Peterborough Club to increase its grant for this purpose to at least $1,000.

Judge Mott was breezily introduced by Rotarian R. F. Downey, who had been a fellow-student of his at the Ontario Normal School at Hamliton.

The speaker began by contrasting modern conditions in society with those existing a decade or two ago. In his boyhood society was divided more or less into well defined strata, each of which had its own conventions and code of ethics to live up to. To-day these strata had been pretty well broken down and the old conventions had no longer their old force. When he was a boy the question, "What will the neighbors say?" played a big part in directing the conduct of the youth. To-day in some communities at least what the neighbors had to say didn't count for very much. The old sayings had lost their meaning. Tell a modern youth "Honesty is the best policy," and he would immediately begin to analyze the phrase. "Honesty is not a policy," he would say, "and if you call it a policy it is not honest."

Boys could no longer be controlled by the old methods, the speaker declared, and most parents felt that they were losing their grip. For this they should be censured; it did no good to hold them up to ridicule. What was needed was something that would help them to deal with a new situation created by new forces and conditions in life.

As proof of these changing conditions Judge Mott pointed out the development in transportation. Men who as boys were satisfied with going ten miles an hour were nowadays not content with 40 miles an hour and were already using the aeroplane with its 100 miles an hour. This change in transportation had its reaction upon the mind.

Years ago a man absorbed the contents of a book in 7 or 8 days; today a child goes to the movies and gets the same story in more vivid form in thirty minutes. That was bound to have its effect. The weekly press, too, no longer satisfied, people must have their evening paper to-night and their morning paper tomorrow morning. In many other fields there had been similar development, all of which was reflected in the youth of to-day.

The situation created by this change called for attention and the service club had come along just at a time when they were most needed to deal with the problem. The atmosphere created by them was already bein felt. Judge Mott declared that he could see the difference in the juvenile court. A changed attitude, employers no longer wanting boys who had slipped to be sent to jail, more sympathy and interest in the boy.

This was the mission of the service clubs, the speaker maintained, and he urged the members present in most eloquent terms to arise to their opportunity.

Rotarian Ensign Green expressed the thanks of the Rotary Club to the speaker and to Rotarian George Hambley.

Court Case Is Held Over

Council Asks Chancery Court To Adjourn Proceedings Until Friday.

PLEA IS MADE.

Veteran Officer Sends Appeal To Mrs. Booth To Stop Court Case.

LONDON, January 21. — (Canadian Press.) — Injunction proceedings brought by General Bramwell Booth, were adjourned until Friday, when they came up in Chancery Court this morning.

The temporary injunction which restrained the High Council of the Salvation Army from electing a successor to General Booth, will continue in effect until the next hearing.

The proceedings were brief. W. A. Green, representing Bramwell Booth, said that it had been agreed to let the matter stand over until Friday to give the other side time to prepare evidence. Mr. Green said that it had come to his notice that one of the opponents had issued a document criticising Bramwell Booth's action in commencing the proceedings. This doubtles was issued with the best of intentions, but he could not help thinking that it would do nothing but harm."

Is Sole Trustee.

"There are obviously in this matter questions of great legal importance," he said, "particularly as the General is the sole trustee of large and valuable properties, and the matter will have to be regulated sooner or later."

The General's action, he continued, was taken on legal advice, and was in no way actuated by personal motives. It was necessary that the constitutional position be made clear.

Attorney Gaving Simonds, for the Council, agreed that it was much better to have nothing said to embitter the controversy.

Appeal is Made.

Appeal has been made to Mrs. Bramwell Booth to halt court proceedings by which her husband, General Booth, hopes to retain command of the Salvation Army, despite the High Council's decision to oust him.

Lieutenant Cowham of the Southampton Area, one of the oldest and most esteemed divisional officers, sent a telegram urging the Booth family to desist from legal proceedings.

He said such proceedings are con-

TAKE PROJECT FROM REALM OF POLITICS

Error On Part of Canada To Give Financial Aid To Immigrants Says Burton.

ST. LAWRENCE SCHEME.

Praises Government For Its Policy of Development In Northern Ontario.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 21. Canadian Press. — Aside from necessary general regulations, the field of immigration in Canada should be left to the provincial authorities, rather than, as at present, largely under the Federal authorities, said C. L. Burton, president of the Toronto Board of Trade, addressing the annual meeting of that body this afternoon. In the opinion of Mr. Burton it is an error in policy for Canada to offer financial assistance to those available for settlement. Canada should refrain from subsidies in any form, he said.

St. Lawrence Project.

Discussing the St. Lawrence waterway project, Mr. Burton declared it should be entirely removed from the was most desirable the proposition realm of party politics. Mr. Burton urged it as good business for Ontario to secure such power as might be developed from sources within the province of Quebec, if available at such prices as would permit use in Ontario for industrial and public service requirements. This would provide for Ontario's earlier power requirements in excess of that obtainable in older Ontario, which he said, would be consumed in a comparatively short time.

In regard to the development of Northern and North-western Ontario Mr. Burton said the Ontario Government had made an extraordinary record for itself in various enterprises in those parts of the province. "One imagines," said the President, "it needs a great deal more encouragement to proceed with more vigorous policies, especially in connection with land settlement, than it has yet been able to report. The Government needs vigorous and insistent public opinion from the various parts of the province to enable it to make the necessary progress in these new unorganized sections of Ontario." One could not visit those northern districts, he said, without feeling prouder than ever of their vast resources.

MARSHAL FOCH IS PERMITTED TO SIT UP FOR FEW MINUTES

Generalissimo Is Allowed To Read Messages That Have Been Sent To Him.

ALLOWED NO VISITORS.

Doctors Report Strength Is Increasing Daily and Appetite is Growing.

PARIS, January 21. Canadian Press. —Marshal Ferdinand Foch was so much better to-day that his doctors permitted him to get out of bed and sit in an arm chair for a few minutes. He was also allowed to read some messages which have arrived from various prts of the world during the last week.

The ban of visitors to the sick room, however, was not lifted by the doctors, despite the marshal's requests to see General Weygand.

Strength Increasing.

The doctors said that their patient's strength was increasing daily, and his appetite was apparently growing with each successive meal. His spirits have never once been depressed during his entire illness.

The fact that the Marshal was allowed to leave his bed for a few minutes seemed to indicate that he was on the road to recovery, especially since each successive bulletin for seven successive days has recorded progress. Concern over his condition, however, will continue to persist until the doctors are able to say with confidence that the patient has reached the stage of recuperation.

Ate Good Lunch.

The Marshal sat up for 10 or 15 minutes during the morning without any ill effects and was later able to eat a good lunch, and to see for a few minutes one of his cousins, with whom he talked over family matters.

A ban on his seeing General Weygand was not lifted, however, as it was felt that the Marshal's mind is so active that he would immediately seize the occasion to discuss professional subjects.

Among the latest telegrams of sympathy was one from Vice-President Dawes. Others were from Mayor Walker of New York, Queen Marie of Rumania, Sir Austen Chamberlain, and the British Legion.

Ten Year Old Girl Has Pupil Of Her Eye Singed

A peculiar accident which might have had very serious results, occurred on Saturday, when little Violet Watkins, 10 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Watkins, of 227 Princess street, almost lost the sight of one eye.

The little girl was having her hair curled. Her mother was using the electric tongs for the purpose, and a slight shock caused her to shift her hand quickly. The child looked up and the heated tongs, dropped by the mother, singed the pupil of her left eye.

Yesterday it was thought that the sight would be destroyed, but it is hoped now that it may be saved.

2,500 NAMES ARE RECORDED

Routine Work For Old Home Week Is Progressing Favorably.

INDEX SYSTEM USED.

The routine work of preparing for Peterborough's Old Home Week and Centennial Celebration is progressing quietly but none the less effectively, one feature of which is the compiling, has already received and indexed a list of between 2,300 and 2,500 names while an increasing interest on the part of citizens generally has speeded up the sending in of more names.

A card indexing system has been adopted as a means of keeping the list in proper order, and Mr. Dobbin is anxious that those sending in names write them as plainly and legibly as possible so that the danger of mistakes may be minimised.

YOUNG GIRL HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Eleanor Peters Is Knocked Down by the Canadan National Yard Enine.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.

To be knocked down by a train, to fall between the wheels and to have the train run over her without really serious injury was the amazing experience Saturday afternoon of Eleanor Peters, 12-year-old Collegiate student of 283 Armour road.

At 3.10 Saturday afternoon Eleanor was walking north on Aylmer and at Perry, as she went to cross the street she unwittingly stepped right in front of the shunter engine which was slowly moving up the track. The engine struck her, knocking her down in the middle of the track and then passed over her body. The train was stopped immediately and the girl removed from beneath. Dr. J. M. McCulloch was called, and the girl was conveyed to Nicholl's Hospital, where careful examination showed that although she was suffering from fright and shock, there were no bones broken. Her elbow, knee and ankle were badly bruised and there were abrasions on many other portions of her body, but nothing as serious as might be expected from such an experience.

The engineer and fireman on the train said that they were moving very slowly across the intersection, and had their bell ringing loudly and continuously. Eleaner said afterward that she did not hear the bell and received no warning of its approach.

The latest reports said the girl was resting comfortably.

Here, at last, is the list of prize-winners in "My New Year Resolution" competition, which closed a week ago Saturday night:

1—Marie Christine.

2—Adastia.

3—Jay Jay.

The reason "Jay Jay" is at the bottom of the list, with a so splendid article, is because it was not as personal as the others. It was not, in short, "MY New Year Resolutions."

THREE THOUSAND ARRESTED BY CHICAGO POLICE OVER WEEK-END

First Robin Is Seen In North End of City

R. H. Turner, who resides at the corner of Donegal and Hunter street goes on record as having been the first Peterborough man to see a 1929 Robin. Take it or leave it, he informed The Examiner in all sincerity that at noon to-day, near his coal yard on Hilliard street, he both heard and saw the lengendary herald of bigger and better weather, and while there was no one near whom he could summon as a witness, he was certain in his identification of what he had seen and heard, as afore mentioned.

LEG IS BROKEN BY FALL ON ICE

H. R. Redmond, of North Monaghan, Fell While Running For George Street Bus.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.

Running to catch the bus which would stop at the corner of McGill and Lock streets, not far distant from his home at 3 McGill street, H. R. Redmond, auctioneer, fell due to the ice and sustained a broken leg at about 10:00 o'clock this morning, necessitating his removel to St. Joseph's Hospital where an X-ray examination was made.

It was found that the left leg had been fractured midway between the ankle and the knee, which will necessitate his confinement for some time. Dr. McNulty, called at the time of the accident, has charge of the case.

One of the Most Successful and Widespread Drives in City Is Pulled Off.

ANSWER TO WEEK OF CRIME.

Orders Were To Raid Every Joint in City and Never Mind Injunctions.

CHICAGO, Ills., Jan. 21. Canadian Press.—Three thousand persons were arrested between Saturday nightfall and to-day's dawn in one of the most sudden, wide-spread, and successful police drives in the history of Chicago.

Raids were conducted against every known habitat of the gangster, gunman and robber. Where doors were locked, doors were smashed open. The theatre district swarmed with plain-clothesmen, seeking the "dress suit" crooks, and police patrols were booked for hours ahead, so swift were the arrests.

Answer to Week of Crime.

The drive was Police Chief William Russell's answer to a week of crime, marked by 102 robberies, in which four persons were shot, and several others seriously injured.

Two-thirds of the city's force of 6000 policemen were kept on double duty over Sunday to insure the success of the drive.

Squad leaders got their orders from Deputy Commissioner John Stege, in these words:

"Every joint in this town is to be visited. Never mind injunctions. If you're barred, grab an axe and chop your way in. Grab every crook with a record that you see. Don't bother seizing booze. Leave the working man and the respectable people alone. Raid the night clubs, the theatres, the hotels, the beer flats—I want every crook in Chicago in a cell by Monday morning."

TRANSFORMER BURNS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 21 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — The firemen were called at six o'clock on Saturday morning to cope with an unusual situation when a transformer on George Street caught fire and did considerable damage to the pole on which it was fixed and to the wires. The service was only temporarily interrupted.

Fire Destroys Belleville School

St. Michael's Academy Is Completely Gutted; Fire Loss is $125,000

Only Four Walls Remain of the Once Beautiful Edifice—Blaze Has Three Hours Start Before the Belleville Firemen Arrive.

BUILDING WAS ERECTED IN 1908— FINEST STRUCTURE IN SECTION OF PROVINCE

Re-building Will Start At Once—Structure Was Well Insured and Was Being Used as a Separate School.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Fire here yesterday completely gutted St. Michael's Academy. Only the walls remain of the once beautiful edifice. The loss is estimated at $125,000. The origin of the fire remains a mystery, though it is believed to have resulted from a short-circuit. The fire in the furnace was out owing to water which flooded the cellar following the recent heavy rains.

The stone walls of the academy withstood the flames and remain standing. The fire broke out shortly after 2 a.m. and had three hours headway before the fire brigade arrived.

When the firemen arrived the two upper storeys were a mass of flames.

Four Storey Structure

The building, four-storey structure was built in 1908 and was considered one of the finest structures in this section of the province. A fine library, consisting of hundreds of volumes of books and a museum containing stuffed birds and animals were destroyed. The building contained an auditorium capable of seating 700 persons.

As a result of the fire, 700 scholars are without quarters. The school Board met yesterday to consider the problem and decided to secure temporary quarters in the Y.M.C.A. and other public schools. It is understood that the structure was well insured and that re-building will be started at once. The academy was conducted as a separate school.

FOUR KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Train Strikes Automobile On Level Crossing Near Niagara Falls.

FIFTH MAY DIE.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press).—A father, mother and their two sons lost their lives yesterday afternoon when a railroad train struck their automobile on a grade crossing near Montrose, Ont., a few miles from Niagara Falls, Ont. The dead were: Frank Bretti, 47 years old, his wife Frances, 42, and their sons, John, 17, and Joseph, 7. Samuel Manouso, driver of the car, suffered a broken leg and head lacerations. He is in the General Hospital, Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Bretti and her two sons were instantly killed. The father died on the way to the hospital. Both the Bretti family and Manouso lived at Niagara Falls, Ont., and were neighbors.

Fragments of the smashed auto were strewn along the track for 250 feet. Some of the bodies were terribly mutilated.

The train caught the car squarely in the centre. The victims had no warning. The express was on them before they saw it. The auto was hurled 200 feet along the track by the impact.

The party were returning from a visit in Stamford and they were making good time. The road was clear and dry and there was a clear view of the track for almost a mile.

PRES. GARFIELD RUNS AGROUND

Shipwreck Near the Bahama Islands Is a Thrill For World Trippers.

EIGHTY-ONE PASSENGERS.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—Eight-one passengers of the world cruise ship President Garfield last night were safe aboard the Manson liner Pan-America after a rescue from their own ship, which ran aground early yesterday on Mantalilla Reef at the Northern tip of the Bahama Island group.

They were taken off the President Garfield along with their baggage and the liner's mail cargo and transferred to the Pan-America in small boats. The transfer was completed about twelve hours after the liner had run aground. The Pan-America then proceeded toward Nassau, for which she was bound.

The officers and crew of the Dollar liner remained aboard as the wrecking tug Warbler sped to their assistance from Jacksonville, Fla. The liner was hard aground, but it was not taking water and was believed in no immediate danger.

Radio Call Heard

Word of the rescue of the passengers came first from Robert E. Duff, operating manager in New York for the Dollar Line and a short time later from the Radio Marine Corporation which was in direct communication with the Pan-America.

First word that the President Garfield, which left New York Thursday on a round-the-world cruise, was in trouble came at 7.25 yesterday morning with receipt of an S O S message. The Pan-America, which also left New York Thursday, reported that she was nearby and was on her way to the aid of the stricken vessels. A naval tug was also dispatched from Charleston, N.C., and the wrecking tug put out from Jacksonville, Fla.

NORWOOD FAIR HAS SURPLUS

DIRECTORS ELECTED

(Examiner Correspondence)

NORWOOD, Jan. 21. — William Thompson was again elected president of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society at the annual meeting held in Norwood on Wednesday afternoon.

J. E. Roxburg, secretary-treasurer, read the financial statement for the past year which showed a balance of $327.80 on hand. A splendid report of the annual convention of the Fairs and Exhibitions Association at Toronto was given by Gilbert Elmhirst.

At this meeting E. Hawthorne was appointed an honorary director of the society. G. Elmhirst and Col. F. E. Birdsall were elected as first and second vice presidents, respectively.

Elected Director

P. M. Grover was elected a director to fill the vacancy caused by the death of A. Nelson and the other members of the Board of Directors were re-elected and are: J. A. Knox, Col. R. E. Birsall, William Breckenridge, J. F. Elliott, Thomas Dunham, S. McGee, G. A. Brethen, J. A. Robb, William Barrie, William Knox, C. A. Calder, Wellington Burgess, J. Scott, J. P. Boland, W. J. McLaughlin, P. Gardner, A. Stinson, J. Hawthorne, S. Buck and J. Baskin. On motion, Reeve R. Tedford and J. B. Nelson, B.Sc. were added to the Board of Directors and W. Bitten and E. P. Cuffe were elected auditors.

A communication was read by the President from J. E. Roxburgh in which he tendered his resignation. A motion was passed expressing the appreciation of Mr. Roxburgh's work as secretary and on motion he was elected to the Board of Directors. At this meeting it was decided to hold the usual crop competitions in white oats and fodder corn.

At the conclusion of the annual meeting, the Board of Directors met. The resignation of the secretary was accepted and it was decided to advertise for a new one. J. B. Nelson, District representative of the Department of Agriculture, addressed the Board and recommended that they encourage the growing of white seed oats.

FARM LABORER MAKES ESCAPE

POLICE ON LOOKOUT.

(Examiner Staff Correspondent.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 21.—Contrary to expectations, Constable Duncalfe returned to town early Thursday morning without the man he had gone after. Consequently there was no case for the court. Phillip D'Arcy, wanted for theft of money and other articles from the farm of Fred Rutherford, Rawdon Township, managed to disappear during the dark hours and search of the village of Havelock failed to reveal a trace of the man.

It appears that while Rutherford was in Campbellford on Wednesday afternoon D'Arcy decamped with money from the Rutherford home. Some other articles were also missing. After searching the district near his farm, Rutherford notified the police. Word was sent to Bonarlaw and also Havelock. The man appeared at the C.P.R. station in Havelock and asked for a ticket for Smith Falls. Recognized by the operator there, efforts were made to keep the man under observation until Duncalfe should arrive. But D'Arcy made good his retreat into the darkness and has not been seen since. Duncalfe searched the sheds and garages in the neighborhood of the station and sent word to Norwood and other nearby railway stations to have the man detained by the police there should he appear to purchase a ticket. At a late hour Saturday night no word had been received of D'Arcy's recapture.

Phillip D'Arcy is described as an English immigrant about nineteen years of age, medium height and wearing knee length rubber boots, khaki pullover, overalls, overcoat, tweed cap and muleskin gloves. Fred Rutherford, it is claimed, appeared in Campbellford Thursday morning to swear out a warrant for D'Arcy's arrest but was refused the necessary paper since he was not a resident in this township or county. His farm is in Rawdon township, Hastings county, is quite close to, if not abutting on the township and county boundary.

According to his wife, Dredhart had threatened to take his life on numerous occasions but she would give no reason for the threats. Dredhart had been a resident for many years.

Large Loads of Bullion Are Transported Over Toronto's Main Streets In Safety

TORONTO, Ont., January 21 (Canadian Press). — With every precaution against would-be banditry the Canadian Bank of Commerce armored cars transported the largest single loads of bullion and securities ever carried in To ronto on Saturday and Sunday, to their new temporary head offices from their present place of business.

The bank's entire force of guards and twenty policemen escorted the valuable loads on their quarter mile run. Motorists were temporarily detoured off the streets along which the armored cars had to go to their destination.

The bank will commence business in their temporary quarters this morning.

PUBLISHERS OF NEWSPAPERS WILL RESIST DISCRIMINATION IN FAVOR OF RANDOLPH HEARST

Demand a Uniform Price To All Customers, Says F. I. Ker.

SITUATION BEING WATCHED.

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 21 (Staff Correspondence of the Canadian Press).—Contract price differentials in favor of William Randolph Hearst's United States publications or any other publisher will be resisted "to the utmost" by other newspaper publishers on this continent, who for more than twenty years have concluded contracts with newsprint manufacturers on the basis of a uniform price to all customers.

This was the salient point of an exclusive statement made last night by F. I. Ker, general manager of The Hamilton Spectator to the Canadian Press, which sought from Mr. Ker, a member of the newsprint committee of both the Canadian Daily Newspaper Association and of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, the viewpoint of the consumers in regard to the controversy now being waged in one of Canada's chief industries over the contract concluded between Hearst and International Paper Company at a price said to be about $50 a ton.

Watches Situation

Mr. Ker, who has been closely in touch with the situation, said neither the Canadian nor American publishers organizations has so far taken any official action in the impasse reached in the situation.

"When, and if they do such action will be authorized by a special meeting and based upon recommendations of their newsprint committees of which J. W. Sifton of Winnipeg, and S. E. Thomason of Chicago are respectively chairmen," Mr. Ker said.

There is no objection on the part of newspaper publishers to paying a fair price for their newsprint, Mr. Ker emphasized. The publishers are far-visioned in the matter and prefer to give the manufacturers a fair profit that will provide for the proper administration and safeguarding of the forest lands from which wood pulp is received, thereby insuring a fair price in future years. He made it quite clear publishers would rather conclude contracts at fair prices now than face the propects of paying very high prices in later years as the result of the present over-production in the industry.

GYPSIES SEEK TO CROSS LINE INTO HOLLAND

Unwelcome Visitors Are Kept Out of Country By Guards On Duty.

WOULD LEAVE BELGIUM.

Border Patrols of Two Nations Vie With Each Other in Fighting Nomads.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 21. — A large number of gypsies have gathered near the Dutch-Brabant frontier. During the last three months they have come into Belgium from France and have trekked north till stopped by the Dutch frontier guards. There is now a kind of friendly conflict between the Dutch and Belgian frontier guards—on the Belgian side to get rid of the gypsies, and on the Dutch side to prevent them from entering Holland.

Guards on Duty.

The gypsies are now wandering along the frontier seeking unguarded gaps through which to enter Dutch territory. The gypsies have also been refused permission to cross the German frontier south of Maastrict; meanwhile the number of gypsies in the area is greater than ever.

Between 80 and 100 Dutch frontier guards are on duty day and night to prevent them from crossing the frontier out of Belgium. At some points the guards are reinforced by military police and, thus far, they have succeeded in keeping the gypsies out of the country.

Some of these poor people claim to be Dutch subjects, and are asking for admittance on the strength of their nationality, but they are unable to prove it. Others seem to be of Swedish nationality, and are asking permission to pass through Holland and Germany their way to their own country, but they are also not allowed to pass.

Dutch Horse Market.

Most of them come from France, and even farther south, and some of them are asking for admittance in order to attend the Dutch farmers' horse market.

Although the Dutch have thus far prevented the gypsies from entering Holland, the question remains whether at some unexpected time and place they may not find an opportunity of crossing the frontier, as they have been trying to do for three months. Once they enter Holland it will be impossible to send them back into Belgium, as the Belgians are just as much on the alert as are the Dutch.

How to avoid 'flu

Influenza germs lodge in recesses of your nose, mouth, throat, stomach and intestines, where they generate their virus, and distribute it throughout your system by the blood.

If you allow it!

Nature has evolved an efficient system of defence against these germs. Myriads of tiny corpuscles which travel with your blood stream are the natural defenders of the central citadel—the nervous system—of your health. They are of two kinds, red and white. The red ones energise your body to resist infection generally; the white ones raid these disease germs and devour them bodily.

It rests with you to give these corpuscles a fair field whilst they fight your battles for you.

The Kruschen habit is your first line of defence

Kruschen Salts is a natural aperient and diuretic tonic—not a medicine, but an "aid to Nature" in eliminating from the system waste material which poisons and debilitates the blood. The liver, kidneys, lungs, and skin—the body's organs of elimination—all work better and more regularly under the daily reminder of the Kruschen habit, and, with these organs working well and regularly, the purity and virility of the blood is ensured.

Here's good enough proof. Read what this man says from practical experience.

"I am 58 years old and previous to using Kruschen Salts I used to suffer a good deal from depression. I commenced taking Kruschen a few months ago, and soon found a big improvement all round, becoming more cheerful-minded and feeling better every way. I am now on my second bottle and the cheerfulness and will to do carry me right through each day. Every winter hitherto I used to suffer from influenza, but so far this winter I have escaped the epidemic and believe it is due to the continuance of the daily dose of Kruschen Salts.—"A. M."

SOCIETY HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Women's Auxiliary of Roseneath Anglican Church Elects Officers.

YEAR'S REPORTS READ.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, January 21. — The Women's Auxiliary of St. James' Anglican church held their annual meeting at the home of Mrs. Ernest Timlin, on Thursday, January 10.

Owing to the unfavorable weather, and the prevalence of the 'flu' the attendance was smaller than usual.

The Women's Auxiliary is to be congratulated on the progress it is making. The expenses this year have been very heavy on account of re-dedecorating and re-modelling the interior of the church. However, all debts have been paid and the annual report of the secretary and treasurer show there is still a good surplus on hand.

Besides the work done in the parish Foreign missions are also helped; also an excellent bale was packed and sent in at Christmas to the W. A. house in Toronto. Pledge funds are paid to help pay the missionary salaries in foreign lands. Several quilts have been made and sold. More than $50 was raised in talent money, and $25 given in aid of the rectory. Sick members were remembered by receiving fruit and flowers.

The officers were all re-elected, as follows:

President: Mrs. Gordon Parker; vice-president, Mrs. James Timlin; secretary, Mrs. Ross McCracken; treasurer, Mrs. Ernest Timlin; Mrs. J. F. Battersby, Mrs. Lottie Nichol, Mrs. John Webb, Mrs. Thomas Drope, were made honorary members.

Mrs. Herbert McCracken was appointed secretary for the Living Message.

Mrs. John T. Drope will be secretary of the Little Helpers .

Auditors for 1929: Mrs. (Dr.) Hershey and Miss J. Johnston, who found the books correct and satisfactory.

At six o'clock about 30 guests partook of a sumptuous fowl supper followed by an enjoybale evening in music and games.

Rev. Mr. Battersby tendered a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Timlin for their hospitality, when everyone heartily responded, each leaving for their respective homes feeling they had enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon and evening.

SOCIETY DISCUSSES PLANS FOR LIBRARY

Other Business Discussed at Meeting For Cavan Women's Institute.

CAVAN, Jan. 21 (Examiner Correspondence). — Mrs. Carpenter was hostess on Thursday afternoon for the January meeting of the Cavan Women's Institute.

In spite of the fact that the weather was unpleasant, there was a good attendance.

The meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. R. M. Howden, opened with the singing of the Institute ode, Miss Eileen Hunter, playing the accompaniment.

A report was asked for from a committe which had been named to see about getting up a play.

Mrs. Carpenter had sent for a catalogue of plays and asked that the committee be added to.

The members now on the committee are Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. R. S. Staples, Mrs. F. M. Staples and Mrs. R. Matchett. The committee was asked to meet and choose a play and arrange for it. The president and secretary were asked to meet with the committee. Letters of appreciation and thanks were read from persons who had received fruit, chocolates or flowers, during illness.

Plans for a library were discussed and it was decided that each member should be asked to bring one book to the next meeting. Each book to have the name of the owner in it. When the book had been exchanged and all had read them, the book contributed by each member would go back to the owner.

A communication was read from the Department, asking if Cavan branch wished to make application to have a summer delegate. It was decided to take no action in the matter for the present.

The roll call was answered by each quoting a New Year's resolution.

The musical part of the program was left over until the next meeting as one who was to have taken part was unable to be present.

Miss Eileen Hunter gave a splendid report of the Women's Institute convention held in Toronto in November, at which she had been a delegate from the Cavan Society.

There had been six hundred delegates present. The report contained a great many new ideas for carrying on the work of the Institute, and raising funds for relief and community work.

Perhaps the most popular plan is to have the Institute prepare and present a play. This is educational to those taking part, as well as providing entertainment for a social evening and raising money.

The report given by Miss Hunter was much appreciated, and many of the suggestion will be utilized as the meetings progress.

Mrs. D. J. Hunter extended an invitation for the Institute to meet at her home in February. The president, on behalf of the Institute, accepted the invitation.

The roll call for the February meeting is to be answered by a helpful idea for Saturday.

Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. R. S. Staples and Mrs. F. M. Staples will have charge of the program.

Mrs. C. Carr, Mrs. D. J. Hunter, Mrs. Melville Carr, and iMss Lillian Syer assisted the hostess in serving lunch, and the usual social half hour was enjoyed before dispersal.

Among those present were: Mrs. D. J. Hunter, Mrs. R. Matchett, Mrs. R. S. Staples, Miss F. Hunter, Mrs. R. M. Howden, Miss Eileen Hunter, Miss W. Cathcart, Mrs. Harry Tinney, Miss N. Sutton, Miss Ruth Taylor, Mrs. C. Carr, Mrs. F. M. Staples, Mrs. Milton Carr, Mrs. J. C. Swain, Miss L. Syer, and Mrs. Carpenter.

Remarks: Feed wheat sells at $1 80 cwt. with feed corn $2.00 cwt. All mill feeds are priced at or above the $2.00 mark, and feed prices compare very unfavorably with the low prices of hogs. There seems to be no immediate prospect of advance in the hog market.

OBITUARY

GEORGE W. CURTIS

LINDSAY, Jan. 21.—(Special to Examiner).—The tragic death of George W. Curtis, of Lindsay, brother of Frank Curtis and Mrs. W. Irwin, of Peterborough, marks the passing of one of the best known residents of this district. The deceased, who was in his seventy-ninth year, was born at Welcome, Durham county, and when a young man purchased a farm in Ops township, Victoria county. About forty years ago he took up residence in Lindsay. He was a great lover of horses and was the owner of fast racers that figured on the tracks in Lindsay, Peterborough, Belleville, and other centres. In religion he was a Methodist and was a member of the official Board of the Cambridge street Methodist Church, Lindsay, at the time of union in 1925. Friday afternoon he had spent a few hours with friends at the fire hall and while preparing to go home shortly before six o'clock was seized with a heart attack and expired suddenly. A brother of the deceased, the late W. Curtis, dropped dead here about ten years ago.

ANDREW WATSON.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 21 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Following an illness of several months, Andrew Watson, aged resident of the Seventh Concession of the Township of Seymour, passed away at his residence Thursday afternoon. Mr. Watson had been in poor health for several months, but had only been actually confined to his bed for a few weeks. He was in his seventy-first year, and was born only a short distance from the place of his death, on the farm now owned by Fred Hay. He was a life-long resident of Seymour, and followed the occupation of farming for all his active years. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church and a regular attendant at the services. For many years he held the office of elder in the church. Surviving him are his widow and two daughters, Mrs. John Murray of Seymour East and Miss Eloise Watson of Belleville. There are also two brothers and five sisters: James and Thomas, both of Seymour East; Mrs. Alex. Oddie of St. Catharines, Mrs. David Russel of Foxboro, Mrs. John Hay, Mrs. Herbert Watson and Mrs. John Fry, all of Seymour. The funeral was held at half-past one Saturday afternoon from the late residence to Burnbrae, where service was held in the church.

MICHAEL HEALY.

Michael Healy, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Healy, of Douro, near Warsaw, died this morning after an operation. The funeral announcement will be made later.

RICHARD THOMPSON.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, January 21. — The death of Richard Thompson occurred early on Sunday morning after a lingering illness, in his 79th year. There are left to mourn his loss, his widow, and four children, Mrs. M. D. Brown, and Thelma Thompson; also James Thompson of Hastings, and Frank at home.

The funeral will be held from his late residence, Alnwick Township, on Tuesday afternoon, January 22, service at the house at 2 o'clock. Interment in Merrill's cemetery.

PUBLISHERS WILL RESIST

"Editor and Publisher," December 15 last to a "board of control which will govern distribution, production and to some extent price" of newsprint, Mr. Ker gave his views on any action savoring of government price-fixing. "Politically constituted boards of control which might be inspired by a desire to safeguard the dividends of investors in an over-expanded industry, or to foster the development of industrial communities which could not survive under free competitive conditions will find no favor with either the newspapers or the public generally," he said.

Uniform Price

Pointing out that in practically all contracts concluded between newsprint manufacturers and the publishers the principle of a uniform price was recognized, Mr. Ker expressed anxiety lest present contracts should be threatened by pressure which he said had been brought to bear on the International Paper Company either to cancelt its contract with Hearst or withdraw its undertaking given to other customers that there would be no discrimination between them and eHarst in the matter of price.

The sancitity of present contracts, Mr. Ker said, involved a principle which "far transcends in importance the present crisis in the newsprint industry."

Conferences between Hearst and the newsprint manufacturers, at which it is understood these alternatives were discussed, were held in New York last week, the conferences to be continued in Montreal Wednesday.

Overproduction is 20 Per Cent.

Overproduction in newsprint was approximately 20 per cent. in 1928, Mr. Ker said, and there was the strong possibility that with new contract commitments overproduction would increase to from 25 to 30 per cent. in 1929. The price-cutting started with mergers and the opening of new mills about four years ago.

Mr. Ker's statement follows: "Publishers have for two decades made contracts with the newsprint manufacturers on the principle that there should be a uniform price to all customers of the same mill. A year ago, a Canadian newsprint sales company, which included a number of the largest mills in Canada, attempted to make a quiet contract with William Randolph Hearst, whereby he would receive newsprint at a price said to be approximately $5 a ton less than other publishers. The other publishers had clauses in their newsprint contracts stating they would receive the same prices as those quoted by other mills to their competitors. The upshot of this was the other publishers confronted the sales company with the condition, and the sales company thought it advisable to back out of the Hearst contract, following which Hearst sued the sales company for breach of contract.

"Hearst then called for tenders, and a contract was awarded the International Paper Company, although it is understood the International Paper Company was not the lowest tenderer. The contract was awarded on October 29 last and October 30 the International Paper Company notified all its customers by telegram it had closed the contract with Hearst at a price less than the present contracts with other publishers for 1929. This telegram said the transaction would not involve any deviation from the practice of announcing standard prices, and as soon as the necessary details could be completed the company would announce reductions for all customers, including those who had signed contracts for 1929. This meant the other mills must come down to a price said to be about $50 a ton.

Pressure Brought To Bear.

"Pressure has since been brought to bear on the International Paper Company, either to cancel its contract with Hearst or withdraw its undertaking to its other customers contained in their telegram of October 30, that there would be no discrimination between them and Hearst in the matter of price.

"Whether the Hearst contract is cancelled or not is no concern of the newspaper publishers. The publishers, however, are very gravely concerned over and will resist to the utmost the granting of the lower price discrimination in favor of the Hearst publications. In practically all contracts between Canadian and United States publishers and the mills from which they receive newsprint there is a clause stating the contract price will not exceed the price charged by the International Paper Company and other large producers, and it is evident any pressure which might be brought to bear by the Provincial Premiers upon the paper manufacturers to create a condition whereby the publishers in Canada and the United States will be called upon to pay higher prices than those paid by the Hearst papers would in effect be aiding and abetting the violation of contracts between newsprint manufacturers and their cutomers. This involves a principle which far transcends in importance the present crisis in the newsprint industry.

"Looking at the situation at long range, the publishers are concerned in price adjustment to the extent that they are concerned in the proper administration and safeguarding of the forest lands from which the raw material is secured. They do not object to paying a fair price for their newsprint, and an the whole prefer to ensure their future supply at fair prices by paying fair prices at the present time.

ESPANOLA, Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—Employees of the Abitibi Power and Paper Company, who were thrown out of work when the paper mill here shut down entirely last Saturday, are without further word regarding the possible date when operations will be resumed. Officials likewise see no definite indication, though, according to an interview given by G. R. Gray, vice-president at Sault Ste. Marie, he is expecting word, not daily but hourly, to commence production again.

The impression has gone abroad locally that by February 1 the mill here will be running at about 80 per cent. of the total capacity. Mr. Gray declared that the company would never dream of not starting again at Espanola.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—Beyond reiteration of the statement that the Espanola Mill of the Abitibi Power and Paper Company is expected hourly to re-open, company officials here last night would make no statement.

She immediately rushed to the scene but when she arrived the train was just backing up to the spot. Mr. Bretti and Mancuso were put on board the train and rushed to Niagara Falls to a hospital where Bretti died in a few minutes. The woman and two children were dead when Mrs. Biggar reached the scene.

The train was in charge of conductor Pat Hanley and engineer Coulter of St. Thomas. An inquest was opened here last night by coroner McGarry.

Three other members of the family survive: one girl and two boys.

CAVAN, Jan. 21 (Examiner Correspondence).—The annual meeting of the Cavan Rural Telephone Company was held in Cavan Community Hall on Tuesday evening, January 16, at eight o'clock.

Owing to illness of the president, A. B. Kennedy, the chair was taken by the vice-president, J. W. Perrin. The report showed the company was in a good condition financially. The same directors were re-elected. They are: A. B. Kennedy, W. A. Pritchard, J. C. Swain, W. A. Nill, J. W. Perrin, W. J. Tinney and James Kennedy.

J. R. Newton was appointed auditor and D. J. Hunter secretary-treasurer

CAMPBELLFORD BAPTIST CHURCH HOLDS MEETING

Reports of Various Organizations Show Congregation Has Enjoyed Successful Year.

BANQUET HELD.

Last Year's Officers Re-elected To Board—Presentations Made.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 21 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Reports of the various organizations and activities of the Campbellford Baptist Church, as presented at the annual meeting, show that the congregation has enjoyed a very successful year. The meeting was held in the church on Thursday, January 17, and took the form of a dinner and concert before the regular business was transacted. Owing to the extremely bad weather and the amount of illness in the community, there was not a large attendance. The enthusiasm of those who were able to be present made up much that otherwise would have been lacking.

Supper was served in the basement of the church by the ladies of the congregation. A short musical program followed. Each person present responded at the roll call. As an expression of appreciation for excellent services rendered, Miss Jessie Weston was presented with a purse of money and Richard Weston with a fountain pen. Miss Weston is the church organist, and Mr. Weston is choir leader. The presentations were made on behalf of the congregation by the Rev. L. M. Smith, minister of the church and David Wallace. The several reports presented to the meeting showed considerable progress made by each department and organization during the year. The total amount of the offerings for the year was $1,726.84. The election of officers for the coming term resulted in the reappointment of most of those whose terms had expired.

Canada is increasingly able to finance her own industrial development.

Hastings

(Examiner Correspondence).

HASTINGS, January 21. — Miss Gladys Stevenson spent a few days recently at Kitchener, guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Breithaupt, 2 East Lancaster street. On Friday evening, January 11, Mr. and Mrs. Breithaupt entertained at their home and gave a kitchen shower in honor of Albert Brubacher, the purchasing agent of the Breithaupt Leather Company, and Miss Gladys Stevenson of Hastings, whose marriage is to take place in the spring. The Breithaupt Leather Co., and the Hastings Tanning Co, were the guests of the happy occasion. A yellow color scheme made attractive decoration for the pretty rooms. At the conclusion of the evening delicious refreshments were served. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received by the popular young couple.

Mrs. L. Venters and son Albert of Lindsay, are guests of her father, Mr. Albert Brooks, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Kerr were called to Toronto on Friday, owing to the critical condition of Miss Norma Anderson, sister of Mrs. Kerr, who recently underwent a delicate operation performed in St. Michael's hospital.

THOSE ICY WALKS.

The suggestion has been made to The Examiner and is passed on for the consideration of the Board of Works department that the danger of icy sidewalks would be mitigated to a considerable extent were the city to provide means by which citizens could sand the walks leading into their houses.

It is often the case that these private paths are in a more dangerous condition than the public sidewalks, and the average householder is at a loss how to deal with the situation.

Sand is not usually available, and while ashes will help, their use is looked upon with disfavor by the housewife.

It is suggested, therefore, that when the sidewalks are being sanded by the Board of Works department householders should be invited to put out a box or some other receptacle into which the city's men could deposit a quantity of sand as they pass, thus solving in a simple manner the problem of making icy walks safe.

The plan presents no apparent obstacle, and The Examiner brings it to the attention of the authorities for discussion and action if they approve.

TO-NIGHT'S MEETING.

The importance of the message that Judge Mott of the Toronto Juvenile Court has to deliver to-night is justification for The Examiner's again calling attention to this public meeting in the Collegiate auditorium, arranged by the Rotary Club in order to give the people of Peterborough a chance to hear this well-known Canadian authority on boys' work.

It is desired to have a thoroughly representative attendance, not only of the boys of the city, but of their parents, and the Rotary Club issues a cordial invitation to the public to attend, assuring the citizens generally that they can count upon hearing an address that will well repay them for turning out.

There is no admission charge; all the expenses are being met by the Rotarians as a part of their community work in Peterborough, and in addition to Judge Mott's address, there will be moving pictures and other entertaining features.

The commodious Collegiate auditorium should be none too large for to-night's attendance, in view of Judge Mott's reputation and the undoubted importance of what he will have to present to the boys of Peterborough and to their parents.

A SUMMER CAMP FOR GIRLS.

With the effort to be launched by the Young Women's Christian Association to provide a summer camp for the girls of this city, there should be general sympathy.

While the boys are well looked after in this respect, thanks to the Rotary Club, whose camp at Clear Lake is a model of its kind, there is nothing at present available for Peterborough's girls, and the Y.W.C.A. proposal, therefore, is designed to supply a long-felt need.

All families are not blessed with summer homes and all girls not fortunate enough to have an income that will enable them to spend their vacation at a summer resort hotel.

For many the problem of securing a desirable summer holiday, a vacation that will be enjoyable as well as beneficial, is a most difficult one, and they would welcome the announcement that facilities such as have provided the boys with a worth-while outing are now to be made available for them.

The project deserves to succeed, for its success would mean much to hundreds of girls and young women in Peterborough who should have the chance to benefit from a summer camp.

THE PETERBOROUGH EXHIBITION.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition held to-day is a sign that the work that has developed in connection with this fast-growing institution is not confined to a month or two, but rather extends more or less throughout the year.

It has grown to be a big concern, this annual Exhibition, and its affairs make a heavy demand upon the time, energy and ability of those to whom its handling is entrusted.

The manifold departments require planning and direction that cannot be left until the Exhibition is only a few weeks away, but must be provided at all times.

Thus the entertainment features are usually booked many months before the Exhibition, and other departments are similarly cared for as early as possible.

Plans are already under way for what is hoped will be the banner year in the Exhibition's history, and in this connection The Examiner would suggest that a readjustment of the admission charges, or failing that, a more vigorous campaign of selling advance tickets, might well receive the consideration of the management.

It is not a question of whether or not the Exhibition features and program have been worth the admission charged.

As a matter of fact, when everything is considered patrons have been given more than the value of their money—but it is rather a question of fixing the admission charge at a price that will lead to frequent visits during Exhibition week.

WINTER AND THE HARVEST.

With the thermometer dipping below the zero mark, the early seed catalogues are coming through the mails with the happy reminder that spring will come again. Their brightly colored illustrations of flowers and vegetables appear in sharp contrast with the bleak wintry aspect of nature. The ardent gardener will turn over their pages with the greater pleasure because of this contrast and in his impatience with the weather must yet reflect that winter is but a stage in the processes of nature.

This feature will be all the more impressed upon him in looking through the pages of catalogues from United States seedsmen with their stress upon the development of disease-resistant strains of seeds for southern use. Here the severe frosts of winter do not play the useful role performed in our Canadian climate to reduce the spread of plant diseases, and the southern grower, with yields reduced and profits in many parts wiped out by parasitic fungous diseases, has had to try new crops or develop new strains of the same plants with characteristics able to resist the chief diseases. In the latter effort the seed catalogues bear witness to the progress made by plant scientists working at governmental experiment stations or on the farms of commercial firms. In this work strains of plants have been obtained which find also new usefulness to the northern grower in many instances through elements of greater productivity even where the disease problem is so much less ecute.

Along with the realization of his advantages in greater freedom from disease, the plant grower in this winter-frozen climate can take comfort in the chill of winter from the fact that the discomforts he endures reduce also the summer ravages of insects, which take heavy toll of the southern crops. With these things in mind he can bear with more patience the long mental vista of winter and the feeling of the deadness of nature which yet contributes some blessing to his work.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

ANARCHY OFFICIALIZED.

Barbarian methods may have been rendered necessary by the condition of anarchic lawlessness to which democracy has reduced some American cities. To inaugurate, as is announced at Detroit, a system of money rewards to policemen who shall shoot murderous lawbreakers caught in the act, is a state of war, not of law. A man has qualified for the first award. So long as it seems to deal with proved assassins as they deserve, this will have the sympathy of the public. It may, however, challenge reprisals from the bandits. And when such an excited method shall blunder, as it is likely to do, there will be a great revulsion against it. Police will be accused of shooting men like wolves for a ten dollar bounty. The evil effects of such a policy were exemplified by an incident last year, when, following an announcement of a Texas bank of a five thousand dollar reward for each bandit slain while attempting a holdup, two innocent Mexicans were slain by a corrupt sheriff and his deputy, who, under a grilling, confessed they had lured the victims into the bank and killed them for the sake of the reward.—Montreal Witness.

OUR MINISTER TO JAPAN.

Mr. Herbert Marler has been given the sonorous title of "Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Japan." Actually he will go to Tokyo as a business man to look after such matters as Japanese immigration and trade and trade arrangements between Canada and Japan. Whether our trade and other dealings with the Japanese are sufficiently important to warrant the expense of such an appointment remains to be seen. Seeing, however, that the present Government is determined upon the creation of such posts, there is some satisfaction in knowing that the appointments being made are good ones. Mr. Marler is an excellent selection.

Mr. Marler, when he was in Parliament, was the efficiency expert in politics. He was, in fact, that extraordinary rare thing, a keen business man with a flair for public life. Business men, notoriously, make poor parliamentarians. Unused to public speaking, and with a passion for the fait accompli, they are seemingly incapable of accustoming themselves to the tortuous and indirect and often necessarily slow ways of government. The consequence is that they often find themselves lost amid the maze of parliamentary tactics; are amateurish in framing legislation; inconsequential in debate.

Marler, in his short career in the House, was a distinguished exception. A good politician, with a grasp of the difficulties and expediencies as well as the principles of politics, he was at the same time one of those practical, efficient business men that become captains of finance and industry. Marler, in fact, had the card-index mind; the mind of the successful banker, lawyer, or engineer—or all three.

Marler, when he was in Parliament, studied the tariff, and finance, and the railways. He studied them so carefully and scientifically that he became an authority on all three. Mr. Meighen, by common consent, had a grasp of econbmic questions such as few men in politics achieve. When he had dealt with the railway problem, or with the tariff, or the national debt, there were few who, if they accepted his premises, had the courage to challenge his conclusions. Marler was one of the few. Confident of his facts, courageous, and with ability for lucid expression, he would cross swords with Meighen whenever opportunity afforded, and a duel between the two would be a veritable battle of bewildering fractions and percentages and decimals.

It is sometimes said that a private member can exert no influence upon Parliament. If so, then Marler was the exception. Mr. King, at all events, leaned heavily upon him; accepted his criticism; welcomed his support; came to seek his advice. Thus, when the West Indian trade treaty was being made, it was Marler, a comparatively new hand at Ottawa, who wrote most of its clauses. Upon this question, as upon a score of others, Marler, by dint of hard study, had become an authority. It was this, beyond doubt, that induced Mr. King to take him into his Cabinet in 1925.

Marler is a Canadian of the Canadians, of Swiss and English descent. His people have been in Canada for more than 150 years; he is a descendant of David Francis de Montmollin, an Anglican priest, sent to Canada by the Bishop of London in 1768. In 1775 Marler's grandfather held an important military post in the City of Quebec.

Whether, as already said, there is nood for a Canadian representative in Japan, is a matter about which there is doubt. But if there be any work in Tokyo that can be usefully done for Canada, Marler can be relied upon to do it.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Have you filed your list of Old Home Week names yet? This information is essential to the success of the event.

Freshets when they come in March are accepted as a sign that spring is at hand, but January floods are something else again.

It is apparent that some motorists are not early shoppers in the matter of license markers.

Canadians may often complain about the weather in this country, but never at least that it lacks variety.

Between the embattled power barons and the warring railway managements, the Federal Government would appear to be more in danger from outside the House than from the official Opposition.

There must be times when Hon. Robert Forke wishes the immigration portfolio had been handed over to somebody else.

The most interesting feature of the coming session will not be the fact that an old age pension system is to be adopted, but rather how it is to be financed.

A Thought

OFFENDED FEELINGS.

To think about something else is the best and only sure cure for offended feelings. To think about the offense—its unkindness, its injustice, its meanness of spirit, and all its other ugly aspects—only adds to its sting and deepens our own suffering or anger. This hurts us, and helps no one.

Eggs are not the only things that are given added life and power of being brooded over. If we want to enlarge and multiply everything unpleasant in that which has offended us, brooding over it will do it.

If we want to have done with it and get it out of our life as quickly as possible, to turn deliberately away from it and concentrate our thought and energy upon something else is our sure road to success.

"When any one has offended me, I try to raise my soul so high that the offence can not reach it", Descartes is credited with saying. But we cannot lift ourselves by mere will power. We can lose ourselves by devotion to something else—and thus we can lose the offence.—S.S.T.

The Question Box

Question.—Would you kindly give me the nine most popular varieties of Canadian apples in the following list in their proper order: Gravenstein, Ribstone Pippin, Wealthy, Blenheim, McIntosh Red, Johnathans, Winter Banana, Spitzenburg, Baldwins, Kings, Wagner, Northern Spy, Greening, Fallowater, Stark, Golden Russett, Winesap, Newton, Pippin, Ben Davis and Snow or Bameme.—M.C.

Answer—The first three are easy but the others are not very well known in this part of Canada, many of them being British Columbia apples. The following are the most popular: Northern Spy, McIntosh Red, Baldwins, Golden Russet, Snow, Greening, Wealthy, Kings, and Wagener.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

Mr. Editor:

General Bramwell Booth is quoted as telling the Mail reporter, that he had not much money, but I will spend what I have in defending my position. The General was further quoted as saying: Nothing will induce me to retire from the position I occupy. It was and is a sacred trust imposed on me, by my father, and it is not for me to lay it down. I should be a coward, worse than a coward, a skunk, if I did so because there is a bit of a rumpus, and I won't. I will resist by every means in my power every attempt to deprive me of this trust. If the above language of the General does not denote mental or bodily unfitness, it surely indicates a lack of the spirit of the meek and lowly Jesus. Note the different spirit shown by the High Council as they fervently sing the following:

When we cannot see our way,
Let us trust an still obey,
He who bids us forward go
Cannot fail the way to show.

It is a pleasure to note that the majority of the High Council appear to have the child-like trust in and obedience to God, which was the stronghold of the rank and file of the Salvation Army in the early days.

THE LUCKIEST LADY — By — Ruby M. Ayres

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XXXVIII—A PROMISE

Marna took Biddy's hand and held it between her own.

"You needn't be frightened," she went on quietly. "Or imagine that anything dreadful is going to happen just because I ask you to promise this. But I—Biddy, can I tell you something without frightening you?"

"I shan't be frightened," the Little Flapper said, but her heart was shaking.

The silence was unbroken for some minutes before Marna spoke again.

"I went to see a doctor today. No, not Dr. Liscard—a bigger man than he is—a heart specialist, Biddy." She felt the girl's hand jerk convulsively, and she held it more tightly as she went on:

"I think I've known for some time that my heart wasn't as strong as it should be. It's silly, but—well, it's not my fault. I suppose I'm weak; I know I can't be brave and stand up to things as some women do. I wish I could. I've got so much to be thankful for. We're rich and I've got George and you. I know that everyone thinks I'm really what you children have always called me, "The Luckiest Lady.' But there's something I haven't got—something I want so much." Her voice broke, and when she went on again there was a little frantic note in it. "I despise myself much more than you or anyone else can despise me, Biddy. I've tried so hard to put him out of my life—I've tried so hard to be happy, and I can't, and that's all there is about it. Sometimes people with money and everything else they want have to fight with Life just as much as people who are poor and have nothing, and I've had to fight like that, Biddy, and I suppose Life has beaten me."

"Oh, Marna!"

"I know, but it's nothing to mind, really. I don't mind at all, so you mustn't. Biddy, are you crying? Don't cry! I may go on living for years and years."

"We must tell Uncle George—of course he must be told," Biddy sobbed.

Marna let the girl's hand go almost angrily.

"He must never know. I couldn't bear it if he did, and besides, what's the use of hurting him any more? I hate myself already because he guesses something, or thinks he does—not that there's anything to guess——"

Her voice dragged away into silence again, and for a long time neither of them spoke. Then downstairs in the hall they heard the quiet opening and gentle closing of the front door.

"It's Uncle George," Biddy whispered.

"Yes." Marna rose hurriedly. "Well, will you do this for me, Biddy?"

"You know I will."

"And will you promise me on your word of honor never to tell anyone—never to tell a living soul?"

"On my word of honor."

"This is the letter, then."

She put it into the Little Flapper's unsteady hands.

"Lock it away somewhere, Biddy. It's only to be sent if I—if I'm not here any more."

"Yes, darling."

"Thank you. Good night, Biddy."

"Good night." The Little Flapper let Marna go as far as the door, then she leapt out of bed and ran to her.

"Marna!"

She flung warm arms round her, and kissed her rapturously as she used to do when she was quite small and Marna was all her world.

"I love you! I just love you!" she said, almost sobbing. "And I want you to be happy. I want you to be happy so much!"

Marna laughed with soft mirthlessness.

"I used to feel like that, too," she said, half-whispering. "But now I don't seem to care any more." And she gently unlocked the girl's clinging arms and slipped away as George Paget's step sounded on the stairs.

* * *

It was Mrs. Blair who unintentionally put the idea into the Little Flapper's head.

John Blair came over to the Pagets' one evening in his two-seater car, and took Biddy back with him to dinner.

"The mater said she'd be pleased to see you if Mrs. Paget doesn't mind," he explained awkwardly.

He was always rather shy and gauche with Biddy; very diffident, too. He found her totally unlike all the other girls with whom he had been friendly, and he was not quite sure how she expected to be treated. She was certainly not in the same category as Dolly Benson, whose whole life seemed bounded by kisses and the things money could buy; nor was she in the same category as May Richardson, who thought nothing of donning heavy boots and breeches and tramping miles over ploughed fields with him in the rain. John Blair liked May, and in many ways he liked Dolly also, but neither of them had satisfied him; they seemed to need leavening up, somehow, or so he explained it to himself; he wished they had just a little more of Biddy's sweetness and reticence.

So he had suggested to his mother that Biddy might be asked to dinner.

"It must be dull for the poor kid, with Mrs. Paget not well," he said, with overdone carelessness.

"Isn't Marna well?" his mother asked.

"She looks rotten," John answered with candor.

He said as much to the Little Flapper as they raced back through the spring evening to the Blairs' house.

"I say, what's the matter with Mrs. Paget? She looks jolly bad."

Biddy turned on him angrily.

"There's nothing the matter with her. She's been out with me all the afternoon."

"She looks jolly bad, all the same," he insisted. "If my mater looked like that I'd soon hike her off to some Harley Street Johnny——"

"She's been already," were the words which rose to Biddy's lips, but she checked them, remembering her promise.

"I think she wants a holiday," she said instead. "Uncle George is talking about taking us both away."

"You, too!" he said in dismay.

"Yes. Why not?"

"I shall miss you. Come and stay with us instead. The mater would love to have you. She likes you."

Biddy was faintly amazed.

"Why, what ever would you do with me?" she asked. "I don't play hockey, or do any of the things you like."

"You do lots of the things I like," John answered with sudden courage.

"What things?" Biddy demanded blankly.

It was too dark for her to see the color that rose to his face.

"Well, for one thing, you don't chuck yourself at a man's head," he said bluntly. "Don't be cross," he blundered on, as he felt her move a little further away from him. "I don't mean to offend you, but it's a change after the girls one knocks about with nowadays. Girls like Dolly, I mean."

"I thought Dolly was such a friend of yours!" the Little Flapper gasped.

She was quite swept off her feet by this sudden attention. She had always rather liked John Blair, but secretly she had been a little afraid of him, knowing herself to be so different from Dolly and May Richardson and the rest.

"I haven't seen Dolly for weeks," he answered emphatically. "And I don't care if I never see her again. She's not straight; she seems to have gone clean off the rails lately."

"Oh!"

"Well, you know she has," he challenged her. "Not that I'm a prig—but—well, there are limits."

Biddy thought there were, too, and she wondered how much he knew.

"Dolly was very nice when we were at school," she said after a moment. "I suppose people alter."

"I should say they do," he assented heartily.

Biddy was silent, and incongruously her thoughts went back to the night of Marna's dance when Hugh Hubbard had walked in so unexpectedly. It seemed a lifetime ago, and yet she knew it was but a few months. So much had happened since then, and yet so little! Her heart contracted with passionate pity as she remembered the happiness in Marna's face then as she danced with Hubbard.

"Poor darling! Poor darling!" she said involuntarily.

"Poor darling!" young Blair echoed sceptically. "I don't see where it comes in. If ever a girl has fouled her own nest Dolly has."

"I wasn't thinking of Dolly," the Little Flapper answered.

"And how is she? Looking half-dead, I hear. Where in the world are George Paget's eyes?"

Biddy colored in distress.

"I don't think she's really ill," she protested. "She gets easily tired, but she's not really ill."

Mrs. Blair said "Humph! If I had a daughter who looked as bad as she does I should want to know the reason why, and, what's more, I'd find out." She looked at Biddy with her penetrating eyes. "There's none so blind as those who won't see," she said.

Biddy did not answer, but she felt utterly wretched. Was it true that Marna looked so ill? Was it true that both she and George were too blind to see how ill she really was?

"He ought to be told; he ought to be told," Biddy reproached herself. She was tormented by the thought that she had given her word not to tell Paget of Marna's visit to the specialist. It had been wrong of her.

George loved Marna so much. If he knew, surely he would insist that something more was done. There must be other means of saving a life so precious.

The evening was quite spoilt for her; she knew that John Blair must be finding her both dull and uninteresting, but she did not care. Marna came first with her in all the world; everybody else just filled the other places indifferently.

As they drove home John asked what she was thinking about, and she told him almost angrily.

"I am thinking about what you and Mrs. Blair said of Marna."

"It's no use worrying yourself," he urged.

Biddy's tears came.

"I love her best in all the world. She's been an angel to me. You don't know half what she's done—nobody ever will!"

"I expect you've been an angel to her, too," he answered gently. But that only made the Little Flapper angry. She called him an idiot most emphatically, and reminded him that he was not talking to Dolly Benson.

"No, thank the Lord I'm not!" he agreed grimly.

They drove the rest of the way in silence.

When they got to Regent's Park there was a car outside the Pagets' house.

"It's not either of yours," John Blair said, peering into the darkness ahead of them. "Wonder whose it is?"

But they knew when they drew abreast with it.

"It's Dr. Liscard's," Biddy said, and her heart seemed to stand still. She left John precipitately and ran into the house. The doctor was just leaving. George was talking with him in the hall, and Biddy heard him say: "She'll be all right now. Let her sleep. I'll call again in the morning. And remember take her away as soon as you can."

He did not see the Little Flapper; he ran down the steps into the spring night.

Horoscope

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

TUESDAY, JANUARY 22, 1929.

(Copyright, 1929, McClure Syndicate.)

Menacing stars rule today, according to astrology, which finds in the horoscope many sinister aspects.

Money is the ruling power while this configuration prevails and many who covet wealth will attempt to obtain it by nefarious methods.

Business transactions should be carried on with the strictest caution, the seers warn, for there will be much crookedness and lack of high ideals.

Speculation again is subject to the most threatening rule, and the stock market will prove capricious.

This is a time when heavy losses in speculation will over-balance big profits, and women are especially warned to ignore the get-rich-quick temptation.

Farmers may find new cause for discouragement today when weather conditions may cause loss, and troubles of many sorts in various parts of the country.

This is an unlucky day for romance, and they who plight troth under this direction of the stars may find themselves deceived.

Warning is given that crimes, especially robberies, will increase at this time when it is imperative to avoid dark streets or perilous places.

Women who select, this date for shopping should be careful to know their own minds before selecting merchandise, for they are under a sway of the stars making for uncertainty and vacillation.

Astrologers prognosticate as a result of the visit of a strange orb in the solar system great and mighty wonders on the Earth.

A period of testing that must prove the attainments of civiligation is near, it is foretold, when nations will have supreme chances to demonstrate spiritual as well as material power.

While Mars and Saturn rule the winter months, corruption will continue in high places, it is forecast, and great financial institutions will gain the confidence of the people whom they will protect.

In England a strike is indicated, and it may bring to a crisis more than one industrial problem, the seers prognosticate.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year that brings numerous trials, or dangers. They should avoid all hazards and should be wise in all important matters.

Children born on this day may be endowed with complex personalities that are difficult to understand. These subjects of Aquarius often seem to court difficulties, and should be taught stability and poise. They are usually most intelligent.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

THE GREAT

How strange the minds that are concerned
Only with things material!—
The wise who wisdom never learned,
The strong with strength all physical,
The rich who are so very poor,
The great whose fame shall not endure,
The little candles set about
That one swift moment shall snuff out.

The maid who brings the miser's meal
Is always richer than the man,
For one who loves a wealth may feel
The loveless mortal never can.
The slave who dusts the master's books
To heaven for his wisdom looks,
The strong man's lackey, short of breath,
Is stronger in the hour of death.

And what is greatness? I have found
More greatness in a simple heart
Than kings possessed with courts around,
Yet from humanity apart.
The strong, the rich, the great, the wise,
Are not the things that they surmise,
While humbler hearts who heaven sought
For grace are greater than they thought.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY FAST MUSIC MAKES US FEEL LIVELY

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.

(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

"When I hear fast music I can't keep my feet still" says a girl who is fond of dancing. Keeping time to music with the feet is not confined to people who are fond of dancing. It is a normal reaction in all of us.

It is really the heart that is affected by fast music and its increased rate makes your whole system feel more lively. The increased circulation of the blood gives a subjective feeling of elation just as does the drinking of coffee and other stimulants. We indulge in black coffee to sharpen our wits, and because we seem to be more keenly alive under its influence.

A chemical stimulant such as tea and coffee, however, acts directly on the heart. Fast music acts indirectly through the medium of auditory sensations. There is rhythm in the functioning of the heart, and consequently the heart action is susceptible to the rhythm of the music. Fast music makes the heart beat faster and increases circulation. You get the effect of liveliness because you are actually traveling (living) faster.

When the rhythm of the music is slower than the normal heart action, the tendency is exactly the opposite to that of fast music. The heart tries to accommodate itself in either case.

In sorrow and illness the whole organism is slowed down to give the building-up process a chance to get ahead. Hence slow music is appropriate on solemn occasions such as funerals. Since the mourner is not in a mood to exert himself, the music poured into his ears must not do violence to his physical condition. To maintain harmony it must correspond to his mood and confirm it.

In the joyous mood there is more than enough vitality at hand. Fast music mobilizes the excess energy which finds expression in playful activity.

The heart is quite susceptible to influences which retard or quicken its action. Ideas as well as chemical stimulants and music affect its rhythm. Sad news is depressing and may destroy one's appetite while the news that you have inherited a million dollars may cause such violent reaction of the hearts as to endanger your life if you have a weak heart. People have died from good fortune as well as misfortune. The heart is a most obliging servant; it adapts itself to all sorts of conditions.

Uncle Wiggily

A Bed-Time Story by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SNOW BUG

(Copyright, 1929, McClure Syndicate.)

"What's the matter with Tooter this morning?" asked Uncle Wiggily as he jumped downstairs to breakfast in his hollow stump bungalow. "Why hasn't he gone to school?" For the little boy rabbit was sitting in a chair by the window looking out at the snowflakes that were falling from the sky.

"I'm not going to school this morning, Daddicums," said Tooter.

"Did the Lady Mouse Teacher say you could stay home to blow your horn?" asked Uncle Wiggily. For that is how Tooter got his name, because he was so fond of blowing a Christmas horn.

"Oh, no, I'm not staying home to blow my horn," answered Tooter. "But I'll blow it if you want me to. Shall I?"

"Please don't!" begged the rabbit gentleman. "But perhaps you are sick, Tooter, that you are staying home."

"Nothing of the sort!" exclaimed Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy who came in just then to see that Uncle Wiggily had his breakfast pancakes of clover leaves with peach blossom honey in the middle. "Tooter is staying home from school because he is afraid to go out in the snow storm!"

"Are you?" asked Uncle Wiggily of his little rabbit boy.

"Well, I don't like it when it snows!" said Tooter and he was the only little bunny boy who acted this way. "The cold flakes get down my back and make me sneeze."

Uncle Wiggily twinkled his pink nose and said:

"I wouldn't want you to catch cold, Tooter, of course. But we rabbits have fur coats and we are supposed to go out in cold and snowy weather as well as on warm summer days. After breakfast you and I will hop out and I'll take you to school."

"Oh, no, please! I don't want to!" cried Tooter and he ran away to hide under the dish pan so his Daddy couldn't find him to make him go out in the storm.

"Dear me!" said Uncle Wiggily to himself as he ate his breakfast and thought about Tooter. "I hope that rabbit boy of mine isn't going to grow up to be a sissy! I would like him to be strong and brave. Why, even Baby Bunty went to school today in the storm. And I have been out looking for adventures in worse snow than this. What can I do to teach Tooter not to be afraid?"

It was still snowing hard when Uncle Wiggily ate the last pancake and then he hopped out of his bungalow without trying to find Tooter who was still hiding beneath the dish pan.

"Maybe I will have an adventure," said Uncle Wiggily, "that will teach Tooter not to be afraid of snow." So the old rabbit gentleman hopped over the fields and through the woods and pretty soon he came to a flat stump that was like a chair to sit on. "I'll rest here and see what happens," said Mr. Longears.

He was watching the snowflakes drop down from the sky and some of them fell on his nose. They soon melted for the bunny's nose was warm and pink like a little gas stove. The snowflakes that did not melt Uncle Wiggily blew off his nose with a little puff of his warm breath.

Then, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily saw something moving on the ground at the edge of the stump. Something seemed to be crawling along under the snow.

"Maybe it's Jollie or Jillie, one of the mice, or maybe Squeakie Eekie, the cousin mouse," thought Mr. Longears. But a moment later out of the snow popped a brown, fuzzy bug with bright red eyes. It looked at Uncle Wiggily and seemed to be laughing.

"Hello! Who are you?" asked the rabbit.

"I'm a Snow Bug," was the answer. "Oh, what fun I'm having!" and the Bug tumbled around in the snow, now crawling under it through little tunnels and again popping out on top.

"Aren't you afraid to be out in the storm, such a little Bug as you are?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "And don't you feel cold?"

"I keep crawling along so fast I never am cold," buzzed the Bug. "And we Snow Bugs are never afraid in the storms."

Then Uncle Wiggily said: "You are just the one I want to teach my Tooter a les on. Come and let him see you. I'll carry you to my bungalow in my pocket." At the bungalow Uncle Wiggily put the Snow Bug outside on the window sill where Tooter, who was inside, could see him. The rabbit had come out from under the dish pan. And when Tooter saw how brave the little Snow Bug was, letting the white flakes fall all over him, and crawling in and out of holes, why, Tooter said:

"I'll go out in the snow, Daddicums! I'm not afraid any more!" So he put on his rubber boots and went to school and never after that was he afraid of the biggest storm that ever snowed. So everything was all right.

Further Development Is Being Considered

Shares of Pend Oreille Lead and Zinc Company have been prominent on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange recently, and there have been reports that the plans for the further deevlopment of the property would be considered shortly. At the week-end it was reported that L. P. Larsen, president of the company, was on his way east to confer with officials of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company. Interests associated with smelters are understood to have been concerned in the development of the property.

The price of the stock strengthened to $14.25 at the week-end. It will be recalled that a year ago when Mr. Larsen was in the city the stock sold up as high as $25. There was talk of negotiations then with the Smelters interests and Mr. Larsen made known the physical assets and potentialities of the property to the Eastern financiers. It was stated that Smelters wanted the property checked and further geological information. It is expected the forthcoming meeting will reveal the extent to which the ore bodies were extended during the year. Dr. J. J. O'Neill, Professor of Geology at McGill University, Montreal, examined the property last summer and also the Reeves-McDonald.

Any doubts that the deal will be consummated appear to be dissipated by the undertakings already started by Smelters in the Metaline district. It is said C.P.R. will ask Parliament for authority to construct a railway between Trail and Metaline Falls, where the Pend Oreille is located. Interests closely identified with Smelters have become actively associated in development not only of Pend Oreille but Grandview and Reeves-McDonald Mines.

The construction of a railway by the C.P.R., which controls Smelters, is regarded as signifying that developments of major size are impending. That West Kootenay Power and Light Company, another subsidiary of Smelters, is undertaking a huge Hydro-Electric power deevlopment on the Canadian side of the Pend Oreille River, further confirms the reports. Furthermore, Vice-President Jensen of Pend Oreille is credited with a definite statement that an electrolytic reduction plant would be constructed by his company on the east side of the Pend Oreille River, between the town of Metaline and the Grandview property.

Pend Oreille Company is capitalized at 1,400,000 shares, of which 400,000 shares are non-voting preferred. Of the remaining 1,000,000 shares of common stock, the bulk is held by Larsen, Jensen and interests affiliated with Smelters, while it is estimated that the general public hold less than 100,000 shares.

Miller Court and Company of Toronto and Vancouver are advising their clients to purchase Pend Oreille. The stock was sponsored by this firm and went on the market a couple of years ago at 50c.

Chicago Wheat Higher Advance At Liverpool

CHICAGO, Ills., Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press.)— Unexpected upturns in Liverpool wheat quotations helped to make the Chicago wheat market average higher early to-day. The Liverpool advance was ascribed to scarcity of sellers and to improved general demand. Opening unchanged to ¾ up, Chicago wheat later scored advances all around, but then reacted somewhat. Corn started 1-8 to 5-8 higher and afterward held near to the initial figure. Oats were also firmer. Provisions inclined downward.

News From the Mines

Through
Solloway, Mills & Company

Amulet

Results from diamond drilling directed towards the "E" orebody of Amulet may be expected over the week-end, as reported Saturday stated that only 25 feet more drilling was necessary before the favorable horizon would be reached.

Granda

According to information received from our field man Saturday afternoon, the No. 2 vein at the 625 horizon of Granada had just been slashed into. It is too early yet to permit of any estimate of values but the vein was said to be well mineralized.

Robb-Montbray

A Rouyn report states that diamond drilling has been suspended at least temporarily at Nipissing's subsidiary, Robb Montbray. Very high values have been found from time to time at this property but these have not been sufficiently consistent to make ore of any quality.

Crown Reserve

A diamond drill station is being cut at the 1,175 foot level of Crown in preparation for diamond drilling, which it is expected will be started next week. In addition to this, drifting is continuing on the 675. The company is amply financed for work in hand.

Lake Shore

We understand that development of the main vein at the 1,600 foot level of Lake Shore has determined an average width of close to 30 feet for a length of more than 600 feet with average values of $30 per ton. This is probably the most important development at the Lake Shore to date, and it is interesting to note that values and width increase as greater depth are attained.

International Nickel

According to a report from New York, Mr. Robert C. Stanley, president of International Nickel of Canada, confirmed the reports of high grade ore being encountered in the lower levels of the Frood mine. He states the foot wall has now been reached at the 1,200, 1,600, 1,800 foot levels, and results thus far obtained fully meet expectations, in that the ore is exceptionally high grade. At the 1,200 foot horizon from work accomplished to date 100 feet averages 5% copper-nickel and values increase down to the 1,800, where 62 feet of ore has been cut averaging 22.5% copper-nickel. Work has progressed sufficiently to report exact tonnage or definite average metal contents, especially precious metals. He states that from exploration work thus far accomportation work thus far accomgrade ore has been proven to meet requirements for many years.

Cattle Trade Slow On Toronto Market

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 21 (Canadian Press)—Cattle trade on the Dominion Livestock Exchange opened slow with bids 25 to 50 cents lower. Few early sales were made.

Calves were strong at $16 to $17 for choice.

Hogs were unsettled with prospects at $9.75 f.o.b. for selects of $10.75 off car.

Lambs were 50c to $1.00 lower at $13.50 to $14.00 for the best. Sheep were steady at $7.50 per cwt. for the top.

SISCOE REGISTERS SUBSTANTIAL GAIN

Features Trading With Big Missouri On Standard Mining Exchange.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—Big Missouri and Siscoe dominated the market on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange this morning and both recorded substantial advances. Missouri sales totalled more than 144,000 shares and sold up rapidly to a peak of 1.80 and then strengthened at 1.72 for a net gain of 22 cents. Siscoe with more than 74,000 transactions, the second highest total of the morning, held at the peak of 1.25, an increase of 13 points.

Wright-Hargreaves continued to move forward and after reaching 2.45 sold freely at 2.20 for a net gain of 21 cents. Amulet strengthened 5 points higher at 3.25, and Grandview moved up 8 points to 90. Noranda headed the higher-priced issues and sold as high as 65.25, firming at 64.50 for a net gain of 2.50. Pend Oreille also reached a high mark of 16.25 and strong at 15.90, an increase of 65 points.

Nipissing was subject to liquidation and dropped down 15 points to 3.25, Hudson Bay was down 50 to 20.50, and Central Manitoba 3 to 68.

DEFEATS SEABACK

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(Canadian Press).—Ralph Greenleaf defeated Charles Seaback, Canadian champion by more than 350 points in their 1,500 point pocket billiard match completed here Saturday night. The final score was: Greenleaf 1,500, Seaback 1,144; total innings, 119.

NEW YORK CURB WAS IRREGULAR

Coppers, Merchandising and Railroad Issues Make Substantial Gains.

U. S. STEEL DOWN.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—A drop of 5 points in U. S. Steel unsettled speculative sentiment on the stock market to-day, and price trends turned sharply irregular. Coppers, merchandising shares and some of the rails, however, made substantial progress.

The drop in steel was regarded as a natural result of the sharp rise of more than 20 points in late sessions of last week, but it upset the plans for the present, at least, of those who were looking for another major bull movement under its leadership.

There was little in the day's news to affect the market, but the uncertainties surrounding the credit situation overlooked during the vigorous bidding up of selective issues late last week, again were viewed with misgivings. It was pointed out that brokers' loans, only about $10,000,000 below their record figure early last week, are now undoubtedly at a new high for all time.

Continuance of a 6 per cent. rate for call money encouraged a general steadying of the market around midday, but announcement that one dealer had further increased his rates for bankers' acceptances marred the credit outlook. Time money held firm.

Anaconda led the coppers with an advance of more than 5 points to a new high at 127¼. Kennecott mounted about 2 points, and Calumet and Hecla improved on declaration of another quarterly dividend of $1. Chile rose 4 points to 58, only to fall back to 53.

TORONTO CURB PRICES HIGHER

Market Has Upward Trend, With Prominent Issues Leading Trading.

NICKEL DOWN.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—An unusual upward trend established itself on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, and in a number of cases prices created a new for all time.

Although trading was practically monopolized by the more recent leaders there was a light scattering throughout the list. International Nickel, after opening ½ point lower at 65½, reached a high of only 66 and at noon had weakened to 64 for a net loss of $2.

Canadian Dredge in active trading climbed to a new high of 85 for a further advance of 5 points, while International Petroleum contined in its popularity and after reaching 65¾ firmed one point lower for a net advance of 2¼ points. Super Test followed closely on the heels of its leader, moving 1¾ points higher to 42, and British American reached an extreme peak of 57¾ to firm one point higher at 56. Tip Top Tailors retained its full strength at 46, an advance of one point, while Page-Hersey at 130¾ and Canadian Canners Second Preferred at 28 were 1¾ and 1½ points higher, respectively.

A number of single point advances included: B. C. Power at 60, Gypsum and Alabastine at 90½, Steel of Canada at 80, Canadian Vinegar at 35, and Canadian Canners First Preferred to 91.

Abitibi Pulp and Paper Mills in a single sales lot sold 3¼ points higher to 50¼, while Brazilian in a fairly heavy turnover sold ½ point higher to 79½.

McKinnon Industries eased off two points to 66, while Massey-Harris was inactive and sold a point higher to 93 and Cockshutt Plow held firm at 49½.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press.) — Foreign exchange steady; Demand rates (in cents); Great Britain 484 5-8; Canadian Dollars at ¼ of one per cent. discount.

CANADA'S HIGH PER CAPITA RATE OF ELECTRICAL INSTALLATIONS

Already this country has the second largest per capita installation in the world, with its 513 horse-power per 1,000 of population, being only exceeded by Norway. To-day $900,000,000 representing approximately $100 for every person in Canada is invested in hydro-electric plants. Numerous undertakings are in the initial stages of development and others in active prospect which when completed will result in an addition to the total installation in the Dominion of over 2,000,000 horse-power and require an investment of at least $200,000,000.

The steady increase in hydro-electric development has been in evidence from coast to coast. In Ontario the Hydro-Electric Power Commission has just placed in operation a 220,000-volt transmission line to connect its Leaside sub-station with the great Paugan Falls plant of the Gatineau Power Company, 230 miles distant. The 220,000-volt transformers and oil circuit breakers used in this undertaking are the largest ever built on the American continent, and the voltage at which they operate is a high as used anywhere in Canada or the United States. To supply power over this line, the Gatineau Power Company has made an initial installation at the Paugan Falls plant, 35 miles north of Ottawa, of six units of 34,000 horse-power each. This company is now adding another 34,000 horse-power unity to it Chelsea plant, where 132,000 horse-power is already generated, and one of 24,000 horse power to its plant at Farmer's Station, now producing 72,000 horse-power.—D. C. Durland, president, Canadian General Electric Co., Ltd.

CONFEDERATION LIFE INCREASES ITS INCOME TO $16,141,000

New Business Written Last Year by Association Totals $57,273,000.

SHAREHOLDERS MEET

Payment of Policyholders and Beneficiaries Amounted to $5,875,000.

"In the year 1914 the income from all sources was slightly in excess of $3,660,000; in the year just closed it was $16,141,000," said Peleg Howland, president of the Confederation Life Association, at the annual meeting in the head office in Toronto on January 15th.

"The payments to policyholders and beneficiaries," he continued, "were then $1,869,000; in 1928, $5,875,000. The total assets were $19,814,000 on December 31, 1914; in 1928, $64,870,000. The business written in 1914 was $11,703,000; in 1928, $57,273,000. Total business in force at the end of 1914, $71,400,000; now, $291,724,000. Very remarkable progress."

A statement presented to the meeting showed the total of both participating and non-participating assurance to be $291,724,524. As the shareholders unanimously agreed to the assumption of the assets and liabilities of the Security Life Assurance Company by payment of a sum of $181,000, this will automatically add about ten million dollars of insurance to the total as soon as the treasury board has given its consent and the the court has appointed a liquidator for the Security Life. In other words, the total of assurance written will exceed $300,000,000. When Mr. V. R. Smith, the actuary, remarked that the company's total assurance written had trebled in nine years, a shareholder present asked what that would mean by 1940. The prompt reply was: "A billion dollars."

Professor M. A. Mackenzie of the University of Toronto, as the independent actuary selected to make a report on the agreement, put the position of every person concerned in the merger succinctly as follows:

"The policyholders of the Security Life will received the benefit of a contract with a strong and well-established company and are fully protected.

"The policyholders of the Confederation Life Association are not directly affected because the profits on the non-participating business of the Confederation Life belongs to the shareholders.

The shareholders of the Security Life will receive a fair price for the business of a company which they could not have continued to operate with safety to their policyholders, except at serious loss to themselves.

"The shareholders of the Confederation Life Association will receive the prospective profits from the increased volume of non-participating business. The improved position of each Security Life policyholder should decrease the heavy lapse rate which has existed among them, so that it is reasonable to expect that, at least, a majority of these policyholders will continue their policies with the Confederation Life Association. If this expectation should be realized, the non-participating business of the Confederation Life will be substantially increased, and the increased profits resulting from such increase should be sufficient to produce a fair return upon the cost of acquisition."

Two Calls Are Made

The report of the directors, signed by the president and by the vice-president and general manager, Mr. C. S. Macdonald, states that, in order to increase the paid-up capital stock of the Confederation Life Association above $100,000 two calls of 5 per cent., payable December 31 last and March 31, 1929, were and will be made, the calls being met by providing an extra dividend from funds derived solely from the non-participating branch. New insurances, including bonus additions and revivals, amounted to $57,273,653, an increase of $6,401,358 over 1927.

The net revenue from premiums and annuities was $12,658,420, an increase of $1,175,443 over the previous year. The net revenue from interest and rents amounted to $3,305,219, being $391,438 in excess of the figures for the previous year. The surplus earned on the year's operations was $2,454,366, and again exceeded that of any previous year in the history of the association.

The total death claims for the year after deducting re-assurances, amounted to $2,089,674, an increase of $247,763 over the previous year.

Matured endowments amounted to $666,419, which is a decrease of $62,967 over the previous year. Total payments to policyholders during the year amounted to $5,989,240, an increase of $526,657.

$4,255,650 in Loans

Applications for mortgage loans amounting to $4,750,600 were received and loans amounting to $4,255,650 were approved. Payments received on account of principal on mortgages during the year amounted to $1,347,387, while $4,026,897 was paid out, including some amounts approved in the previous year. The increase in the mortgage investments for the year amounted to $2,680,330.

Loans made on the security of the association's policy amounted to $4,196,752, and were $1,534,054 in excess of the amount repaid during the year.

Both in the president's address and the report of the directors feeling reference was made to the death on July 4, 1928, of the former president, J. K. Macdonald, who had held policy No. 1 in the company and had given fifty-seven years of his life to the affairs of the association. The death of H. R. Tilley on Feb. 6 was also a greatly regretted loss during the year. J. Tower Body, general manager of agencies, was given a year's leave of absence in recognition of almost half a century of servitude with the association.

The Board of Directors remains the same as a year ago, except for the appointment of Peleg Howland as president to succeed the late J. K. Macdonald, and R. S. Waldie to fill the vacancy in the vice-presidency caused by the elevation of Mr. Howland. Charles P. Smith was appointed director to fill the vacancy still remaining.

ARGENTINE WHEAT CROP HARVESTED

Eastern Coast of South American Republic Sweltering Under Heat Wave.

TORONTO, Ont., January 21. (Canadian Press). — According to a bulletin received by the Royal Bank of Canada under date of January 3, the wheat crop of the Argentine had then been completely harvested, except in the extreme south of that South American Republic.

Cables from Buenos Aires yesterday recorded that the eastern coast of the Argentine was swelteringg under a heat wave, the official temperatures indicating the hottest weather in two years.

Next to Canada the Argentine is the greatest exporter of wheat to Europe from the American continents.

Total exports for the three leading exporters for the crop year, August 1, 1927, to July 31, 1928, were: Canada, 270,097,000; Argentina, 169,419,000, and the United States, 141,751,000. Figures for the exports to Europe are not available, but as a large part of the wheat exported from these three countries goes to Europe, the ratio of exports to Europe should be the same as that of the total exports.

WEEKLY TRADE REPORT

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 19 (Canadian Press).—The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, Limited, for week ending January 19, 1929, is as follows:

Halifax.—Wholesalers report normal conditions. The weather had been so mild that it has materially affected the usual retail sales of winter goods which, to date, are considerably lower than usual, especially in the rubber and clothing lines. The absence of snow is also hampering the lumber operations.

St. John.—A normal volume of business is being transacted by wholesalers and retailers generally. Collections fair to slow.

Quebec City.—Wholesalers report boots and shoes and groceries rather quiet; dry goods, fair; retail trade, quiet. Recent snow has improved the employment situation greatly.

Montreal.—A good volume of sales is reported in wholesale groceries, hardware; dry goods still somewhat quiet; boots and shoes moving well. Clothing busy. Advance orders for ladies' wear coming in well for Spring trade. Retail business in all lines has been very fair. Collections generally show some improvement.

Toronto.—The wholesale trade continues much the same as it has since the Christmas rush ended. It is quiet, but normal with many houses working on sorting orders and orders for Spring delivery. Retail trade continues fair, and compares quiet favorably with this time last year. The colder weather has helped dealers who are depending on the sales of cold weather goods. Collections are falling off slightly but can still be considered very fair.

Winnipeg—Manufacturing continues satisfactory. Wholesale groceries fair; dry goods, boots and shoes and rubbers and clothing lines normal. Placing orders coming in very nicely. Retail trade quiet, but improving. Collections fair.

Regina.—A good volume is reported in wholesale groceries, dry goods fair and show a slight improvement over last week; boots and shoes and hardware fair. Retail trade is fair to good. Collections generally fair.

Saskatoon. — Whole groceries are rather quiet, but this is only reasonable. Dry goods and hardware, fair; fruit and confectionery, good. Boots and shoes report placing orders good, but current business rather quiet. Retail trade is fair, collections, fair.

Calgary.—Business generally appears to be particularly good in cities, but is inclined to be a little spotty in country districts. Building supplies trades very good and most lines show increases over this time last year. Collections some districts are difficult to make, but generally appear to be fair.

Edmonton.—Business for this time of year quite normal. Dry goods and boots and shoes report slight increase since recent cold snap. Collections better.

Vancouver. — Manufacturing continues satisfactory. Wholesale hardware, groceries, dry goods and gent's furnishings report business good for this time of the year. Ladies' wear and boots and shoes quiet; retail trade fairly good. Collections, fair to good.

HIT AND RUN MOTORIST.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., January 21 (Canadian Press). — George Carrick, 63, Eric Beach, was instantly killed here last night when struck by an unknown motorist who did not stop. Carrick was left lying on the roadside, where he was later found by a taxi driver.

CHURCH SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

Several Items of Business Discussed at Meeting of Dunsford Ladies' Aid.

AGED COUPLE HONORED.

DUNSFORD, Jan. 21 (Examiner Correspodenece).—The January meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the United Church was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Gordan and although it rained all afternoon there were fifteen present. The meeting was opened by singing hymn, "Go Labor On, Spend and Be Spent," after which Mrs. J. J. Thurston led in prayer. Mrs. James Brien read the scripture lesson from Psalm No. 91. Several items of business were discussed. The purchase of some fittings for the parsonage was left in the hands of a committee. Mrs. W. M. Thurston, Mrs. J. P. Kennedy and Mrs. Silas Thurston. Mrs. Robert Brien gave a paper on "England's Drink Bill," in which it was stated that a large quantity of liquor was still being consumed in that country but that the amount of liquor consumption was gradually growing less and less. Mrs. Everson read a paper, "The Golden Prescription," which through the narration of an actual happening showed that to do something for a person every day would cause one to feel kindly toward that person. Mrs. Thomas James Thurston and Mrs. Robert Brien assisted the hostess in serving lunch.

Celebrates Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald of the Scotch Line, 5th concession of Verulam, two of the oldest pioneers of Victoria County, on Friday, Jan. 18, celebrated the 57th anniversary of their marriage amid congratulations from many friends and relatives. Mrs. McDonald, nee Letissua Lithgow, whose father was the late John Lithgow of Bobcaygeon, is the eldest of a family of fourteen children, and on Saturday, Jan. 18, celebrated her 75th birthday. Besides herself, James Lithgow, of Bobcaygean, is the only member of the family now living. Mrs. McDonald was born three miles north and east of her present home, and although she has lost the sight of one eye and does not hear well, enjoys the best of health, says "she never had any lenghty or serious illness" and moves about like a young woman of twenty-five years.

Mr. McDonald was born two miles north of their present home where he has lived for the past seventy years. He is a descendant of the McDonald clan of Scotland, a Liberal in politics and a Presbyterian in religion and helped to build the first Presbyterian church in Dunsford, which was a log structure and which he states was usually seated beyond capacity in those early days.

With the exception of ten years spent in Lindsay, both Mr. and Mrs. McDonald have lived all their days in the community where they were born. They helped to convert the forest into a rich agricultural land from which more than fifty bushels per acre of wheat have been harvested. Mrs. McDonald says "when she was first married it was a common thing to have a wolf lying on the door step sunning himself and that when she carried water from a spring some distance through the woods for house use it was necessary to keep with the cattle lest she should be attacked by wolves or other wild animals."

The aged couple have two sons and four daughters: Peter of Taft, California; William, at home; Mrs. Nicholas Tully, of Bobcaygean; Mrs. James Morrison, of Lindsay; Mrs. Joseph Maunders, Toronto, and Miss Minnie, at home. There are three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

RADIO CONFERENCE MEETS IN OTTAWA

that of the 639 channels, only 88 were left for division with Canada, were incorrect. The whole intermediate band between 50 metres and 200 metres was open for discussion. There could be nothing contentious about 394 of these because their allocation had already been settled by International conference. They were suitable for mutual use by all countries on the continent.

Many Peculiar Problems.

A peculiar problem attaching to this band was that the signals carried to such a distance that a station of very small power might seriously hamper a transmitter of much greater strength. It was essential that certain channels should be freed from any danger of conflict. There would not be a large number of such cleared waves.

The conference will open this afternoon at four o'clock. It is expected that to-day's session will be merely formal in character and that the members will to-morrow enter into a discussion of the needs of the two countries.

The United States' delegation included Judge E. O. Sykes, chairman, D. Terrell and O. Caldwell, of the Federal Radio Commission and Lieut. Commander T. A. M. Craven and Dr. D. K. Dellinger, Technical Experts. F. A. Mayer, counsellor of the United States' Legation here, will also represent his government. Canada's representatives are: A. Johnston, Deputy Minister of Marine, C. P. Edwards, Director of Radio, W. A. Rush and J. W. Bain of the Department and L. Beaudry of the Department of External Affairs.

Trent River

TRENT RIVER, Jan. 19—The members of the Ladies' Aid of the United Church held a quilting bee on Wednesday in the dining hall of the church.

Mr. Robert Carnrite and family have been confined to their home suffering from the 'flu.

Mr. Percy Tyler has gone to Peterborough where he has secured a position.

ANNIVERSARY IS BIG SUCCESS

Rev. W. H. Young Conducts Special Services in George Street Church.

SERVICES WELL ATTENDED.

The Sunday School anniversary of George Street United Church was observed at three services yesterday—with Rev. W. Harold Young, M.A., B.D., of St. Paul's Church, Toronto, as the special speaker. Despite the cold wind, the church was well filled at all the services and Mr. Young was given a warm welcome by his former members and friends. At the morning and afternoon services the members of the Sunday School assembled in the school auditorium and marched in by classes to the church, led by the tiny tots of the Primary Department. Mr. George Robertson, superintendent, was in charge, and the Sunday School Orchestra greatly assisted with the service.

Rev. J. E. Todd led in prayer and spoke a few words welcoming Rev. W. H. Young back to George Street pulpit.

Mr. Young said that in no place did he feel more at home than in George Street, and that he was indeed pleased to be there again.

At the afternoon service Rev. Mr. Young was again the speaker, and he complimented the Sunday School on its progress, saying that nowhere in Canada, from Halifax to Vancouver, was there such a Sunday School as George Street United School. Mr. Cunningham was leader of the orchestra and Mr. George Robertson received the well-merited praise for loyalty and years of splendid service. The boys of Mr. Hamilton's class sang a chorus and the orchestra rendered several selections.

Mr. Young told the story of a boy who was exceedingly curious in all matters and who finally after much thinking began to wonder "What kind of a person is God," a fairy dream brought him his answer, "God is love."

Evening Service

At the evening service the scripture lesson was read by Rev. J. E. Todd from Paul's epistle to the Ephesians, 1 chapter, 15-23 verses, and Rev. Mr. Young took his text from part of 22 and 23 verses: "To the church which is his body."

He said the church is more criticized than an other institution. Some say it is too broad, some say its too narrow, some say too much form, others that it is too barren with no appeal to the ascetic sense. Some people say that the church has outlived its day and is not essential to modern life. Scrap the church and find some other organization to work in: there is nothing else in sight. "I claim that the church is still essential to modern life and I intend to believe in the church because of what the church is—as St. Paul says "Which is his body". We have long thought of the church as though it was a human organized club or a service league but we have had a wrong conception. "The church is his body' a divine thing. Take for example, ourselves we have two selves, an inner soul which remembers, forgets, loves, hates — and an outward body. The inner body is incapable of expressing itself without the outward body which expresses itself. The outward self is the visible active reality which contains the inner self. The Church of St. Paul exists that he may have a body, a visible present reality which may become active. Long ago Christ had a responsible body for a few short months in Galilee. The Church of old Jerusalem a body visible and active. Do you believe in the church? Nothing like it has ever moved across the stage of time. It has made nations and brought rulers and kings on bended knees, in adoration. If only Christ could get working in men and classes—people in sin strife, even our homes and our very civilization.

Do we need the Church, the visible body of our Lord and Savour?

"I believe in the Church because of what it has done. Sixteen hundred years ago a race of people, primitive, uncultured worshippers, Odin and Thor, which we have perpetuated in names of the days of the week, lived in a few islands north-west of Europe. They were our ancestors, yours and mine, and because of the coming of the Christian religion from a degraded race became one of the greatest nations of the world, and has become the refuge of the weak and oppressed. This spirit also made possible the League of Nations. The Church which was kindled in Galilee has kept alive all these finer qualities. Is the Church perfect? No, but do we give up our patriotism because the flag of Britain once flew over slaves. Our belief in education because one university boy failed in his profession. In spite of small weakness, small conceptions of people who have tried to block its progress, the Church of God has gone on the custodian of sacred things. May each one of us in our own way be one of this loyal body."

The choir delighted the large audience with two beautiful anthems and a solo by Mrs. G. F. Liddle, with violin obligato by Arnold Spencer was much enjoyed.

MISSION CIRCLE HOLDS MEETING

Interesting Program Presented at Gilmour Baptist Church Society Meeting.

PAPERS READ.

(Examiner Correspondence)

BRIDGENORTH, Jan. 19.— The Women's Mission Circle and the weekly prayer meeting of Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church were held in the Church on Wednesday evening, the subject for the evening being "Grande Light". An interesting paper on "The lives of Boys and Girls at Feller Institute" was read by Miss Phyllis Moore and Mrs. Harold Archer read a paper on the work of Dr. G. McFaul. In the absence of Mrs. A. B. Mann, Miss Phyllis Moore gave the paper on "Romanism as a Denomination." A missionary duet was given by Mrs. James Young and Mrs. Joseph R. Mann which was much enjoyed. The ladies decided to hold their thankoffering on Sunday morning, January 20, when Rev. Mr. Haddow, returned missionary from Bolivia, will be the speaker.

HEAVY DEATH TOLL IN WAR VETERANS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 21. — (Canadian Press). — Indicating a death toll of about 1,000 a month the Civil War Veterans pension roll stood at 68,788 at the end of 1928 more than 6,000 less than the middle of last year.

The present Civil War pension roll is in contrast, the Interior Department said in announcing these figures, with that of 30 years ago when it reached its high tide of 745,000.

The number of widows of Civil War veterans also has decreased 191,000 of them being on the pension list at the end of the year, but this was 5,000 less than six months ago.

The Spanish-American War veterans are increasing on the rolls 173,000, an increase of 10,000 in six months and 27,000 widows.

RAILWAY HEAD SEES HOPEFUL FUTURE

With Shipbuilding Industry Lively and Others Strengthening, Improvement Expected.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(By the Canadian Press).—The railways of England have long been in a depressed state but a hopeful note is struck by Sir Ralph Wedgwood, chairman of the Railway General Managers' Conference. He admits railway revenues last year showed a decline of $50,000,000 but points out some industries notably shipbuilding, are lively and there is reasonable hope the coal trade and heavy industries may respond to the substantial help they are now receiving under the Government de-rating scheme.

"More hopeful still is the evidence that railway management and railway labor are working together to increase output and reduce costs. I feel confident the past year will show a great reduction in working expenses and that this year we shall see further striking developments along these lines," said Sir Ralph.

"Road motor transport has come to occupy a large place in the minds of railwaymen, since the railways obtained their road powers. In the first place the railways have celebrated their access to the roads by a new and concerted effort to attract the public back to rail. The extension of week-end tickets, the extension of period excursion bookings the raising of the half-price age—these are only a few of the improvements which have been granted during the last six months of 1928.

"The railway companies are discussing problems of co-ordination and partnership with existing road transport companies. We hope to see the establishment of joint services which will give the public fuller facilities than they have ever had before. There is no doubt that before many months have passed the railway companies will be very much more fully represented on the roads than they have been hitherto."

In fact some steps have already been taken along this line. The Great Western Railway has joined with the National Omnibus Company in promoting a new company with a capital of $5,000,000 to take over all passenger services in an agreed area in the West of England. This will be the south of Exeter and parts of Cornwall. This offers advantages in the way of co-ordination of services and harmonized time tables that are obvious but the uncertain factor from the public point of view, is whether the elimination of hitherto keen competition is in the public interest. Another striking move in the motorbus services becomes operative in Sheffield, where the corporation has joined the bus service to those already run by the railways serving the city and district.

Bequeathes Trust Fund To Make Men Happier

NEW YORK, N. Y., Jan. 21|— A trust fund of $1,000,000 has been set aside by Lucius N. Littauer, retired glove manufacturer, to make men happier.

In a letter to the trustees Mr. Littauer gave them a free hand to spend the principal as well as the income as they saw fit "to enlarge the realms of human knowledge, to promote the general moral, mental and physical improvement of society so that the sum of human welfare and wisdom may be increased and the cause of better understanding among all mankind promoted."

The Bell Telephone Company and the American Company

THE relationship between the Bell Telephone Company of Canada and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company consists of:—

1. stock —the American Telephone and Telegraph Company owns thirty-one per cent of the Bell Telephone Company's shares.
2. contract—the Bell Telephone Company owns a contract by which it has access to patents and the A. T. & T. supplies research products and other assistance on a sliding scale of payment.

The stock relationship has existed since the Canadian company began in 1880. The contract was made in 1923. Each of these is highly important to telephone users in Ontario and Quebec and each will now be explained.

how stock relation began

ALEXANDER Graham Bell invented the telephone after experiments in Brantford and Boston and obtained the patent in 1876.

He gave the Canadian patent to his father, Professor Melville Bell.

He kept the United States patent and made a trust agreement with three other men in Boston, who had helped him.

The three other men were Watson, Sanders and Hubbard. The trusteeship was formed in Boston in 1877 and was called the American Bell Telephone Company. Its purpose was to develop Bell's basic idea for commercial use.

In Canada, the telephone was taken up as a side issue by telegraph companies and by several local companies which either obtained a patent license from Melville Bell or did not worry much about patents.

This situation became very confused. Those who had faith in the telephone saw the need of uniting these divergent activities and Hugh C. Baker, of Hamilton, secured a charter from the Dominion Government incorporating the Bell Telephone Company of Canada.

Mr. Baker's object was to bring the various Canadian companies together and to buy the Canadian patent from Melville Bell.

But the money to do this could not be raised and Melville Bell sold his Canadian patent back to the American Bell Telephone Company which, by this time, was becoming firmly established.

money is finally provided

AS owners of the Canadian patent the American company sent the late C. F. Sise to Canada with a view to uniting the various Canadian groups in one strong company which could take over the patents and develop the business.

Mr. Sise found that while these things could be accomplished $400,000 would be required, and only about two-thirds of this money could be raised in Canada. Most Canadian investors still regarded the telephone as what the London Times had called "another American humbug".

Finally the American company agreed to supply the necessary third of the $400,000. Mr. Baker agreed to turn over the charter of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada and Mr. Sise undertook to bring the divergent groups together.

He accomplished this at the end of 1880 and the Bell Telephone Company of Canada began its career.

development since 1880

THE American Bell Telephone Company is now the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. With its associated companies it operates the Bell system throughout the United States, with over fourteen million telephones.

In Canada there has been similar development. The late C. F. Sise who organized the company and became its president nine years later, built the system from nothing to 243,000 telephones. His son is president of the company today and the system has grown to over 700,000 telephones.

Throughout this amazing growth the stock relation between the two companies has remained almost the same. There has been no attempt on the part of the American company either to increase its holding to a controlling interest or to withdraw its support.

The telephone system in Ontario and Quebec today is owned by 15,800 shareholders.

Of these, 95 per cent live in Canada and own 62 per cent of the total shares.

The American company holds 31 per cent of the shares and the ownership of these shares is divided again among the American company's 450,000 shareholders.

The Bill before Parliament

THE Bill which the Bell Telephone Company is bringing before parliament is an amendment to the company's act of incorporation, to allow the company to seek new capital from investors for extension of the telephone system.

Previous advertisements have given the details of this situation and of the relationship between the telephone company and the Northern Electric Company.

This advertisement tells of the relationship with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The remaining 7 per cent of the stock is held in the British Isles and other countries.

The average individual holding is 27 shares, which yield an income of $216 a year. The largest individual holding is 1510 shares, which is one quarter of one per cent of the total.

effect of stock relation

THE Bell Telephone Company is thus an example of a great enterprise which has become thoroughly democratized.

Although it has become one of the largest institutions of the country, it has never exploited the public, nor has it itself been exploited for the benefit of either individuals or groups.

It is controlled today by an increasing body of Canadian shareholders and managed by Canadian directors to serve the Canadian public. And it is serving the public at rates which are the lowest in the world for comparable service. To these circumstances the stock relationship with the American company has contributed with three definite advantages for Canadian telephone users:

1. It has been a source of new money for development.
2. It has been a safeguard against exploitation.
3. It has been a source of experience and advice.

1. a source of new money

THE growth of the telephone system has depended on the willingness of shareholders to invest more money in it through purchase of new shares.

The American company, as a shareholder, has never failed to respond. In good times or bad, whenever new money has been needed, it has consistently subscribed for the full amount of new shares allotted to it.

For each share thus subscribed the American company has paid full par value, or over par, and in this way has supplied for the development of the telephone system in Ontario and Quebec approximately one-third of the new share capital required.

2. safeguard against exploitation

DURING the forty-eight years of its history the telephone company has not been overlooked by the type of promoter who seeks to profit by securing control of large companies. There have been several attempts by such groups to secure control of the telephone company.

Had control passed to such a group the probable plan would have been to re-capitalize the company, to issue bonus stock or to distribute to shareholders such funds as the profits on the plant sold to western provincial governments in 1907 and 1908 which, instead, have gone into new plant.

Any one of these things would mean increased cost of telephone service in Ontario and Quebec, and the management would be powerless to prevent them if a change in control took place.

But each attempt to exploit the telephone company has failed. It has failed because the substantial holding of the company's shares by the American company has been in the hands of men whose interest in the telephone business is the progress of the industry and not its financial manipulation.

3. a source of experience

FOR over forty years, from the beginning of the company in 1880 until the making of the service contract in 1923, the American company extended to the Bell Telephone Company of Canada the results of its experience in some of the services now provided by contract.

These services were extended without charge because of the friendly relationship and the financial interest between the two companies dating from the circumstances of 1880.

Some of the services are described in the paragraphs below relating to the contract. They represent saving in costs for telephone users and increased efficiency in operation.

THE other part of the relation between the Bell Telephone Company of Canada and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company is the contract, made in 1923.

Prior to 1923 there was no definite service agreement between the two companies. The Bell Telephone Company received some services from the American company but, as stated above, it received them through goodwill and without charge.

The associated companies in the Bell system of the United States were receiving similar service but they were each bearing a share of the cost.

Prior to 1923 some of these associated companies had pointed out that an arrangement under which they paid for these services while the Canadian company paid nothing was unfair.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company agreed with this view and advised the Canadian company that services could no longer be given free of charge.

The executive discussed the question fully with heads of departments and decided that the services rendered by the American company were too valuable to be abandoned. Accordingly they negotiated with the management of the American company and the contract of 1923 resulted.

The advantages which the Bell Telephone Company has secured by the contract are:

1. use of all products and developments of Bell research laboratories;
2. rights to the use of all inventions;
3. experience in operating methods.

In return for these the Bell Telephone Company pays a fee which was approximately one and one-half per cent of its gross revenue and has since been reduced.

The value of these services is indicated in the paragraphs below so far as their highly technical nature will permit.

1. products of research

THE research laboratories of the Bell system in the United States, operated by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, are the largest industrial research laboratories in the world.

A staff of five thousand is engaged in solving operation problems or in seeking improvements. They are the men who have made it possible to speak across the continent and over the Atlantic and who now are raising the curtain on the new miracle of television.

The Bell Telephone Company's contract gives the services of these five thousand workers. It means that for each three employees engaged in operating the system in Ontario and Quebec there is one seeking constantly to improve it.

No single company could hope to support such a research organization as this. It becomes possible only through the co-operation of a number of companies.

In these research laboratories men work on problems both great and small. Their object is always to find a better and more economical way.

One important example of the results they achieve is the "loading coil", which transmits messages over wires fine as hair. It used to be necessary to have heavy wires, increasing in size with distance, and the heavy wires were costly. The loading coil has saved millions of dollars in telephone costs.

The loading coil now in use was evolved by research workers from the formula of Dr. Michael Pupin. It illustrates the fact that without such laboratories few patents would have any practical value, because a patent—like the Pupin formula—is usually but the germ of an idea.

The development of cable is another illustration of what research has done for telephone service. Conduits beneath city streets now carry 1200 pairs of wires in a single duct where the limit once was 50 pairs.

Beneath the pavement of Yonge Street, Toronto, and St. Catherine Street, Montreal there are conduits which have served without replacement since 1891 because the high development of cable saves enlargement of ducts. And with increased cable capacity has come also better quality of transmission.

It is by such things that the research clause of the contract means money in the pockets of Canadian telephone users. The telephone becomes more valuable to the user every year by its improving efficiency and because it is constantly being connected with thousands of new telephones. But this development does not bring increased rates because increasing costs are largely offset by the economies which research produces.

2. use of all inventions

THE American Telephone and Telegraph Company, after fifty years of development, controls over 5,000 patents which cover every phase of telephone operation.

The service contract of 1923 places the American company under obligation to take out Canadian patents on new devices which the Canadian company may wish to use or protect.

This patent service is provided under the contract. And if the Canadian company decides to terminate the contract provision has been made to continue all patent rights.

3. experience in operating

BECAUSE the telephone is constantly improving and because the system itself is constantly growing larger the methods of operation in every department are always changing.

Changes in methods of operation come about through trial and comparison and sometimes the process of experiment is costly and difficult until the best method is found.

By its contract with the American company the Bell Telephone Company is relieved of a great deal of this cost and difficulty. The contract gives the Bell Telephone Company a steady supply of reports and statistics regarding new methods tried out by the associated companies of the American system. In this way experiments which might be unsuccessful and even disastrous are avoided.

When a change in method is made by the Bell Telephone Company it is to a well tested method of which the merits have been proved and the services of specialists from the American company's staff are available, by the contract, to assist in making the change.

An example is the change from the manual to the dial system. The perfection of the dial instrument is a mechanical miracle, but it is not enough. The method by which the change could be effected without disrupting the whole system is almost equally important. For an operating company to find such a method by experiment would be a costly and troublesome process. The Bell Telephone Company secured the best method after it had been proven and has had the services of experts to put this method into practice.

In every department of the system, commercial, traffic, plant, accounting and engineering, scores of similar examples could be given, some great and some small, but all contributing to the efficiency and economical operation of the system.

protection for telephone users

EACH of the three main points secured by the service contract is to the definite advantage of those who use the telephone system in Ontario and Quebec.

And the stock relationship, by which the American company lends its strength to the management of the Bell Telephone Company but has no control of the company's operation, is a protection for the telephone users and an assurance against manipulation.

COUNCIL MEETS AT LAEFIELD

Standing Committee Appointed For Year—Joins Good Roads Association.

MOTIONS ADOPTED.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 19 (Examiner Correspondence).—At the meeting of the municipal council of the village of Lakefield, held on Monday evening in the council chamber, the following committees were appointed, with the first-named gentleman as chairman:

Finance—Councillors Strickland and Charlton; Roads—Councillors Tedford and Harrison; Property—The whole council, with Councillor Harrison as chairman; Charity—Councillors Charlton and Strickland.

The following appointments were made: A. B. Burrows to the Library Board for three years; H. R. Wagar to the High School Board for three years; Robert Duff, Thomas Watson and Stephen Harrison to the Park Committee. The Property Committee was appointed as board of management of the hall. Communications were received from the Ontario Good Roads Association, re membership; the Trent Waterways Association, re advertising; A. H. Clark, fire chief, the year's report, and from Dr. Fraser.

On motion, it was decided that the council join the Good Roads Association and that the chairman of the property committee be appointed to look after the supply of equipment recommended by the fire chief in his annual report, and that he be vested with power to purchase what he deems required. The following motions were adopted: That the clerk be authorized to subscribe to The Municipal World for each member of the council and the clerk's office; that this council urgently request the county council to proceed at the earliest possible time with the paving of Bridge and Queen streets, Lakefield, which form a connecting link in the provincial road system, as we are convinced that the paving of a strip in this connecting link would be a measure of greatest expediency and economy.

The following by-laws received their several readings and were passed: Re the appointment of auditors—W. G. Morrison and J. A. Porter; Board of Health—The Reeve, M.O.H. and Dr. S. J. Gibson; Milk Inspector—Dr. M. P. Kennedy; Village Teamster, Frank Darling; Assessor and Collector of Taxes, Constable, etc., R. J. Webster. To authorize the borrowing of money needed from the Royal Bank and the Bank of Commerce for current expenditures.

The following account were ordered paid: C.N.R., freight on snow plow, $7.90; Dominion Road Machine Co., snow plow, $82.40; A. H. Clarke, phone for 3 months, $3.08; Fire Brigade, pay roll, $97.20; Municipal World, supplies, $2.12; B. Marling, C.C. Sessions, $28.00; R. J. Webster, C.C. Sessions, $28.00; R. Duff, D.R.O. and clerk, $9.00; F. J. Burgess, D.R.O. and clerk, $9.00; Bell Telephone No. 19 and No. 94, $7.55; R. E. Chittick, cars, $6.00; W. G. Morrison, insurance premium, $22.50; E. J. Millage, electric stove, $84.00; Roy Bullock, smithing, $34.25; F. R. Jewell, staining, $2.70; Pay roll, wages, $56.70; Stanley Roseborough, hay, $38.57; Red and White Store, supplies, $22.38; Crawford Bros., supplies, $15.85; Lakefield News, printing, $57.35. Dickson Store, material, 45c. Total, $614.99.

Officers For Year Elected at Norham Sunday School Meeting.

YOUNG PEOPLE MEET.

NORHAM, January 19. — F. Huycke was elected superintendent of the Norham Sunday School at the annual meeting held in the church on Monday evening, with Rev. D. R. Clare in the chair. The following wereelected for 1929:

Superintendent, F. Huycke; assistants, L. Evans and Oscar Laver; secretary-treasurer, Orietta Gummer; librarians, Hayden Newman, Allan Platt and Donald Knight; missionary superintendent, Mrs. Stanley Brenton; temperance superintendent, Mrs. Percy Windover; home department, superintendents, Mrs. Laver and Mrs. Wilson; cradle roll superintendent, Mrs. M. Peterson; missionary treas., Miss Mildred Curtis; auditors, Blair Huycke and Allan Platt; teacher of Primary Class, Mrs. Bert West; teacher of junior boys, Miss Mildred Curtis; teacher of junior girls, Miss Madge Cliff; teacher of young people's Bible Class, Mrs. D. R. Clare; teacher of Adult Bible Class, Mrs. Stanley Brenton; assistants, Mrs. Lorne Evans and Mrs. David Evans.

After the election of officers, some tiem was spent in discussing plans and changes for the coming year.

The Young People's League held their weekly meeting in the church on Monday evening, when Miss Florence Clare had charge of the devotional period. Miss Irene Tweed read the Scriptural reading and Miss Clare gave the devotional talk. Miss Mildred Curtis, the president, had charge of the business meeting when plans were made for raising missionary money for the coming year. An interesting paper on "How the Chinese Appear to the Canadian" was read by Miss Jean Diamond.

Mission Band.

The Willing Workers' Mission Band met in the church hall on Saturday afternoon, when Miss Bernice Campbell, the new president, had charge of the meeting. At this meeting it was reported that $39.50 had been sent to the Presbyterian treasurer. The heralds from India, Africa, and Formosa responded with interesting readings and letters from these countries. Miss Campbell gave an interesting reading on the Eskimos and five new members were received into the Band.

There are in the Maritime Provinces about seventy quarries from which grindstones and pulpstones have been furnished.

An All Canadian Enterprise That Merits Your Support

For years people of Ontario have been looking forward to the time when they could get coal from our own mines in Alberta and thereby assist in the developing of our own fuel supply and keep our money in Canada.
This happy day is here. Freight rate adjustment has been made. Shipments of Alberta Coal started January 15th and trainloads are rolling East and will continue until July 15th.
Apart altogether from the patriotic appeal, however, you will find that it has advantages never before experienced. It gives quicker, more lasting heat, less ash, no clinker. Perfect for furnace, stove or open grate. You save money—and have complete heat satisfaction. Remember, that ALBERTA COAL is used almost exclusively to heat Western Canada homes which are 90% frame construction and where storm windows are practically unknown and where temperature often drops to 50° below zero. Isn't that proof of the heat producing qualities of ALBERTA COAL?

Your Coal Dealer either has Alberta Coal or can get it if you insist upon it. Call him now.

UGOIGO SOCIETY MEETS AT CAVAN

Interesting Program Presented By Members at Regular Meeting.

DISTRICT NEWS.

(Examiner Correspondence).

CAVAN, Jan. 19.—The Ugoigo Society held their meeting in the basement of the Church on Wednesday evening, with R. A. Sutton presiding. After the business part of the meeting, Miss Segsworth, vice-president of the literary department, took charge of the program, when Miss Irene Carpenter sang a solo and a duet was given by Miss Carpenter and Harold Thacker. Miss Segsworth gave a short talk on "Our Canadian Authors," and Rev. F. Carpenter read "The Clock Maker," by Judge. A few paragraphs taken from "Corporal Cameron" were also read by Miss Segsworth.

The next meeting of the Society will be held on Tuesday, January 22.

Personals.

Mr. Harry Gardiner has returned to his home in North Battleford, Sask., after a month's visit with his brother and sisters here.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hill, of Peterborough, visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Swain, this week.

The many friends of Mrs. William Nill will be sorry to learn that she is at present confined to Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough.

Mrs. Albert Elliott is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Sydney Hutchinson, of Norwood.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO FLU

Coughs from Flu May Weaken Your System and Lead to Serious Trouble

You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion may help you avoid flu, but is not sold as a flu remedy. LOSSES ON OPERA FAST DECREASING

Grand Opera is Again Expected to Become Really Popular in England.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(By the Canadian Press).—Is there a likelihood that after all Grand Opera will become really popular, so popular that is, that its production will not almost as a matter of course involve the producer in heavy loss? At the annual meeting of the British National Opera Company the chairman, Frederick Austin, was able to present a far more satisfactory financial report than the company has known hitherto. The accounts showed a loss on the year ended last July of only $885, compared with one of $26,000 in the previous year. Mr. Austin had to acknowledge however that the company owed large sums, including $17,500 to servants of the company, and "we have been absolutely dependent on guarantees and broadcasting."

Nevertheless the general tone of the chairman's speech was decidedly optimistic. The visits of the company to various towns, he said, were now anticipated and welcomed with unmistakable pleasure and the company had been able to draw to itself wherever it went a large and always growing body of sympathetic and enthusiatic friends.

Have YOU Joined the Circle of Examiner Neighbors Yet?

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion at The Examiner Office.

"My Dear Marion:

I have been a silent reader of your page for so long a period of time, that I felt I should join in with the rest of the 'Column House.'

I enjoy every wee bit of it, Marion dear, especially the Daily Reading, and Whatnot. There's so much work in it all. Of course, thanks to Marion and the column folk, as I call them all.

While I was visiting my two married sisters in Detroit during the holidays, your page, Marion's page was brought up, so a guessing contest began (I guess it lasted for a good half-hour). It ended anyway with 'who is this Marion?' Sh! it's a secret. Now Marion you'll probably say, "Well this is the funniest letter I've received" Eh? Hope not. For you see, Marion, I'm a Canadian-French and have just been in this town around four years. I've spent a great deal of time in the United States and Province of Quebec. So Marion I still can parlez-vous! Not very good at writing or speaking English, but with time I promise you I will. You may put my letter, as I dare name it, in print if you wish only I'll leave it to you. Would you be kind enough, dearest, to correct any mistakes you find, for now it's getting late and rather tired after a good day at sewing.

Lots of love to you Marion and to Column Folks. I'll sign myself what I'd wish to be,

An Artist's Sweetheart."

Welcome to our circle, "Artist's Sweetheart." It's nice to receive and read so many letters from different people, isn't it? I'm glad to learn that you like our page, and I hope you write soon again.

* * *

"Dear Marion:

* * *

I am so sorry that I could not answer your letter regarding the Big Sister Column. We had chickenpox at the time and I did not want to spread it. We had chickenpox in the home for six weeks, but it seemed terrible to get such a nice letter and not be able to answer in any way. But I see your Big Sister column is progressing nicely. I enjoy the Women's Page very much. There is so much that is interesting in the Whatnot. I enjoy the neighbor's letters so much that I feel I can't express myself like they can. And Marion, I think you are wonderful to take such a personal interest in each one. I was very much interested in the discussion on training children as I have three of my own. I think children ought to be put to bed at their regular bedtime and in the dark. Mine have aways gone without any trouble unless they are sick. I quite agree with the mother who says it is better to overlook the minor faults and pay more attention to the things which really make their character. My wee girlie has always been harder to control than my boys. She has been such a problem at times that I have had to pray to God for guidance in training her because if we aways used our own harsh judgment we might undo forever the good that we are trying to do. But I am thankful that she is overcoming her faults and is getting to be quite a liittle lady. She is only six yet.

Will try and help the neighbors in some way. I wonder how many have tried the cold water cure for a persistent cough in children? Just wring a cloth out of cold water and lay across the throat at night, then bind it on with a dry cloth and the cough will disappear like magic. It can be removed in the morning and there will be no danger of taking cold.

I saw in a paper a few days ago that one could varnish near paper for kitchen or bathroom. I wonder if any of the neighbors have tried it and what was the result? It is hard to keep kitchen walls clean where there are children and blacksmiths.

My letter is too long now and I haven't said half what I have in my mind, so if I may I'll come again.

Best wishes to Marion and all Examiner readers.

Avis."

I certainly hope that you DO come again, "Avis." I enjoyed reading your interesting letter. Thank you for the hint, and for the nice things you write about our page. Will some neighbor please tell about the varnishing?

"Dear Marion:

This is the season when many are killing and curing their pork for summer use.

If more than one pig is killed, sometimes an over supply of headcheese is not enjoyed.

A good house-keeper passed along to me the following two recipes for canning headcheese and hocks. By so doing they can be kept until needed and are delicious. I was glad to make use of them this week and thought some of the neighbors might be pleased to have them.

To Can Head Cheese

Prepare the meat for headcheese in the usual way. Boil until the meat is ready to drop from the bones. Take it out, put on plates to cool. Strain the liquid. Shred the meat from the bones, cutting it up very fine. Return to the strained liquid, flavor with salt and pepper, and boil until the meat is very soft.

Have gems sterilized and hot. Pack the meat and juice into the gems while hot, and seal.

To Can Jellied Hocks

Boil until very well done. Remove from the water. Cut the meat from bones. Return bones to the water and let boil to extract more of the jelly. Strain the liquid. Add the meat and let boil again until very tender. Put in hot sterilized gems.

When you wish to use, place the gem in hot water. Turn the meat and liquid into bowls or moulds and let cool. It is then ready to slice.

Ruralite."

Thank you, "Ruralite" for your recipes, which I'm sure many neighbors will be able to use at this time.

FAVORITE RECIPE.

SWEET CREAM BISCUITS

(Contributed by Mrs. L. J. S.)

4 cups of flour.
1 cup of sweet cream.
1 cup of skimmed milk.
2 teaspoons cream of tarter.
1 tesapoon of soda.
1 teaspoon of salt.

METHOD

It is important to pay careful attention to the measurements of the materials. The cupfuls of cream and milk should be scant but the cream should be rich. The cups of flour (measured should be evel. The teaspoons of cream of tartar and soda should be slightly rounded. The salt level. Moreover the cups used should be the standard half-pint measure rather than the tea cup or coffee cup.

Sift the salt, soda and cream of tartar with the flour, and after putting the cream and milk together, mix the ingredients just mentioned. Handle as quickly and as little as possible. Roll out without using any extra flour except a bare sprinkling on the board. Cut the biscuits half-inch thick, put in warm pans and bake in a rather quick oven with a good bottom heat. The biscuits should rise to three times their original thickness before browning—and ought to be done in twenty minutes. The dough should be as soft as it is possible to handle—even slightly sticky. Success will depend mainly upon this and proper baking. Properly made the biscuits will be as light as a feather.

Baby's bottles safely clean

To cleanse bottles and nipples thoroughly, yet easily, modern mothers use Lux this way:

Just drop a few pure Lux diamonds in each bottle, add warm water, shake — instant rich, cleansing suds fill the bottle. With a long-handled brush press the suds over every bit of the inside surface of the bottle. Rinse and boil the bottles for 10 minutes.

Pure Lux suds cleanse nipples, too, inside and out. And Lux is so absolutely sanitary—used fresh each time.

ENTERTAINING GUESTS

A Series Giving Hints on Arranging Parties.
By LAURA.

CROSS COUNTRY SHOWER

Entertaining in honor of a bride and bridegroom is always very interesting as well as being a great honor to be able to do so, and each one tries to conduct the evening different from one ever seen before.'

A Cross Country Shower has both mystery in the invitations which are sent on the back of brown cardboard decorated to represent a club bag for the men and hat boxes for the girls, and amusement for the whole evening. The girls are asked to bring gifts for the bridegroom and the men are asked to bring something suitable for the bride. Upon their arrival, (before the guests of honor) they are told to hide their gifts anywhere in the room.

The honored couple are invited for an evening of bridge, to be certain of their timed arrival. The tables are named after a province, and among the men are auctioned off tickets for each province, and the girls' tickets are for cities within the province. Thus the couples are paired for bridge.

On each table is a correspondent card for each person and an envelope for each couple. The man and girl each on a separate card directed to the bride or groom, as the case may be, directions for finding the gift which they have hidden. The directions should be in rhyme if possible and in terms appropriate to a journey. Then the two cards are sealed in one envelope.

The fun of making these verses and later having them read and interpreted by the bridal couple will furnish much of the evening's entertainment.

After the directions have been written and guests of honor are blindfolded, while the hostess hangs on the wall a huge map made from old sheeting, on which is drawn a heavy black line representing the wedding trip, which wanders crazily from the top to the bottom of the map— such a trip as only a couple in love would take. Larke black circles printed with the names of the cities which the couple represent appear at intervals along the way—no attempt being made to actual geography. The whole map will signify that the wedding couple will not know nor care where they are as long as they are together.

The couple mail their directions—pinning them on the cities they represent, then the blindfolded couple are given back their sight. The bridegroom is presented with a club bag to collect the gifts. The verses may sound something like this: "Before you leave this lovely town, make sure your watch is not run rown, compare it with the clock up there.—To help you see just take a chair." Each gift is opened upon finding it.

Partners for refreshments may again be chosen to help the guests to know each other. This may be done by the game "London Bridge is Falling Down" after the girl has been caught, she is allowed to choice between a pot of gold or pumpkin pie, without knowing which the man offers.

Refreshments may be as simple as possible, strawberry ice cream carrying out the pink and white effect.

IMMEDIATE CLEANING

Never hang a party dress that is spotted. Either remove it yourself or have it cleaned. Many spots can be taken out easily at first that are impossible to budge later.

MATTRESS HANDLES

Some day when there is not much work to do, an hour spent putting handles on all the mattresses will bring satisfaction. Cut one-inch strips of heavy material, make loops big enough to slip the hand through, and sew four to each mattress, one on each corner.

FASHION'S FORECAST.

THE PATTERN of Style No. 2561 has a picture chart as a guide to help the sewer put this attractive dress together in least time possible, for it explains everything in detail. Cuts in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. The pattern is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew.

NEW FASHION BOOK containing all the Spring styles is 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

LITTLE SONGS OF LOVE.

(Contributed by 'Kismet').

Your suns may shine with gladness,
Your skies may sparkle with blue,
But the gleam has gone from my heart, my dear,
And the sun has ceased shining through.

Time was when it was not thus, my dear,
When the world was a roseate dream,
And the soft breeze whispered a lullaby
In the light of a silvery moonbeam.

But the Fates had a trick up their sleeves, my dear,
And we parted, and I am forlorn.
Now the dark winds whistle a dirge in my ears—
—But my memories he still shall adorn.

Because of His Mother

By HENRY CLARK

Four years John Underwood had been the mainstay of the unpopular girls of Cedarville. Any girl finding herself out of luck at the last moment regarding an invitation to some festivity could depend on him as an escort, provided she had not been forestalled by a sister in similar plight. The reason for John's availability was that he himself never asked anybody anywhere.

Occasionally he felt called upon for an explanation. "You see," he would say, "I must think of my mother. While she lives I could not let myself consider the—er—support—of—er—a wife. And it's unfair to a girl to monopolize her so that some other man, not thus placed, is kept from courting her."

Very square of him, his audience would feel and, if it were young, admire him tremendously. If it were oldish, it envied his mother.

Cedarville was one of those neighborly little communities which sit up nights taking a friendly interest in one another's affairs, and when John's father died it became public property that he had left only the large stucco house and a moderate insurance to his wife, and to John his coal, wood and ice business.

If it hadn't been for John's dependent mother all Cedarville knew the boy could have married long ago.

"What a sweet little thing Carrie Watrous is," his mother remarked one evening from her side of the mahogany dining-table. "And Paula Scott has such lovely eyes."

"Yes, mother," said John. "Can I serve you a little of this white meat? Georgiana certainly can broil!"

"Where is Marilyn Droege these days?" asked Mrs. Underwood. "She will make some man a splendid wife.'

"Righto," said John. "I wonder if I may be excused? That Rotary affair begins early."

It can be seen that John bore his sacrifice quietly. He was not the one to dwell on the girls and their attractions as one who feels himself cheated.

Shortly after this conversation Paula Scott's cousin came to visit her. Now Paula was much in demand and never needed John's escort for personal use. But she did think of him for Elsie for the Tennis Club dance, and dated him up accordingly.

Elsie fell for John—hard. Out on the balcony he told her gently just how he was situated, and she laid a soft hand on his sleeve and turned up at him two large orbs brimming with sympathy. He was just right in his attitude and she thought the more of him for it!

The very next day she boldly manufactured an errand, with Paula's amused help, that took them to call on Mrs. Underwood. It was the first of a series of neighborly visits. Elsie had a winning way of absorbing the gems of wisdom possible for an older woman to let fall.

Mean while the other delved deep into the recesses of Elsie's simple personality. She deduced that she had not had very much masculine attention; that her tastes were quietly domestic and her virtues homely ones; that she would lend herself to be gently molded by those with whom she lived. What she discovered led Mrs. Underwood rather deliberately to make up her mind.

"John," she said one evening, "it's not natural for you to sacrifice your life for me. If it wasn't for me you'd marry."

"Probably," said John absent-mindedly.

"From now on," continued his mother, "I am taking myself off your hands. I am bored with doing nothing. I—er—I am to be librarian at our little library. Not that I need to work. You know and I know, my dear boy, that with what I have I could manage very well! But now you and El—and any girl you fancy are ifree to live your own lives!"

John dd not rise and, with beaming face, embraced his mother. He frowned, and went out to keep an engagement with Elsie made by Paula.

An hour later his mother sat writing to a girlhood friend.

"Well, at ast I fancy I've driven John into matrimony. It's an attitude I suppose few mothers take, and it necessitated desperate measures. But John was getting so set in his ways! And a friendly little daughter-in-law and some day a couple of nice grandchildren will repay me for a few months' poking around bookshelves. The girl is a dear—"

At that very moment her son was holding tight in his arms the girl of his mother's choice. He was still in a state of bewilderment, and not yet quite sure how the situation had come about. Could it be that he, John Underwood, was snared in the very net he had so long warily dodged?

"Do you know what first made me love you, dear? Knowing how good you were to your mother. Oh, I hope she won't mind giving you partly up, but she told me yesterday how it grieved her to see you caring for somebody—she didn't say who—and feeling that you must not propose because of her. Tell me, John, I haven't been too forward in lettin you see I—I cared, too?"

John's clasp tightened. Darnation! Did captives, after all, cherish the chains that bound them?

OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

This silk crepe frock of honey brown is trimmed with shoe-string tassels of a darker brown.

Fashion is always racking her brains for new ways of trimming frocks and this season she has hit upon the idea of using tasseled lacers that look like silk shoe strings.

Selvedge—which by the way merely means self-edge—has been used to provide finish and a note of trimming to some of the new sports costumes. It is used to finish pockets, fur collars, apels, turn-back cuffs and quite often for the edge of skirts. For pleated skirts this is an admirable device, since it does away with the necessity of a hem which detracts from the perfect smoothness of the pleating.

Another simple trimming device consists of raveled edges. This is employed on woolen materials as well as on silks. Scarfs attached to some of the new frocks and coats have revalled ends. Sometimes collars and cuffs are finished with a narrow raveling and for sports skirts the hem is sometimes finished with a narrow raveling less than an inch in width.

Artificial flowers are as important as ever and there never was such a wide choice of ways to wear them. One occasionally sees them still posed on the shoulder of an evening gown. The older fashion for wearing them on the hip is sometimes seen. Right in the middle of the front, they appear sometimes. Two large roses were placed at the back just over the left shoulder blade in a satin frock that was otherwise most conservative.

Louiseboulanger of Paris has caused some stir with her new long-sleeved evening gowns and now that the sleeveless day frock has been revived for winter resort wear—with bare back tennis gowns and evening gowns cut fairly high in the front—the difference between day and evening frocks becomes more a matter of skirt drapery and hem line than cut of neck and arms.

That Body of Yours

By Dr. J. Barton

HEART AILMENTS MOST NUMEROUS

When a specialist spends all his time, thought, and energy, on one line of work, he should know something about that particular work. Therefore, when a heart specialist tells us that one in every fifty of the inhabitants of the United States and Canada is afflicted with heart disease, we do not wonder that heart ailments carry off more individuals than any other one ailment.

Dr. Wm. St. Lawrence says that at different ages the causes and types of heart ailments are different. He names three age periods in any of which the causes and types are likely to be uniform.

First, from birth to thirty-five; second, from thirty-six to forty-five, and third from forty six until death.

In the first period the organism enters the blood system most commonly through bad teeth or tonsils.

When it gets into the joints it produces inflammatory rheumatism; in the brain it causes chorea or St. Vitus dance; in the bones it causes "growing pains," in the tonsils a tendency to sore throat.

In the second period, thirty-six to forty-five, the heart cases are due to the rheumatic organism. Stiffness in the joints in damp weather. In the third period, after forty-six years of age, it is just a continuance of the causes and conditions of previous periods, but because the body is older, overeating, not enough sleep, and little or no exercise, the effects of the rheumatic organisms are greatly increased. Overuse of alcohol, tea, coffee, has a very bad effect upon some cases. Now, although periodic physical examinations are a big factor in preventing heart disease, nevertheless, as Dr. St. Lawrence points out, these examinations will not prevent the disease that is already there. However, these examinations will give the family physician a chance to point out the danger or likelihood of heart disease from infected teeth or tonsils, and in those who already have heart ailments he will outline treatment that will prolong life, and enable the patient to enjoy life in safety.

So, whatever the age let your family doctor look you over once a year.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

By BETSY CALLISTER

Old-time housewives used to wear blue and white checked aprons for the rougher sort of kitchen wear—and white aprons for lighter tasks. White aprons were best aprons. Personally I am in favor of pure white material for house frocks and aprons to be used for the more arduous tasks about the house. To be sure, white shows the soil more quickly. But white also stands much more strenuous treatment in the laundry than any sort of colored material. It may be boiled and bleached and hung out in the hottest sun only to come back looking better than ever. That is why I recommend an apron frock and cap of pure white muslin for the housewife on cleaning day.

A few rare housewives, I suppose, do their work well and eagerly just as a matter of conscience. And some do it for the mere joy of it. There are days in the lives of almost all of them when they go to work with a feeling of real joy in the work itself, but I am sure the thing that keeps most women from shirking and growing lax is—Appreciation.

So if I were a man—a married man—and wanted my wife to come up to scratch at her end of the bargain, I think I'd show my appreciation. "I'll say this house looks spick and span," from the man of the house when he comes home on the day you've been cleaning makes a world of difference.

It does seem too bad that engaged people cannot keep house together for a while before they get married. I don't mean trial marriages or anything like that. Only there are some men who just take everything a woman does for granted. It must be a terrible blow to realize that that is the sort of man you have agreed to keep house for for life.

The Whatnot

A Column for Little Bits of Everything of Interest to Women Readers

Conducted by Marion

(Copyright)

I WAS INTERESTED the other day while shopping to note the different kind of sales people. The article I was searching for, could not be found, and so I was in almost every shop in Peterborough.

• • •

One salesman gave, not long ago, some eight or nine different types of customers—such as critical, wavering, and pleasant customers, but I wonder if he ever stopped to think or make a list of the more usual sort of sales people.

There is the sort of sales person who always succeeds in selling you something, isn't there? That is the person who knows what he is selling and is particularly interested in it.

• • •

You go into a grocery store on your way home from a shopping trip to buy some sardines, but the sales person is so interested in a new imported, skinless and boneless sardine that you buy half a dozen cans—forgetting all about the ones you intended buying.

Then maybe you are looking at some new dress goods which has arrived with the spring stock, without, of course, any intention of buying at all, but the saleslady is so interested in this new material that after she has told you all about the origin, etc., you are watching her cut three or four yards for a new frock for yourself.

Have you ever looked over some of the things you have and wondered how you came to buy them?

How often do you buy things simply because they are on sale, or because some sales person talked you into it?

• • •

Then we sometimes hear their side of the story. We must admit that it must be rather trying serving some people, but on the whole Peterborough sales people are to be credited for their pleasant ways.

• • •

Often you have heard that men are better buyers than women—but are they?

• • •

There are a great many women, I'll admit, that rush to bargain sales and come home with armfuls of useless articles! While the men—at least most of them—only enter a department store when it is absolutely necessary, and usually buy the first thing that is shown them, regardless of price. But usually it is of good quality what they do buy so, of course, wifey doesn't kick.

• • •

"A man could shop in about half the time it takes a woman," says one man, "for men know what they want, but it isn't necessary to go all over the city trying to find it."

• • •

That's intimating that women don't know what they do want when they go shopping—but maybe sometimes they don't!

Our male shopper may pay a little more, but the saleswomen usually take down the very vest they've got when they see a man coming and usually, too, they succeed in selling it to him.

I heard a woman say the other day that she was so glad that So-and-So had sent her a cheque for Christmas, for now she could buy some of the lovely linens which she had noticed in the shops

• • •

She remarked that she had quite a lot of linen, but wanted some of the new sets of bedding in colors, and some of the new bath towels. For the summer she chose sheets of pale green, and pale pink for the winter season. The green looked so cool, and the pink so lovely and warm.

• • •

I was looking at a cartoon in a paper yesterday of a couple standing in the kitchen doorway and a sink piled high with dishes. "The Difficult Decision" was whether they should wash them then or leave them until morning—and get up early!

• • •

I wonder how often this picture could be snapped in Peterborough? Washing dishes isn't really a pleasant job, especially when one has to do them three times a day, seven days of the week!

But dish washing isn't half as bad when you have lots of hot water—water's cheap so make good use of it. Some housewives have an idea that they must wash them in the smallest quantity of water they can get—and often SO cold that it is hard to put one's hands into the dish pan!

And, of course, you use soap chips or powder. To begin with it should be dissolved in very hot water, don't wait until you have the dishes in and can bear your hands in the water. But put it in and pour good boiling water on it to dissolve it, and then put in sufficient cold water so as not to scald the hands.

• • •

If the water is very hard, a solution of washing soda and water put into the water before using the soap will soften it quite a little.

Wash your pans while they are still hot—such is the rule of the experienced housewife. But often this cannot be done, because just when the pans are emptied and are still hot is just when one is preoccupied with serving dinner and eating it. Still if they are set in the sink, and filled with quite hot water, they will be at least half washed when you are ready to do them.

• • •

I have often heard women say that they wash the pans first, because they are always in the sink, and have to be moved anyway before the dishes can be put in.

• • •

So after the next party, see that lots of hot water is ready, and the dishes will be all washed before you know it—a thing really isn't half as hard when once you get at it!

• • •

You'll appreciate the extra half-hour of sleep in the morning too, I'm sure!

I am giving you, this week, a pattern-diagram of a skirt with side pleat, very popular with young girls for wear with slip-on sweaters or sports overblouses.

• • •

I was so busy last week that I didn't get time to judge the competition before Saturday, and so the result is published to-day.

DAILY READING

A FEW MINUTES A DAY WITH THE BEST OF THE WORLD'S AUTHORS CONDUCTED BY THE NEIGHBORS AND MARION

"MY SYMPHONY" By Channing.
(Contributed by "Urbanite.")

To live content with small means; to seek elegance rather than luxury and refinement rather than fashion; to be worthy, not respectable and wealthy, not rich; to listen to stars and birds, babes and sages, with open hearts; to think quietly, act frankly, talk gently, await occasions, hurry never; in a word to let the spiritual unbidden and unconscious, grow up through the common. This is my symphony.

FAVORITE RECIPE.

CRANBERRY CONSERVE
(Contributed by Lucinda.)

11 quart of cranberries; 1 quart of cold water, 6 large juicy oranges, 2 lemons, 1 pound of seeded raisins, 3 pints graulated sugar, 1-2 pound English walnut meats, cut small. Boil cranberries 15 minutes, then put through a strainer. Peel and seed oranges and lemons. Place skins over fire with 4 quarts of cold water, and boil until soft; drain and (when cool) scrape out the white, inner skin, and chop the yellow rinds very fine. Place the chopped rinds, juice, pulp, raisins (cut in half), sugar and the remaining pint of water in preserving kettle and cook slowly for 2 hours (or until it thickens.) When cool add cranberry pulp and let boil five minutes, then stir in the nut meats, and fill while hot in sterilized jars. When cold cover with melted parowax, add covers and store.

TEA BISCUITS.
(Contributed by "Ruralite."

2 cups of flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons shortening, milk or water to make a soft dough.

Method: Sift flour, baking powder and salt twice together, work in fat with finger tips; add milk gradually, and mix into soft dough; toss on floured board, roll lightly to half inch thickness, and cut into small biscuits. Put into greased pan, bake 15 minutes in a hot oven.

My New Year's Resolutions

The following have been entered in a competition, the result of which will be announced on Saturday.

(By "Biddie")

New Year's Eve was very cold and blustery. A cold north-east wind was blowing down State Street. Everyone was hurying along with their wraps fastened closely around them.

It was six o'clock when Marie Bondy came from A. W. Griffith's office on State Street. Cecile her sister, joined her. They started to do some late New Year's shopping before going home. Among the things that they were to buy was a sweater for Cecile to wear to Nora Benson's skating party the following day.

On arriving home at seven o'clock they found dinner waiting. Their father had come in early in the evening and Junior, their brother, was always on time for dinner, but not always for breakfast.

The living-room was cheerful, with its coal grate fire and pretty New Year's decorations. It was especially cheerful this evening because of the howling wind outside.

"Have you your resolutions made for to-morrow, children?" asked Mr. Bondy, who put down his paper as the girls came in.

"They are things that are made to be broken, aren't they?" asked Junior, whose eyes were always dancing with mischief when he thought that he could tease Cecile.

"Yours usually are,' answered Marie, "but I take mine quite seriously, don't you, father?"

"I try to keep at least one that I make."

"I don't think that I'll make any as I am quite sure that I couldn't keep it all year," said Cecile.

"Don't think that dear. I am sure you could if you tried. Last year you gave up going to shows except Friday night during the school term, and you never broke it," said mother.

"What resolutions will we make? Suggest some for us to choose from, mother."

"Wel, Marie, I think that you know your weak points better than I do. Now is your chance to strengthen them."

"Al Junior never gets up without 'teen calls."

"Maybe that is so, but you have to be scolded before you will practise your music. People that live in glass houses musn't throw stones."

"It is always nicer to eat breakfast than practise anyway."

"Oh yes, when mother gets it ready."

"Now, children, don't argue. Here is a sugestion for each one," said Mrs. Bondy, "not hard ones, but maybe unpleasant and hard at times, but we all have to work for what we get."

"That's right. I had to shovel snow before mother would let me go to the hockey match last night and always before a ball game the grass needs to be cut or the garden has to be weeded."

"What are your suggestions?" asked Marie who had been very quiet.

"While I've been listening to Junior and Cecile talking, I decided that two of Junior's weakpoints were, first, not getting up in the morning; second, not keeping resolutions. So why not, Junior, get up with one call." (Here Junior's eyes shone one call and then a peaceful sleep, but it soon dropped as his father went on), and be down in time for breakfast and keep it up till midsummer. To make it worth while I'll buy you the long-wished-for bicycle."

"Hurah!" shouted Junior.

"Father won't have to buy the bicycle," teased Cecile.

"Wait till we hear yours, miss, and maybe you won't talk."

"Cecile will practise her music every evening from four-thirty till five-thirty except Sunday. Aqy day that she can't be here at those hours it will be from seven till eight in the morning."

"You don't get anything and I do."

"Now, Junior, wait till I have finished speaking. I will install a radio for her on her birthday in September."

"Oh that will be grand, practising will be a pleasure now."

"What is mine?" asked Marie.

"Have you thought of anything?"

"Oh, yes, several things. I've been very selfish and never thought of anyone, especially Mr. Griffith who is alone and has no one but servants. I'll try to do a kind act every day. I'll do it for the happiness that I'll get from it."

"I could not improve on that, Marie."

New Year's morning dawned clear and cold.

"Oh, isn't this grant for the party?" exclaimed Cecile.

"Sure," called out Junior, "but you have to practise from seven to eight and it is now five minutes to."

"I'll be there." Just as the clock finished striking seven the notes could be heard through the house.

"Cecile is starting the New Year right," said her father.

She went to the party that afternoon and enjoyed herself, as she didn't have to think of her music.

Mr. Griffith was very gruff, with never a kind word. None of his employes liked him. He did not pay good salaries, but positions were scarce in Quibel, so he did not have any trouble to keep his help. Each one strove to keep up with his peculiar ways.

The morning after New Year's, the girls were all ready for work when he came in.

Marie made it a point to step aside and say, "Good morning, Mr. Griffith." He stopped, looked at her and said, "Hm."

She continued speaking every morning and going out of her way to do little things for him. He did not seem to notice any of these small things.

Junior and Cecile were both striving hard to keep up their resolutions without being reminded of them.

June was nearing; with it came their final examinations. Junior was working very hard. He was tired. On the last day of his exams. he did not hear his father, so overslept. He wakened and had only five minutes to prepare for breakfast. Just as his father finished saying grace he came in breathless and disappointed to think that he had failed on the last day.

Next morning no new shiny bicycle was there for him. No one mentioned it before him. The family decided that as he had worked so hard to win they would get it for him if he passed with first class honors.

Junior lost interest in the results because he had disappointed his father. On the day they came out the headlines were: "Stanley Bondy, winner of Duggan Scholarship," and on arriving home, there stood his shiny new bicycle. He was all excited and each one had to watch him ride it.

In September Cecile was having a small birthday party. She was so interested in it that she forgot about the radio. Everything was in readiness for both party and radio. While she was dressing, the radio was brought in and connected up. They got station CXWM which was playing music for a dance. When she came downstairs and heard it, she exclaimed, "Who is playing?"

On coming into the living-room she found no one playing, but there stood the beautiful new mahagony radio.

"Oh, Dad, that is wonderful. I forgot about it, but am real delighted and many thanks."

She sat up many evenings to listen in, and music was always foremost.

Marie continued to do her kind acts. She was always happy and had time for each little one.

Mr. Griffith was growing harder to please; never satisfied with anything. The girls were beginning to rebel. Marie always had a cheerful word, saying: "Maybe he isn't well or he might have worries and no one to tell them to."

The day after Christmas, Mr. Griffith failed to appear at nine o'clock. Everyone was amazed as he was never known to be late or miss a day. Shortly after ten his butler came down and announced that the office would be closed indifinitely, as Mr. Griffith was ill. He gave each girl two weeks' salary and said that she might try and get another position in the meantime.

Wednesday, the following day, he died. The girls were sorry and sent a wreath. Each one said that he might have been far harder to work for.

His lawyer called each one of the six girls and told them to be at his house at four o'clock after the funeral. All were seated in the darkened library when Mr. Norton arrived. He proceeded to read the will to the servants and girls.

After the legal preliminaries were read, it continued to give the servants their share; also:

To each of the office girls, namely: Mary Regan, Julia Brunton, Frances Toms, Doris Walker and Margaret Stone, one hundred dollars.

Each looked from one to the other: Where was Marie Bondy?

Mr. Norton continued reading: "To Marie Bondy, for her kindness during the past year, I bequeath my house and all its furnishings. She must occupy it by the fifteenth of January and never sell it."

All were excited over Marie's good fortune.

Bondy's now live on Albert street, but none have changed, least of all Marie, who is just the same kind of girl that she learned to be by keeping a New Year resolution.

(By "Griselda Petitia)

Dear Marion:—

My resolution this year is to practice the virtue of patience. I am not naturally of a patient disposition, but I firmly resolve to be patient. It will be the means of bringing more peace and happiness into our home. I am also intolerant of the faults of others, as tho' I were perfect myself, henceforth I will overcome that too.

In the particular circumstances under which I live it requires much. Oh! ever so much more patience and tolerance than I have, to make a happy home life. So far I have succeeded, and not only when things were running smoothly.

Of course I have slipped, now and then, but unlike many people that I've heard of, I do not believe in quitting, just because I forgot once or twice, and departed from my new found virtue, no, I believe in renewing a resolution until it becomes a habit. One often hears that "A bad habit is hard to break." Well, I believe that a good habit is equally hard to break.

Last week seemed particularly trying one, everything seemed to go wrong. First the washing then a dinner spoiled, a shopping trip postponed, and several little things all wrong, and for hardly any reason, these things use to make me 'fly off the handle' as it were, but not so this time. I came thru' with flying colors, altho' not always with a smile of pleasure. Then to top it off a neighbor came in and gave me a razzing about my former mode of living, but instead of flaring up and "telling her off" I waited till she was thru' then had my say quietly, so now I'm not even bad friends with her.

I feel now, that I'm well on the way to success in making patience a habit, and happiness, will soon follow with companions, tolerance charitableness in though, and deeds.

I notice that Griselda means 'patience' and Letitia 'happiness' they are both appropriate for me, cause if I work hard, and earn the first, the latter will be my reward, apart from all the other pleasures that a patient disposition is sure to bring me.

Last year my resolve was, to rid myself of that horrid habit of sarcasm, and I feel that I can safely say, that I have succeeded. I can't begin to tell of the change it has wrought in me, and of the many happy chats I have enjoyed with acquaintances, with whom I could hardly pass a few moments in conversation with, before. Tolerance worked wonders there too, so I include it and carry it on from last year, in my resolutions for this year, cause I haven't by any means become perfect in it, so will carry it on and hope to attain a better year than I have yet known.

I have made resolutions each New Year's and recorded them in my Diary, for about ten years now, and have profited much by them.

So in parting, dear Marion and Neighbors I would ask you, if you're unfortunate enough to break your resolution, to mend it, carry one, start up again. It's never too late to learn is it? No? Well then it's never too late to try and be better, to make life brighter, happier and better, for oneself, ones household and ones friends. If a resolution is worth making, its worth keeping, and surely none of us has made an unworthy resolution. Since I have done fairly well, up till the present time, I presume to call myself Griselda, perseverance will win the name for me, and Intend to persevere in my new resolutions, and then "Le'itia" will be mine.

Sincerely hoping to be Griselda Letitia."

(By "Susie")

It seems very fitting that at the beginning of a new year we should as it were "take stock," by taking a backward look and trying to determine where we made mistakes.

The book "1928," with its three hundred and sixty-six pages is finished and passed out of our hands, and we recall with sorrow that many of the pages were very carelessly written and some were badly blotted.

We have been given a new book with fair white pages not, knowing how many of them we may be permitted to fill. It may be some of us will only have written a few pages when we are called to hand in our book. This we do not know, and if we have done our best we need not care. Our part is to see to it that each page as we turn it is properly filled. I have this year resolved to let no unkind word mar the pages of my book, realizing that words once spoken can never be recalled.

Not all are called to do Great deeds so I have resolved to try to do the Little things that come to me each day faithfully and without complaint.

Believing that a "Merry heart doeth good like a medicine," I shall be cheerful and so not only brighten my own corner, but also help those with whom I come in contact.

So I hope by keeping these three things in mind, that I may find when I am done with the book "1929" I may hand it in with a hope of hearing the great Teacher say "Well done."

(By Alley)

As I rose this morning, on the dawn of another year, and laying aside my old book, the book of the past year, with its pages marred and mottled, from things which shou'd not be there, but still somehow get there, and as I open the new book, the book for another year, with its three hundred and sixty-five bright, clean, new pages, without a spot, I resolve and hope at the end to find it more beautifully filled, providing my life is spared to the last page.

I resolve that wherever I am, or whatever I have there with to be content, that whatever I am called to do, no matter how hard, I shall do my best. To always lend a helping hand, wherever need be. To always smile no matter how hard the pain may be. To lift a fallen sister from the mire. To give more to the poor and needy, and less to those who do not need.

What more could I resolve

(By "Wildfire.")

"Dear Marion:

I am sending in my New Year's resolutions, not to be made on New Year's Day and then forgotten before the week or month is out. But something to be kept day by day and year by year, looking to God for help and guidance and strength to keep it.

I cut these few verses out of a paper some years ago and I have them in a place where I can at least read them once a day, and I do strive faithfully to follow them in word and deed, and Marion, it has not always been easy, especially the two last lines of the first and second verses. I hope you will accept them as my New Year's resolutions, and if published I hope they will be as helpful to others as they have been to me.

Wishing you a Happy New Year,

I remain,

"WILDFIRE."

MY NEW YEAR RESOLUTION.

A little braver when the skies are grey,
A little stronger when the road seems long,
A little more of patience through the day,
And not so quick to magnify a wrong.

A little kinder, both of thought and deed,
A little gentler with the old and weak,
Swifter to sense another's pressing need,
And not so fast the hurtful phrase to speak.

These are my goals—not flung beyond my power,
Not dreams of glory, beautiful but vain,
Not the great heights where buds of genius flower,
But simple splendors which I ought to gain.

These I can do and be from day to day
Along the humble pathway where I plod,
So that at last when I am called away
I need not make apologies to God.

Canadiens Hold Rangers Scoreless--Pirates Beat Cougars

OTTAWA CLUB IN TIE BATTLE WITH MAROONS

LEAFS DEFEATED 2-1.

Single Handed Scoring Accounts For Cougars' Victory Over Toronto.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—Through seventy minutes of nerve-tingling hockey in the auditorium on Saturday night, Ottawa battled their old rivals from Montreal, the Maroons, to a 1 to 1 draw, and as a result, the Senators failed to register any noticeable advance in their efforts to draw closer to a play-off position in the Canadian section of the National Hockey League.

Gain on Cougars

PISSBURG, Pa., Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—The Pittsburg Pirates defeated Detroit 3 to 0 here Saturday night and gained two full points on the Cougars, occupants of third place in the American division of the National Hockey League. Evidently Manager Odie Cleghorn's week of stressing team work took effect, for never before this season had the Pirates shown such co-ordination.

Scoreless Battle

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—The hockey fans of Montreal witnessed their second scoreless encounter between New York and Montreal teams within three days, when the Rangers and Canadiens battle through 70 minutes of fast hockey to a scoreless draw at the Forum Saturday night. On Thursday, the New York Americans and Montreal Maroons played through 70 minutes of hockey with neither team being able to register a goal; but last night's battle far outshone Thursday's game in point of good, fast and open hockey.

LOSE SEVENTH STRAIGHT.

CHICAGO, Ills., January 21 (Canadian Press). — The Chicago Black Hawks bade farewell to their home ice last night, losing their seventh National Hockey League game of the season to the hard driving Boston Bruins 2 to 0, before a sell-out house of 6,700 at the Coliseum. Because future playing dates were unavailable at the Coliseum, the Hawks have transferred the remainder of their home games to Detroit and Buffalo.

BAILEY SCORES COUNTER.

DETROIT, Mich., January 21 (Canadian Press). — The Detroit Cougars ended a slump which dropped them into third place in the American division of the National Professional Hockey League by whipping the Toronto Maple Leafs 2 to 1 here last night.

The Cougars' vaunted combination game was almost wrecked by a tight Toronto defence, but George Hay and Carson Cooper managed to get loose to score single-handed. Hay connected with the first score in the middle of the first period when his short shot beat Chabot. Bailey took a pass from Cox to tie the count early in the second session. The Cougars speeded up and gave Lorne Chabot a lot to do, but could not score until Cooper hooked one in from the side, in the same period.

The Maple Leafs battled desperately in the last period, but with four men up the ice they could not get by Dolson. Reg. Noble and Bill Brydge were of great assistance to their goalie in halting the determined Canadians. Bailey, Carson and Pettinger played well for the Leafs.

ROUGH TUSSLE.

NEW YORK, N.Y., January 21 (Canadian Press).—In a game which started smoothly but developed into one of the roughest seen here in some time, the Pittsburg Pirates took the measure of the New York Americans by a 2 to 0 count in a National Hockey League game last night. Fourteen penalties, including two majors, were called in the game.

All of the scoring took place in the second period. Hip Milks opened the action just nine seconds after the start, getting a long drive past Worters on the first shot. The New York goalie lost the puck when it bounced high in the air from his pads and it dropped behind him into the net. Frank Frederickson scored the second near the middle of the frame making a brilliant individual dash to beat Worters.

Basketball Notes

Two city league girls' basketball games were played at the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium on Friday. The Westclox emerged victors over the Hall's Store quintette 16 to 10 after a hard tussle and the De Laval swamped the C.G.E. seniors 13 to 3. The C.G.E. Intermediates won by default when the Teco Store team failed to make an appearance.

Misses L. Groombridge and S. Ecobichon were the marksmen for the Westclox and Miss A. Janeway notched nearly all the baskets for Hall's Store. Both teams had a steady defence and played real combination.

The teams:

Westclox — Forwards, L. Groombridge and S. Ecobichon; centre, L. Kingdon; defence, D. Webb and I. Thirnbeck; subs, L. Simmons and R. Puddick.

Hall's Store— Forwards, A. Janeway and V. Duck; centre, D. Worboy; defence, H. Dawson and G. Roseborough.

De Laval Early Lead.

The De Laval took an early lead over the C.G.E. and were never headed. They snapped the ball around, passing to Miss E. Forster, who scored most of the baskets. The teams:

De Laval—Forwards, E. Forster and R. McPherson; centre, H. Risko; defence, H. Carson and F. Giroux; sub, E. Robinson.

C.G.E.—Forwards, G. Langton and G. Lackey; centre, V. Langton; defence, D. Gibson and A. Logan; subs, A. Burns and R. Hillier.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 15 (Canadian Press.)—The engagement of Princess Martha of Sweden to Crown Prince Olaf of Norway was officially announced to-day. Princess Martha, who was born March 28, 1901, is the daughter of Prince Charles, brother of King Gustav, of Sweden. The Crown Prince was born on July 2, 1903.

FAMOUS HOCKEY GAMES OF PETERBOROUGH TEAMS

By F.D.C.

The second game of the Orillia series in 1914 when the Northerners invaded Peterborough with a four-goal lead provided plenty of excitement and a record crowd including many from Orillia, saw the Ross-Jupp combination repeat their victory of the first game and by almost the same score, the final figures being 7 to 4 for Orillia.

The result was a disappointment both to the Peterborough team and to the fans. Although beaten in Orillia the Petes were supremely confident that they could take the second game by margin enough to win the round and this confidence was shared by the majority of the fans.

Orillia proved too fast and clever however and although the Petes put up a gallant fight and at times had a decided edge in the play the great goalkeeping of Corbould in the nets for the visitors held his team together until they could hit their stride again.

Grover Halpin, junior star of that year was the Petes most effective player although by far the lightest and youngest man in action and he set a fast pace, despite a strenuous passage handed him by the Orillia defence.

Halpin started the Petes off right by scoring the first goal of the game in 4 minutes and that early success put plently of fight into the home crew, who gave Corbould a hot time in the next ten minutes. They could not beat him, however, and at last Draper, the Orillia left wing, slipped down and tied the score. The Pete's chances to pull the round out of the fire dwindled rapidly when Ross took a Carter pass to put Orillia ahead and "Lovie" Jupp drilled a beauty from the right boards, leaving the visitors 3 to 1 in front at half time.

The homesters opened the second half at top speed. Halpin rushed, pulled the Orillia defence out of position and passed to Park, who scored easily. Then the junior captain tied the scored by slapping in a rebound after a shot by Denison. The deadlock was broken a minute later when Ross backhanded one in following a face off in front of the Petes' net. Then the teams battled grimly for fifteen minutes without a score, the Petes using a five man attack but failed to beat Corbould. Then Carter broke away, went around Bond and in on top of James to score. That goal settled the game, putting Orillia two in front. Draper increased the lead to three on a long shot and Harvie went in alone to add another before Park grabbed the Petes' last counter on an individual rush.

Referee—Chad Toms, Toronto.

Trophy For Best Player On Team

(Examiner Staff Correspondent.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 21.—When the end of the hockey season arrives, one of the players on the local team will be the possessor of a handsome silver cup. The cup is donated by Speedie, Front street barber, to the player who is considered the most valuable member of the team. The intention is to increase the interest of the players to the highest possible degree. The player to whom the cup will be presented will be its possessor. It will not be open for competition for future years. But Speedy has expressed his intention for continuing the practice as long as he remains in town.

The method of selection is by the vote of four men after each game. These men have been chosen for their knowledge of hockey and each unaware of the identity of the others. The votes are by ballot and are placed in a sealed box. This box will be opened at the end of the schedule of the Trent Valley League, and the player who has received the most votes will receive the cup.

HAMILTON BOXER DIES FROM BLOW

Paul Has Skull Fractured in Final Ring Appearance.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press).—In what was to have been his final appearance in the boxing ring, William Henry Paul, noted amateur athlete of Ottawa, sustained fatal injuries in a bout with Charles "Chuck" Agnew of Queens University, here Saturday night. Paul was sent to the floor in the third round when his opponent landed a heavy blow to the head. Cleanly knocked out, the Ottawan fell with a twisting motion and his head struck the ring floor with a thud that resounded throughout the auditorium. After first aid had been administered at the ringside Paul was removed to hospital and an operation performed but the young athlete died at 5:15 o'clock yesterday morning without having regained consciousness.

Death was said to have been due to a cerebral hemorrhage, caused by a fractured skull and resultant complications.

The bout which was to end so tragically was one of a number staged at the Young Men's Christian Association building between the wrestling and boxing teams of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., and the Ottawa "Y", Paul, a "Y" man for many years, both here and in Hamilton, Ont., and a prominent basketball player as well as coach, announced before entering the tournament that it was to be his last appearance as a boxer.

CURLING

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 18. — Interest in the Frankford-Campbellford hockey match was too strong for the majority of curlers and the roarin' game was temporarily suspended to allow the curlers to become spectators at the hockey game. Friday night in spite of the warmer weather, the ice was in excellent condition and the semi-finals of the primary series of the local bonspiel were played. For a time it looked as thought there would not be enough curlers make their appearance to form the rinks but soon after the stones were put out there were more than enough players. On account of the condition of the ice, and the number of players absent it was decided to discontinue the consolation series for the bonspiel. Only one game had been played, Archer defeating Wiggins eight to seven.

F. C. Bonnycastle met John Gay and won eight to seven in a closely contested game, either side leading till the last end, but with some very erratic curling on both rinks. D. E. Tait did not manage to win a victory in the specified eight ends. When the smoke cleared he and James Gay were on an even footing with the score at seven all. The extra end decided the victory for Tait with a single point in his favor, the score eight to seven.

Next week a third bonspiel has been planned. This time there will be a slight change in the order of things, and the vice-skips will pilot the rinks. Provided the temperature permits the play will start on Tuesday, in order to give the curlers an opportunity of seeing the hockey match between Tweed and the home team on Monday.

A Tickling In Her Throat For Years

Mrs. Peter Johnson, Port Alberni, B.C., writes:—"I had been troubled for years with a tickling in my throat every time I would lie down, and at night I would cough so I could not sleep, and could hardly do my work. I would cough until I would vomit.

BALL WILL COMPETE IN BOSTON GAMES

Great Canadian Runner Eager To Race Ray Barbutte.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—Eager to race Ray Barbutti again, Jimmy Ball, the great Canadian runner, has notified Boston A. A. officials that he would compete in that club's 40th indoor track games here on February 2.

Ball's entry for the B.A.A. special "600" was accompanied by his request that the officials try to obtain Barbutti's consent to compete against him.

According to A. T. Hart, chairman of the B.A.A. Athletic Committee, an invitation has been issued to Barbutti, through his club, the New York A.C., to race against Ball, and his acceptance was expected.

PAAVO NURMI SETS NEW MARK

Finnish Runner Makes Fair Start in Record Breaking Campaign.

WINS AT BROOKLYN.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (Canadian Press.) — A trifle more bald than when he left here nearly four years ago, and with a little less spring in his strange hitching stride, Paavo Nurmi, Finland's phantom of the tracks, has made a successful start on his second campaign of record breaking in American indoor meets. The unofficial world's marks fell before the pace of the Finnish marvel in his first race of the new tour at the Brooklyn College games last night when he outdistanced a fair field to win a special event at the odd distance of 3000 yards.

At the end, Paavo led over Anderson, another point winner for Finland, in the Olympic games, by fully 100 yards. The time was 7.43 2-5, more than two seconds better than the best previous mark made by Nurmi in 1925.

Times were taken at six points along the route, and two besides the final one went down as new records. At 2500 metres he was timed in 6.58 and at 1 5-8 miles the watch snapped at 7.23 2-5. Neither is a standard distance.

Bob McAllister, the "man of destiny" of the Olympic sprinters, and Phil Edwards, the leading distance runner of the Canadian Olympic team, provided the other highlights of the meet —McAllister by a victory in the sprint series and Edwards when he finished third in the historic Brooklyn College Thousand.

Edwards, making his first start of the year, and recently recovered from the 'flu,' lost the 1000 by poor judgment.

The others allowed him to set the pace, and he set a slow one, seeming content to hold the lead, instead of going out to kill off the opposition. The result was that at the finish he got a stiff challenge from Sam Martin, Boston A.A. star, and while he was trying unsuccessfully to fight it off, a dark horse, James Kennedy, Georgetown, came up to beat them both at the tape. Martin was second by inches, while Edwards was farther back. The time was 2.20 2-5.

Canada Produces the Hockey Stars To Play On United States Teams

"Tom Gorman's men are cutting the ice, fancy free and wide,
And the spangled team is up in the lead, which hurts Canadian pride."

The above is the start of a contribution to poetry from the pen, or typewriter of John Kiernan, who conducts a most interesting column in The New York Times. Hockey is in Canada a national game, but is fast being claimed by the United States. That second line of poetry, however, need not be taken too seriously. Canadian pride cannot be so very much injured after a glance at the New York Americans' line-up. Tommy Gorman usually announces the following team: Worters, Reise, Conacher, Burch, Broadbent, Simpson, Spring McVeigh, Himes, Sheppard and Dye. So, while the Americans wear New York uniforms, it is an all-Canadian team that leads the International section of the league. The United States, since the increase in hockey's popularity across the line, is starting to develop really good players, as witness the signing of Myles Lane by the Rangers and George Owen by Boston. But it will be some years before it will be possible to assemble a team of United States players capable of competing in the National League. And Canada, with its vast number of amateur teams as a source of supply, will continue to be the centre of the hockey market for a long, long time.—Toronto Globe.

Basketball Notes

GAME TO-NIGHT.

There will be plenty of entertainment and plenty of excitement in the Y.M.C.A. gym. to-night and to-morrow night, provided by the games of the City Basketball League sche- of the City Basketball League sche-

At 9 o'clock to-night, the Y.M.C.A. team will clash with the Bankers—both strong aggregations, while at 8.45 to-morrow evening the Canadian Packing Company's team will take on the C.G.E. in what promises to be equally as interesting. Western Clock and Harrison's will close the bill with their game scheduled to start at 9.30.

OSHAWA PLAYS HERE TO-NIGHT

Shamrocks Tangle With Juniors in First Appearance Here This Season.

GOOD GAME EXPECTED.

The fast Oshawa Shamrocks make their first appearance here of the season at Brock Street Rink this evening against the Peterborough Hockey Club Juniors. This Motor City crew have almost their whole last year's sextette intact, and they have two of the best players in junior hockey in Rowden and Black. This pair team up and secure most of the goals. Oshawa has yet to taste defeat.

The Petes are counting on a victory to-night and will battle hard for a win. They have one of the fastest skating, smartest stickhandling junior teams that ever wore the blue and white, and in former games only lacked the scoring punch. In Bernie Jones, Verne Dallin, and Bill Cripps on the forward line they have three youngsters who are streaks on their blades, and they are merging into a coming line. Pat Caladine and Doug Hatton are a hefty pair of boys who can take care of most attacks, and their rushing is a feature of the Petes' play. Jimmy Gillespie in goal is not new between the posts, and he handles the shots adeptly and coolly. In Jimmy Ellis and "Red" Creignton the youngsters have a pair of alternates, who know their hockey and are of utmost value to the team.

The Petes, if they win to-night, will be right in there for the group play-downs, and the fans can count on it that every blue and white jersied youngster will play themselves into exhaustion to turn the trick. In their games so far they have been outlucked rather than outplayed, and with Lady Luck giving them an even break to-night they should cop the honors.

The game will get away sharp at 8.15, and it will be a real struggle, both teams playing that wide-open, rushing brand of hockey that brings the fans to their feet and keeps them roaring.

New World's Speed Skating Records Set

DAVOS, Switzerland, Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Two world's records were broken at the European speed skating championships held here yesterday, when Chas. Thunberg, of Finland, won the 500-metre event and Ballangrud, of Norway won the 5,000-metre event. Thunberg's time in the 500-metre race was 42 4-5 seconds, and the two Norwegians, Ballangrud and Pedersen, tied for second place in 43 4-5 seconds. In the 5,000-metre event Ballangrud's record time was 8 minutes 24½ seconds.

Thunberg was second in 8 minutes 40 4-5 seconds, and the third man, Vandersscheer, of Holland came in in 8 minutes 43 4-5 seconds.

Allan Cup Holders Tie Port Arthur 2-2

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press.)—A thirty-minute overtime tie developed when University of Manitoba, Allan Cup holders, played their first game of the Interprovincial League season in Port Arthur Saturday evening. The score was 2-2. In one of the greatest hockey evetns this city has yet seen, not excepting those of the days when the Allan Cup was being won for Port Arthur, the two teams struggled through ninety minutes of terrific battle with Lady Luck smiling first one way and then the other.

C. G. E. Group No. 3

With three men, Shaughnessy, Martin and Weese, buffeting the pins for scores of over 600 in three games, the Stores Dept. had an easy time taking 2 out of 3 from the Drafting Room this week. J. McCabe is maintaining his fast pace for the Draftsmen, and gathered 605 pins.

Coil Winders romped away from Test No. 1 team with a majority of over 600 pins in total pinnage, and took every game. Houghton was the "big gun" with a high single score of 296 and a trio amounting to 720, while Calladine turned in a nice battle, making 292 single and 640 for three.

Production Pin Bumpers took 2 from Test No. 2 team in a duel that made the winners step fast, as they won the second game by a 9-pin margin. Williams was high man with 565.

The Test men on No. 4 and No. 2 teams seem to have encountered a bad slump. The former team took 2 from Test No. 2, every score being very low. Zwicker took high three with 471 and Schmidt had a high single of 206.

MERCANTILE LEAGUE

The Buick Specials started off on a heavy hitting spree that took the starch out of the Barbers and the final score showed the Haircutters 900 pins in the soup. Tom Curvin and G. Copping broke fast in great style piling up score of 728 and 725 respectively.

The Border Transit gang are beginning to perk up a little and were able to do the F. and G.'s out of two games. W. Ramsay showed his gang up by copping both high single and high three, while Carey is still nursing the slump and hit the pins for the lowest total. Fitzpatrick showed up the best for the F. and G.'s with a high three, 592.

The Peterboro Lumber Co. zipped along to an 8 point win over the Underwriters in the most strenuous battle of the night, the winners going over 3,000 in total pinnage. J. Eastwood and C. Wolfe were hitting the pins pretty hard, and chalked up 695 and 680 respectively.

Canadians and Cardinals battle to a 4 to 4 tie and seemed very evenly matched, there being only 40 pins difference in total pinnage. S. Robinson held up the big end for the Canadians with 592 and Piercy was next with 567.

The little five were treated to an 8-point gain by the Sloan and Co. team, the latter being able to field only three players. Gray with 605 was high man and Johnson with 443 graced the cellar.

Four City Hockey League Games On Wednesday

Four more fast games in the City Hockey League will be played at the Brock Street Rink this Wednesday night. The teams are beginning to hit their stride, and with only a few points separating the leaders from the team in the cellar, anything can happen yet. A loss will make a big difference to any of the teams, and they will all be out to win and stay in the running.

The games are:

Junior.

Barrie's vs. Canucks at 6 to 7.

Senior.

C.G.E. vs. Tool Room from 7 to 8.
Harrison's vs. De Laval from 8 to 9.
George Street vs. Cognawagas, from 9 to 10.

GILBERT AND GARBO IN NEW PHOTOPLAY

"A Woman of Affairs" Reunites Noted Screen Lovers as Co-Stars

John Gilbert and Greta Garbo, whose disarming naturalness in the more romantic interludes of "Flesh and the Devil" and "Love" caused a deal of speculation as to whether or not they took tea together as pleasantly when not chaperoned by a camera, are the co-stars of "A Woman of Affairs," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, which opened at the Capitol Theatre to-day.

The story of this film is by Michael Arlen, and the direction is by Clarence Brown, who also guided the players in "Flesh and the Devil." The cast, "all-star", according to the announcement includes Lewis Stone, Hobart Bosworth, Dorothy Sebastian, John Mack Brown and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

No secret was made at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio that the reason for the combination of Arlen and Gilbert and Miss Garbo, and Brown, and the leading players, was to give the cinemagoers as nearly as possible just what they wanted by their reception of previous two co-starring pictures.

So far as that company is concerned no other combination of players resulted in such numbers of queries by mail and by telephone as did the association of Gilbert and Miss Garbo in the same picture play. The conclusion of the producers was that there were no two stars on the screen in whose affairs the public was so interested.

In this picture Miss Garbo has the role of a vivacious, hoydenish and effervescent society girl, of London, which sound rather different from her previous screen interpretations. The advance word also is that she has altered her style in clothes for this picture.

It is said, however, that the fashion in Garbo-Gilbert close-ups (not to mention long shots) still follows the same silhouette.

VIEWS ON SPORT

The Junior Petes play the most important game of the schedule to-night at Brock Street Rink, when they engage the Oshawa Shamrocks, group leaders.

* * * * * *

The Petes will have to uncover all their bag of tricks to-night to defeat this smart Shamrock outfit, who have been hitting on all six so far and have yet to taste defeat. The Blue and White youngsters are tricky stickhandlers and speedy on their skates, and if they get their shooting a little deadlier they should grab a flock of goals against the Green shirts.

Hockey games all over the province were flooded out by the rains and thaw. Along the Niagara frontier such a fog arose that the Dunnville Intermediates, who were rushing to keep a date in Simcoe, had their bus miss the road and land up in a pond contining six feet of water. At Fort Erie, the Buffalo and Hamilton Canpro game had to be stopped because the fog was so thick that neither goal tender could see his own defence, and there weren't enough fog horns to go around among all the players. At Guelph and Brantford the water rose so high as to isolate the rink and keep fans and players alike from reaching it. In eastern Ontario, conditions weren't so bad and most of the games were run off successfully, although under difficulties.

Paavo Nurmi is back in New York, appearing a little more bald and with a little less spring in his long stride, but he showed that he has lost little of his old speed and staying powers, because he broke three unofficial records in his first races.

Hockey fans down Brockville way were given a real bargain bill on Thursday night, when Brockville and Gananoque Juniors battled for three hours before the home team finally won by a score of 3 to 2. Some years ago, Kingston Frontenacs, then playing junior battled with Toronto Marlboros in a play-off game at Port Hope, the Toronto team winning after the battle had lasted past the midnight hour.

Teddy Oke has been receiving bids from N. H. L. clubs for his players, especially for his star sniper, Ken Doraty, for whom the Canadiens have been casting envious eyes. However, Oke will not sell, and he is planning to bolster up his roster and make a real attempt at the championship.

Hamilton is raising a fund by public subscription to finance Philip Granville's expenses in C. C. Pyle's next bunion derby which is scheduled to start from New York in March. It is felt that Granville, who was third in the last bunion test, gave Hamilton much valuable publicity, and that he should get another chance to advertise the Ambitious City.

It is reported that Jack Dempsey has ordered a punching bag and other training paraphernalia, to be sent to him at Miami. It looks as though Jack is very worried about his condition or else he is preparing to enter the ring again. Dempsey will likely have another go in the ring before he retires for good.

AT THE GRAND.

THE COLBOURNE PLAYERS

The double Shavian bill, "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets" and "Fanny's First Play," two of the characteristic works of George Bernard Shaw, as presented at the Grand on Saturday night by Maurice Colbourne and his most capable London company has been marked down in the memory of the large audience as an outstanding offering distinguished by an impeccable presentation.

Mr. Colbourne has not been satisfied to give Canadian playgoers a second-rate performance counting upon his own ability and that of a few of his lieutenants to make up for any faults on the part of the rest of the cast or any deficiencies in settings. On the contrary, his entire company was adequate and talented, giving a flawless exhibition of good acting and his stage settings were thoroughly in keeping with the fine work of the cast. With the irony and wit of George Bernard Shaw and his ability to create interesting situations at the disposal of such a company the result could not fall short of a most delightful entertainment and the presentation was just that from the moment the curtain went up on the romantic scene in the moonlight on the battlements of the old Tower of London, which was the locale of "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets," until it fell for the last time upon the animated scene in the dining room of the Gilbeys.

The curtain-raiser, a romantic and entertaining little piece, full of Shaw's cyincism and saucy impertinence was played here for the first time and was thoroughly appreciated. Mr. Colbourne's work as Will Shakespeare in this one-act masterpiece was as masterly bit of acting that delighted his audience, and Miss Constance Pelissier gave a convincing picture of Queen Elizabeth. The "Dark Lady," of whom Shakespeare wrote, was Miss Greta Rowell, who was thoroughly adequate, while the part of the Beefeater gave Lambert Larking a chance which he availed himself to good purpose.

From "Fanny's First Play," Mr. Colbourne has omitted the induction and epilogue which takes nothing away from the amusement and delight of the play itself. Albeit, it makes the title somewhat confusing.

"Fanny's First Play," is Shaw at his most entertaining best, giving full play to his wit and sarcasm and an opportunity to poke fun at English characteristics as is his delight on all occasions. As played by Mr. Colbourne and his company it must rank as one of the most delightful offerings in the Grand's history. Mr. Colbourne himself as the inscrutable "Juggins," the high-born footman, added to the laurels he had already won by a delightful performance, and he was backed by a company of splendid balance and talent. Nothing more amusing than Miss Phillis Coghlan's performance as Darling Dora can be recalled, and Barry Jones, a juvenile of international reputation, scored heavily as Bobby Gilbey. Miss Haroldine Humphreys won a triumph as Margaret Knox. Francis Jacobs' deft etching of the role of Der Veinet, was a splendid effort, and delightfully funny were Lambert Larking as Robin Gilbey; Constance Pelissier as Mrs. Gilbey; Rule Pyott as Joseph Knox, and Greta Powell as his religious spouse. All these talented artists were never out of character and their combined efforts resulted in a presentation of engaging merit.

If anything were needed to add to the impression made by the company, it was supplied by Mr. Colbourne's modest little speech in acknowledgment of the applause at the end of the second act. Unlike some other stage stars seen here, this actor-manager disclaimed any impression that his visit was aimed at the elevation of the stage. "It all boils down to this," he said. "We're here to turn an honest dollar. But we're glad to be in Canada, for we're British and you're British and what we offer is entirely a British product."

It is to be hoped Peterborough may have another opportunity of seeing Mr. Colbourne and his most capable associates.—F.D.C.

WOOLER SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

Mrs. H. B. Neal Gives Talk at Women's Institute Meeting On Education.

WOOLER, Jan. 21 (Examiner Correspondence).—At the meeting of the Women's Institute held on Wednesday, January 16, at the home of Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. H. B. Neal gave an interesting address on education.

Mrs. Orvis, the president, presided for the meeting. A report of the committee in charge of the community evening program was given by Mrs. H. B. Neal. Dr. Hall will begin the dental inspection in the schools, and it was decided to have a throat, ear and nose clinic for the schools in the summer months. The public travelling library will be here and opened this week. It was decided to send a postcard shower to a faithful member who is in ill health. An application was filled in at this meeting, to send to the Department to have the annual speaker in June.

"This meeting was set apart as an educational one," said Mrs. Neal. "I see in the education department it asks us to stress Canadian Nationalism. Therefore, I have chosen one of our Canadian writers, L. M. Montgomery. Lucy Maude Montgomery was born at Clifton, Prince Edward Island. She has been heard to say, 'I never knew a dull hour in my quiet childhood.' Doubtless this was due to gift of imagination. Her early surroundings of beauty, undoubtedly influenced her entire life. At nine years of age she began writing little rhymes. Her first book, 'Anne of Green Gables' was returned five times before it was accepted for publication. In 1908 it was accepted and published. A year later, Mark Twain described Anne as the sweetest creation of child life yet written, and Bliss Carmen also voiced his appreciation. In 1909 followed 'Anne of Avonlea,' later 'Kilmeny of the Orchard,' and the 'Story Girl.'

The writer had been continuing her quiet life in the pastoral scenes, playing the organ of the little church and bearing her share of little neighborhood doings. Then there came into her community one day to preach, the Rev. Ewan McDonald. He it was who was destined a little later to lure her from her beloved island, and in 1911, L. M. Montgomery was married to Rev. Mr. McDonald, who was in charge of the Presbyterian Church at Leaskdale, Ontario. Then Mrs. McDonald settled to her life in a village manse and she added to her books, 'Anne's House of Dreams.' Perhaps this book is second only to Anne of Green Gables. After all, the best way to know a writer is to read not only a sketch of her life, but also something she had written.

When Premier Baldwin and the Prince of Wales were making their Canadian tour, the Premier requested that it be arranged for him to meet the Canadian writer, whose stories he had enjoyed so much. In consequence, when the reception was held at Government House, Toronto, Mrs. McDonald was one of the guests.

Community Evening.

The second annual community evening of the Women's Institute will be held on Friday evening, January 25, in Wooler Town Hall. The program will consist of choruses, elocution contests and oratorical contests. One of the features of the program will be a debate by four pupils of Wooler High School. The committee in charge of this entertainment will be, Mrs. H. B. Neal, convenor; Mrs. L. H. Rowe, Mrs. (Dr.) Anderson, Mrs. George Adams, Mrs. S. L. Terrill, secretary; Mrs. Percy Gooding, Mrs. J. J. McColl, Mrs. A. G. Austin and Mrs. M. Sharpe.

made. Help was given in several departments of the church and the receipts amounted to more than four hundred and fifty dollars.

R. Wellman reported for the choir which has improved greatly and it is hoped that under the leadership of the organist, Miss Ramsay, it will continue to improve on its excellent work and to continue in readiness to lead in the worship of song in all the services of the church.

The Mission Band report was not received owing to the unavoidable absence of the leader, Mrs. Bailey.

Rev. Mr. Rivers reported four baptisms of children, nine marriages and sixteen dollars. The report of the elders was given by James Caskey, who reported several removals, seven by letter and five by death. Thirteen were added to the membership during the year.

The financial report of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund was given by Mr. Hough. The books, however, are to be kept open until January 31 for the receipt of amounts promised, but not yet paid.

The general fund of the church was reported by W. McBain as in an excellent condition. The church has been re-decorated at considerable expense, new furnaces installed, fuel and wood supplied for the year and power and light bills paid. The organ and piano were tuned. This report will be printed at an early date.

After some discussion it was decided that the stewards be appointed four or three years, four for two years and four for one year. The election resulted as follows:

For three years—R. Bristol, J. B. Hough, Herbert Bailey and George White.

For one year—George Maybee, L. Ashley, W. McBain and Colin Ross.

After the business part of the meeting, the ladies served a dainty lunch and a social hour was spent.

CHURCH MEETING HELD AT MADOC

Reports Read From Each Department of Trinity United Church.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Jan. 21.—A most interesting congregational meeting was held in Trinity United Church on Wednesday evening when reports were received from each department of the church. These were freely discussed by the members, showing the interest taken in the church.

Mr. Keene reported a Sunday school well organized, with nine classes and another class to be organized at once, and two hundred and fifty-three on the roll. Supplies were provided for each department of the school and the Missionary and Temperance departments were well organized. There is a good library in the Sunday school, the librarian of which has worked faithfully for fifty-four years. There is an efficient Cradle Roll Department, and a Home Department.

The Young Worshippers' League report was given by Miss Marguerita Parks, who reported continued good attendance and a credit balance of $36.

The report of the Young People's Society was given by Mrs. Hough, who reported good weekly programs, good attendance, an excellent executive and that the society had exceeded its allocation and had contributed to the Missionary and Maintenance funds of the church. Their givings to the amount of $150 are sent for the maintenance of a special missionary chosen by them several years ago.

During the evening special selections of music were given and which were much enjoyed. These included a solo by Miss L. M. Ramsay, "My Task," and William Scrutton contributed a violin solo accompanied by Mrs. L. Ashley on the piano.

Mrs. Moorcroft, who reported for the Missionary Society, reported interested monthly meetings, some social evenings, fifty paid-up members and several life members. The allocation of this society had been reached with receipts of more than four hundred dollars and two bales sent to different points, where needed.

The Ladies' Aid reported a very busy year and excellent work done on the part of all members. The parsonage was painted and many repairs

Tired Out?

Constipation not Overwork is usually the cause

Are you tired out long before the day's work is over and "dead tired" every evening?

Such fatigue is usually caused by constipation. It clogs internal organs with ennervating poisons which should pass out of the body as waste. It lessens your capacity for work and play. It saps your reserves of energy and makes you the easy prey of disease.

Correct this condition in Nature's way by eating Tillson's natural Bran. It supplies stomach and intestines with roughage and bulk. It gives bowel muscles the "setting up" exercise which they need. It stimulates them to normal, regular functioning.

Eat Tillson's natural Bran every day. It is delicious in muffins. It will give you permanent freedom from constipation and all its evils.

A CANADIAN PHYSICIAN SAYS OF ONE OF HIS PATIENTS:

"She is continuing the use of Tillson's natural Bran and shows a decided improvement in her digestion and ease of elimination."

HERE AND THERE IN THE CITY

The annual meeting of King Edward Home and School Association was held on Friday afternoon, with the president in the chair.

Splendid reports of last year's work were given by the secretary and treasurer, showing that it had been a most successful year.

This being the first meeting of 1929, the election of officers took place with the following executive to carry on the business of the association appointed:

Hon. president, Mrs. Bolton; past president, Mrs. Andrews; president, Mrs. Pollock; first vice, Mrs. Grose; second vice, Mrs. Mackness; third vice, Mrs. Menzies; recording secretary, Mrs. Gregson; treasurer, Mrs. J. O. Fife; social, Mrs. Roberts; program, Miss Herridge; relief, Mrs. Elliott; visiting, Mrs. Hierons.

The Mission Band of St. James' Church held their first meeting of the year on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Pearl Welch, the vice-president, presided in the absence of the president.

An encouraging report of the last year's work was given by May Ritchie, the assistant leader. It was decided to adopt the same system of giving for the coming year, that is by the use of the "sunshine" bags, the contents of which are to be used in spreading "sunshine."

Following out this idea, a story entitled "The Doing Without Bid" was read by Eleanor Gibson.

Mrs. Woodley, president of the W. M.S. took charge of the election of officers, which resulted in the following capable executive:

President—Jean Rose.
Vice-President—Pearl Welch.
Secretary—Eleanor Gibson.
Corresponding Secretary — Vera Davis.
Treasurer—Dorothy Drysdale.
Secretary of Palm Branches— Alberta Frost.
Pianist—Dorothy Frost.
Assistant Pianist—May Welch.
Teelphone Committee — Lillian Thomas, Margaret Patterson, Audrey Dryland.

LEAVE FOR NEW YORK

For several years past the city council has made a grant to the Trent Waterways Development Association as an encouragement to the exhibit put on by that organization at the National Motor boat show held annually in New York city. This year the Trent Association is co-operating with the Provincial Department of Highways in placing a joint exhibition at the show.

The city is naturally interested in the benefits to be derived from the exhibition but has never been officially represented at the show. But on Sunday afternoon. His Worship Mayor Denne and Alderman Malcolm McIntyre left for New York where they will visit the Trent exhibit during the next two or three days.

AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE

The left rear fender was damaged and a window broken in a car driven by Stanley C. Elliott of 567 Aylmer street, and the bumper was torn off and a fender damaged on a second car driven by A. Deal, taximan when two vehicles came together at the corner of George and Murray streets at 12:15 a.m. on Saturday. Neither driver was injured.

It appeared that Elliott was proceeding north on George street and when he attempted to turn west onto Murray street his car skidded, being struck by Deal's car, also proceeding north.

CHOIR ELECTS OFFICERS.

The annual meeting and election of officers of George Street United choir was held on Thursday evening, with the president, W. H. Cunningham, in the chair. In the absence of Mr. Miller Miss Bernice Cain was appointed secretary pro tem. Rev. J. E. Todd spoke a few words of appreciation and thanked Mr. Liddle organist and choir leader, Mr. Cunningham, and members of the choir for their loyalty and splendid assistance in the church services. The report of the Social Committee was given by Miss Greta McCall, and the report of the Flower Committee by Miss Pearl Carruthers. A motion by Douglas Carlisle and seconded by Don. Monroe, that a letter of sympathy be sent to Mr. J. F. Miller, was unanimously passed.

The following officers for 1929 were elected by acclamation:

Hon. President, Rev. J. E. Todd; president, W. H. Cunningham; secy.-treasurer, J. F. Miller; Membership, A. V. Lillow; Social Committee, Miss Greta McCall; Flower Committee, Miss Pearl Carruthers; ladies' gowns, Miss Bessie Elcome; gentlemen's gowns, S. Ivey; librarian, Leslie Gandy.

8.00 p.m.—Mission Service.
Thur. 8.00 a.m.—Holy Communion.

CHOIR ELECTS OFFICERS

At the annual meeting of the choir of Knox United Church, held on Thursday evening, Stanley Willis was elected as president for the coming year, with the pastor, the Rev. William McDonald, as honorary president. Other officers are George Coleman, vice president; Miss May Pollock, secretary; James Gerard, treasurer; Arthur Armstrong, librarian, and Tom Allen treasurer of the Flower Fund. Members of the social committee are Miss Gladys Chambers and Miss Muriel Benson and Mrs. E. Huffman and Mrs. H. Wood comprise the Gown committee.

There was a good attendance at the annual meeting, when reports of the year's work were given by the secretary, Mrs. A. Huffman, and the treasurer, A. Pitchford. A very successful year just ended, under the capable leadership of R. J. Devey, organist and choirmaster, was recorded. Mr. Devey thanked the members for their loyal and faithful co-operation.

PRIZES PRESENTED AT ENTERTAINMENT

St. Luke's Sunday School Has a Most Successful Tea and Concert.

One of the most successful Christmas entertainments in the history of St. Luke's Sunday School was held in the parish hall on Thursday. A very fine tea at six o'clock was served to the pupils, teachers and officers of the Sunday School, by members of the Women's Guild, in charge of Miss Elizabeth Stewart. This was followed by a program and distribution of prizes, the latter being presented by the Rev. George Bousfield, father of the rector. Despite the bad weather, there was a good attendance.

The play entitled "Santa Claus" and the Magic Carpet", formed the chief item on the program, thirty-nine pupils of the school taking part.

The program was as follows: Piano solo by Jean Black, recitation by Edith Wills, recitation by Laura Charlton, recitation by Dorothy Merritt, piano solo by Phyllis Starr, dialogue by Hilda Storey, Elsie Day and Irene Vivaish, song by Margaret Bethune, recitation by Jean Bethune, song by Stewart Gardiner, recitation by Doris Clarke, recitation by Margaret Bethune, old time songs by Edith Wills and Marion Ballantyne, reading by Eleanor Bothwell, recitation by Alicia Langley, piano solo by Billy Hepburn, demonstration of magic by John Langley and Jack Gemmell, piano solo by Hilda Storey, fairy dance by Sophie Yeotes and Dorothy Lipsett, and play by scholars, entitled "Santa Claus and the Magic Carpet."

Prizes Presented.

THE WEATHER

Another freeze-up, with the appearance of more snow coming. Anyway this is more seasonable than heavy rain in January. Last week's rainfall gave a total of 1.65. Of this amount about one-half fell on Friday night, which caused the rapid rise of all the small streams in this district. Our noble Otonabee, however, flows on majestically, undisturbed and apparently oblivious of a few inches of rain. Temperature this morning 12 degrees above zero.—W. P.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—Pressure is high over the Eastern States and the Mackenzie Valley and relatively low over the central portion of the continent. A severe storm is centred off the Straits of Belle Isle.

The weather has been mostly fair and colder from Ontario eastward, and somewhat milder with local snow flurries in the Western Provinces.

Forecasts.

Lower Lake Region—Mostly cloudy to-night and Tuesday, with somewhat higher temperature; local snow-flurries.

Georgian Bay—Mostly cloudy to-night and Tuesday, with stationary or a little higher temperature; local snow flurries.

Northern Ontario—Mostly fair to-day and Tuesday, with a little higher temperature; local snow flurries.

Superior—Partly cloudy to-day and Tuesday, with moderate temperature; local snow flurries.

Manitoba—Colder again to-night and Tuesday, with snow flurries.

Alberta—Cold to-night and Tuesday; local snowfalls or flurries.

Saskatchewan — Northerly winds and decidedly cold to-night and on Tuesday; local snowfalls or flurries.

CAVAN.

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAVAN, Jan. 21.—The snow almost disappeared from the roads on Thursday evening. The roads now are frozen and in a very icy condition.

Miss Touchbourn is in Hamilton, where she is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Woodhall.

Mrs. W. A. Nill is ill in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough.

Mr. E. Syer was a visitor to Port Hope on Tuesday, where he attended the funeral of his cousin.

The first team won their second straight game, defeating the third 4-1, while the second team was beat 4-0 by the fourth Troop.

Routly and Taylor were instrumental in the defeat of the second team, Routly securing three goals. Scollard and MacAuliffe were the stars for the first team in their victory. This game puts the Sixth No. 1 in first place and the 2nds in last.

COLLEGIATE NOTES

First Literary Society Meeting

The first meeting of the year of the Literary Society was held at P.C.I. Friday afternoon. The program was in charge of the executive and was very successful. After a short address by the president, Reginald Howden asking for the co-operation of the school in the various activities to be attempted by the Society.

The school orchestra, under the leadership of Arnold Spencer rendered the opening selection. The three black crows in the person of Allan Heidman, Hedley Vickers and Ken. McCannan entertained to perfection, accompanied at the piano by Reg. Storey. Mr. Morris rendered a Scottish reading in his able manner, keeping his audience in laughter throughout. Recitations given by Miss Irene Cox and Miss Margaret Walker were well received. Miss Mildred Morphet rendered a piano solo and Grant Breckenbridge performed ably on the violin. Howard McDonald in the role of Sam Whittaker from the great open spaces made a hit. The meeting closed with the singing of God Save the King.

The oratorical contest has been announced at P.C.I. The contest is divided into two sections. The senior division is for the pupils of forms 3, 4 and 5. The junior division is for the pupils of forms 1 and 2. The entries must be in by Wednesday, January 23. The contest will take place sometime before February 23 in the Collegiate Auditorium. Before the contest takes place the entrants will be required to give their oration before the board of judges and only those qualified will speak before the school.

In the senior there is a choice of four subjects:

1. Canada Among the Nations.
2. The Unification of Canada.
3. The People of Canada.
4. Canada's Economic Problem.

In the junior division the subject is optional.

"The Echoes"

The subscription contest for the Collegiate year book "The Echoes" started Friday morning. The contest is divided into two groups forms 1 and 2 in one contest and forms 3, 4 and 5 in another. The winners will have the option of three prizes, one of them being a class picture in "The Echoes."

CREDIT GIVEN ENGINEER GRANT

Sounded Whistle and Applied Brakes As Engine Plunged Down Embankment.

SAW WASHOUT.

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 21. — Engineer Grant is given a large share of the credit for saving the lives of the passengers on the train. He saw the washout a moment before the engine plunged into it, and in that moment sounded a warning blast on the whistle and applied the brakes. A steel passenger car, its rear end caught and held by a mass of earth, came to rest, hanging at an angle of 45 degrees at the edge of a 200 foot drop. From this car 30 men and women climbed to safety. Had the brakes not been applied the impetus of the train would probably have carried this car 30 feet farther from where it would have rolled to the bottom of the hill.

The Warning Signal

When you must crank your car it's a warning that your battery needs immediate attention. In fact it's poor economy to let your battery get so low because then expensive repairs are often necessary.

No matter what make of battery you have, you will find that USL Golden Rule Service will give you maximum battery life and save you money.

YOUTH MISSING FROM HIS HOME

Mother Of Port Credit Boy Is Very Ill and Wants To See Her Wayward Son.

NATION WIDE SEARCH.

The police are making a thorough search for Bert Browning, a young lad of eighteen, who disappeared from his home at Port Credit under mysterious circumstances last March. The aid of broadcasting stations throughout the country have been called into service and his description has been sent to every police office and newspaper in the province. It is declared to be of utmost necessity that he soon be located as his mother is very ill, the state of her health being such that the boy must be located at once.

His description is as follows: Age, 18 years; height, 5 ft. 10 inches; brown eyes, slight build, dark brown curly hair, usually worn in "brush cut" and he would pass for a young man of 22 years.

Anyone who has heard of our seen him since he disappeared, or knows where he is now located, is asked to write to C. H. Burgess, Police Magistrate, Port Credit, Ontario.

Obituary

MRS. SHERMAN HARRIS.

AGINCOURT, Jan. 21.—While on a visit to her daughter's home at Agincourt, Mrs. Sherman Harris of Verschoyle, Ont., died on Saturday in her 73rd year. Mrs. Harris was born in the Verschoyle district where she resided for the greater part of her life and had the respect and esteem of the whole community. She was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and an active worker. Surviving are three sons, Guy of Peterborough; Ira and Roy of Verschoyle, one daughter, Mrs. Bruce Cole, Agincourt; also two brothers and three sisters.

MRS. JANE CALDWELL.

TORONTO, Jan. 21.— Seized with heart trouble two weeks ago, Mrs. Jane Caldwell, widow of Andrew Caldwell, passed away at her residence, 400 Avenue Road, Sunday. She was born in England 79 years ago and came to Canada at the age of seven years with her parents. They made the voyage on a sailing boat which took nearly twelve weeks to cross the Atlantic. She was an Anglican in religion. Surviving are two daughters Mrs. John Brass and Mrs. Addie Might, Toronto, and five sons, Charles Clifford, Thomas R., Frank R., James and Alfred, all of Toronto.

MRS. MARY HUTCHISON.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MOUNT PLEASANT, Jan. 21.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Hutchison, widow of the late Thomas Hutchison, who passed away at the residence of her son Sidney, at Norwood, was held on Friday upon the arrival of the four o'clock train at Cavan Station and proceeded to St. John's Cemetery, Ida, for burial.

The service at the graveside was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Roberts, of Millbrook, assisted by the Rev. F. Carpenter, of the United Church, Cavan.

The pall-bearers were James Kennedy, William Pritchard, Creighton Carr, Albert Tinney, John Hunter and John Cathcart.

The late Mrs. Hutchison leaves to mourn her loss, one son, Sidney, of Norwood, and one daughter, Mrs. William Whitfield, of Toronto; also two brothers, Thomas Newton, of Toronto, and John Newton, of Cavan.

Among those from outside points who attended the funeral were: Thomas Newton and Nelson Newton, of Toronto; Miss Annie Twamley, of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hutchison, of Norwood.

MRS. FREDERICK NORRIS.

The death occurred on Sunday, Jan. 20, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. R. G. Northcott, 344 Mark street, of Sophia Collins, beloved wife of Frederick Norris, in her 65th year.

There are left to mourn her loss her sorrowing husband, one daughter, Mrs. R. G. Northcott, and one sister, Mrs. S. Reeves, of this city.

The funeral will take place from the residence of her daughter, 344 Mark street, on Tuesday afternoon, January 22, at 2 o'clock, to St. Luke's church, and the Little Lake cemetery for interment.

ALFRED HENRY SCOTT.

The death occurred on Saturday evening of Alfred Henry Scott, aged 47, at his late residence, 20 Stewart street. The late Mr. Scott was a trusted employee of B. F. Ackerman's and Sons, and he was a most active worker in the Park street Baptist church, being a deacon for more than eight years, and previously he held the same office in the First Baptist Church, at Ottawa.

Mr. Scott was born at Bailieboro, and has been a resident of this city nearly all his life. Besides his orrowing wife, he leaves to mourn his loss, one brother, of Gladstone, Manitoba, and one sister, Lottie May Boson, of Vancouver, B.C.

The funeral service will be held in the Park street Church to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, with the Rev. J. L. Harton officiating.

MICHAEL PATRICK HEALEY.

At 8.45 this morning the death occurred in St. Joseph's Hospital of little Michael Patrick Healey, two and a half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Healey, of Indian River. The funeral will take place from the family residence, second concession of Dummer township, on Tuesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, to St. Joseph's cemetery, Douro.

REV. DR. E. A. LANGFELDT.

News reached the city this afternoon of the death last evening of Rev. Dr. E. A. Langfeldt at Devil's Lake, North Dakota. The late Dr. Langfeldt is lovingly remembered in this city as he was the rector of St. Luke's Anglican Church for the years between 1901 and 1910. Dr. Langfeldt left this city for a pastorate at North Battleford, Sask. Later he had charge of a parish in Edmonton, and his last charge was that of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Devil's Lake, North Dakota.

His wife, Katharine, daughter of the late J. J. Hatley, of Orillia, survives him, and also three sons, Otto Kingsley, Basil and Allan, and five daughters: Dorothy, Audrey, Hildagarde, Muriel and Kathleen.

The funeral service will be held in Calgary on Friday afternoon.

MINISTER BANS ENGLISH NOVEL

"The Well of Loneliness" Will Not be Permitted to Enter Canada.

COPIES SEIZED

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 21 (Canadian Press).—Following in line with action taken by the authorities in Great Britain and the United States, Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of National Revenue, announced to-day that an official ban had been placed on the novel, "The Well of Loneliness," written by Miss Radcliffe Hall, English writer. The recommendation to ban the book was made by the official censor of the Department.

A large number of copies of the book, it was learned, have already been seized by officers at Canadian Customs ports.

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 21. — As far as could be ascertained to-day, Habibullah Khan, rebel chief who has taken over the throne of Afghanistan, is consolidating his position at Kabul.

He has established himself in the Royal Palace and is endeavoring to form a ministry.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—British official quarters announced to-day that they had received no reports similar to that reaching London from India, saying that the new Afghan King, Habibullah had been killed or had fled from Kabul. The latest British official advices indicate that Habibullah controls Kabul.

Y.W.C.A. SECURES SITE FOR CAMP

$4,000 of the Required $7,000 Has Already Been Raised by Association.

A. For a number of years the Young Women's Christian Association has been considering the purchase of a camp, where the girls of the city and vicinity might enjoy the holidays at a reasonable rate.

A very desirable location has at last presented itself, and the ladies are undertaking to raise in the neighborhood of $7,000, $4,000 of which through the interests of some good friends of the Association and the girls, is already in view.

Peterborough appreciates its splendid Rotary Boys Camp, and now the Y.W.C.A. hopes to be able to give girls an opportunity to enjoy a healthful, out-of-doors summer holiday, which ought to appeal to the citizens of Peterborough as a worthy cause.

trary to the Scriptures and to the Army's own regulation, which positively prohibits settlement of disputes within the army by recourse to the civil courts.

The court proceedings alienated the sympathies of the four commissioners who had previously supported the cause of General Booth. The withdrawal of support was attributed especially to the attitude of Catharine Booth, the General's daughter, by The Daily Express, to-day. This paper quoted an unnamed high official as saying:

"We are amazed that she repeatedly assured members of the council that no legal action was being taken. To the last moment before the adjudication, whenever any reference was made to legal proceedings, Commissioner Catharine assured the Council that nothing of the sort was contemplated. It was a great shock to everybody when the impending action was announced."

The Reform group said that General Booth himself as late as 1927 laid down the regulation forbidding Salvationists to go to law with other members of the Army on pain of dismissal from the Army.

KING GEORGE TO CONVALESCE ON SUSSEX COAST

Bognor Cottage Has Been Put at the Disposal of His Majesty.

REQUIRES SEA AIR.

Prince of Wales Is Contemplating a Visit to Distressed Coal Fields.

LONDON, January 22. Canadian Press. — It was officially stated today that King George will go to Bognor, a popular bathing resort in Sussex on the South Coast of England, for his convalescence, but the date of his departure has not been fixed. A statement issued at Buckingham Palace, said:

"It has been realized by the Kings medical advisers that prior to the establishment of convalescence there would arise a time when sea air would be necessary to secure continuation of His Majesty's progress. With this knowledge careful search for a residence not only suitable itself but possessing the necessary attributes of close proximity to the sea, southern exposure, protection from wind, and within reasonable access to London, has been made. The residence selected is Craigwell House in Bognor, which was placed at His Majesty's disposal by Sir Arthur Du Cros"

Retired Business Man.

Sir Arthur, who is a retired business man, is known as a patron of art. In addition to his home in England he has several villas in France.

Bognor is a very popular bathing resort, with a pier, esplanade and a good beach At Feltham, 1 1-2 miles to the northeast, are a cottage occupied by William Blake, the famous English poet and painter, in 1801-4, and the house of William Haylet (1745-1820), noted poet.

PHYSICIANS' BULLETIN.

King George's physicians issued this bulletin to-day:

"The King had a quiet night. The temperature has now remained normal for many days, and the condition of the pulse is satisfactory. The empyema wound is small and steadily healing.

"With a returning appetite the amount of nourishment is adequate, and includes solid foods.

"Although the general strength shows improvement there is not as yet any appreciable increase in weight.

"We feel that the time is approaching when His Majesty's removal to sea air will be advantageous.

Contemplating Visit.

While there is little doubt the Prince of Wales is contemplating a visit to the distressed coal fields, it is equally certain no definite plans have yet been made and no visit will take place until at least the end of the month. The matter is obviously one of extreme delicacy, and the greatest reticence concerning the same is observed in official circles.

There is no ground whatever for believing the Prince and Sir Kynaston Studd, Lord Mayor of London, will make a joint visit. Sir Kynaston is in charge of the Lord Mayor's Fund for relief of distress among the families of unemployed miners, which with the Government's contribution, amounts already to more than $5,000,000, and is to make a personal visit shortly to assure himself the work of distributing relief is going forward smoothly. The Prince of course has considerably aided the fund by his personal appeals to the people, including an address broadcast by radio on Christmas Day.

The Prince of Wales is again at Sandringham for a few days shooting and will not consider his coalfields trip until he returns to London at the end of the week.

The first public dinner the Prince will attend since his father's illness will be the Government banquet at the Mansion House on February 18 to mark the opening of the British in-

Haines Is Laid To Rest

Impressive Simplicity Marks Funeral Services of Late Lieutenant Commissioner.

TRIBUTE FROM BOOTH.

Daughter From Germany Tells of Commissioner's Life and His Family's Sorrow.

LONDON, Jan. 26. —(Canadian Press.)—Impressive simplicity marked the funeral service at Clapton for Lieut. Commissioner William Haines, who died suddenly at Sunbury last week while the High Council of the Salvation Army was in session.

Differences within the Army over the question of leadership were forgotten by all parties as they assembled to pay tribute to their dead comrade. All members of the High Council were present except Mrs. Bramwell Booth, wife of the deposed General, who is ill at Southwold. Officers from the Headquarters Staff and hundreds of cadets from the rank and file brought the attendance to more than 3,000.

After a simple service conducted by Commissioner Edward Higgins, Chief of Staff, around the flower-covered bier, the funeral procession marched in six sections, headed by bands, to the Abbey Park cemetery, where the funeral took place.

A tribute to Commissioner Haines was paid by Bramwell Booth in a statement issued from his sick room at Southwold. In it the General acclaimed the Commissioner's outstanding international services.

Loss Keenly Felt.

'I feel very keenly the loss to the Army and find no word to express the sympathy I feel for Mrs. Haines and their children at this moment of the tragic sudden loss of their loved one," said the statement.

One of the most touching moments of the funeral service came when a slim girl in a Salvation Army uniform walked to the rostrum and in a sioner's life and his family's sorrow. She was the late Commissioner's daughter, Ensign Winifred Haines, who had come from Germany to attend the funeral.

sweet low voice told of the

Not one in the thousands that filled the hall stirred as she told of her love for one who was "more than a father—a pal."

"I salute my father," she said, as she gestured toward the coffin at the end and then slowly walked away.

Over Hundred Guests Driven Into Streets in Minneapolis Fire.

TEN ARE INJURED.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minna., Jan. 22. —(Canadian Press). —Two persons were dead to-day, ten were injured and 100 guests and employees were driven to the street by a fire which burned the National hotel, in the downtown district late Sunday.

Both victims were suffocated, though one body was partly burned when found. They were identified through names on the register as John J. Jones, 45, Williston, N.D., and Albin Scott, 26, Frederic, Wis.

Railway Derricks Are Unable To Lift Heavy Locomotive Wrecked Near Hamilton

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Attempts by heavy derricks to lift the heavy locomotive wrecked at Stoney Creek, near Hamilton, last Friday, on the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway, with the loss of one life, failed yesterday. Officials of the railway have decided to leave the engine, worth $90,000, there. The giant engine plowed its nose into the earth with terrific force and is deeply embedded.

The cost of removing the wreckage would cost considerable and the repairs would almost equal the cost of new equipment. Engineers report that the road-bed might be weakened by removing the wreckage.

Dr George S. Rennis, announced that the inquest into the death of fireman Ricker will be held Tuesday, January 29. Members of the train crew and passengers will be called.

Hugh McKellar, claims agent, reports that 55 claims have been filed, all for amounts under $1,000.

MAYOR DENNE IS RE-ELECTED HEAD OF BOARD

Directors of Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Hold Their Annual Meeting.

ELEVENTH TERM.

Several New Members Are Added To Board of Directorate—Old Officers Re-appointed.

His Worship Mayor Roland Denne, absent on a visit to New York in the city's interests, was elected to the presidency for his eleventh consecutive term, and Thomas Mcindoo was persuaded to withdraw his resignation tendered a few minutes earlier, in order that he might be elected to the first vice-presidency for another year, when the annual meeting of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board was held in the City Council Chambers on Monday afternoon. In addition, R. H. Turner was elected second vice-president. Sheriff F. J. A. Hall and Fred Holmes were retained as secretary and treasurer respectively, and William Knox was chosen superintendent by the directors, some forty or more of whom were present, including a fair representation from the rural district surrounding the city.

Report Is Received.

Lack of more detailed copies of the auditor's report was responsible for the only note of dissatisfaction heard at the annual meeting, for since they had no copies that would be sufficiently detailed, the directors and members were unable to discuss intelligently its various features. The difficulty was finally solved by the report being received as read by the secretary, and left over to the next meeting for discussion and adoption.

In addition to the above-mentioned officers, the Nominating Committee comprising Messrs. Ball, Brown, Lowe and Knox brought in the following list of directors for 1929

C. E. Moore, W. Steinkrauss, Thomas Graham, W. R. Shields, K. Denoon, Vivian Milburn, H S. Routley, Walter Bowles, A. J. Reynolds, S. T. Milburn, J. A. Williams, W. Roseborough, C. F. Kitney, W. S. Merrill, V. Eastwood, Tom Brown, Stanley Lowe, J. A. Middleton, C. G. Graham, Gus White, R. T. Lillica, T. H. Hooper, B. Marcnett, H. McFarlane, T. Cruikshank, W. F. Turner, J. O. Ball. E. F. Mason, D. Jordan, W. Stewart, R. M. Glover, J. T. O'Connell, W. Fallis, C. W. Seymour, S. A. Oke, W. H. Young, W. R. Breyfogle, George Paxman, Harvey Webber, J. W. Fraser C. H. Westlake, C. Hanbridge, Gordon Hancock, Hugh Bertram, Frank Savigny, T. Cavanagh, Morley Smithson, B.A., A. Juby, R. L. Dobbin, J. Penrose, G. Hooten, G. B Nicholls, A. Edmison.

Opens Meeting.

Presiding in the absence of President Denne, the first vice-president of 1928 (and eventually of 1929) opened the meeting, speaking briefly. He pointed out that the 1928 executive and directorate was intact, and that with the election over the 1929 officers should swing into action, preparing for a great Exhibition. They should realize, he felt, that each man must be a spoke in the wheel of progress, for the Industrial Exhibition had come to mean a great deal to the entire community, which it materially benefited both from a rural and urban point of view.

It was after the reading of the minutes that the chairman called for the auditor's statement which, though complete enough in itself, did not give sufficient detail. There were few, if any, extra copies, so that when the chairman asked for discussion, the dissatisfaction was voiced by several of those present, he being among them.

"When a member of the Board goes liable for a certain amount, he should know in detail where the money goes," said Mr. McIndoo. "This discussion is not meant as criticism but every member of the Board should be familiar with all the details."

S. A. Oke—"If we cannot have the statement discussed at this meeting, and if it must be adopted at this meeting, I move that we adjourn until it is available in the required form."

C. G. Graham provided a solution for the difficulty when he moved that the report be received, to be gone into in further detail at the next meeting. His motion, seconded by J. O. Ball, carried, in company with a rider

REPORTED SINKING

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Jan. 22 (Canadian Press).—The steamer Dannedaike is reported sinking in Latitude 37.66 north, Longitude 59.37 west, and the steamer President Harrison and other ships are rushing to her assistance, according to a message receive here from Cape Race, Newfoundland.

Ontario's Biggest Farm Mechanics Class Meets In Department of Agriculture Course At Keene

KEENE, Ont., January 22—The biggest attendance at any farm mechanics class in Ontario was registered at the opening here yesterday of a course under direction of the Department of Agriculture. More than one hundred men and young men attended both morning and afternoon, hearing instruction on rope splicing by J. C. Duff, and on gasoline engines by H. P. Green.

The course is under direction of the Peterborough office, where J. B. Nelson is the Department's Agricultural Representative for this district.

LANGSNER CHARGES POLICE WITH RECEIVING $50,000 IN AMBROSE SMALL CASE

CHIEF GIVES DENIAL.

Claims Case Is No Mystery and Has Been Solved By Officers Long Ago.

TORONTO, Jan. 22 (Special to The Examiner). — A "warm" welcome awaits Adolph Maximilian Langsner, if that Ambrose Small sleuth ever puts his foot again inside Toronto. So Chief of Police Draper declared to-day after reading the criminologist's latest communique from Mexico City, a letter in which the latent light expert charges "that $50,000 had been received by police officials that the Small case should remain a mystery."

"It's an absolute and utter lie," declared Chief Draper with an ominous glitter in his eye. Extracts from the Langsner mission follow.

"The Small case is no mystery — are actually opposed to the solving of the case. Money buys the truth in Toronto and buries it."

Will Return To Canada.

"I hereby undertake to accept every challenge to return to Canada, clear up the Small case and refute and disprove the allegations made in the press by Chief Draper. If Chief Draper would spend as many days in earnest effort on the Small case as he appears to have done in trying to check up on my travels, to him would be the honor of solving the Small mystery.

"Were I a born Canadian, I would demand and obtain the assistance of the police department of Toronto against the wishes of Chief Draper, but the money, influence and 'unseen power' which opposed me in the Small case opposed me in getting an extension of my permit to remain in Canada."

The letter ends with strong commendation of the efficiency of the Police of Mexico, where Langsner is staying, and with a sly comparison between them and the Canadian authorities. The Chief Constable was not slow to label the entire Langsner allegations as a falsehood and to give his own opinion of its author. "When during his visit to Toronto, Langsner finally came to see me on a 'personal' call, I asked him why he had not come to see me sooner, and he just stood there and looked from the ceiling to the floor and back again," said the Chief. "All he would say," went on the Chief, "was that he had no information for me and that I must not believe the papers about him. He said he would have some information in a week's time, I never got it if he had. However, I didn't take him seriously at any time. I had no faith in him at all."

Prison Romance Is Shattered By Death

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 22. — (Canadian Press).—A "prison" romance was shattered last night when Kenneth J. Phelan, 33, known to police as a narcotic addict, was found dead in his room at a downtown boarding house.

On January 15, Phelan was released from provincial jail here, and on the same day he married the girl whom he had courted while in prison. He had first met her when she was visiting other prisoners there, and a courtship of nearly six months following, the girl being a frequent visitor to the jail.

Coroner H. M. Cameron will conduct an investigation to decide if an inquest is necessary.

Boy Breaks His Leg Sleigh-riding On Hill

While sleigh-riding on the Prince of Wales' hill, Abbie Byers, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Byers, Brown street, broke his leg on Saturday afternoon. One of his young companions, Billy Henry, his cousin, drew him home on his sleigh. Dr Raymond Scott was called, and on an X-ray being taken it was found there was a broken bone.

WORK STARTS AT ESPANOLA

Abitibi Power and Paper Company Commences Operations in Big Mill.

NEARING SETTLEMENT.

TORONTO, January 22 (Canadian Press.) — Resumption of operations at the Espanola Mills, the starting of an added machine at the Sault mill of the Abitibi Power and Paper Company, and a firming of paper stocks in the Montreal market yesterday, gave color to reports that newsprint manufacturers are close to reaching an agreement that will serve as a solution of the present crisis

Reports that Premier Ferguson had contributed largely to the resumption of Abitibi operations by some peremptory messages to those concerned, and a reply by Premier Taschereau of Quebec, to the statement issued yesterday by F. I. Ker, featured the situation yesterday. Premier Ferguson, who though recovering rapidly from illness, is still resting in his home, could not be reached for a statement, but other cabinet ministers said they were sure that the premier had taken the action credited to him.

In the joint pressure brought to bear on the newsprint manufacturers by Messrs Ferguson and Taschereau, the Quebec Premier has been the acknowledged spokesman, hence his reply to Mr. Ker.

Premier's Reply.

"First of all, I may say this, the publishers so far as we are concerned, are newcomers in this controversy," said Premier L A. Taschereau yesterday, when asked to comment on the interview given to the Canadian Press at Hamilton, Ont, by F. I. Ker, general manager to the Hamilton Spectator. "The conferences that have been held up to now have been with the paper manufacturers," said Premier Taschereau "There is no doubt that the publishers are concerned in the price of paper, but it is for them to work out their difficulties with the manufacturers.

"What the governments of Ontario and Quebec want is this: The great bulk of the paper consumed on this continent is made out of trees growing in Ontario and Quebec, trees which are the property of the provinces—and we believe it to be the duty of both governments to see that we get returns from this great wealth of ours, and consequently Premier Howard Ferguson and myself thought it was our duty to see that the manufacturers should discuss the matter, and I understand the matter is still under discussion between the manufacturers with a fair prospect of settlement. We do not want to interfere in the matters of trade and commerce, and say how much each publisher should pay for paper. That is a matter of private contracts which the publishers should make with the manufacturers."

Though less than 33 per cent of the population of Canada are engaged in farming, over 36 per cent of the national wealth is attributed to agriculture. Less than one-fifth of the 300,000,000 acres of land suitable for farming in Canada is under cultivation, yet Canada is the world's second greatest producer of wheat and oats and the principal wheat exporting country.

Seven Stores Burned In Business Section Of Northern Town

For Third Time in Five Years Kapuskasing is the Victim of a Serious Fire Which Broke Out at Five O'clock This Morning.

FLAMES REPORTED UNDER CONTROL AT NOON—SIX BUILDINGS ARE DESTROYED AT FREDERICTON

Worst Conflagration in History of Capital of New Brunswick Broke Out Early This Morning—Thirty Mile Gale Blowing At Time.

NORTH BAY, Ont, Jan. 22.—(By the Canadian Press).—For the third time within five years Kapuskasing was to-day the victim of a serious fire, seven places of business in the Hotel Circle Block being destroyed by flames which commenced their march of destruction at 5 o'clock this morning.

According to information received at noon over telephone, the fire had been brought under control. No estimate of the damage was available. It is understood there were no casualties in the conflagration. The origin of the fire also was unknown.

Besides the seven buildings destroyed several other structures were scorched by the flames and slightly damaged.

The firemen were seriously hampered by the cold wind and a temperature of 32 degrees below zero as well as low water pressure. No one was injured.

The blaze was discovered at the rear of a grocerteria building at an early hour this morning and so rapidly did it spread, that despite the fact the fire was extinguished in less than an hour, almost a complete block was destroyed.

Coated with ice and suffering severely from the cold, twenty firemen—all the men available—fought valiantly with the conflagration while several men stationed themseves at the high water tank and toiled at the pumps in an effort to maintain a water pressure sufficient to reach the threatened area.

Volunteers were able to remove the contents and securities from the Canadian Bank of Commerce building only a few moments before the whole premises were razed.

The buildings destroyed included The T. Eaton Company store, the Bank of Commerce, the store of Richard Blais, the Monteith Beauty Parlors, the offices of Dr. Eakins, and the cleaning and pressing establishment of George Price.

Kapuskasing is 70 miles west of Cochrane, on the Canadian National Railways' continental line. The town is the location of an extensive pulp and paper manufacturing industry.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Jan. 22 (Canadian Press).—The worst fire the business section of Fredericton experienced in its history occurred today with an estimated total loss of $225,000. The fire broke out at about five a.m., and was not under control until after eleven o'clock. Flames were discovered in the premises of A. C. Coy, who conducts the toggery on Queen Street, and spread to a restaurant, immediately adjoining. A thirty-mile westerly gale was blowing and in a short time it was realized that the fire department was in for its biggest fire in many years. its biggest fire in many years. This view was quickly confirmed as the flames gathered force and spread to adjoining buildings with the firemen fighting the greatest conflagration since the city was founded.

Adjoining Buildings Burned.

Four brick buildings all adjoining were destroyed. In addition to these properties which were totally destroyed with practically all the contents, the building of a drygoods firm immediately to the west was damaged and the stock also damaged. The Twining Estate building immediately to the east was damaged. The Dowaged Marchioness of Donegal and her son, the Marquis of Donegal, are interested in the Twining Estate.

The fire was in what is considered a particularly dangerous portion of the business section on account of the existence of numerous frame buildings at the rear of the business block. The fire, however, did not spread. The walls of the F. B. Edgecombe Company building on the west and the Twining building on the east checked the fire.

Dynamite was used to lower the Manzer building in the late stages of the fire. The roof was blown off this building shortly after nine o'clock this morning by an explosion

ALBANY, N.Y., Jan. 22 (Canadian Press).—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Sons of Italy Hall, a three-storey brick building, on Madison Avenue here on the edge of the main business district, causing the loss of approximately $150,000.

USE MAYOR'S OFFICE

FREDERICTON, N.B., Jan. 22 (Canadian Press).—The city corporation placed the city hall at the disposal of the Canadian Bank of Commerce this morning, when fire destroyed the bank premises. The members of the staff took what they could removed into the Mayor's office. The bank will make arrangements for temporary quarters as soon as possible.

GENERAL BOOTH CONTINUES CASE

Doctors Issued Bulletin Saying Commander is Gaining in Strength.

MAY PRODUCE DEED.

LONDON, January 22 (Canadian Press). — General Bramwell Booth has gained physical strength in the last ten days which will aid him in prosecution of the fight which he seems determined to continue for retention of control of the Salvation Army.

One of the grounds on which the defendant Commissioners will contest the injunction will be that Bramwell Booth for sixteen years has been forming corporations and acquiring property under trusteeship powers accorded him by the very charter or deed poll which he now attacks as illegal. They will recite that when he took over the command in 1912 he signed a deed of acceptance which embodied the provisions of the original deed poll of 1373, and its later amendment, the deed poll of 1904. It is this latter deed which is attacked in the application for the injunction

Produce Deed.

It was believed last night that the deed of acceptance would be produced in Court on Friday as evidence for a dissolution of the injunction. International headquarters of the Army last night issued a bulletin signed by two physicians and stating that the General has steadily improved in health.

All possibility of selecting a new General this week disappeared yesterday when the Chancery Court granted an adjournment until Friday to permit the defendants to prepare their case. While the injunction was directed against the High Council, only Chief of Staff Higgins and the seven Commissioners who signed the call for the Council meeting, were served as individual defendants.

No Sign of Withdrawing.

There has been no sign that Bramwell Booth has any intention of withdrawing the suit. The medical bulletin was issued over the signatures of Drs. John Weir and Ernest Wardlow Milne, who signed a similar bulletin issued about ten days ago, and in which they declared that the General would be ready to resume his work within a few months. To-day's announcement said:

"We have examined General Booth to-day. The result of our examination has justified our previous report. His progress has been more than maintained, and this, in existing circumstances, must be considered encouraging."

DELEGATES ARE APPOINTED BY UNDERWRITERS

Three Members Will Represent Local Association at Annual Convention.

HON. G. N. GORDON SPEAKS

Phenomenal Growth of Canada in Recent Years is Discussed by Speaker.

W. R. Widdess, J. F. H. Wallace and John I. Allen were appointed last night by the Life Underwriters' Association of Peterborough as delegates to the convention of the parent association which will be held in Toronto next month. They were proposed in a resolution by A. J. McClellan and seconded by H. B. Matthews.

Mr. Allen, president of the local branch of the Underwriters' Association of Canada, congratulated the members on their large attendance at last night's dinner at the Empress.

"I am especially delighted to see so many managers present," he said. "If they set a good example we may confidently expect the agents to turn out well for our meetings. I am pleased with the interest that is being shown and I believe 1929 will be one of the best Life Underwriters' years we have ever had."

Hon. G. N. Gordon Speaks

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., who was introduced by Isaac P. McNab, was the association's guest speaker. His subject was "A Retrospect of 1928" and his theme the phenomenal growth and expansion which Canada has made in recent years, culminating in the golden twelve months which ended on December 31st last. The spellbinding facts which Mr. Gordon reviewed last night were first assembled by him in an address which he delivered to the Peterborough Rotary Club a few weeks ago. They were rearranged for the special benefit of the Life Underwriters who, Mr Gordon said, were directly interested in Canada's material progress.

Insurance Increases

One of his striking facts was this, "the value of insurance written in Canada during the first eleven months of 1928 amounted to $519,630,000, as compared with $450,790,000 in the same period of 1927, an increase of $69,000,000 or 15 per cent.

Conservative estimate of life insurance in force in the Dominion is not less than $5,500,000,000."

"Men who have a true sense of their obligations to their family are led by that feeling to provide adequate safeguards for the future security of their families," Hon. Mr. Gordon concluded. "It may be the actual property and other means they possess or by the insurance which they place on their own lives for the benefit of their dependents. I say to you that you have something to offer the public which you should be proud of, because your work is constructive and your service is so deeply in the interest of those who cannot help themselves when the time may come in which they need that help greatest, when their breadwinner is cut off."

Two songs by Harold Coulson were much appreciated. Harry Chenhall was accompanist.

E. S. Sackville moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Gordon and to Mr. Coulson and Mr. Chenhall.

Scarlet Fever Cases Reported In School

OMEMEE, Jan. 22 (Examiner Correspodence).—Two cases of scarlet fever have been reported in the senior room of the public school, since its opening. Dr. G. N. Earle, M.O.H., has ordered the schools closed this week in order that all precaution may be taken and the room fumigated.

Assistant Bank Manager Goes Curling And Finds Keys To Vault In His Pocket

DULUTH, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press).—A freight train played a prominent part in the opening of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Fort Francis, Ontario, for business as usual to-day.

M. McLean, Assistant Manager of the bank, came to Duluth Sunday to take part in the Northwestern Curling Association's annual bonspeil and inadvertently brought with him, in addition to his pet cane, the only keys that could open the institution.

The last passenger train had left Duluth for Fort Francis when McLean made his discovery and thoughts of a "run" on the bank darted through his mind.

Fellow curlers of Canada and the Northwest were called into conference to concoct a plan whereby the keys could be delivered in time to insure opening of the bank on schedule.

George Milligan, also an adept at the curling game, learned that a freight had just left Duluth. Jumping into his automobile with the keys safely tucked in his pocket, he sped to West Duluth where he caught the train. The keys were turned over to the conductor who was asked to provide a guard and for as much speed to Fort Francis as the freight was permitted.

Road Of Life Is Depicted By Noted Speaker

Stages of Boy's Life Are Described By Judge Hawley Mott

Road of Life Is Depicted By His Honor, Who Has a Wealth of Experiences in Handling Boy Problems in and Out of His Court.

CAMP SKOOKUM BOYS ARE OUT IN FULL FORCE; TRIBUTE IS PAID TO WORK OF SERVICE CLUBS

Value of Camps For the Boy Is Stressed, As It Teaches Him To Learn Things in Conjunction With Other Boys and Play Game Fair.

Prefaced by a musical and elocutionary program and finally by moving pictures of Camp Skookum, Rotary Boys' Camp on Clear Lake, which could not but have placed the audience in a receptive mood for its subject and content, the address of Judge Hawley Mott of the Juvenile Court, Toronto, was heard in the Collegiate Auditorium last night by a gathering of citizens, young and old which, in point of numbers must have been most gratifying to those responsible for His Honor's presence. Coming to Peterborough under local Rotary auspices, Judge Mott not only spoke last night, but was heard also at a supper to the Camp Skookum boys in the Y.M.C.A. and at the noonday luncheon of the Rotary Club. On all three occasions he chose to speak on subjects pertaining to boy life, his main address being a travelogue of life depicting the various stages of development of the individual from infancy to manhood.

Making excellent use of several drawings depicting the Road of Life, His Honor also drew from a wealth of experiences in handling boy problems in and out of his Court, and to the Camp Skookum boys who attended in a body and lined the front rows of seats, his address conveyed the secret of success, summed up in his closing quotation:

There are Loyal Hearts,
There are Spirits Brave,
There are souls that are Just and True.
Then give to the world the best you have.
And the best will come back to you.
For Life is the mirror of King and Slave,
'Tis just what you are and do.
Then give to the world the best you have.
And the best will come back to you.

Interesting Program.

Its various numbers introduced by the chairman, W. R. Morris, president of the Peterborough Rotary Club, the program last night proved one of genuine merit. Miss Geraldine Collins was heard in several vocal numbers, which she handled with her usual ability and grace, while seemingly always welcome on any program, Mrs. Hazel Davidson McClelland contributed to splendid advantage elocutionary numbers that were well in keeping with the address of the evening. Miss Gladys Renouf accompanied Miss Collins with precision.

Prominent also was the Collegiate Orchestra, which, though not in full force, contributed generously to the evening's enjoyment. Following this phase of the program, the pictures of summer activity in and about Camp Skookum were shown through the courtesy of the Roy Studio, the advantages of such a camp being depicted very pleasingly.

Worth of Rotary.

Casting aside the possible suggestion that he might be speaking in behalf of the local Rotary Club, Judge Mott devoted several minutes at the outset of his address to an appreciation of the work that Rotary and other service clubs have done in forming in the minds of the people a new appreciation of boy life and in creating opportunities for boys so that money spent in this way has come to be regarded, not as an expenditure, but as an investment. In so doing, he emphasized the importance of the boy getting to such camps as Camp Skookum and close to nature generally so that he may learn to do things in conjunction with other boys and realize that he must play the game of life in that same unselfish manner and be willing to make a sacrifice hit.

Roads of Life.

Opening his charts, the speaker then began his address proper, pointing to the many roads which are

The Weather

Lowest temperature last night 11 degrees; highest point yesterday 31 degrees. Many farmers these days are looking with anxiety at some of their fields and longing for a good fall of snow. The recent heavy rainfall followed by much colder weather has left their fall-sown grain with a heavy coating of ice, and the situation is viewed with alarm by some. Snow is needed as a protective covering.—W.P.

DYING WOMAN WAS AUTHOR OF KAMLOOP'S NOTE

Alice Bettridge Is Believed To Have Written Note Found in Bottle.

CREW HAD PERISHED.

Writer Was Dying From Cold and Hunger.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—Alice Bettridge, assistant stewardess on the vanished steamer Kamloops, survived till all the crew of 21 were dead, and, dying herself, dropped a bottle with a note into Lake Superior.

That is the story revealed yesterday with word from Capt. H. J. Brian, of Kingston, that the note picked up in a bottle by Louis Coutu, guide and trapper, at the mouth of Agawa River, was written by one of the two women aboard the ill-fated ship.

It was at first thought here that the note was a hoax. Found a year after the disaster, many miles away from Isle Royale, where the Kamloops went on the rocks on December 6, 1927, the writing had become so faint as to be almost illegible. The signature was taken to be "Al." Now it is believed to be "Alice."

Brought Letter To Sault.

Coutu brought the letter himself to the Sault but disclosed only part of it contents. He was very mysterious about the missive, but finally handed it over to Capt. Brian, brother of the lost skipper, who came to the Sault to investigate.

The note stated that the rest of the crew had perished. It intimated that the writer was dying from cold and hunger. It gave the location of the wreck as Isle Royale.

The body of Alice Bettridge, it is believed, was one of those found on the shore of Isle Royale early in the summer. The note is said to make no mention of reaching shore, but it is thought possible that the lone woman was washed up alive on the inhospitable rocks of the lonely island.

Capt. Brian was convinced that some of the crew had reached shore alive after ht visited Isle Royale in the summer. He found wreckage carried farther up the beach than the waves reached. A case of candy—the only food in sight—gave indication of having been broken open and used as food by someone.

AFGHAN KINGS GATHER FORCES

Dethroned Kings Are Arming in Attempt To Regain Throne.

LONDON, January 22 (Canadian Press).—Three kings of Afghanistan—one present and two past — are gathering their forces for a new struggle for the throne of that turbulent country.

The difficulties of communication are giving rise to sinister rumors of what is happening in the dynastic struggle, but according to advices received at Peshawar and Delhi, in India, the situation does not appear to have greatly changed in the past few days.

Habibullah, who was called "the Water Boy" before his forceful seizure of the title of King, is still in control of Kabul, while the deposed Amanullah seems to be strengthening his hold in the Kandahar region. Inayatullah, the unlucky king for three days, is on the way to join his brother at Kandahar.

A struggle for supremacy between Kabul and Kandahar is in prospect. Reports reaching Moscow from Herat were that large bodies of troops from Kandahar and Ghazni regions are concentrating at Ghazni and Amanullah will lead these forces in an attempt to regain his throne. It is added that Kabul is suffering from pillage and a shortage of food, with complete stagnation of trade.

There are many indications that Amanullah and his brother may still count upon considerable support in the country.

PIONEER OF STIRLING DISTRICT CELEBRATED HIS 103RD BIRTHDAY ON ANDERSON ISLAND YESTERDAY

Joshua Anderson Was Born in Murray Township in 1826.

MARRIED IN 1855

Mrs. Anderson Is Still Living—Both Have Lived Vigorous Lives.

Joshua Anderson, of Anderson Island in the Trent River, was 103 years old yesterday, having been born in the township of Murray a few miles from his present residence on January 21, 1826. He has lived on Anderson Island which is named for the family, for ninety-two of those one hundred and three years and for more than seventy-three years has had a faithful helpmate and wife, Mary Parcels, also born in Murray township, to whom he was married on October 29, 1855.

The life of Mr. Anderson has been that of a pioneer. On their marriage he and Mrs. Anderson had literally to hew their home out of the wilderness, but they overcame all difficulties and obstacles and are now spending their declining years in peace and comfort.

The married life of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson has been uneventful. They have seen little of the outside world and have had no ambition other than the proper up-bringing of their children. Still they kept pace with modern progress and adopted the various inventions which were introduced from time to time to make the lot of the pioneer easier.

Bright and Vigorous

Mr. Anderson is remarkably bright and vigorous for his years. He has used tobacco all his life, but never drank any liquor to speak of and has only once required medical attention it being when he was over ninety. In politics he has always been a Conservative and has voted in every Provincial and Federal election in the last seventy-nine years. At the last Federal election he was the first one to record his vote in the subdivision in his district. Most of his life he has attended the Methodist (now United) church, although he was brought up an Anglican. He comes of United Empire stock.

Longevity appears to be a matter of heredity in the Anderson family. His mother died at the age of 95, no monument in Stirling cemetery revealing any older person buried there. All his brothers and sisters are dead, one having reached the age of 85 and another 79.

Although from very early times there was a stage from Stirling to Belleville, Mr. Anderson always made that journey on foot, although it was 22 miles. In the year his parents moved to Anderson Island, when he was only seven years old, he and one of his brothers made the journey over the rough wood trails to visit an older member of the family, who was in the barracks at Belleville. This brother was in the militia and was called out to assist in quelling the rebellion of 1837, but the fighting was over before his company arrived on the scene.

On another occasion Mr. Anderson was summoned to the county town for jury duty, and made his way in on foot, reaching Belleville ahead of the stage. The case on which he was called concluded at ten o'clock at night, and he immediately started to walk home, arriving there before daybreak. On his arrival he took up his daily duties just as if he had spent the night in his bed.

Tragedy has entered the life of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson on two occasions. Years ago two of their ten children, Angelina and Richard, aged ten and eleven years, broke through the ice of the river on their way home from school and were drowned. Another son, Wilson, who kept a store at Wellman's Corners was killed by a horse a few years ago.

NIGHT NURSE SOON ENDED SEVERE COLD

Almost Instant Relief Came When Doctor Advised Method Used In Homes of Many Here

Realizing the needless misery and risk so often caused by neglected colds, doctors are now advising a quick method that gives almost instant relief—then ends the cold completely in a few hours. And now Mrs. Edith Healy, hospital nurse, like numbers of people here, realizes how needless it is to take chances on a cold when relief can be had so quickly and pleasantly.

Long hours of duty as night nurse—frequent trips from warm sick rooms into chilly halls — caused Mrs. Healy to catch a severe cold. It started in her head, but she made the mistake of neglecting it until congestion started spreading rapidly. Then she consulted one of the hospital physicians who advised Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a hospital certified medication of wild cherry, terpin hydrate, and other ingredients now used in leading clinics to help reduce fever, clear up congestion, and drive out the cold.

Just a pleasant swallow brought almost instant relief. She felt its comforting, healing warmth — from her nose passages deep down into her chest. By night her fever was reduced from 100° to normal, and congestion in her head was rapidly clearing up. She was able to return to duty that night, the doctor reports, and in a day or so all traces of the cold were gone.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physician.

Just a few pleasant spoonsful of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral now and you, too, will feel like a different person to-morrow. Endorsed by all druggists.

ALIENIST EXAMINES DR. CHAS. H. TWELLS

BELLEVILLE, Ont., January 22. — Canadian Press. — Dr. Charles H. Twells, held in Picton jail on a charge of murder, following the shooting of his two sons, has been examined by Dr. Ryan, alienist, of Kingston, and he authorities are awaiting his report. F. L. Ward, Picton, the defending attorney, may make a trip to England to inquire into the family history of Dr. Twells.

Twells is scheduled to appear on Thursday for a preliminary hearing, but it is expected that the hearing will be postponed.

TRENT RIVER, Jan. 22 (Examiner Correspondence). — Notices have been placed in the two general stores, prohibiting fishing during the closed season for taking bass and maskinonge in the Counties of Victoria, Peterborought, Durham and inland waters of the County of Northumberland.

Heavy rains fell continuously Friday, followed by high winds, making the roads dangerous for travelling.

ALBERTA COAL BEING SHIPPED

Second Movement Commences From Western Province to Ontario.

AGAIN AVAILABLE

The second movement of coal from Alberta to Ontario, since the establishing of the freight rate of $6.75 per ton is now under way and in the course of a few days Alberta coal will again be available to Ontario coal consumers.

It must be remembered that the $6.75 freight rate granted during 1928, applied to a period of three months only, namely, from April 15th to July 15th, the worst three months period throughout the year in the coal industry insofar as the consumer is concened. This year the same rate has been granted for a six-months period, from January 15th to July 15th and it is confidently expected that a greatly increased tonnage will be moved east. In Ontario a large percentage of the total coal consumption of the entire year occurs from January 15th to May 1st. Alberta coal should, therefore, this year be a greater factor in the fuel requirements of the coal consumers than during 1928.

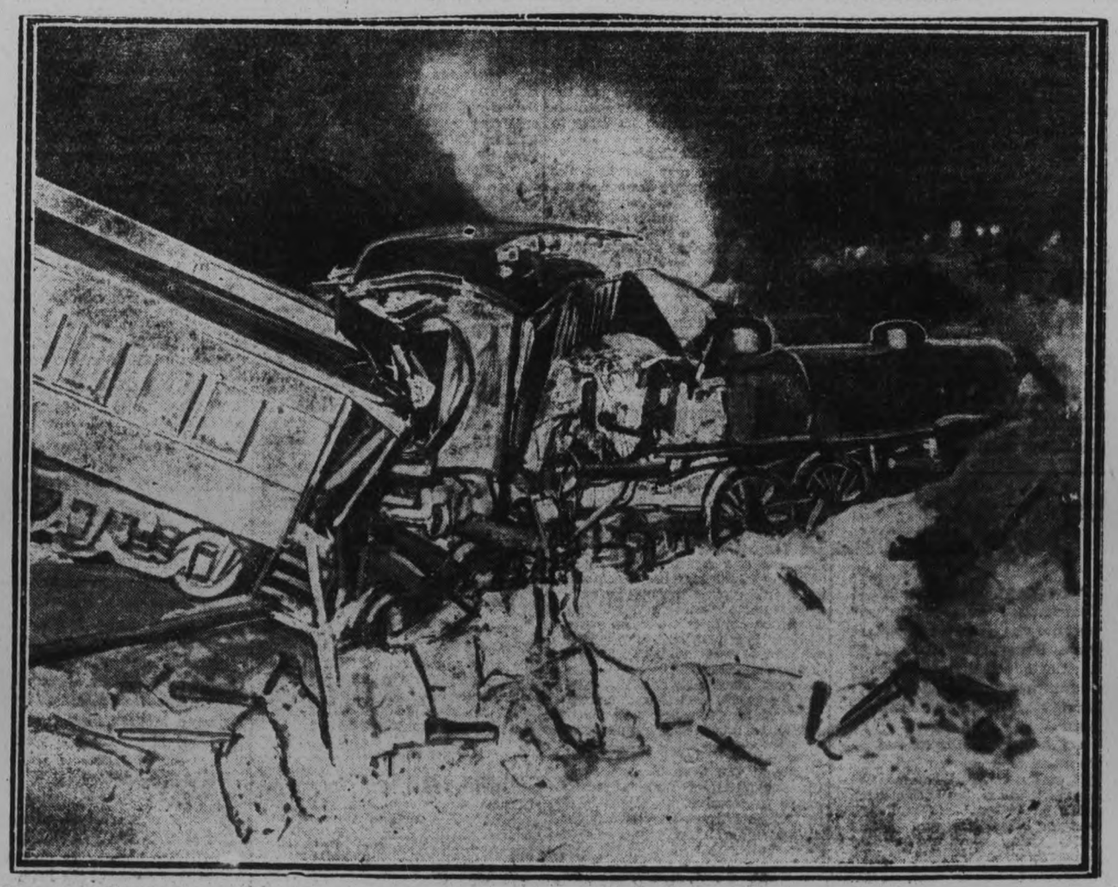
Ontario householders are asked to give Alberta coal a fair trial. Many of those who have done so thus far have become permanent customers of the Alberta product. It may be true that there have been isolated cases of disappointment on the part of the consumer who has tried out this Canadian produced fuel, but it is claimed by the coal operators of Alberta that these cases are due to the consumer not having been properly instructed in the method of firing their furnaces with Alberta coal and in other instances to the lack of knowledge on the part of the local dealer in the matter of the proper size of coal for the furnace or the kitchen range. A little more experience on the part of the local dealer and the consumer as to the method of handling and burning Alberta coal will undoubtedly overcome the occasional complaint that may now be heard as to its merits. Many converts to Alberta coal were undoubtedly made during 1928. These should be increased substantially during 1929 resulting in still a greater amount of coal being moved from Alberta to Ontario.

SIX REPORTED KILLED

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press).—A despatch to El Universal from Apam, state of Hidalgo, to-day said six persons had been killed in a political clash during a governorship election. The fighting lasted for an hour.

There were clashes reported from several other towns but no casulties.

TRAIN PLUNGES OVER 80-FOOT EMBANKMENT ON EDGE OF 200-FOOT DROP



When the Buffalo-Toronto passenger express train hit a 30-foot washout on the mountain near Hamilton on the night of January 18, leading coaches crashed down a 80-foot embankment on the edge of a 200-foot mountain drop. One man was killed, 29 hurt. A slight knoll on the side of the mountain prevented the train from a complete drop over the mountain side. This picture shows the wreckage when it finally came to rest on the hillside. The car behind crashed into the end of the engine, smashing the car into matchwood and the engine into a mass of twisted iron.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY HAS VERY FINE YEAR

Financial Statement Shows Exhibition Has Enjoyed Prosperous Year.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

Delegates Elected To Attend Central Fairs Association Meeting.

MADOC, Jan. 22 (Examiner Correspondence).—The feature of the meeting of Madoc Agricultural Society, held in the Town Hall on Wednesday afternoon, was the burning of the joint note with seventy-three signatures, which was really more of a cementing together of the members who did excellent work in the past six years at the fair grounds. The demand note for $6,000 was burned by Samuel Rollins, the esteemed treasurer of the society. Madoc Fair officials must be congratulated for the efficient manner in which they have bought and paid for the grounds and buildings. There is now a debt of $400, the property being valued at $11,000.

The financial statement was presented by Will J. Hill, secretary of the Fair, as follows:

Receipts—Cash on hand at last annual report, $46.12; legislative grant, $312.00; county grant, $100.00; members' fees, $93.00; donations, $433.75; goods, $15.00; fees received in advance, $92.00; gate fees, $1,640.70; midway and stalls, $442.65; concert receipts, 338.83; field crop, $100.00; miscellaneous, $53.00; total, $3,642.05.

Paid out.—Paid on grounds, $1,328.00; prizes, 1,308.06; field crop, $150.00; delegates, $40.47; judges, $64.00; special attractions, races, $295.00; goods, $15.00; salaries, $94.77; printing, $187.00; grounds, $103.00; total, $3.586.25.

Balance on hand, $55.80.

Paid up members for 1929—94.

Samuel Rollins, treasurer, then presented his report in detail and was given a hearty vote of thanks for his faithful and untiring service for the good and welfare of Madoc Fair. The report of the directors was then received, all of which were satisfactory in every detail.

The following committees were then appointed:

Entertainment.—Will J. Hill, Fred Curry and George West. Printing—Samuel Rollins and Will J. Hill. Track—Fred Curry, Walter Whytock, C. N. Whytock, and F. E. Brown. Grounds—Samuel Rollins, William McMachan, Walter Whytock, James A. Caskey, Benjamin Miller and Will Stewart.

Election of officers then took place with the following for 1929:

Hon. members—Hon. J. Robert Cooke and Dr. Embury, M.P. Hon. presidents—James A. Caskey, C. J. Smith, W. H. Kells; W. E. Tummon, M.P., Will Stewart, Robert A. Woods; President—William Miller. 1st vice-president—George West. 2nd vice-president—William McMechan. Treasurer—Samuel Rollins. Secretary—Will J. Hill. Directors—George Harris, Frank Reynolds, T. R. Plane, Walter Whytock, Malcolm Allen, Clayton Hanna, Ben Miller, Campbell Wallbridge, W. E. Connor, John McCaffrey, F. E. Brown and Fred Curry.

The date for the fair for 1929 is the first Tuesday and Wednesday in October, being October 1 and 2.

James A. Caskey, Will Miller and Will J. Hill were elected delegates to the Central Fairs Association at Belleville.

William J. Hill and William Miller were elected delegates to the Ontario Fairs Association, to be held in Toronto on February 7 and 8.

Improvements to the grounds last year amounted to $126; paid on note, $1.200; interest on note, $96, making a total of $1,422.

VOLCANIC DUST DEPOSITS

Extensive and pure deposits of volcanic dust occur on the Dedman river, 30 miles north of Ashcroft, British Columbia; also on the east shore of the Arrow lakes, 25 miles south of Nakusp, B.C. Production of volcanic duts is being made from deposits near Waldeck, Saskatchewan and several other deposits have recently been discovered in that vicinity.

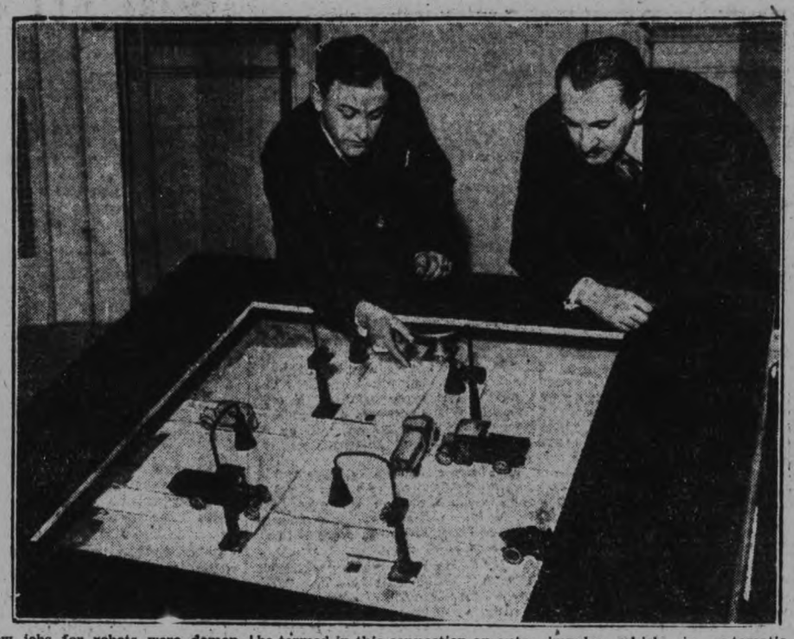
New Traffic Signals For Busy Thoroughfares



New jobs for robots were demonstrated at a meeting of the New York Electrical Society in New York City, when Dr. H. H. Sheldon, professor of Physics at New York University, showed how a photo-electrical cell can not only do away with traffic policemen but can also avoid many unnecessary traffic delays. It can be termed in this connection an automatic eye. Underneath the street and overlaid with a "mushroom" covering so as not to obstruct traffic, lies the sleeping robot. As soon as a vehicle crosses the mushroom covering, the shadow of the vehicle falls on the automatic eyeball and awakens the robot to electric action. His first impulse, which is automatic and never fails, is to switch the green light to red on the main road and red to green on the side road, so that the car which has just caught the eye may cross the road in safety. Photo shows, left to right: Prof. Sheldon and Dr. P. Thomas demonstrating the device.

MILLBROOK BUSINESS SECTION IS FLOODED BY HIGH WATERS

Some Damage Done To Buildings—Bridge Supports Washed Away.

PLAY PRESENTED.

Cavan District L. O. L. Elects Officers For Year at Annual Meeting.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 22.—(Examiner Correspondence). — The prolonged and heavy downpour of rain on Friday night, combined with the melting snow on the surrounding hillsides, resulted in a flood in the downtown section, some damage being done, and several cellars having considerable water covering the floors before morning.

The supports under the bridge on Distillery street were washed away, as were also those under the small bridge near B. Raper's home in the neighborhood of the old Octagon mill.

All the creeks in the village overflowed their banks by some feet; and former bowling green was a miniature lake, and some local motorists who went to Peterborough that evening report running into sections of the highway where they had to drive through water that was running over the roadway.

Drama Presented.

The Biblical drama, "The Dream of Queen Esther", presented under Sunday School auspices in the United Church on Friday evening, was well attended, considering the extremely inclement weather, and was generally conceded to be one of the finest entertainments ever given here by local talent.

More than forty characters took part in the drama, which is in three acts, the first being on the house top of Mordecai overlooking the city of Shushan, Persian; and the second in the palace of King Ahaseurus, when the latter finally makes his choice of Esther from the many maidens who appear before him places the crown upon her head, and elevates her to the throne in the room of Vashti who has been deposed. The third act is nine years later, and marks the climax when Esther enters the King's presence unsummoned, taking her life in her hands for the sake of her people, is favorably received, and her mission being successfully accomplished, the Feast of Purim is established. The play closes with a burst of triumphal music, unseen singers, bass and tenor, taking the solo parts, while the characters all massed upon the platform, join in the choruses.

The stage had an oriental setting, and the costumes were not only appropriate but very beautiful. In briefly addressing the audience before the drama started, the pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, mentioned particularly the credit due the parents for their co-operation in having the young people attend the practices regularly, and in giving ready assistance with the preparation of the costumes, elaborate or simple, which were worn.

This was an initial venture for many of the young people who took part in the play, and much praise is due the fine manner in which each measured up to the exacting demands of their several roles. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Jones, who have had experience in connection with this drama in previous years, deserve much of the credit for its success having giving unstintingly of time, labor, and patience toward its preparations for some weeks past.

Owing to so much illness in the vicinity the play had to be postponed from New Year's night until January 18, the date when it was presented, but since the weather was so unfavorable on Friday evening, preventing many from attending, by special request it will be repeated on Friday, January 25, at 8 p.m. The cast of characters includes:

The King, Ashasuerus, of Persia—Kenneth Fallis.

Hagai, the King's Chamberlain—Aubrey Todd.

Esther, Jewish Heroine—Jean L. Burnham.

Meesha Zabeel, her servant—Mrs Hilliard Lang.

Koosh, little Ethiopian Slave Girl—Beatrice Jones.

Jakosha, a Languid Lily — Jean Stinson.

The Pricess Zuecca, a Proud Lady of Media—Francis Jones.

The Witch of Endor—Mrs. W. H. Armstrong.

Rebecca—Wilma Fallis.

Miriam—Sadie Rowland.

Deborah—Alvira Davis.

Adah—Mrs. George Fallis.

Martha—Margaret Fallis.

Ruth—Mrs. Allie Fallis.

Electa—Marjorie Skitch.

Fifty dollars was the amount taken in at the door on Friday evening.

Marcus Ricker, 41, C.P.R. fireman, Westdale, Hamilton, who was killed in the wreck of the Buffalo-Toronto train near Hamilton on the night of January 18. He was only given the run as fireman on Wednesday. His body was found pinned under the engine. Ricker is survived by his widow, an 18-month-old son, Howard, and a month-old daughter, Joan. Ricker had worked for the C.P.R. twelve years.

Residents In Burnbrae District Suffer Damages From Flood Waters Of Creeks

BURNBRAE, Jan. 22.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Some residents awakened on Saturday morning to find their premises flooded with water. Rain commencing early on Thursday soon melted the snow and the heavy downpour of Friday night melted the rest, so that with all creeks and gulleys ice-bound, the flood waters sought the quickest way out, which meant in a number of cases, through backyards.

Farmers in the vicinity of Hoard's Station were the heaviest sufferers. The water was so deep here that part of the C.N.R. line was under water and there was grave danger of washouts in various places, with the turbulent waters of Hoards and Menie creeks seeking in vain to find a clear road to the Trent River. Never in spring floods has the water reached the heights recorded early on Saturday morning, but with a cessation of rainfall, the danger was only temporary.

The younger generation enjoyed the unusual spectacle and and are looking forward to good skating on the many ponds and miniature lakes.

PRESENTATION MADE.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Armstrong Honored By Members of O.Y.P.A.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, January 22. — The members of the O.Y.P.A. again had the pleasure of gathering together at the town hall to extend to two members (Mr. and Mrs. Albert Armstrong) the hearty good wishes of those present.

The Keene orchestra supplied the music for the evening, and at 11.30 p.m., the bride and groom were called to the platform, when an appropriate address was read by Roy Francis and Harold Elmhirst presented the young couple with a woollen blanket in rose shade, and a silk bedspread to match.

After the bridegroom had thanked those present for their beautiful gift, the members of the club joined in singing "For they are Jolly Good Fellows."

Refreshments were then served and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing

MAYOR DENNE AGAIN.

Mayor Roland Denne is to again lead the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board in its annual drive for a bigger and better fair.

Apparently the directors are satisfied that His Worship is the ideal man for this important position, and are unwilling to hear of anybody else for the important task of directing the manifold activities of the Exhibition.

Mayor Denne has given a good many years to the service of the Exhibition Board and has earned a rest, but he has been conscripted for another year, and will doubtless tackle the duties with his old-time enthusiasm and energy, even if it means the loss of time that might be devoted to his own business interests.

Between the demands of his position as head of the Exhibition and his many duties as Mayor, Mr. Denne must sacrifice a great deal both of time and energy, and his successful work in these two responsible roles should earn him general thanks from the community.

A DESERVED TRIBUTE.

The action of A. E. Warren, general manager of the central region of the Canadian National Railways, in paying public tribute to the men of the Belleville and Capreole divisions for their splendid work in repairing roadbeds damaged by last week's floods is worthy of note.

Too often there is nothing heard of the men who in most distressing conditions labor long hours to keep our traffic moving.

The section gangs, whose task is never light at any time, have heroic work to do when nature plays one of her pranks and sends a cloudburst to wreck the tracks and tie up traffic.

It is refreshing to see in this particular case that the officials have taken care to inform the public of what is owing the men who tackled a big job and carried it through successfully.

Similarly here at home we owe much to the staff of the works department for their fight against Friday night's flood, which called upon them to work all night and face a most difficult situation under most trying weather conditions.

Their efforts were successful in minimizing the effect of the unexpected freshet—and it is well that the people should know what they had to deal with.

THE NAMES ARE NEEDED.

Some 2,500 names of Peterborough old boys and girls have already been registered with the secretary of the Old Home Week.

While this response to the request for information is gratifying, it does not begin to exhaust the list of former residents who can be regarded as possible visitors to Peterborough during the re-union.

There must be thousands of names not yet registered and hundreds of local citizens who possess the necessary information who have not reported to the committee.

It will be of invaluable assistance if the registration is speeded up in order that those in charge of getting in touch with the old boys and girls may feel assured that they can reach the majority of those who can be expected to come home for this big celebration.

The reaction of those who have already been heard from gives every reason for confidence that it is only a question of listing the possible visitors to ensure a tremendous influx into Peterborough during Old Home Week.

If you know of former citizens who would be interested in the event, by all means report them without delay to Secretary F. H. Dobbin.

The more registrations now the more visitors next summer.

THE FREE TRADE BANNER.

The fact that the United Farmers of Alberta have unanimously passed a resolution in favor of free trade for Canada, viewed in the light of the number of former citizens of the United States in the membership of the organization, offers some interesting material for study.

From the tariff views expressed by both political parties in the recent presidential election, there can be few free traders left over the border.

President-elect Hoover was scarcely more fervent in his declaration of faith in protection as in the best interests of the United States than was his opponent, Governor Al. Smith, who scrapped the traditional tariff policy of his party and espoused protection.

Evidently anything that savored of free trade was poor campaign material.

And yet the United Farmers of Alberta, largely influenced by former Americans, have endorsed such a policy.

The question naturally arises then as to whether all the free traders who formerly lived in the United States have migrated into Canada, or whether there is something in the air in the Prairie Provinces that develops free traders?

Some of our U.F.O. debating clubs might find a discussion of these points both interesting and profitable.

It is significant that the free trade banner should be raised by men whose former country will hear nothing of a tariff policy of that nature.

CHICAGO'S WATER STEAL.

Hailed on a too hasty and superficial perusal as a victory for Chicago, the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Lake Michigan water diversion suit, is now recognized as a complete rejection of that city's claims. The opinion of the court, a unanimous one, couched in terms of plain common sense, requires no legal interpretation to make it clear to the ordinary layman. It entirely upholds the contentions of the complaining Great Lakes States, except in the case of their challenge of the power of the Secretary of War to grant the original permit. This the court approved on the ground of urgent necessity, but was careful also to stress its strictly temporary and limited character and the conditions attaching to it.

In this connection it should be kept in view also that Chicago did comply with the conditions of the permit from the War Department to the extent of providing a treatment plant for the sewage of one-third of the population, but it continued, however, to draw from Lake Michigan 8,500 cubic feet of water a second. This had the effect of lowering Lake Michigan and Lake Huron six inches, and Lake Erie and Lake Ontario five inches. Were diversion ended the old levels would be recovered in about five years on Lakes Michigan and Huron and in about a year on Lakes Erie and Ontario.

Chief Justice Taft's opinion notes that the inexcusable delay in the settlement of this controversy was due in part to the failure of the Federal court in Chicago to render a decision in a suit brought by the United States. The Chicago authorities have continually pleaded that the diversion on the scale practiced was necessary to preserve the health of the district. The court holds that Chicago must provide sufficient money to erect and put in operation adequate plants for the disposition of all its sewage through other means than the lake diversion.

Chicago defied the authority of the national Government, represented in the Secretary of War, by increasing the diversion beyond the privileges of its permit. Chief Justice Taft said: "It, therefore, is the duty of this court by an appropriate decree to compel the reduction of the diversion to a point where it rests on a legal basis and thus to restore the navigable capacity of Lake Michigan to its proper level."

Though the restoration of the rights of the complaining States will be graduall instead of immediate, the court says it must be continuous and speedy, and the provisions made by Chicago must include everything that is essential to an effective project. To determine what measures are needed to effect the order of the court and the period required to carry them out, the subject is referred again to the special master, Charles E. Hughes, with authority to hear witnesses and "with all convenient speed" to report his conclusions and a form of decree. To Mr. Hughes the court expressed its obligation "for his useful, fair and comprehensive report."

The first sewage disposal plant erected by Chicago in accord with its promise makes use of all the latest inventions and practices. That city is now in distress for money to support its school system, but under the Federal decree it will be compelled to find funds to carry out such plans as Mr. Hughes may approve.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

RICHES OF THE NORTH.

Between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of the North American Continent curious parallelisms are found, as striking in their way as are the rocky islets of the Bass and Ailsa Craig on the east and west coasts of Scotland. Two considerable islands, Vancouver and Newfoundland, from the ocean outposts of the Continent and the northeast and northwest extremities of the Continent, once underestimated and even despised, are now known to be rich in mineral and other resources and possibilities.

When the United States purchased the Russian holdings on the American mainland, including what is now known as Alaska, for $7,200,000, the transaction met with much cheap ridicule and was promptly dubbed "Seward's Folly" by the quidnuncs of that day. The peninsula, then practically unknown, was reputed to be cold, sterile and barren and a mere extension of the wilderness of perpetual snow and ice that formed the popular conception of the Canadian northwest. Years elapsed before modern methods of exploration revealed the wealth that lay behind its forbidding exterior.

Very similar is the history of the huge peninsula between the Atlantic and Hudson's Bay, now forming Labrador and the hinterland of the Province of Quebec. Newfoundland, adjudged the fortunate possessor of Labrador, has discovered it to be rich in potential wealth. Yet seventy-five years ago it was described by Professor Hind as "a lofty tableland, in many parts thickly strewn with boulders and everywhere bleak and sterile." But in the Hamilton River falls it holds one of the greatest water powers on the Continent, and good reason exists for believing it to be rich in minerals.

Sir Wilfred Grenfell, whose name will be inseparably associated with Labrador as founder and superintendent of the Grenfell Association for the Promotion of Medical Work in Labrador and Northern Newfoundland, recently enlightened an audience in London regarding his experiences and observations during his thirty-six years of unselfish labor. He remarked that fifty years ago nobody evinced any interest in this inaccessible and remote portion of the world, nor cared much who laid claim to ownership. But to-day the Newfoundland Government valued this even yet largely unknown territory, with its resources still unsurveyed and undeveloped, at $150,000,000.

In Sir Wilfred5s opinion, the dawn of a new day is breaking over Labrador. New means of communication and transportation have overcome the barriers to its progress and development, and demand is steadily increasing for its products and raw materials. Its water power alone is unrivaled and of inestimable, enduring possibilities. The great Ashmanipi—Hamilton—River flows through its heart, dropping "at one point 200 feet in trmendous rapids," and then making a "final plunge into a basin 350 feet below." Sir Wilfred adds:

"With these potential assets of almost unlimited timber supply and water power, it is easy to understand why the Governments of Canada and Newfoundland were desirous of having settled the ancient dispute concerning the boundary of Labrador. Last year the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council gave judgment in favor of the Dominion of Newfoundland, thus adding to our oldest colony an area larger than Great Britain."

The eastern and western horns of the North American Continent, neglected for a century or more, are much alike and in a fair way to become priceless possessions of the people who have sovereignty over them.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It is taking Toronto a long time to get air-minded, judging by the reluctance to establish a civic airport there.

Port Hope usually gets on the map only when a flood has nearly washed it off.

Judge Mott's message to the service clubs should prove a source of inspiration and encouragement to all members of such organizations.

Another terrible grade crossing accident has occurred at a crossing where there is a clear view for a long distance each way. Four people are dead because the driver failed to see a train coming.

A Thought

(By Velma Runnells, Campbellford.)

"THE JOY OF SERVICE"

What kind of service is joyous? You will say, "Serving God." Some find great joy in prayer, Bible reading and sermon-hearing. But in these you are only serving yourself. God wants us to combine these three, great things with the loving errands of charity and comforting the sorrowful.

It is the small acts of service that counts; the little deeds known only to the receiver, God and yourself. God shall honour the high that stoop and help the fallen. Never mind the dirt on the poor man's coat; God will make your hands whiter through your Godly character and Christ-like deeds.

When we come to know the great truth, we shall seek no other reward than that of Christ Himself. We shall go to each one of our tasks with eager joy. This makes me think of that great English soldier in India. The doctor was inspecting the troops to see who were fit to join in the Delhi attack. He passed by this man who looked as if he were sick and delicate. As soon as the Inspector had passed by him, the young hero shouted, "Don't say I am unfit for duty. It's only a touch of fever, and the sound of the bugle will make me well."

What a wonderful hero he was. He was filled with the joy of serving others; his King and Country first.

The old camping ground called Earth has stores of tasks for each one of us to do. As George R. Scott puts it, "Don't be too anxious to put on your golden slippers until you have worn out all the shoes you can get to travel journeys of charity and cheer to the weak. These shoes will make you better prepared to live among the angels."

We can all enjoy ourselves if we have everything we want but it takes the harder tasks in life to bring us nearer Christ.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

The Editor, Daily Examiner.

Dear sir:

Allow me through the courtesy of your valuable paper to express my surprise at the City Council's inability to reach a decision re filling station, without first finding out what the Legion's attitude is.

If the Legion is going to run the city, why a council? The guns have surely played their part.

Yours faithfully,
MONS '14.

C. H. ACKERMAN REPLIES.

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—Having been absent from the city for two or three days after the insertion in your paper of a letter from an engineer calling the attention of your readers to the fact that some mistake must have been made by myself in addressing the "Y's Men's Club" last week at the Y.M.C.A.

No careless statement was made by myself to this gathering of young men and as I stated at the meeting I discussed in detail the phenomenon I witnessed together with my pilot while flying back to Peterborough one day last fall with two engineers, neither of whom gave the same scientific thought to the phenomenon as has been undoubtedly given by "An Engineer." One of the engineers with whom I discussed the phenomenon was Mr. A. L. Killaly, superintendent of the Trent Canal, and the other engineer was Mr. Percy Hopkins, an eminent mining engineer whose knowledge of visibility while flying is very much greater than mine.

My statement as to the altitude at which we were flying is open to question in that I said we were flying at 5,000 ft. An engineer's knowledge of the construction of the altimeter as used in the Moth should disclose the fact that they are very susceptible to barometric pressure and usually when the visibility is particularly high the barometric pressure is also high, so that when I stated that the altimeter registered 5,000 ft. we were probably very much higher, even having in mind that zero is sea level.

I did not make the statement that the smoke stack could be seen, but the smoke coming from it. The day was not windy and the smoke coming from a stack 423 ft. high would climb high with the draft created from the furnaces beneath or then again the fine pencil of smoke may have been seen as a result of a mirage.

In conclusion I wish to state that it would be interesting to have other opinions expressed as a matter of interest, but I do wish to emphasize the fact that my statement was a statement made only after a consultation with people whose knowledge of such phenomenon is much greater than mine.

Yours truly,
C. H. ACKERMAN.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XXXIX—THE POST

"Uncle George!" Biddy said tremulously.

Paget turned. He looked white and worried.

"Hallo, Biddy! Got home all right, then."

"Is Marna—what's the matter?"

"Nothing. Nothing very much. She fainted—quite suddenly she fainted. We were talking, and I had no idea she didn't feel well. 'Course I know a faint isn't anything. But she was so long coming round. Scared me, so I sent for Liscard. He says she's nervy and run-down. Must go away. Quite right, too. I ought to have taken her before. I'm a selfish brute."

Biddy crept up the stairs to Marna's room.

She was asleep. Her face, turned against the pillow, seemed hardly less white than the pillow.

"Darling!" Biddy whispered, but she got no reply.

"Don't wake her. Liscard said we mustn't wake her," George Paget whispered. He had followed her into the room, tip-toeing as quietly as his big bulk would permit. "Looks bad, doesn't she?" he asked desolately.

Biddy tried to answer, but her throat seemed choked. She and Paget went out on to the landing, hand in hand. He went on talking hopelessly.

"Ought to have taken her away before—eh, what? Mrs. Blair was right. She warned me months ago. Can't think why I didn't see it for myself. Selfish brute, that's what I am."

"You're not, dear—you're not!"

"We'll take her away as soon as she's well enough," he went on, like a child trying to put courage into his own fearful heart. "Where'll we go, Biddy? South of France? That did her good before, didn't it? Or a sea-trip. What'd ye think?"

"We'll see what Marna would like."

"Yes, that's it. Whatever she likes we'll do—eh?"

"Of course."

One of the maids came upstairs.

"Mr. Blair is waiting," she said. "He wants to know if there is anything he can do."

"You go down, dear," Biddy said. She felt that she could not face John again that night. She was afraid of reading "I told you so" in his kindly eyes.

She went to her room and took off her wraps.

Supposing Marna died? The thought turned her cold.

She could not imagine the world without Marna; everything would come to a standstill.

"And it's not a holiday she wants, poor darling!" she told herself. "It's not any holiday that's going to make her well again. It's just the one thing she wants and can never have."

It all seemed so tangled and hopeless to the Little Flapper. There was no way of sorting things out at all. If Marna was to be happy, George Paget's heart must break.

"It will break, anyway, if Marna dies," Biddy thought in despair.

She could not understand why such things were allowed to be. Life was a tragedy, a tragedy for whom nobody was to blame. She went to the locked drawer where she had hidden the letter Marna had given her. She looked at the address, clearly written. What would Hubbard say if he ever received it? How would he feel?

"You've been cruel to her—cruel!" Biddy whispered, as if Hubbard was there and could hear her. "How could you be so cruel, if you really love her?"

To Biddy's youthful, romantic mind there was no reason why, if two people loved one another, they could not be happy together. What was the sense of everyone being wretched when, with a little disentangling of things, they might be put right for at least two of them. And as it was, none of them could be happy!

Paget came quietly to the door.

"I'm just going over to the letter box, Biddy. Will you stay with Marna for a moment?"

Biddy turned.

"I'll go to the post for you, Uncle George. You stay! She might wake up and want you."

Paget flushed pathetically.

"Do you think she might?" he asked. "All right. Well, be quick then. Run all the way there and back, because it's late. I might have asked John to take it for me but I forgot, and it's an important letter."

He gave it into her hand and went back to his wife's room. Biddy slipped into her cloak again. Her face burned, and yet she was shivering.

Marna's letter to Hugh Hubbard was still clutched in her hand as she went downstairs and out of the front door and across the road to the pillar-box.

Such a lovely night, full of spring breath and the promise of glories to come.

"Why can't everyone be happy?" the Little Flapper asked herself. "The world would be so beautiful if only they could!" There was a street-lamp close beside the letterbox, and by its light she looked at the two letters she carried.

One was addressed in Paget's big, scrawly handwriting to a firm of solicitors in London, and the other was addressed in Marna's dainty inscription to Hugh Hubbard, more than six thousand miles away.

"He'd come home if he knew that she was ill," Biddy told herself. "He'd come home at once, of course." And, hardly knowing what she did, she dropped both envelopes into the letter-box.

In the morning the Little Flapper was terrified at what she had done.

She had betrayed a sacred trust; she had broken her word to Marna; she could never hope for forgiveness. The worst of it was, she knew she had done no good.

Supposing Hugh Hubbard came home? Biddy sat up in bed, her hands clasped round her knees, shivering with fear. If things had been bad before, they were a thousand times worse now. Wild ideas of stopping the letter came to her mind. She would appeal to the people at the post-office, beg and implore of them, if necessary, to give it back to her. Perhaps, even, the box had not been cleared since last night.

Although she knew it to be a futile hope, as soon as she was dressed she slipped out of the house and across the road.

But the box had been cleared twice since she had posted her own two letters, and she went back home in despair.

During breakfast, from which Marna was, of course, absent, she made an appeal to George Paget.

"Can you get a letter back once it's been posted?"

He stared at her absently.

"Get a letter back? Back from where, Biddy?"

"From the letter-box. From the post-office people."

Paget shook his handsome head.

"Shouldn't think so. Never heard of it. Why do you ask?"

"I only wondered."

Paget smiled with a faint ghost of his old humor.

"Been writin' letter s and regrettin' it afterwards—eh?"

"Oh, no."

"Good girl. Never write letters and regret 'em."

He turned again to his newspaper.

"Marna seems better," he said presently. "More like herself, don't-cherknow. Think Liscard rather frightened me last night. Doctors are all scare-mongers. Marna looks quite her old self this mornin', don'tcher-know."

"I'm so glad!" Biddy said; but she knew that Paget was like a child who has been badly scared, and is only too willing and eager to be convinced that it was without cause.

"Seemed quite pleased when I suggested goin' away," he went on. "She began to talk about new frocks and things—quite like her old self."

"I'm glad," Biddy said again stupidly. But she could only think of the letter she had posted, and wonder how far it had already gone on its journey across the world.

Later in the morning she went to Marna's room, tiptoeing softly for fear of rousing her; but Marna was awake, with wide-open eyes.

"Come in, Biddy. I'm not asleep. I wanted to get up, but George says I mustn't till Dr. Liscard has been. Such a fuss, and all over a stupid little fainting fit!"

"It was a bad fainting fit," Biddy said. She bent and kissed the hand Marna held out to her.

"I shall be all right," Marna said, "once we are away from London, and we're going soon—quite soon now, as soon as I can buy some clothes for myself and some for you."

Biddy's face lit up.

"Am I to come, too?"

"Why, of course. Don't you want to?"

"There's nothing I should love so much."

As soon as she could slip away she went to her own room and sat down to write to Hubbard.

"If I write today it will go by the same mail as Marna's," she thought, with a last desperate hope of averting further trouble. "And then he'll know things are not so bad really, and that he mustn't come."

But her letter was a jumble of incoherence and earnestness. She told Hubbard the truth about what she had done, saying as little of Marna as she could, and taking all the blame to herself.

". . . I don't know what made me do it. I promised only to post it if she—well, if she wasn't here any more. But last night she was so ill, and I thought—I was afraid something dreadful would happen. And I know she wants to see you so much; no, I shouldn't have said that. Please try and understand; it's so difficult to explain, and I think life is so hard—and it doesn't seem quite fair, and yet George is a darling, and he mustn't be hurt——"

The Little Flapper covered three pages with her incoherent distress and explanations, and yet by the time anyone had read to the end they would only have gathered that Biddy was imploring of Hugh Hubbard to come home.

Then, for fear she should change her mind, she slipped out and posted what she had written.

"He'll understand," she comforted herself. "I know he'll understand."

Peterborough Branch

Little Lessons in Legion Objects.

17. To acquire and hold such property in the nature of club rooms, offices and equipment, and material, as may be necessary for the administration of the Legion and its authorized Branches, in pursuit of its aims and objects.

* * *

The Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Legion is fortunate in having one of the best-equipped halls in the country, made possible through the generosity of the Council and people of Peterborough.

From rentals for private concerts and dances the Legion gains money for its relief work, and the club rooms are always available for use of members.

Members should keep February 12 open for the concert, about which particulars will be published later.

Horoscope

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 23, 1928.

(Copyright, 1929, McClure Syndicate.)

Conflicting aspects rule today, according to astrology. The planetary government is propitious for many lines of business activity.

In the morning commercial matters should be pushed. The sway is especially favorable to importers, especially to those who deal with South America.

There is a sign of profit for oil interests and indication that new fields of the liquid gold will be discovered.

There is rather a menacing aspect for travelers who cross the high seas. Delays and discomforts are presaged.

Discernment should be keen while this sway continues. It is supposed to be difficult to deceive under this direction of the stars.

The seers prophesy a return to popularity of water cures of many sorts, and the rise of new American resorts for wealth and fashion

Warning is given that the stars which seem to encourage speculation on the stock exchange are responsible for a revival of gambling places in many cities.

Whatever promises quick riches will be feverishly pursued in all parts of the country, it is foretold, and serious results will be reported.

Many suicides will mark the winter months when grey days will hasten desperate action on the part of persons who have sustained loss of money or health.

Under this rule of the stars all the avenues of thought should be protected from pessimistic and discouraging thoughts, for a sinister sign is supposed to have power to accent mental depression.

This is read as an unfavorable day for signing leases or contracts. The impulse to make unwise concessions should be overcome.

Newspapers and magazines of this date may present serious economic questions, and may carry reports of European troubles of special moment to residents of the United States.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of profit in the coming year through much buying and selling. Women will travel, and will meet interesting new acquaintances.

Children born on this day probably will be quick of hand as well as alert of mind. These subjects of Aquarius usually succeed in whatever they do. They are generous, honest and sympathetic. Among them are many of super-talent.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

THE DREAM DEFERRED

The whole world prays, yet some hearts pray
Only for something for today.
I'm glad that I have faith to borrow
A little something from tomorrow.
For, even if the rose should flow'r
I wanted, in this very hour,
I still desire some light to grope for,
I still would want some joy to hope for.

I would not see the stars at noon,
Have heaven give me gifts too soon.
I'm glad my little came not younger,
That I knew waiting and knew hunger,
For truly men evaluate
Only the things for which they wait.
The things we win in life's beginning
Will never seem quite worth the winning.

Rejoice if you must look beyond
Today, a dream that grows more fond,
Must look beyond this great world even
For joys we only know in heaven.
I doubt if any dear dream dies,
'Tis but deferred, for God is wise.
I'm glad that I have faith to borrow
A little something from tomorrow.

IN DAYS GONE BY

25 YEARS AGO TO-DAY.

On Wednesday evening last, Mesdames Wharton and Mrs. W. Stenton entertained the Lady Macabees to the number of 40, in the Macabees' Hall. During the evening, Mrs. Rehill, Mrs. George Hall and Miss Brooks favored with vocal selections.

Mrs. T. Cunningham last night entertained the choir of Mark street church, following the regular practice.

Miss Dickson of Fenelon Falls, former secretary of the local Y.W.C.A. will be sent out by the Presbyterian church as a missionary to China.

At the annual meeting of the St. Andrew's church, reports indicated a successful year. Reports were received by Manager Tully, George McBain, chairman of the finance committee, John Campbell who read the sessions report, and others.

D. Gilmour addressed the Trent Waterway Association, his address being a strong argument in favor of the Trent Canal.

Uncle Wiggily

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SNOW FLOWERS

(Copyright, 1929, McClure Syndicate.)

"Where is Mrs. Longears?" asked Uncle Wiggily of Nurse Jane one morning when he had finished eating his breakfast. "Isn't she coming down to see me before I hop off adventuring?"

"I'm afraid not," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "She isn't feeling very well. I'm going to take her breakfast up to her. She begs that you will excuse her and she is sorry that she cannot come down to see you before you go."

"Dear me! This is too bad!" said the rabbit gentleman. "I didn't know my wife was ill. She seemed all right when I got up early this morning to see if it was still snowing."

"Yes," squeaked the muskrat lady housekeeper, "she was taken ill rather suddenly. But it isn't much. Just a sort of headache. You hop along and have an adventure and when you come home I think Mrs. Longears will be all well."

"I hope so," said Uncle Wiggily. "Well, I'll just hop up and kiss her good-by and then I'll go out. And if I have a funny adventure I'll come back and tell her about it and make her laugh. Laughter is good for sick rabbits; isn't it?" he asked Nurse Jane.

"If they don't laugh too hard," answered the muskrat lady.

So Uncle Wiggily hopped softly up the stairs to kiss his wife good-by. She lay in bed with a cool rag around her head and when he softly patted her paw she whispered.

"Don't worry, Wiggily dear, I'll be all right. When you come back please bring me some flowers."

"I will!" promised Uncle Wiggily and away he hopped.

The first adventure he had was when he went sliding on some ice and it broke with him because it was too thin and Uncle Wiggily was getting rather fat. But there was such a little water under the ice which broke that the bunny gentleman didn't get wet.

The second adventure Uncle Wiggily had was when he was walking under an evergreen tree and, all of a sudden, a big snowball hit his hat and nearly knocked it off.

"Ho! Who is throwing snowballs at me?" cried the rabbit and he got ready to run, thinking it might be the Fox or the Bob Cat.

"No one threw a snowball," whispered the evergreen tree. "That was just a lump of snow that fell off one of my branches. I hope it didn't hurt you."

"Oh, no, not ata ll!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. So he brushed the snow off his hat and hopped on for his next adventure. The third one was when he ran up a hill and when he reached the top he was going so fast he could not stop. So he stumbled and fell and slid all the way to the bottom of the hill on the other side.

"But it was fun!" laughed the bunny rabbit picking himself up and looking to see if he had torn his trousers, which he had not, I am glad to say. "Ha ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Three adventures! Now I had better go home and tell my wife about them."

And as he thought of his wife he thought of the flowers she had asked him to bring home and he looked around to pick some blossoms. But it was winter where Uncle Wiggily lived, and snow covered all the ground.

"Where can I find any flowers for my wife?" he wondered. "If I could find a greenhouse with a glass roof to keep out the cold, I might see roses growing there. But there is no greenhouse here."

Then, looking over the snow, Uncle Wiggily saw a place where something red and brown and yellow in color showed through. And as the wind blew, these colored things waved and shook off the snow flakes until Mr. Longears could see that they were flowers.

"Goodness me! Snow flowers!" cried the rabbit. "I never knew any flowers grew under the snow." Then spoke one of the brown blossoms.

"We didn't exactly grow under the snow," it said. "We are everlasting, or straw flowers. We grew and blossomed in summer, but we are so strong that we do not droop and die even when covered with snow."

"May I pick some of you for my sick wife?" asked the rabbit.

"Surely you may," said a yellow straw flower. So Uncle Wiggily picked a bunch of the everlasting straw flowers that are not afraid of snow and took them to his wife. And she liked them so much that her head stopped aching and she went to sleep with the flowers beside her.

There is some evidence for supposing that the dog is far superior to the cat in intelligence and not far below the raccoon and the monkey.

Rain In Argentina Breaks Corn Values

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 22 (Canadian Press).—Rains in Argentina giving relief from drought led to a sharp break in corn prices early to-day and also had a bearish effect on wheat. Expectant of a severe cold wave over domestic Winter wheat territory tended, though, to give relative steadiness to wheat. Opening ⅞ to 2⅛ and 2¼c off, corn afterward fluctuated within the initial range. Wheat started ⅛ to ⅝c down and subsequently declined a little more. Oats were easy. Provisions went up grade.

NORANDA

Although production in point of tonnage may be down somewhat this month at Noranda due to blowing in of the second reverbatory unit, it is not expected the value of production will decrease materially since the residue from the No. 1 reverbatory is being cleaned out and put through the second unit, and this residue has always been found to run very high in precious metals. It is expected that any slight alterations necessary in the second unit to get this up to 900 tons daily will be made this week.

REEVES-MACDONALD

Continued activity and strength in the shares of Reeves-Macdonald may be attributed to a further report from the superintendent of the mine that the main vein of the O'Donnell group recently cut at a point 50 feet below the oxidized outcrop now shows a width of 25 feet with the full face still in ore of about 7½ per cent. zinc.

KIRKLAND LAKE

According to reports reaching here Saturday, Kirkland Lake's main vein has been cut at the 3,250 foot level, 125 feet from the shaft. Four rounds have been taken out in each drift and both faces were reported as being in high grade ore.

INTERNATIONAL NICKEL

That International Nickel will live up to the expectations of marvellous earnings two years hence appears to hold sway with the public from the continued accumulation of these shares in large volume. As yet, it does not seem possible to make a definite estimate as to what the future earnings of the big nickel merger will be, but from the high grade ore now being developed it appears reasonable to assume that net earnings of $100,000,000 by the end of 1931 are not impossible.

INTERNATIONAL PETROLEUM

Increased demand for the products of International Pete and the rounding out of development at their Colombia and Peru properties has brought the company into a particularly strong physical state. Shareholders are expected to benefit materially through this and the cessation of major expenditures on this account, which should add over $6,000,000 against the shares in 1929, apart entirely from the earnings derivable from the sale of its crudes in the world's export markets.

Mineral Output of British Columbia Amounts to $62,000,000 For Past Year

Mining in British Columbia in 1928 reached a new peak of activity and accomplishment. Exact figures are not yet available, but the production of the year is valued at approximately $62,000,000 compared with $60,729,358 in 1927. The value of mineral production was highest in 1926, when metal prices were much higher than they have been since, the figure in that year being $67,188,842. In 1928, however, the output of metals was the greatest in the history of the province, exceeding last year, when production was greater than 1926. Development has resulted in the bringing forward of properties in every section of the province, so that within the next year or two many more will be in production.

MOTOR SHARES LEAD MARKET

EXCHANGE EASIER.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 22 (Canadian Press).—The stock market responded to slightly easier money today with a vigorous upturn; particularly in the metal and motor shares and specialties. More than a score of issues were lifted to new high ground, the old Dupont stock recording a maximum gain of 60 points.

Call money was in supply at an official rate of 6 per cent, which was shaded to 5, in the outside market. The inflow of gold from England was resumed for the first time since November with a shipment of $2,500,000, which inspired considerable bullish enthusiasm.

The old Dupont stock touched 600, for the first time in its history. In initial trading on the big board, the new stock first sold at 155¾ and rose to 173. The old stock will be stricken from the list February 5.

Otis Elevator and Case Threshing each lost about ten points, Pillsbury Flour Preferred 7, Warner Brothers Pictures 2 points. Wright Aero dropped 5 points, but rebounded 7.

The profit-taking in U. S. Steel appeared to have bee nabsorbed and it again leaped forward, touching a new high for all time at 190, up 7 points. Johns Manville, which sold under 100 yast year rose 12 points to a new peak at 216.

Renewed buying of the motors was an outstanding feature of the session, General motors rising 4 points, while Mack Trucks and Nash gained about 3 each. Anaconda and Chile mounted more than 3 points each in the early trading, but reacted in the traditional "selling on the good news." American Smelting, Greene Cananea, Kennecott, Nevada, International Nickel and Calumet and Arizona mounted from 3 to over 4 points. Radio, Adams Express and A. M. Byers moved up over 4 points each.

Around the City

"Motorists who have neglected the duty of obtaining their 1929 license markers are likely to encounter police department correction unless they attend to the matter immediately," declared Chief of Police S. Newhall this morning in discussing the large number of motorists who have been tardy in this respect.

"There has been plenty of time allowed them, for they should have purchased them around January 1 It is up to them now," he concluded significantly.

MINE LEADERS REGISTER GAINS

Trading Lax On Standard Exchange—Big Missouri Leads Market.

SISCOE ADVANCES.

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press).—With the exception of a few isolated advances scored by the more active leaders, prices practically marked time on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange this morning. Big Missouri continued to lead the trading and held firm at 1.75, unchanged. Sudbury Basin sold as high as 7.10 and at 7.00 was 10 points higher while Wright-Hargreaves after reaching 2.40 sold down sharply to 2.26 for a gain of a single point.

Siscoe was moderately active and scored a net gain of 8 cents to 1.30 and Falconbridge moved 45 higher to 7.10.

Noranda continued its upward trend and reached a peak of 66.90 and registered a net gain of 2.35 to 66.60. Pend Oreille firmed 5 points higher to 16.00 and Sherritt-Gordon moved up 10 to 7.00.

McCOLL BROS. LOSE APPEAL

Osgoode Hall Upholds Judgment of Judge E. C. S. Huycke.

DAMAGE ACTION.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 22 — Canadian Press. — McColl Bros., Limited, failed in their appeal to the Second Divisional Court at Osgoode Hall, yesterday afternoon, from the judgment of Judge E. C. S. Huycke, Peterborough, finding the company liable for $500 damages to William H. Thompson.

Thompson, the owner of 107 Hazlett street, Peterborough, where he resided with his family, sued for damages in respect of the loss of comfort and enjoyment of his home due to the escape of gasoline and vapors from defendants' gasoline station on the adjoining property.

Plaintiff claimed that his family suffered in health and that he was not able to store food in his cellar, as had been his custom and it was only with great precautions that he was able to make any use of the heating furnace by reason of the grave risk from fire.

NICKEL SOARS AFTER SETBACK

More Than 28,000 Shares Change Hands As Issue Sets Record.

ON TORONTO CURB.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 22 (Canadian Press). — International Nickel, after easing down 1½ points yesterday, came back with a bound on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, and in trading aggregating more than 28,000 shares, soared to a record peak of 69.00. The lowest price recorded during the morning was 65, while the noon quotation at 68½ showed a net advance of 3¾ points. Consolidated Smelters came out at 405 for a net gain of 12.00 a share.

A number of substantial gains were registered and in the majority of cases were scored by the leaders in their respective sections. Standard Paving sold as high as 40 and was 3 points higher at 38, while Alberta Pacific Grain advanced 2¼ points to 60½. Canadian Dredging continued on its upward movement and in heavy trading moved 1¼ points higher to 87½.

International Petroleum was second only to Nickel in trading and held at 64½, unchanged. British American firmed ½ point higher at the peak of 57, and Imperial was unchanged at 102½.

The industrial section was lightly trade in and manifested a strong appearance. Page Hersey was up 1½ to 130½, McKinnon 1 to 64½, Gysum and Alabastine 1 to 96. DeForest 2 to 55, and Canadian Paving 2 to 40, Service Stations Preferred climbed up 3 points to 158.

Tip Tip Tailors and Waterloo both eased off 1 ½ to 44¾ and 35 respectively, while Canadian Canners Second Preferred dropped to 26 for a net loss of 1¾.

STRAY CANINES ROAM STREETS

Numerous Complaints Heard of Annoyance Caused By Dogs.

POLICE INVESTIGATING.

A large number of complaints are on file at the city police office, received from North End residents who have become indignant at the large number of useless, apparently unowned dogs which have been running the streets in that section of the city, and causing unwonted noises during the early hours. Chief of Police Newhall this morning voiced his intention of taking action in the matter, and if necessary, bring the owners, if such there be, into court. Officers in plain clothes have been despatched to look into the matter.

From around the corner of Charlotte and Park streets has also come complaints of large dogs running and jostling each other, and according to the complainants, endangering people walking along the sidewalks. There have come complaints against the larger dogs, particularly police dogs, causing people many uneasy moments, and while the chief is not sharing the sometimes common belief that police dogs are the most dangerous, he is anxious, and will take steps if necessary, to clear up the dog nuisance in the city. This morning he voiced his approval of having a city dog catcher, which he claimed worked in a satisfactory manner some time ago

ERECT GARAGE WATER STREET

Andrew Brown Has Puchased the Property Opposite the Market Square.

81 FEET FRONTAGE.

A real estate transaction of more than passing interest took place on Monday in the purchase by A. Brown & Son, Buick dealers, of property over 300 feet in depth with a frontage of 81 feet on Water Street directly opposite the Market Square. It takes in the building adjoining Mayor Roland Denne's store, and it is proposed to build a modern automobile show room and service station of brick and steel on the site of the present building.

In commenting on the transaction this morning, A. Brown could not give in detail his intentions regarding the property. He stated, however, that the present buildings would be razed in favor of the new show rooms and the service station which would be most modern in its equipment. As for the time of completion, Mr. Brown pointed out that the work would begin in the near future, to be finished before the month of November when he expects to leave his present quarters on the west side of Water Street, further north.

The property referred to was a part of the old Campbell estats, and had been purchased about a year ago by M. J. Quinlan, who in turn sold it to A. Brown & Son.

STEAMER TERNE IS FAST IN ICE

Norwegian Vessel Is Loaded With Potatoes For Cuba—All Are Safe.

MEN RISK LIVES.

MARGAREE, N. S., Jan. 22. Canadian Press — Caught fast in the ice and held in a grip that may not relax until spring comes, the Norwegian steamer Terne, with twenty-five men aboard, and laden with potatoes from Charlottetown to Cuba, is safe from destruction that threatened her yesterday from the jagged rocks of Friar's Head at the entrance to Margaree.

Peter Deveau and John Deveau, who live on the shore of the little town, went out on the ice this morning, risking their lives, from partially frozen patches and loose ice. They boarded the trapped boat and spoke with the captain None of his men was injured in the struggle with the wind and sea and all were well and comfortable.

The Deveaus made the half mile trip over the ice in the teeth of a howling wind and with brief and bitter snow flurries that made it difficult for them to see their way.

The "Terne" is fast in the ice and there is no clear water visible. Unless a strong wind blows from off-shore within the next day or so sending the ice out to sea, the "Terne" will probably remain fast for the winter months.

The storm was still raging at Margaree to-day with a 50 mile gale sweeping in from the Atlantic and the temperature lower than yesterday, when it registered ten below zero.

$200,000 DAMAGE DONE AT PORT HOPE

When the Ganeraska river overflowed in Port Hope on the night of January 18, property damage amounted to $200,000. Ice cakes lined the roads, and the water rose as high as four feet. This picture gives an idea of the damage in one place, where a lumber yard was inundated. Several foot bridges and buildings were also washed away.

CANADA HAS GREAT FUTURE

Declares W. W. Trench in Addressing Canadian General Employees at Smoker.

UNLIMITED POSSIBILITIES.

"Opportunities are lost never to be regained through lack of anticipation on the part of an individual or a manufacturing institution," said W. W. Trench, secretary of the General Electric Company, speaking at the C.G.E. smoker, attended by employees of the local plant which filled the Legion Hall last evening.

C. A. Salmonsen, in introducing the speaker, W. W. Trench, spoke of him as he had known him, while working with him in the home plant at Schnectady, and briefly sketched his amazing rise to the great position of responsibility as secretary of the General Electric Company at the early age of thirty-six, all of which he had earned through sheer hard work and hours of study. He referred to Mr. Trench's participation in the war with the A.E.F., in which he serve deighteen months in active service, and the fact that he is a member of the American Legion.

Anticipate the Future

"Canada is a growing country with unlimited possibilities and your city of Peterborough is situated in the heart of this increasing Canada," said Mr. Trench, and he spoke of the many opportunities which Canadians have unfolding to them by living in a young vigorous country. He referred to the amasing wealth of the country in farm lands, timber and minerals which have yet not been tapped. But he expressed the warning that if Canada was to advance as it should and as rapidly, its citizens must anticipate the future. "Anticipation stimulates a man's thoughts until he gets a mental picture of what may happen and then goes out and prepares for that dream to be realized."

Biographies were said to be the speaker's hobby, and from the study of the lives of great men he caught some of the fever of these men's accomplishments and learned the manner in which they did them. "Also from biographies we learn and so should avert some of the mistakes of our ancestors, and so by preventing errors of judgment we aid the onward march of humanity."

Drawing an illustration from the lives of two men, one of whom was quick thinking and the other slow moving, each with diverse ways of doing their daily tasks. "Both if they had the ability to anticipate would arrive at the same goal, success," said the speaker. Napoleon was held up as an outstanding example of a man who could anticipate the future course of events and profit by that anticipation by preparation. When Napoleon lost that power of anticipation he lost in his wars.

Greater Than Realization.

"Anticipation is greater than realization, and if you do not anticipate you lose half the joy of living and it is a safe bet you will never realize it again," said the speaker. Speaking of the need for leadership, it was said there was a great harm done by the lack of leaders, but there was intensely more by not following and backing the leaders when they did take charge. "Fewer mistakes are made when we anticipate, and this is explained when we appreciate the meaning of the word anticipation to preclude or prevent by prior, or previous, action."

Referring to the important place that anticipation had in the working of a large industrial organization, the speaker gave the General Electric Company as an illustration. The president first called the sales staff together and ordered them to book their orders ten years in advance, at which they were flabbergasted, but they followed his instructions and began doing it, and have continued this plan ever since.

Speaking of the chance that everyone has to anticiapte the future and aid advancement the speaker gave such examples as a timely word of advice to fellow workmen. He also spoke of the necessity for such organizations as the CG.E. to assist the school authorities and thus have them turn out boys who can appreciate their opportunities and anticipate the trend of manufacturing.

R. E. Layfield expressed the thanks of the men to Mr. Trench for his most inspiring talk. S. O. Shields was chairman of the meeting.

Tom Stazicker's vocal solos were much appreciated and he was heartily encored. Instrumental numbers were played by a saxopohne trio and clarinet. One of the features on the entertaining program was the mystery stunt by the Ault twins, who mystified the audience by the man-in-the-box act.

ROTARY BOYS ENJOY SUPPER

Judge Hawley Mott Speaks To Boys At Supper Held in Y.M.C.A.

ENTHUSIASTIC CROWD.

Sixty hungry, happy boys enjoyed a "whale of a fine supper" and their sixty or more lusty voices, led by James Turnbull and John Krough, sang of the features of one Old MacDonald's farm and "A Long, Long Trail," when they, the boys of the Rotary Camp Skookum gathered in the dining-room of the Y.M.C.A. at 6 o'clock last night. They had a distinguished visitor to entertain in the person of His Honor Judge Hawley Mott, and he, in turn, entertained with great profit to them when, after the supper was over, he gave them a brief talk.

Seated round the head table with His Honor were Rotarian George Hambly of Toronto. Thomas Dutton, James Juby, John Seels, Douglas Loomis, and Ensign Green, who comprise the Boys' Work Committee of the Peterborough Rotary Club, the club president, W. R. Morris, and James Turnbull and A. H. C. Long, of Port Hope, whose son had been at the camp last summer.

Perhaps he had it all planned, and again, perhaps Judge Mott had a sudden happy thought as he drew from his pocket a gold watch, at the commencement of his address to the boys. At any rate, the first question he asked the boys was:

"What must a watch do?" They correctly answered, "It must go."

"That's just the way with a boy; he must go," came back His Honor, "and the thing you should be tickled about is that people have found out that boys must 'go.' But what must be done to make the watch go?"

"It must be wound,' 'they replied. "And so must you," said he. "You must be wound through your stomachs by means of good food, and in your minds by means of good books. Cultivate an acquaintanceship with a good book every day, and when you are old, you will have a wealth of friendship to draw from. A watch is made of gold—and so are you. But if a watch goes slow, winding it would never do. It must be regulated, and so it is with a boy. He must be regulated by comparison with One who came to this earth, lived, and knew the trials and joys of a boy, and growing into manhood, made the greatest sacrifice that the world has ever known. I commend Him to you boys to-night. I mean Jesus Christ."

SOCIETIES HAVE SATISFACTORY YEAR

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at Stirling Holds Congregational Meeting.

STIRLING, Jan. 21.—(Examiner Correspondence). — St. Andrews Presbyterian Church held its annual congregational meeting on Wednesday night. The meeting was opened by devotional exercises by the Rev. A. N. Reid, pastor of the church, and who was then chosen to preside for the business part. Reports from all the different organizations of the church were presented and the results in figures showed that they had all been busy during the year 1928. The receipts to the general fund from all sources amounted to $2,753.31.

The Sunday School and Bible Class gathered during the year $290 which was used to carry on their work. Mrs. Nolan treasurer of the Ladies' Aid, gave the report of their work for the year, the total receipts being $1,029.13.

Mr. Anderson spoke regarding the work of the ladies in contributing so much toward the funds of the church and moved that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered them. This was seconded by R. W. Meiklejohn. The Women's Missionary Society's report was given by Mrs. M. W. Sine, who had held the office of treasurer for the society for ten years but recently resigned. The receipts for 1928 were $1,77.16. Mrs. Sine thanked the ladies of the church for their confidence and support during all the years she held office.

Mrs. Bissonnette gave the report of the Mission Band, who had received $48.38 from all sources during the year. The choir had collected $13.61 and used it in supplies for their benefit. The young peoples Guild reported having raised by collections $37.05. Miss Frieda Matthews gave the report of the treasurer of the Schemes of the Church, whose receipts had been $410.20.

The treasurer of the Expense Fund of the W.M.S. showed that $80.89 had been secured for their work during the past year. Mr. Anderson spoke of the assistance given in different ways to the Board of Managers in its work of the past year in carrying on their particular part of the business of the church and wished to thank them; this was seconded by M. W. Sine. The election of officers for 1929 followed. The three retiring managers, T. J. McGee, W. Anderson, and Henry Reid were re-elected for the next ensuing three years.

The Lockout Committee reported having done some work during 1928 and on motion of M. W. Sine and R. W. Meiklejohn were re-appointed for 1929.

Mr. Anderson reported that the insurance on the church property had been adjusted during the year. The ushers for 1928 will still continue to hold office. The session is to have one of its number at the door to welcome those who attend the services of the church. Mr. Murdoff and R. W. Meiklejohn were appointed auditors. Reports of the different organizations of the church are to be printed as usual and this matter is to be arranged by the managers. The president and treasurer of the Ladies Aid are to be the members of the Board of Managers as usual.

Thomas Matthews on account of his health resigned as treasurer of the Schemes fund of the church, which was regretfully accepted and a letter of appreciation for his past services was ordered. Messrs. Fargey, Murdoff, Sine, Meiklejohn and J. M. McGee were named as the Budget Committee and Mr Murdoff kindly consented to act as treasurer of the fund for 1929 in the place of Mr. Matthews.

Mrs. Bissonnette spoke of the fact that many small congregations would be glad to receive as a gift the old pulpit bible which has been replaced by the new one recently presented to the congregation. Her suggestion was seconded by Joseph Reid and the bible will be given to some worthy congregation.

After a few closing remarks by th minister, lunch was served by the ladies, and the social hour following closed the work of another year for St. Andrews Church.

ANNUAL MEETING.

Reports For Year Discussed at Meeting of Hastings Horticultural Society.

(Examiner Correspondence)

Hastings, Jan. 21.—The anuual meeting of the Hastings Horticultural Society was held in Lynch's Hall on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 14th, with a fair attendance. Owing to the absence of the president G. Marrvat who is in England, C. P. Doughty was asked to occupy the chair. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and adopted on motion of Miss Della Plant and Mrs. G. Marryat. The financial statement for the year was read by the secretary-treasurer, Geo. Jeffries. The total receipts from all sources were $283.73, while the expenditures amounted to $275.72, leaving a balance on hand of $8.01. This is a very gratifying statement, considering that the society received a smaller government grant this year than formerly.

It was moved by Miss Della Plant, seconded by J. A. Brown, that the officers and directors who held office during the year 1928 be re-elected for 1929, and that Rev. F. Battersby take the place of Geo. Jeffries on the directorate for 1929-30.

The following officers were elected: President, Mr. G. Marryat; vice-president, Rev. D. A. Thomson; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. F. W. Fowlds; secretary-treasurer, Mr. Geo. Jeffries.

Directors for 1928-29 are: Mrs. Jas. Stevenson, Miss Della Plant, Mrs. C. P. Doughty, Dr. W. N. Campbell, while the directors for 1929-30 are Rev. H. F. Battersby, Mrs. F. W. Fowlds, Mrs. W. E. Wilson, Miss Pansy Runnels, and Dr. J. H. Hess.

CANADA'S NEWEST PLAY-GROUND

The region now within Prince Albert national park, Canada's newest playground was once the hunting ground of the Cree Indians and a band of this tribe is now located on a reserve immediately adjoining the park. The new park has an elevation of about 1800 feet above sea-level and enjoys in summer a climate which makes it possible to live under canvas for months at a time. Situated as it is near the city of Prince Albert, it is less than 600 miles from Winnipeg by motor highway, and 500 miles from the International Boundary. YOUNG PEOPLE PRESENT PLAY

"The Little Clodhopper" Given Under Auspices of St. John's Church Society.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

(Examiner Correspondence)

PETHERICKS CORNERS, Jan. 22—On Thursday evening, the young people of St. John's Church, Campbellford, presented their play, "The Little Clodhopper" under the auspices of the local league.

The acting and general organization of the play reflects great credit not only upon those taking part, but also upon the trainers, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Phillips.

The title role was splendidly taken by Audrey Cassan, who portrayed the part of the mischief-loving little orphan girl, in a very vivid manner. Miss Velma Runnells, as Mrs. Choggerson Boggs, would-be society lady.

Warsaw

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, Januarry 21. — Master Archie Crowe, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Crowe, accompanied by his father, went to Belleville on Friday morning with J. B. Nelson, district agricultural representative. Archie represents this county as public speaker. He came out ahead in the public speaking contest at the School Fair, and at Norwood, and enters the contest at Belleville for this district. If he wins there, he goes to Toronto in his next attempt.

Personals.

Mrs. Roland Kidd came from Toronto on Thursday and Mrs. Walter John Kidd from Belleville, to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. James Hawthorne.

Roland McCauley has set up a butcher shop in R. Matthews' store.

Mrs. Elmore Adamson, Keene, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Crowe.

Charles Bowen came up the Boundary on Friday with his bread cart, the first car that has gone all the way up since last Saturday. Cars have gone over the north half.

Counterfeit Money Is In Circulation

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 21 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Somewhere in the district is a five dollar bill which is, in reality, not a five dollar bill. The fact was discovered by a local bank teller and verified by the other members of the staff when a local business man presented his usual deposit one day last week. Fortunately, the merchant was able to trace the bill to the person who had given it to him. This man was able to pass it back to the man from whom he obtained it, and the third man was also able to return the bill to the man who had given it to him. Just where the exchange will end is difficult to predict. The bill appears to be a fairly good counterfeit and a slightly lighter shade of color is the only means which, at a glance, might make anyone suspicious. Since it has been in the hands of the local bank, it has been well marked as counterfeit.

Eyes of Gray —love while away

What are YOUR eyes saying to-day?

Your eyes have no voice, but they speak — they show moods and temper. They do more, they show your physical condition. Are they clear, bright, sparkling with health—or dull, with a yellowish tinge to the whites? This yellowish tinge is the signal of intestinal sluggishness—auto-intoxication and liver trouble. Don't neglect this warning of poor health to follow.

MAYOR DENNE

moved by R. H. Turner, that when the more detailed report is available it be published in full in The Examiner. H. Bertram seconded this.

Mention of such other reports as those of the various chairmen of committees brought forth a motion by Charles Moore, seconded by R. M. Glover, that the chairmen bring in their own reports at the next meeting.

Enter Combined Competition.

A representative of the Department of Agriculture, Mr. Pearson, was present and spoke in favor of an entry into the combined field crop competitions which, while more rigid, are of greater advantage to all concerned, according to his explanation, and outline of the various conditions governing such. Finally a motion by C. E. Moore, seconded by C. W. Seymour, was passed, expressing the meeting's approval of the new competition into which it will enter.

Relative to the obtaining of Departmental Judges, it was moved and seconded that the chairmen of the various committees be given the privilage of deciding whether or not they require such judges.

Another item of business was the appointment of Willia.: Knox, Hugh Bertram and Thomas McIndoo to attend the Ontario Convention of Fairs and Exhibitions. They were the Peterborough representatives last year.

The election of officers followed immediately on the heals of a motion which carried, that no director be eligible unless his signature be placed on the back of the note. The selection of Mayor Denne as president for 1929 brought forth much favorable comment from, R. H. Turner, R. M. Glover and others who had appreciated his value to the Board, especially at this time when the Exhibition is expanding and in need of several improvements. It was felt that Mayor Denne was the right man in the right place.

In tendering his withdrawal from the First Vice-Presidency, Thomas McIndoo felt free to suggest that in the future, a greater effort be put forth to educate his successor, so that he might not be a figurehead. He should have a work to do.

At first Mr. McIndoo was reluctant to withdraw his resignation, despite urgings to do so from many of those present. He felt that he could never aspire to the presidency as some of them had suggested, but was finally persuaded to remain in his present office for 1929. The election of the other officers mentioned above went through without hesitation.

STAGES DESCRIBED BY JUDGE MOTT

open at the outset of life, when the boy discovers himself and begins to discover his relation with others "It is in this period that he sometimes comes in and tells you he can lick some other boy, but don't worry about him being a bully—if he don't learn to fight when he's young, he may never be much good," observed Judge Mott. He went on to picture the boy climbing the road leading on through life, and, arriving at the first stopping place, a little cottage on whose walls he finds written the word "Now." He learns the meaning and importance of doing things "now," through his parents in whose hands the greatest factor or power is appreciation of the boy. Passing on he enters the habit-forming age of between ten and twelve years, when he acquires ninety per cent. of his habits for good or ill, and travelling on, is fortunate indeed if he has a father who says "come," not "go." He finds that the hills which appeared as great difficulties from the distance, prove only something to be conquered, and herein lies the chance of his making a false decision that may cost him his good name. "There are two roads which you may choose, the easy and the hard, but you will find that the first leads nowhere - the second brings home to you that man should earn his bread by the sweat of his brow, and an education does not mean that you should go through life without working. It is only a means whereby you may adjust yourself in life," continued the speaker.

Danger of Shipwreck.

Picturing a splendid new steamer torn from its moorings and swept out into the current. His Honor compared the boy to the ship, the river to life and the hitching post and mooring ropes to the ties that keep the boy from drifting from his home, his parents and the ideals which he acquired early in life and brings the boy to a point on his chart where he reaches a "jumping-off place" and another little house where he reads the word "own," representing his finding himself as a young man ready to tackle the world. The judge here sounded a warning for the young man to head the advice of his father and folks older than himself, and, granting that he has, carries him further up the path to his greatest conclusion — that while he may achieve, he may never win the game of life, he may never be entirely satisfied.

"And so," said the speaker in conclusion, "the boy learns in early life the value of doing things. 'Now' he learns 'ownership' of himself as a youth and he has his achievements in the fullness of his mannood."

Chairman Morris voiced the appreciation of the gathering for Judge Mott's address, and further movies of the camp brought to a close the distinguished visitor's last public appearance of the day.

FIRE DAMAGES BOX FACTORY

John Carew Lumber Company of Lindsay Suffers Heavy Loss.

ORIGIN UNKNOWN.

(Special to Examiner.)

LINDSAY, January 21. — Fire of unknown origin broke out in the box factory of the John Carew Lumber Company Sunday night about eleven o'clock, and for a time it was feared the entire plant would be destroyed. The fire was confined to the engine and boiler room which was practically destroyed; other portions of the company's property was damaged. A stiff wind was blowing at the time but excellent work by the firemen prevented a more serious loss. The loss is placed at between $3000 and $4000.

PLAY PRESENTED.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" Presented at Warsaw—W. M. S. Meets.

(Examiner Correspondence).

WARSAW, January 21. — The rains of Thursday and Friday have taken nearly all the snow away except where the snowbanks were high. A snow-plow was used on the Scotch line and motoring is good. The Dummer road and the Lakefield road are good for motoring.

Play Presented.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" was presented in the Warsaw town hall on Tuesday evening, and was thoroughly enjoyed by those present.

W. M. S. Meet.

The postponed meeting of the W. M. S. of the United Church was held on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Taylor. The delegates to the W. M. S. convention to be held in St. James' United church, Peterborough, on Tuesday and Wednesday, January 22 and 23 are Mesdames Wallace Anderson and John Sergent. The systematic giving envelopes were received and distributed to those present. The study books were also distributed.

It was decided to re-arrange the groups, making six instead of three, and those living near one another, in the same group.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 7.

THE MARKETS

BUTTER AND EGGS.

TORONTO, January 22. — Wholesale butter market conditions yesterday were typical of the usual dullness on Monday, but the absence of active buying interest brought no change in prices. Quotations for No. 1 creamery remained steady at last week's closing levels of 40c to 40½c per pound for supplies delivered in Toronto, and while the majority of sales were made at the 40c level, asked prices as high as 40½c continued to reflect a fairly firmer sentiment. New Zealand supplies on spot were steady at 40c.

Although retailers' commitments were light, wholesale quotations to the trade were steady at a range of 44c to 45c for No. 1 creamery prints, with No. 2 prints at 42c to 43c. Inquiry was chiefly for No. 2 creamery, but business in both grades was limited in volume.

Egg Market Is Quiet.

Egg prices were unchanged from last week, wholesalers quoting 36c to 37c a dozen for fresh extras, delivered in Toronto, cases returned, with fresh firsts at 32c to 35c on the same delivery basis. The egg situation is unusually interesting in view of the sharp price declines of the past ten days and the prospects for moving incoming supplies during the week. Weather conditions have had a tendency to curtail receipts, and yesterday arrivals were not excessive. On the other hand wholesale holdings are believed to be fairly large, and if receipts of fresh continue to arrive in abnormal volume, dealers may find difficulty in reducing the storage supply. There is, however, a feeling of confidence which was absent a week ago, and with normal consumptive demand, the situation is likely to correct itself. Egg quotations yesterday were steady at 45c to 47c a dozen for fresh extras in cartons to the retail trade, with firsts at 38c to 39c.

Quotations on storage eggs were also unchanged at a range of 34c to 36c a dozen for storage extras in cartons.

Obituary

ELIZABETH O'BRIAN.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 22.—The death of Elizabeth O'Brian, in her ninety-first year, which took place on Thursday, January 17, following a comparatively brief illness, marked the passing of the oldest resident of the community, a member of a pioneer, and highly respected, family of Cavan township.

Deceased was one of a family of thirteen children, only one of whom Mrs. A. T. Armstrong, of Millbrook, still survives; She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brian, who were pioneer settlers of Cavan, their farm homestead being located not far from Centreville.

With the exception of some seven years, when she attended school in Buffalo, Miss O'Brian had spent practically all her life in Millbrook and vicinity; though she seldom left her home in recent years, she retained the use of all her faculties to a remarkable degree, and had her life been prolonged until next March she would have reached her ninety-second birthday. Her last illness was not a lengthy one, and was apparently the culmination of that decline in strength which is the inevitable accompaniment of advanced age.

Deceased was a faithful member of the Presbyterian Church, going with it into the Union, and becoming then connected in membership with the United Church. One evidence of the liberal support she was accustomed to show towards her church is found in the fact that when it became necessary to build a new Presbyterian place of worship here, the old church having been destroyed by fire, the deed for the land upon which Grace Church stands was her gift.

The funeral took place from the residence of her nephew, H. W Johnston, with whom she had made her home for several years past, on Saturday at 2 p.m. The service was a private one, attended by only the immediate relatives and friends, her pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, having charge both at the house and the graveside.

The pall-bearers were all relatives and included: Harry O'Brian, William O'Brian, Fred Reynolds, Henry Johnston (Bethany), Ira Gardiner (Lakefield), and Bruce Eakins (Peterborough).

Burial was made in the family plot at the Presbyterian cemetery.

EDWARD H. PALMER.

(From Virden, Manitoba, paper)

The whole community was shocked with surprice last Tuesday morning when it was learned that Edward H. Palmer, one of the best known men in Virden had succumbed to an attack of pneumonia. While he had been suffering from a severe cold for several days he continued his work and attended the meeting of the Town Council Thursday night preceding his death, taking his part in winding up the municipal business for the year. It was at this meeting that he realized that he was a very sick man and called a doctor to attend at his home following the meeting. Pneumonia developed, and while everything that medical skill, good nursing and loving care was done he passed away during the early hours of New Year's morning.

Born near Belleville, Ontario, Mr. Palmer at the age of nineteen decided to come West. He located in Virden and engaged in the transfer business, later taking up farming in Pipestone municipality. During this period he served for a time as a member of Pipestone Council. After three years on the farm he returned to Virden and re-engaged in the dray and transfer business. At the same time operating a fuel and ice business and for several years has operated a school van and handled the delivery of express for the C.P.R.

In 1884 he married Miss Mary McNaughton of Bruce County, Ontario.

For over ten years he served his fellow citizens as a municipal councillor having charge of the department of public works, which he operated in a practical and satisfactory manner. In sport he was an enthusiastic curler and took part in many bonspiels in Winnipeg and other points. He was also a baseball fan and encouraged in every way possible all worthwhile sports, particularly among the young people.

A generous spirit dominated his life as many organizations and individuals know well. It was this spirit combined with a genial disposition which won so many friends. He was a member of Virden Lodge No. 13, I.O.O.F., and also Virden Lodge A.O.U.W.

He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Mrs. Roy Goodrich of Unity, Sask., and Miss Ellinor, Winnipeg, and one son, Dorland, of Winnipeg. (His father's name was Dorland Palmer of Ivanhoe and his mother's maiden name was Elizabeth Calvert).

Three sisters survive him, two elder, Elizabeth (Mrs. George Afflick of Bay City, Michigan) and Isabel (Mrs. Brough of Ivanhoe) and one younger, Agnes (Mrs. W. D. Park of Bay City, Michigan).

Needless to say these relatives will have the sympathy of the whole community in their great loneliness following his sudden death.

The funeral took place Friday afternoon, the service in St. Paul's United Church being attended by brother Oddfellows in a body, municipal representatives and other friends to the capacity of the church. Rev. D. H. Telfer, minister, conducting a service which deeply impressed all and following this the beautiful ritualistic service of the I.O.O.F. was conducted by Brothers Adam Whitford, John H. McKnight, Norman Gerrand and members of the Lodge.

A profusion of floral tributes, including wreaths and other set pieces from the family, the Town Council, the I.O.O.F., the Workmen, the Associate members of the Canadian Legion, and many others, all bearing evidence of regret and sympathy.

The remains were laid to rest in the vault in Virden cemetery. The bearers were Messrs. W. A. Bridgett, W. M. Pines, W. McDonald, T. A. Megaffin, Adam Whiteford and J. A. Lachlan.

As a token of respect to his memory the flag on the municipal building was flown at half-mast from the day of his death until after the funeral.

MRS. WILLIAM McADAM.

HAVELOCK, Jan. 22.—The death occurred on Saturday afternoon of a highly respected resident of the Township of Belmont in the person of Mrs. William McAdam. Born in Belmont 52 years ago she has resided in this vicinity all her life. Her maiden name was Margaret McArthur, daughter of the late Alexander McArthur.

Besides her husband she leaves to mourn her loss, her mother, Mrs. A. McArthur, five sisters, Mrs. Thomas Menzies, Mrs. John Menzies, of Belmont, Mrs. John Cochrane, Mrs. Bernard Smith and Mrs. Bert Wannamaker of town; three brothers, Hugh McArthur, Martin McArthur and Alexander McArthur of Belmont.

The funeral takes place on Monday afternoon from the family residence in Belmont to Maple Grove Cemetery.

REV. DR. GEORGE CROSS.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Rev. Dr. George Cross, Professor of Systematic Theology at the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School, died suddenly at his home here on Sunday. Death was due to a heart attack.

He was born at Bewdley, Ont., Sept. 21, 1862. After attending Woodstock College two years he received a Bachelor's degree from the University of Toronto in 1888. He was awarded subsequent degrees from McMaster University in 1894, 1895 and 1907 and University of Chicago in 1907.

He was ordained to the Baptist ministry in 1888 and held pastorates in Ormond, Carleton Place and Aylmer, Ont., and Calgary, Alta. In 1901 he became a Professor of History in McMaster University, and from 1909 to 1912 he served as Professor of Systematic Theology at Newton Theological Seminary. He came to the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School in 1912. He was the author of a number of religious books and articles and a lecturer at the University of Chicago Summer School and was Nathaniel W. Taylor Lecturer at Yale in 1921.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Lucy Bullis Cross, of this city; two daughters, Mrs. T. R. Wilkins of this city, and Mrs. Bessie Cross Fetter of Ithaca; a sister, Mrs. Kaye Miller of Sault Ste. Marie, and two brothers, William Cross of Toronto and John Cross of Elfros, Sask.

MRS. DENNIS O'BRIEN

DOURO, Jan. 22—(Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Mrs. Dennis O'Brien who died at her home here on January 17, 1929, took place Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock at St. Joseph's church, Douro. The funeral mass was sung by Rev. Father J. Leonard. The deceased lady was in her 84th year, and was a life long resident of Indian River, and her passing will be much regretted by her large circle of friends and neighbors.

She leaves to mourn her loss, two sons, Patrick of Seattle and John at home; also five daughters, Mrs. William Heffernan of Douro; Mrs. John McKinty of Kitchener; Mrs. R. Young, California; Mrs. D. McKinty, Montana; Mrs. Wm. Faux, Hastings.

The pallbearers were, John J. O'Grady, Timothy O'Grady, William O'Leary, William P. Doherty, Michal Torpey, William Heffernan.

Those from a distance who attended the funeral were, Mr. John J. O'Grady, Baltimore; Mr. T. O'Grady, Norwood; Messrs. John and Joseph Lonergan, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Garvey, Otonabee.

O'Brien, at the age of 84. She leaves

J. B. MACKLIN

FENELLA, Jan. 22. —(Examiner Correspondence)—After an illness lasting over several weeks, the death occurred on Sunday Jan. 13 of J. B. Macklin, at his home near Fenella. Mr. Macklin was in his 70th year, was born and had lived all his life on the farm where he died. He was a well respected and successful farmer in the community, and a kind friend and neighbor to all. He was a member of the former Methodist Church, and a former Sunday School superintendent and Bible class teacher in Bethany (Macklin's) church. The funeral took place from his residence on Wednesday, Jan. 16, interment was in Bethany cemetery in the Macklin settlement.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Batstone of Centreton. Mr. Macklin's wife, formerly Miss Emma Williams of Norwood, predeceased him in 1924. He is survived by one son, John E. on the homestead, and an adopted son, Basil in Oshawa, also two sisters, Mrs. Lillie Nill Port Hope, and Mrs. Henry Creighton, Manitoba. Three sisters and one brother having died some years ago.

JAMES O. WEIR

HALL'S BRIDGE, Jan. 22 (Examiner Correspondence).—On Friday, January 18, there occurred the death of Dr. James O. Weir, aged 84. Dr. Weir had been a life-long resident in Buckhorn and was widely respected. He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife and four daughters, two of whom are living in Western Canada.

The funeral was held from his late residence on Sunday, Rev. C. E. Bray of the United Church was in charge. Interment was made at Lakehurst Cemetery.

ANDREW WATSON

BURNBRAE, Jan. 22 (Examiner Correspondence).—There was laid to rest in Burnbrae cemetery on Saturday afternoon another of the highly-respected members of this community in the person of the later Andrew Watson. Born more than seventy years ago in Seymour township, the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Watson, pioneers of this district, the deceased spent his life in the active pursuit of his chosen profession, agriculture, on one of the finest farms in the Burnbrae area. The late Mr. Watson combined those qualities which at once make a successful business man and a Christian gentleman. Up until his death, he retained an active interest in all business and community activities, and also in the work of St. Andrew's Church, of which he was a prominent member. It is in the sphere of church work that Mr. Watson's passing will be greatly regretted, as he was always ready and willing to do his part in whatever direction duty called. A life-long member of St. Andrew's Church and many times member of its managing board; he had recently been called to the high honor of member of session, and the hands of his brother elders carried him to his last resting place. The pall-bearers were W. W. Little, Alex. Milne, Roy Walker, G. V. Taylor, Neil Third, Bogart Linn.

The floral tributes from the family, friends and neighbors were many and beautiful, requiring a special conveyance for flowers alone.

The funeral service at the church and later at the grave was conducted by his minister, Rev. D. A. MacKenzie, with the St. Andrew's choir singing appropriate music.

To mourn the loss of one near and dear to them, remain the widow and two daughters, Mrs. John A. Murray of Seymour and Miss Eloise of Belleville; also two brothers, James and Thomas, both of Seymour, and five sisters, Mrs. Annie Oddie, St. Catharines, Ont.; Mrs. David Russell, Foxboro; Mrs. John Kay; Mrs. Elsie Fry; Mrs. Herbert Watson, all of Seymour.

STEPHEN HAINES

HALL'S BRIDGE, Jan. 22 (Examiner Correspondence).—On Saturday, January 19, Stephen Haines, aged 80, passed away at his home in Hall's Bridge. He leaves to mourn his loss four sons, Arthur, of Hall's Bridge; William of Catchacoma, Harry of Peterborough, and Herbert who is living in Alberta; and three daughters, Mrs. Morrison of Hall's Bridge, Mrs. Albert Davis of Peterborough, and Mrs. Jameson of Toronto.

The funeral will not be held until the arrival of Herbert Haines from Alberta. Interment will be made at Ray's cemetery, Lakefield.

MADOC CHURCH HAS SATISFACTORY YEAR

St. Peter's Presbyterian Church Holds Annual Congregational Meeting.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, January 22. — The annual meeting of St. Peter's Presbyterian church was held in the church on Wednesday evening at 7.30 p.m., when reports were received from the different organizations of the church. Rev. Mr Marshall acted as chairman, and Will J. Hill as secretary.

The Sessional report was read by George M. Wright. Will J. Hill, secretary-treasurer, presetned the report of the Sunday school, and which showed an average attendance of 82, with the total offerings of $240, leaving a balance of $30.

The Women's Missionary Society report was presented by Mrs. A. Milne and Mrs James Whytock and showed total receipts to be $300, which was expended for missions.

Mrs George West and Mrs. Will J. Hill presented the Ladies' Aid report. The total receipts of this society amounted to $450, with an expenditure of $220, leaving a balance of $230. A vote of thanks was tendered John McKenzie for the use of rooms by the Ladies' Aid.

The receipts of the Mission Band amounted to $80 and this report was given by Marjorie Ellis and Alice Armstrong.

The Christian Endeavor report was presented by Hazel Carswell, and showed receipts of $196.30, with an expenditure of $154, leaving a balance of $42.30

George West presented the treasurer's report, and this showed total receipts to be $4077.94, with expenditures of $3900, leaving a balance of $777.94. The balance in the Clock Fund amounted to $250.

The three managers elected this year were Robert A. Wood, Fred Curry and John Armstrong. Samuel Rollins was elected for two years.

The auditors appointed for 1929 are Alex. Cochrane and Samuel Rollins, and a printing committee, composed of Mrs. Milne, George West and Will J. Hill, was also appointed.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the ladies of the congregation.

How I Was Freed of Hemorrhoids after 25 years of suffering

"I had protruding piles or hemorrhoids for over twenty-five years," writes Dr. H. S. Hussell, Graduate Veterinary Surgeon, of Upper Chaslo, N.B. "I bought medicines from all parts of the world and went under the knife twice—at Portland, Maine, and Sherbrooke, Que. I had spent hundreds of dollars and was about to go to the hospital at Campbellton, N.B., for another operation, but was in such a weakened condition that the doctor advised me to wait a few days.

"My wife happened to pick up Dr. Chase's Almanac and read about someone being freed of piles by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. I got a box, was so much better next day that I ordered three more boxes. In one week I was able to resume my practice. It is now four years since I have felt any effect of the piles, so I feel justified in believing the relief permanent."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is the standard, time-proven treatment for piles or hemorrhoids. Dr. Hussell's experience is similar to that of many thousands of people who have been positively freed of piles by this soothing, healing, antiseptic ointment. All dealers or The Dr. A. W. KEENE CHURCH HAS FINE YEAR

OFFICERS APPOINTED

The annual meeting of the Keene Church was held on Wednesday afternoon, January 16, to receive the reports of the various societies and boards, and to appoint the necessary officers for the ensuing year. At the conclusion of the business session a delightful supper was served in the basement by the ladies of the congregation.

The pastor, Rev. J. Verner McNeely, was chairman, and W. M. Drummond, secretary. Reports were received from the following societies: the Mission Band, Young People's, the Sunday School, and the W.M.S., indicating in each case increased interest in the constituency served by the society. Especially was this apparent in the increased response of each society to missionary work. In the W.M.S. report very appreciative reference was made to Mrs. Ida Kindred, the beloved secretary who passed away during the year. The stewards, in filling a vacancy on their board left by the death of Andrew Nelson, paid a warm tribute to his integrity as a member and an official of the church. The board of trustees gave a very fine survey of the property situation in Keene, and the work which is being done by way of demolition, sale or improvement of church property

The address of the session was an appeal for sympathy, gratitude and consecration. While the congregation stood the names of those who had been called to higher service during the year were read, and words of sympathetic comfort tenderly offered the hearts of the bereaved. Gratitude was expressed for the splendid work of the choir under the capable leadership of Miss Margaret Bryce. Special mention was made of the loyalty of the people in their response to the many appeals incident to the change in the pastoral relation. A very encouraging feature, too, was that every allocation had been reached and substantial balance carried.

In closing, the session re-echoed the call of the Moderator for prayer, study and communion with God, that lives might be more heroic and sacrificial in their attempt to serve Christ and to win others into His fellowship.

Keen Contest For Election Of Warden

(Examiner Correspondence)

DUNSFORD, Jan. 21.—It is predicted by some of the members of the County council for Victoria which is to meet in Lindsay on Tuesday, Jan. 23, that the first matter of business which is the election of a warden will occasion a real contest as the two aspirants for the position seem to have about equal claim to the office. The names being mentioned for the wardenship are those of Samuel Lovett, reeve of Eldon township and John McGillvary, reeve of Carden township.

ROSENEATH RINK NEAR COMPLETION

Athletic Society Sets Admission Free—Young People Meet.

ROSENEATH, Jan. 22 (Examiner Correspondence).—The indoor skating rink, with the athletic society and their friends is proceeding in Roseneath, in common with its sister villages, at an accelerated and record-breaking pace. For the past month or more the young men and some of our older members have been working diligently preparing a rink for skating where they can enjoy an evening of real sport on the ice.

Charging a fee of 10 and 15 cents a night or $2.00 a season ticket has proved a good move. The skaters pay it very willingly, and feel freer to remain for the evening, the hours being from 7.30 to 10 p.m.

It has also made possible the greatly improved facilities which are so much appreciated, a warm, comfortable dressing room for the convenience of the skaters especially those coming a distance. Music is provided by the band every Saturday evening.

Young People Meet

Those present at the Young People's League on Wednesday evening enjoyed a very interesting meeting. Owing to the absence of the president, Miss Elva Sandercock, the meeting was conducted by Miss Hildred Taylor, who had the roll call, the singing of a hymn, and a sincere and earnest prayer by Rev. M. R. Brown. In reference to the winter school, to be held in Cobourg, Miss Elva Sandercock was appointed delegate; Miss Gladys Blodgett as an alternative.

It was decided that a skating party to be held next Wednesday evening, when the members meet at the rink at 7.30 and enjoy a couple hours' skating, and then return to the league hall for refreshments. The small tax of 10 cents a couple will be charged to defray expenses. Andrew Brown was appointed door-keeper. The scriptural reading was given by Mrs. William Arnold and Miss Gladys Blodgett took the topic for the evening.

C. V. Brown, who is a visitor here from Peace River, favored the gathering with a beautiful solo.

It is hoped that the young people will attend the meetings more regularly in the future now that the epidemic of 'flu and colds is abating.

Millbrook

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 22.—The rinks of local curlers who went to Peterborough on Thursday to compete in the Neal Trophy competition included:

T. W. McCamus, George Hetherington, W. M. Ball, Ross Edmunds, skip.

F. Gray, V. C. Lambert, R. H. Edmunds, H. B. Allen, skip.

J. C. Tait, L. J. Hutchinson, J. Lancashire, J. Steele, skip.

J. H. Tait, George Raper, T. H. Collins, J. N. McGill, skip.

P. I. Bentley, H. R. Scott, J. A. Vance, W. C. Hetherington, skip.

S. Sloan, C. C. Garside, T. H. Bradley, W. O'Brian, skip.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ball entertained a number of dinner guests at their home, King street, on Wednesday evening, cards finishing out the evening pleasantly; the guests included, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Fallis, Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Eakins, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ball, and Miss Ruth Ball, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Henry and two sons. Miss Thelma Ball assisted her parents with the entertainment of their guests.

Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Bentley were host and hostess for a dinner party, at their home on Cavan street, the previous Friday evening, the guests including: Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Garside, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Harkness, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ball and Mr. J. J. Clarke.

Mrs. Neiel Clarke, of Winnipeg, and her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Jewell, of Lindsay, are guests of the former's sister, Mrs. E. S. Burnham, this week.

Miss Gladys Tucker, of the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, is the guest of Miss Jean Burnham this week end, coming on Friday in time to attend the Biblical play, "The Dream of Queen Esther" at the United church that evening.

The many friends of Mr H. J. Grassett, formerly manager of the Bank of Toronto here, following an attack of flu which developed into pneumonia, will regret to learn of his death at Barrie on Thursday of this week. Mr. Grassett had gone to Barrie to attend his mother's funeral and contracted the illness which proved fatal. He moved from Millbrook to Petrolia as bank manager.

Messrs. J. Steele and J. N. McGill are the skips who will take rinks from the local curling club to take part in the District Cup competition at Peterborough next Tuesday.

W.C.T.U. MEETS.

Temperance Work Plans Discussed at Meeting of Madoc Society.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, Jan. 22.—The January meeting of the W.C.T.U. of Madoc and vicinity was held at the home of Mrs. G. W. Rivers, United Church parsonage, on Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. J. McCaffrey presided.

Topics for the week of prayer were given by several of the members in a scriptural lesson and minute prayers. The business and plans for the execution of temperance work were discussed and outlined for the new year.

Mrs. McCaffrey read a communication regarding the Edna Farley Memorial Fund and explained that the interest on moneys from this fund will be used to further temperance work in Hastings County. A donation was made toward this fund, and it was decided to invite Miss Duff, a field secretary, who did such good work here two years ago, to lecture here during the last week in February.

The mirror pledge, a new department of the temperance work, was discussed and resulted in the appointment of Mrs. George Huff as secretary.

A short memorial and anniversary service was held, the third of January being the anniversary of the birth of the late Mrs. Letitia Yeomans, when memories were revived of this most influential temperance workers.

Rink Nearly Completed.

The frame work of the new skating rink has been completed, and it is expected that the rest of the work will soon be finished. The first flooding will be done this week.

Team Defeated.

Madoc High School hockey team went to Stirling on Wednesday evening and were defeated 3-2.

Manager Transferred.

J. F. Gillespie, manager of the Madoc branch of the Bank of Commerce, has been transferred to Carleton Place. Mr. Gillespie left on Tuesday, to be followed by his family at an early date. Mr. Moosehead, of Toronto, will be sent to take Mr. Gillespie's place.

Shower Given.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hulin were tendered a miscellaneous shower on Wednesday evening by their many friends in this community, when the young couple received many beautiful presents. After the gifts were presented, a social hour was spent and a dainty lunch served.

Reduce the Acid

In sick stomachs—instantly

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

Milwaukee Neighbor tells about flavored Tea, colored Sweetening

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion at The Examiner Office.

"Dear Marion,

I live a long way from Peterborough, now; down in Milwaukee, but I still take The Examiner—and it's because of our pages. I like them so, and I can keep in touch with Peterborough things through them and the other pages in The Examiner. We expect to go back this year for a few days during Old Home Week, and I sure hope you arrange the weather right and get a good response.

One thing I notice down here different from Peterborough is so few people drink tea, and they know how to make coffee so well. But tea has its followers here, and they make it delicious—I never tasted any in Canada made the same way, and so I'm going to tell you about it. One near neighbor of mine has actually three different tea sets, for use with three different color-schemes and flavorings! Tray, cups and saucers, plates, tea pot, napkins, flowers and all conform to the scheme favored for the affair—even the sweetening is colored to match!

Over here the tea merchants have tea with jasmine flowers scattered through it, giving a delicious flavor. A jasmine flower is usually placed in the bottom of each cup, and the tea poured over it. The florists, too, sells rose-geranium to centre the tea table, and when serving the tea the hostess pinches off a leaf to place in the bottom of each cup. This flavors the tea and also gives off a delightful perfume. These leaves, of course, don't sweeten the tea, but no ordinary sugar will do. Rock candy crystals are used—red, green, pink, yellow, according to the color scheme. The crystals are not placed in the tea by the hostess, but are left on the saucer where their color may be appreciated by the guest.

I have seen red and white peppermint candies and fruit drops of lemon, orange, lime, cherry and peach flavors, used for tea here, and even spice candies, such as cinnamon, clove and wintergreen are sold for this purpose. Sometimes the candy is placed on slices of lemon or orange. Other women add slices of candied grapefruit, candied orange peel or lemon peel, candied ginger, fresh or preserved strawberries, and candied citron.

At one very pretty tea last week my hostess used mint in the tea pot when making the tea, and then passed sprays of mint dusted with powdered sugar. I had enjoyed iced tea with mint in Canada, of course, but this was the first time I ever had hot tea with mint. I have never tasted but have seen advertised, candy rose petals and candy violets, to be used in tea.

All of this seemed so strange to me, accustomed to the regular packet tea, cream and sugar, that I thought you'd all be interested too. It IS nice to see a tea-table with say yellow-trimmed dishes, and a little plate for every person, trimmed the same, with a slice of lemon and a couple of pieces of lemon candy on it.

Do you people up there ever get pecans? They are delicious and we use a lot. I had trouble with mine going stale, but was told of a way to freshen them by pouring boiling water over them before cracking. Let them stand ten minutes, then drain and dry.

I get a great deal of help from your page, Marion, and I only hope my contribution proves as interesting to others as all the neighbors' letters to me. Best wishes to you all.

Yours faithfully,
Mrs. R. D."

* * *

Thank you very much, Mrs. R. D. What you write about tea is very interesting—isn't it funny what just a few miles makes in customs? I don't know that I would care for your spiced tea—but likely some of the neighbors will like to try it. I'm glad to know that you like our pages, and I'll be looking for another letter from you shortly.

"Dear Marion,

I haven't much time to write, as all my family is just recovering from flu, but I have an idea that I wish to pass on to mothers who may have children abed. I worked it out to amuse my six-year old. I made a bed spread for her cot from a piece of blue gingham, and sewed on pages torn from a linen story book. It was so interesting for Dolly that she stayed in bed happily for hours when it would otherwise have been a struggle to keep her there.

Yours sincerely,
H. C."

* * *

That's a splendid idea, "H. C." I can imagine such a bedspread WOULD be appreciated. Write again when your siege is over.

"Dear Marion:

Thanks for asking for some helps. I am sorry I have neglected you, but have been so busy. The flu paid a visit to our house and three or four sick made it rather busy for me, but as I escaped it, it wasn't so bad.

I am enclosing some of my favorite recipes, I have some wonderful recipes for pickles, etc., which I will send in season.

Marion, would you help me out in a problem, when arranging silver on the table what order does it go in, I mean starting nearest the plate, and on which side does one put the table napkin?

Thanking you in appreciation, I remain,

Daisy."

* * *

Your inquiry brings up a question of so general interest, "Daisy," that I am reserving the answer until to-morrow, when I will devote the entire Whatnot to telling how to set the table and serve. I'm sorry to learn of the flu's visitation in your home—has anyone escaped having some member of the family down with it? Thank you for the recipes.

"Dear Marion:

In writing you in connection with my SOS I must first mention how much I like your page. The Whatnot is real interesting and there are so many different helps on your page each day.

My SOS is in request for a recipe for "Date Bars." There was on published once but somehow I lost it, so if it would be possible I would like it very much if it could be published again. Wishing you and your page every success in the coming year.

Yours very truly,
Mrs. M. M."

Thank you, "Mrs. M. M." for your appreciation. It will not be necessary to print an SOS, since I keep a cabinet of all the recipes neighbors end in. The recipe for Date Bars was contributed by "Oriole"—here it is: One cup of chopped dates, 1 cup of chopped nut meats, 1 cup of sugar, 1 cup of flour, 1 rounding teaspoon of baking powder, 3 eggs, beaten separately.

Mix dry ingredients, add eggs. No other liquid is required. Then add dates and nuts. Bake in shallow pan about 25 minutes. When cold cut in bars and roll in powdered sugar.

"Trixie" desires a recipe for Marshmallow Whip. Will some neighbor oblige, please?

FASHION'S FORECAST.

THE STYLE presented is a smart wrap-around with snug hipline affected through long-waisted bodice, closed at side with button trim, with clever drape in skirt. It is unusually graceful and slender and simple enough for all-day wear in silk crepe, crepe satin or sheer woolen. The becoming deep open V-neckline is finished with narrow rolled collar.

THE PATTERN of Style No. 2723 cuts in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. It has a picture chart to explain how each part is cut and put together. All you really need to know is how to handle a needle to make it. The pattern is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew.

NEW FASHION BOOK containing all the Spring styles is 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

SLIMMER THAN EVER IS 1929 MISS

According to the styles brought forward in Paris recently the miss of 1929 will be slimmer than ever in the gowns specially designed to make the appearance slim. The above fashions marked (1) and (3) were posed specially by courtesy of Jean Patou of Paris. Tight in the waist, sleeveless, with pronounced bare back and rather decollette, with draped panels, will be the prevaling modes seen this year. (2) This frock would adorn the wardrobe and the person of any maid or matron. It's strictly formal and might be used by either bride or bridesmaid, too. A tulle foundation, that features a tier-hemmed skirt, serves to enhance the dainty beauty of the filmy overfrock of ecru-tone lace. A girdle of tulle and corsage bouquet complete a charming outfit.

Neighborly Helps

This column is used by Examiner neighbors to help out others who have requested recipes or advice. You may use it freely by addressing Marion.

Dear Marion:

Seeing the SOS for Split Pea Soup, I thought I would send you mine, which my boys would make a meal off; they were so fond of it in the days when I had them home and going to school. I like this one for green pea soup too, so will copy it also. Thanking you for the pleasure your page gives to me as well as so many others.

Yours sincerely,
Yea."

Split Pea Soup.

Soak one cup peas over night. Pour off water and put on with one quart or more of cold water. Add 1 bay leaf, 1 blade mace, 1 teaspoonful celery seed tied in muslin, 1 sprig parsley, 1 small onion, a few peppercorns. Simmer till peas are soft, then strain pressing peas through sieve. Take 1 tablespoon butter, 2 of flour, mix over heat, till smooth, then add 1 large cup milk. Stir till it thickens. When ready to serve soup add the milk mixture (and a little cream if you have it) to the pea mixture, and pepper and salt to taste. Do not boil after adding milk.

Green Pea Soup.

Fry a small onion in a tbs. of butter or bacon dripping. When browned add 2 tbs. flour and 1½ teaspoonfuls curry powder and mix well. Have ready a cup of canned or fresh cooked peas, strained into 3 pints water or stock. Stir first mixture. Then strain all. Add salt and pepper; heat and add one cup hot milk the last thing.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

By BETSY CALLISTER

The flavor and wholesomeness of cooked breakfast food depends greatly on the way that it is cooked.

Water should be actively boiling when the cereal is put in and the cereal should be poured in slowly so that the boiling process continues actively.

Many cooks salt the water before adding the cereal, others add the salt five or ten minutes later. The salt makes the water slightly harder and the grain is softened more quickly without it to start with.

Measure the salt just as carefully as you do the cereal. As a usual thing an allowance of one level teaspoon of salt is adequate for a quart of water. Those who prefer more salt may add it, though it is better not to accustom oneself to a larger proportion of salt than the one given.

Read the directions on the box when you are about to use prepared cereal that needs to be cooked. You will almost invariably find that even the cereals that require the least cooking are supposed to be cooked directly over the fire for a few minutes. In fact the shorter the time you are to allow to the cooking the more careful you should be to see that they receive at least five minutes' direct cooking. This brisk cooking actually cooks the starch—the longer, slower cooking in the top of the double boiler continues the cooking after it has been begun and softens the particles of starch.

Most housewives dislike to wash wire strainers—especially when they have been used to strain white sauce or other flour mixtures and the paste has stuck to the wires. Try using a piece of fine steel wool, first one one side and then on the other, rubbing a little soap and warm water on the wool. You will see how easy this makes the task.

Before washing sweaters, sew the buttonholes together and remove buttons. This helps the sweater retain its shape.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

By JEANETTE.

By Jeannette.

"She had learned that wise Oriental reasoning: that he who desires power must not be dynamic, since it cannot sustain itself; but silent, apparently gentle, yielding, indifferent, like water, which is the most yielding and apparently plastic substance in the universe, yet the most powerful, since you cannot crush it or definitely separate it or hold it in your hand or stem its tide."—From "The Vanity Pool."

To this column has been contributed the following very interesting extract, given by Miss Lottie Drope, who is a Red Cross Hospital worker at the far north outpost of Quibell, in Northern Ontario, and who is at present visiting relatives in the city:

"In Northern Ontario, a Finn district has grown up. Their sturdy customs are brought with them by these people and one of these is their manner of bathing.

"Every Finnish establishment has a separate building, situated a hundred yards or more from the house. This is a bath-house, a small, two-roomed building. The first room you enter is the dressing room and the other is the real bath-room. It contains a huge pile of stones, built like a fireplace, without a chimney and with only a small hole in the top of the building to allow the steam to escape.

"About five hours before the bath is required, the fire is lighted and each person must carry water from a nearby stream or lake, and fill the huge bath-tub which is set beside the fireplace. When the stones are red hot, the bathers sit perched on a bench. There are three tiers of these benches, the last of which is nearest the ceiling. The higher one sits, the greater the intensity of the heat. When the bather is heated through, a maple bough is handed by one of the Finnish women and with this you beat yourself. Buckets of water are placed on each bench to place the hands in.

"Then water is poured over the red hot stones and the vapor thoroughly cleanses the whole body. The tender-feet come down from the highest perch to the lowest seat. If the hands are dipped into a bucket of cold water and then shaken off the hands onto the person beside you, the heat is so great as to almost burn the flesh.

"After this you wash with soap and water, then plunge into the tub of ice-cold water. The hole in the ceiling is then opened to allow the steam to escape, and the Finnish bath is over. To this method of bathing is attributed the milky fairness of the Finlander's skin."

Members and friends of the Women's Canadian Club who heard Mrs. J. F. B. Livesay of Toronto, when she spoke here under the auspices of the Club, will be interested in the success of her daughter, Miss Dorothy Livesay, who is a second-year student at Trinity College and who has been awarded the Jardine prize for poetry.

This prize is worth $100, and any undergraduate of the university is eligible to compete for it.

Miss Livesay, whose work has already won considerable attention, inherits her talent possibly from her mother, Florence Randall Livesay, who is the author of several books of verse and prose. Mrs. Livesay spoke while here on Ukrainia and its poetry, quoting from her book on this subject, in which she had translated many of the charming folk songs of Ukrania, and also quoting from her book entitled "Savor of Salt," with its droll Irish dialect. Her father, J. F. B. Livesay, is managing director of the Canadian Press.

CHEESE IN SOUP

Keep small pieces of left-over cheese. Grated it is excellent for giving taste to vegetables and cream soups and makes a tasty addition to a salad that might otherwise be flat.

FAVORITE RECIPE.

HONEY DATE AND NUT BREAD
(Contributed by "Ruralite.")

Two cups white flour
1 cup Graham flour
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 beaten egg
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 cup chopped walnut meats
1½ cups sour milk
1 cup chopped dates
½ cup honey.

Method—Sift together the flours, salt and baking powder. Mix honey and melted butter. Dissolve the soda in sour milk. Add honey and butter mixture to beaten egg, then add sour milk and soda mixture. Stir in sifted flour mixture, then add chopped dates and then walnut meats. Bake an hour in medium hot oven (about 375°F.). About five minutes previous to removing from oven, brush the top with honey.

TO CURE PORK
(Contributed by "Lucinda.")

Mix 4 pounds of fine salt, 1½ pounds of brown sugar, 2 ounces of saltpeter, and apply it to each 100 pounds of pork. Repeat the application 3 times for ham and shoulder and twice for bacon, rubbing the mixture in well. The meat should be cured in three weeks.

GINGER BREAD CAKE
(Contributed by M. W., Lakefield.)

I thought perhaps this recipe would be of some value to the neighbors as it is so inexpensive and so quickly and easily made. It is better when iced with a plain white or peanut-butter icing.

½ cup boiling water; fill cup with butter
½ cup molasses; fill cup with sugar.
Beat one egg in mixture
1 teaspoonful ginger or cinnamon
1 teaspoonful soda
2 cups flour
½ cup raisins.

LIGHT CAKE
(Contributed by M.W., Lakefield.)

1 egg, butter, size of an egg
1 cup milk, 1 teaspoonful soda
2 teaspoonfuls cream of tartar
1½ cups flour, 1 cup sugar

CURRANT TEA CAKES
(Contributed by Estelle.)

2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ cup sugar
3-4 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 egg
2 tablespoons shortening
½ cup currants.

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt; add beaten egg and melted shortening to milk and add to dry ingredients; add currants which have been washed, dried and floured; mix well, batter should be stiff. Grease hot muffin tins and fill half full. Bake about twenty minutes in a hot oven.

DAILY READING

A FEW MINUTES A DAY WITH THE BEST OF THE WORLD'S AUTHORS CONDUCTED BY THE NEIGHBORS AND MARION

Lord Byron is known to everyone, at least by name. He is noted for his poetical works, including "Childe Harold," "Don Juan," "The Corsair," and many more. He was born in London on January 22, 1788; died April 19, 1824. The poem which I give you today was written by Byron.

JANUARY 22, 1929.

THE DYING GLADIATOR

The seal is set. Now welcome thou dread power!
Nameless, yet thus omnipotent, which here
Walk'st in the shadow of the midnight hour,
With a deep awe, yet all distinct from fear;
Thy haunts are ever where the dead walls rear
Their ivy mantles, and the solemn scene
Derives from thee a sense so deep and clear,
That we become a part of what has been,
And grow unto the spot, all seeing but unseen.

And here the buzz of eager nations ran
In murmured pity, or loud roared applause,
As man was salughtered by his fellow-man,
And wherefore slaughtered? wherefore, but because
Such were the bloody circus' genial laws,
And the imperial pleasure—Wherefore not?
What matters where we fall to fill the maws
Of worms—on battle plains or listed spot?
Both are but theatres where chief actors rot.

I see before me the Gladiator die:
He leans upon his hand—his manly brow
Consents to death, but conquers agony;
And his drooped head sinks gradually low;
And through his side the last drops, ebbing slow
From the red gash, fall heavy, one by one,
Like the first of a thundershower; and now
The arena swims around him—he is gone
Ere ceased the inhuman shout which hailed the wretch who won.

He heard it, but he heeded not—his eyes
Were with his heart, and that was far away;
He recked not of the life he lost, nor prize,
But where his rude hut by the Danube lay—
THERE were his young barbarians all at play;
THERE was their Dacian mother—he, their sire,
Butchered to make a Roman holiday:
All this rushed with his blood. Shall he expire,
And unavenged?—Arise! ye Goths, and glut your ire!

SHORT STORY

TWO BITES TO A CHERRY

Loraine had climbed to the granary without a thought of trouble. Her pet Brahma had stolen a nest somewhere and since Loraine had searched all the likely places, she had turned to the unlikely. The ventilators were too high for chicken flight—especially for the short-winged, heavy-bodied. But Loraine was shortly to be taught that to a determined hen there is no impossible.

Adventurously climbing the ladder by whose help the high openings were shut, she saw, amazed, upon a few loose boards, and a handful, no more, of bright straw, seven beautiful big eggs, white at first view but pinkish pearl if you studied them. Clean out of reach unless you took chances. The boards lay loosely upon the wind beams, so might tip if one strained to reach.

A swift thought set her laughing silently. If she fell, the clean wheat heaped below would save her bones, but what a mess the breaking eggs would make of it! And dad so proud of it—it's bright color, its weight and plumpness, its uniformity, scarcely a weed seed to a bushel. Already he had sent samples to the State Fair which opened next week, and chary as he was of idlings and outings, she had almost a certainty that he would go himself and take her with him. He wouldn't think of it, though, if she spoiled more than a handful of the wheat.

But she wanted her prize eggs. Spec's neck ought to be wrung for what she had done—only one does not wring necks of feathered folk that win prizes.

By crawling lightly across the wind beams, Loraine reached the insecure nest and gathered all seven eggs. Her heart beating with excitement, she thought, "What can I do with them. Then the sleeves of her blouse flashed across her consciousness. Carefully but swiftly she stripped it off, knotted the sleeves together at the ends, weighted them as equally as the number seven made possible, slung the improvised carrier over her back, and began a slow and cautious descent, followed by a merry: "Don't shoot—I'm nothing worse than a wheat-buyer coming up to see the wonder-crop all the neighbors have been bragging about."

"Better not! It's three dollars a bushel just to look at it—and thirty to take away half a handful," she cried, intent only on sending the man away. He laughed, a merry, wholesome peal, mounted the steep stair two steps at a time, and darted out to the wheat bins, to plunge arms and elbows into the splendid grain, then all but bury his face in it, before looking about him.

The granary was oddly dusk, yet oddly lighted—cross-lighted indeed from the double row of ventilators. Those westerly let in narrow ribbons of gilded motes that criss-crossed into a weird lattice with the gray-blue streams from the east. They wove a magic garment about the girl upon the ladder, her bare arms flashing white against the brown dusks of the wooden wall.

Huddling herself into the narrowest compass she said plaintively: "Oh, please go away—I'll fall in just another minute."

"Not with me here," the stranger said alertly, darting to the tipping ladder, and firming it with his shoulder. "You come down—quick! I won't look—on my honor! Now!"

"Take care! Eggs are the messiest things!" Loraine cautioned.

"Right you are," he assented, then setting her feet on firm floor: "I'll wait outside—and never tell anybody just how and where I found you."

"Go to the house—Dad's at home—maybe I'll see you later," Loraine murmured, making haste to nest the eggs safe in the far corner of the farthest bin.

Cliff Byram, wheat-buyer, obeyed, something dazedly; the girl had laid hold upon something inside him never before stirred. His pulses had leaped as he lifted her down. He did not put into words what he had felt—simply because he could not. He'd see her again—many times unless he lost his eyesight. By this time he had reached the porch where a comfortable-looking gentleman sat smoking a cob pipe.

Followed explanation. By time that was all settled came the call to supper. Byram accepted it in matter of course fashion. It was the custom of his country to feed the stranger within the gates. He could not vision any other.

He sat next to Loraine, but without losing appetite for the light rolls, honey, and butter, such as he had dreamed of, yet never before tasted.

* * * * * *

The State Fair was the very best ever. Burton grain swept the boards, and Loraine's yearling heifer carried off the blue ribbon in her class, also the sweepstake prize. Possibly that was why, when Byram ended his week's stay at the Burtons', the squire said with a chuckle: "I'd a-set the dogs on you if I had known in time what you were up to. But no use crying over spilt milk—nor crossing youngsters, because they are young. Come again, young man, when you can spare the time."

"I'm coming Christmas—it's all settled. Loraine's going back with me. We agree there can't be a better time for the wedding—no use in taking two bites to a cherry."

Squire Burton whistled—there being no fit words to speak.

That Body of Yours

By Dr. J. Barton

ARTIFICIAL FOOD NEEDS VITAMINS

A group of physiologists, representing practically all the nations of the world, meeting in Paris early in this present century, proved or rather proved to their own satisfaction, that as far as the main principles of nutrition (nourishment of the body by food) was concerned, that they knew all that was to be known.

In fact "the time was not far distant when the housewife, instead of preparing and cooking a meal of many courses, would satisfy the hunger of the members of the family, simply by having some pills fetched from the nearest chemist shop."

However, these hopes were soon given up by the discovery of vitamins. By this discovery it was shown that to keep healthy and well, additional substances were needed—substances hitherto entirely unknown.

First, that rice deprived of its covering, and fed to men and animals, causes symptoms of paralysis, whereas rice with its covering or peeling prevented these same symptoms.

From this beginning scientists recognized that the cells of the body cannot take in material or throw out waste matter, unless they receive certain definite substances from the blood, which must get these substances from the food. Scientists then tried to rear animals on artificial nourishment made up from the known elements in foods. These attempts proved disastrous to the animals.

There was something in the natural food that was not in the artificial food, and that something was vitamins.

You may remember them: Vitamin A, necessary for growth, found in eggs, milk, spinach, or other green vegetables.

Vitamin D, necessary for bone development, cod liver oil.

Now you and I need not worry about vitamins if we remember that the remedy against tiredness, is to eat, all the year round, a liberal allowance of milk, green vegetables, and fruit.

OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

A type of black evening gown that enjoys much favor this winter—made with black velvet bodice with circular flounces of point d'esprit or dotted net, that have a pronounced downward droop toward the back.

For the woman who wants an evening gown that will suit a variety of occasions—dinners, evening receptions, more or less formal dances, the theater, or even the opera—I can suggest nothing that strikes me as a better choice than some combination of black velvet and net or tulle.

If you are planning to make a frock of this sort yourself and want to make as small as possible inroads into your dress allowance, let me suggest that you take time to look at the remnants of fine velvet which are to be found in almost all the shops at the present time. A yard and an eighth or a trifle more will be all the velvet you need and short lengths of this sort are often to be found at scarcely more than half the original price of the velvet.

And then—also to keep down expenses—let me suggest that you use point d'esprit or fine cotton net for the skirt portion. The new frocks made with tulle flounces usually make use of three thicknesses of the tulle for each flounce and tulle, you know, is rather fragile. The other materials having more body may be used single ply and they are much less likely to become torn. Tulle as well as silk or cotton net is used nowadays without any finishing at the edges—though sometimes the heavier nets are picoted a round the edge.

It is a fairly safe bet that uneven hemlines are to continue in fashion and evening gowns will probably sag at the back as much next winter as they do at present. Still no one ever knows precisely what fashion may have in store for us, and the advantage of a frock like the one sketched is that in case the sagging skirt line does go out of favor the bodice may be used with a different sort of flounce for another season.

With the sagging skirt for evening one wears a wrap that ends somewhere about the knees and is drawn closely about the figure to give the new peacock silhouette.

The Whatnot

A Column for Little Bits of Everything of Interest to Women Readers

Conducted by Marion (Copyright)

I THINK most of the neighbors can remember the time when breakfast was considered just as important and perhaps the most important meal of the day, by Peterborough's housewives.

• • •

Some housewives do not consider breakfast at all and in many cases the man of the house is obliged to get up in the morning and get his own breakfast. He has to eat it alone and go off to work without the cheery smile of his wife and a well-cooked breakfast to start the day off right.

• • •

I do not mean to say that men are not good cooks and unable to cook their own breakfast. No doubt many men are just as good at this as their wives, but what I mean to say is that I support the view that it is the housewife's place to get breakfast, just the same as any other meal.

• • •

I am glad to note, however, that breakfast is regaining its old importance. It is being placed on a higher level and more is being done to make it an attractive meal.

• • •

To be frank, are you doing your share toward making it more important? Just now we read in the many magazines which are being offered on the numerous news stands in the City, just how much depends on breakfast.

• • •

In olden days—ones which I think nearly every housewife in Peterborough can remember, not only was breakfast important but very substantial too.

• • •

This seems to be more or less the case with farmers. Their meals are substantial because work on the farm requires a lot of energy.

• • •

Their meal generally consists of what made up the meal long ago. There are fried potatoes or potato cakes, beefsteak or pork chops, corn cakes, toast and coffee or tea.

• • •

In olden days, the family did not straggle in—one by one—to grab something to eat and run off to work. It was very different. Each and every one of the family was in his or her place for the first meal of the day.

• • •

I do not know whether this is being carried out to any great extent now or not, but in those days, breakfast was made important by the reading of a few verses from the family Bible.

• • •

Most people considered such a meal as I have outlined, much too heavy, and often inconvenient. So, as a direct result of this, breakfast became lighter and lighter, until it is as we have it to-day—when people do not eat any breakfast.

• • •

Now it is fast becoming known that a nourishing meal, eaten leisurely, is not only essential but necessary. We constantly read what health officials have to say about a nourishing meal to start off the day. They stress, too, the point that the meal must be eaten leisurely.

• • •

Every day we see tangible proofs that breakfast is regaining some of its old importance. If you take a walk down George street, you will notice displayed in store windows brightly-colored furniture for the breakfast room, attractive dishes and table linen.

• • •

Then we see pictures of special breakfast rooms and nooks where this first meal is taken with bright surroundings to make it a pleasant one.

• • •

Have you been sending for the free helps offered each week? Last week's help, for instance, was instructions for making a mob cap. These are decidedly useful to wear when dusting or to keep odors from the hair when cooking

In spite of the fact that this is known to be a time when everything is ready made, especially in regard to clothing, many women in Peterborough still buy much material by the yard and make their own clothes.

• • •

These women feel that they save money in this way, and it is true with regard to some articles which can be made.

• • •

There is now being offered on the Women's Page, a new pattern which is very easy to follow and with which any woman can sew. Besides being easy to follow, the styles are up-to-date and should be especially fascinating to women in Peterborough, who make their own clothing.

• • •

The patterns are only 15 cents and if you desire to send for any pattern, address your request to Marion, in care of this paper.

• • •

The free help this week is a diagram-pattern of a skirt with side pleat.

BIBLE SUNDAY BEING PLANNED

A. S. Zavitz is Elected President of Local Bible Society.

DATE IS SET

At a meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society, held Jan. 20, it was decided to observe Bible Sunday this year on Feb. 3. This date was endorsed recently by the members of the Ministerial Association and it is expected will be observed by all the Protestant congregations in the city.

Last year, due to the splendid co-operation of women of the different congregations in the city, a record sum was raised, and at the request of the executive of the local society, the Upper Canada Bible Society, utilized a considerable portion of this fund to print 10,000 copies of the Scriptures in the Bangala (Ngala) language These people have never had the Scriptures before. A copy of the Bible in this language has been received by Mr. G. H. Roper, the Secretary of the Peterborough branch of the Bible Society, and will be placed on exhibition shortly in one of the store windows on George street.

This year the women's organizations of the different Protestant churches are once more being asked to conduct the usual canvass for funds for the society and to take charge of the same districts they had charge of last year. The canvas this year will be conducted February 4, 5 and 6.

At the meeting of the executive on Sunday, A. S. Zavitz was elected president, the executive having been asked to choose their president. The annual meeting of the Peterborough Branch will be held on February 3.

GREEN STOCKINGS.

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 22 (Examiner Correspondence).—"Green Stockings," the play repeated by the Presbyterian Sunday School Young People at their hall, Centerville, on Wednesday evening was a decided success.

Herb Cardwell and his orchestra consisting of five pieces composed of Herb Cardwell, saxaphone; Jack Marshal, piano; Hudson, banjo; Jim Wood, violin, and M. Wood, traps, furnished excellent music between acts, each number receiving tremendous applause from the audience.

The play, which was an excellent one, showed careful preparation, and it was staged in a splendid manner.

Dixon Hutchinson acted as chairman, describing the play and the various characters.

Those taking part in the play were Misses Viola White, Iva Campbell, Edith Deyell, Grace Johnston, Dorothy Hall and George Berry, Charles Anderson, Dixon Hutchinson, Jack Hutchinson, Donald Rutherford, McIntosh Bradshaw.

At the conclusion of the program the young people adjourned to the U. F. O. hall, where the orchestra furnished music for dancing.

Gas Forces Woman To Sleep in Chair

FLYING IN CANADA

Flying has now become a recognized part of practically every conservation, development, and engineering service in Canada. The activities of Canadian pilots and aircraft range from observing for the sealing fleets off the Atlantic coast and forest dusting in Cape Breton Island to forest fire protection and fishery patrols on the Pacific coast; from air mail service to Pelee Island, the southermost point of Canada, to the observation of ice conditions throughout the winter in Hudson strait and transportation in the Yukon. Nowhere in the world has the aeroplane been put to more practical and varied uses.

DAUGHTER OF BASEBALL KING

Dorothy Ruth, daughter of the baseball star, who is reported to have been adopted by her dead mother's family. The little girl has not been informed of her mother's death, but the reports are that her maternal grandparents intend to insist on her custody as a sequel to her adoption and should her father try to combat their efforts she may be the centre of a dramatic lawsuit and be removed from the convent where she is now attending school.

PARENTS HAPPY WHEN BABY SLEEPS SOUNDLY

Here's a way to soothe crying, wakeful babies to sleep quickly and easily. It's the way doctors endorse, and millions of mothers have proved is safe and harmless. A few drops of purely-vegetable, pleasant-tasting Fletcher's Castoria, has the most fretful, restless baby or child asleep in a few minutes! And for colic, constipation, colds and upset spells there's nothing like Castoria. The Chas. H. Fletcher signature is the mark of genuine Castoria. Avoid imitations and be safe.

Peterborough H. C. Juniors Lose Close Decision

OSHAWA SHAMROCKS SCORE THREE COUNTERS IN OPENING OF THIRD PERIOD TO WIN 6-4

Both Teams Display Sterling Hockey in Hard and Fast Game.

LUCKY GOALS FOR VICTORS.

Oshawa Crew Plays Smart Combination—Petes Lead in Offensive.

Taking command of the play early in the third period when they rushed in three goals the Oshawa Shamrocks defeated the Peterborough Hockey Club's Juniors 6 to 4 at the Brock Street Rink last night. After the Petes had played great hockey for the first forty minutes and had the score tied 3-all, with victory apparently within their grasp on their former play, it was those fateful first six minutes of the last stanza that toppled them to defeat.

It was a great game anyway you want to look at it. The score was close throughout, the play hard and fast, both teams giving all they had, and both teas played sparkling clever hockey with splendid combination sallies and deadly shooting that gave neither goalie a minute's peace.

Oshawa took the lead within the first three minutes of play when Black stickhandled his way through and in on top of Gillespie for a smart goal. Both teams battled away on high with the Petes unable to work in past the stalwart defence of Black and Rowden and the redoubtable Levecque handling their long shots calmly and securely, while Oshawa's combination attacks were taking them in on top of Gillespie. There was an argument over a shot of Hatton's which looked very close to a goal, but after careful consideration was disallowed.

Petes Take the Offensive

The Petes came to life in the second period and had the better of the play. Cripps and Hatton combined for an attack that took them through the defence, Hatton missing the nets with his shot but Cripps took the rebound from the boards and slammed it in for the Petes' first counter. Their second goal came on a similar play Cripps and Jones sweeping through with snappy passing and Cripps shot was stopped but he turned quickly and batted in the rebound. Oshawa's equalizer was a lucky break. A high shot by Loritie hit the board behind the Peterborough goal at least ten feet up and bounced back in front of Gillespie who batted it in the nets with his hand while attempting to knock it into the corner. Ballin put the blue and white one up when he took the pass and went in on top of Levecque. With twenty seconds left of the period and after the Petes had forced the play throughout Arundle on the receiving end of a combination attack shot the rubber into the corner from close in, tying the score.

Loritie grabbed the Green Shirts' first goal in the third period when he sifted a sizzling shot that just skimmed the ice, Gillespie getting his stick in front of it, but the rubber bounced off and in. A minute later Arundle got loose from a face-off in the net and stickhandled his way out in front of the Petes' nets and plugged it in. Black came right back stickhandling his way through the whole Peterborough team, on the prettiest effort of the night, and in on top of Gillespie for the sixth goal. The Petes played a rushing game that kept Oshawa pretty well bottled up and the Blue and White obtained the last goal of the game when Jones batted in the high rebound from Hatton's shot.

Deserve Credit

The whole Blue and White team deserve credit for their great showing against the seasoned play of the clever Oshawa team. The front line worked hard, both offensively and in their steady back-checking. Cripps was prominent scoring two of his team's goals when he combined nicely in combination rushes. Jones, at centre, played himself out by his game readiness to go up on every rush and his speedy back-checking efforts. Dallin was always right in there battling and his goal was a pretty one. The defence of Hatton and Calladine was steady and both rushed and shot effectively. Gillespie had one of the busiest evenings of this young life handling all the shots from right in that were heaved at him, and he saved in many a tense moment. The subs, Creighton and Ellis, although not used a great deal, were effective when tossed out.

Black was by long odds the hardest man to stop on the Oshawa lineup, and his rushes always ended up with a hard shot at the Peterborough nets from inside the defence. His running mate, Rowden, was injured early in the game and playing under the handicap of a wrenched shoulder did not show his real ability and yet he went well. Loritie was a fast skating player and he had a deadly shot that fairly sizzled as it sped, and it was always on the mark. Arundle, at centre, played a useful game, and he was prominent with his speedy skating. The wily Levecque, in the Oshawa nets, filled his position as it should be filled, any of the shots that beat him were from close in, and he stopped many that seemed doomed to bury themselves in the twine.

The Oshawa team were a heavy, huskier bunch of players and they used their extra weight to advantage throughout, hammering the Petes with body-checks that had the effect of slowing them up. They played their positions, and broke away on their attacks much faster than did the Petes, and their combination very seldom went astray, and therein lay their superiority over the game Peterborough youngsters.

The teams:

Peterborough—Goal, Gillespie; defence, Calladine and Hatton; centre, Jones; right wing, Cripps; left wing, Dallin; alternates, Creighton and Ellis.

HOCKEY STARS SHARING LEAD

Ties and More Ties in National League Scoring Column.

STEWART AND BAILEY.

MONTREAL, Jan. 22. — The epidemic of ties in National League hockey is by no means confined to the games themselves. According to figures issued last night from the office of President Frank Calder, and including games of Sunday, there is a tie for the scoring leadership of the Canadian Division. By further coincidence the two snipers thus tied are also exactly even in the matter of penalties. There is a quadruple tie for second position among the scorers of the same division, while in the American section two are tied for the leadership.

Cooper Near Leaders

Goalgetting is on the up grade in the American division, for Carson Cooper of Detroit, who leads in actual goals registered, has 17 points in all, only one behind Nels Stewart, of Maroons, and Irvin Bailey of Toronto Leafs, who are on even terms for leadership of the Canadian section, each with 18 points. Cooper is tied with Frank Boucher, centre of the world's champion New York Rangers. Cooper has shot 11 goals and furnished 6 assists while Boucher has just reversed these figures.

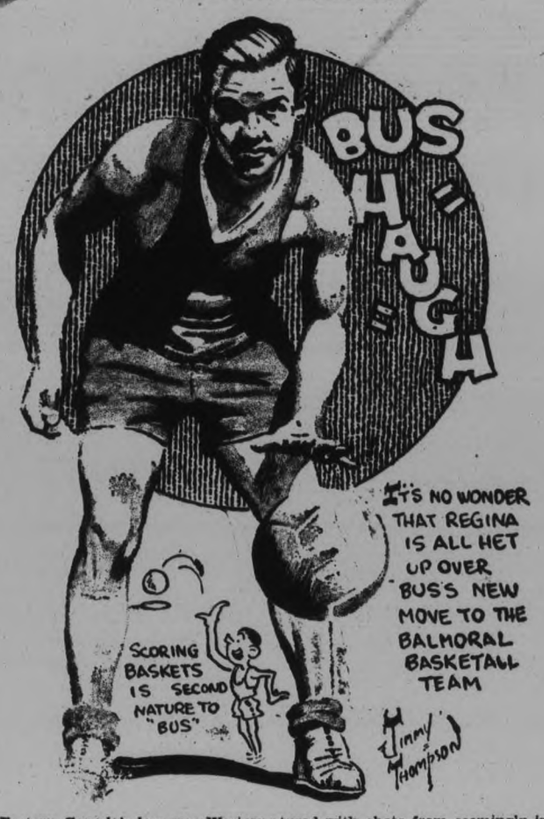
Stewart, the big Montreal portsider, has outscored all forwards, gleaning fifteen goals in all, and furnishing three assists. Bailey has scored eleven goals and furnished the help on seven others. Four are tied behind Stewart and Bailey—Andy Blair, rangy reserve centre of the Leafs; Howie Morenz of Canadiens; Dr. Bill Carson of the Leafs, and "Hooley Smith, Montreal centre ice star. Morenz has been out of several games with an injured knee.

More Penalties for Conacher

Lionel Conacher, big captain of the section-leading New York Americans, brought his penalty service up to 91 minutes for the season by securing three minors in the turbulent game between Americans and Pirates at New York. Conacher has been the most heavily penalized player in either section of the league this season. "Red" Dutton, aggressive defense player of Montreal Maroons, follows Conacher, these two both having considerably more penalties than any American division players. Dutton served 69 minutes, while Eddie Shore, the Boston defense ace, who is the most liberally penalized player in that division, has had only 57 minutes.

Catcher Jack Cummings of the New York Giants left St. Louis last week after having his shoulder operated on by Dr. Robert F. Hyland. He had what was defined as water on the shoulder.

CAGE STAR MIGRATES.



Eastern Canada's loss was Western Canada's gain when "Bus" Haugh moved from Toronto recently to take charge of his father's business in Regina. For many years, "Bus" has been a member of the Toronto West End Y.M.C.A. basketball teams, having played for them in juvenile, junior and senior. Previous to this he played for the Rotakin team of Howard Park United Church and for Humberside Collegiate. Haugh showed early signs of being an all-round athlete, having won distinction in running, hockey, football and baseball, but it was in the cage game that he figured most prominently. Few junior players could equal his ability to score baskets, and he featured with shots from seemingly impossible angles on the floor. He kept up his fine work when he stepped up to West End's senior team, and although one of the lightest players on the team, he often finished the game as the high scorer. Many of the West End wins can be credited to his keen eye, and the Balmoral team of Regina, for whom he is now playing, should go far in the race for the championship of Saskatchewan. Haugh was also one of Toronto's best softball pitchers, his left-hand hooks pitching several teams to league championships. On only two occasions was Haugh beaten out in the Toronto senior championship semi-finals.

FAMOUS HOCKEY GAMES OF PETERBOROUGH TEAMS

By F.D.C.

An exhibition game played in 1914 deserves a place in these reviews of by-gone games, not so much for its own sake as for the evidence it supplies that the Peterborough of those days was developing plenty of hockey players.

The match referred to was a benefit game in aid of Charlie Ray, former Peterborough player who was in ill health at the time and the rival teams were the Peterborough intermediates and a team of ex-Peterborough players.

The line up of the latter furnishes the chief interest. It included Leo Derocher, that season playing goal for Ottawa College, Harold Matthews who was with Royal Military College. Ken Crane and Hugh Burritt who were stars with the Toronto Argonauts, Frank Heffernan of the fast T.R. and A.A. seniors, Pete Campbell, centre man of the University of Toronto, Snap Parker of the Hamilton juniors and Harold Morrow and Harry Clancy who were playing great hockey in the Toronto Bank League.

The Old Boys outscored the homesters 10 to 9 in a sparkling game. The score was tied 3-3 at the half way mark and although the Petes took the lead two minutes after the second half opened the Old Boys ran in four goals in a row and managed to hold their lead until the finish. As might be expected in a game of this kind the checking was not close and the flashy skaters and stickhandlers had a great opportunity to do their stuff with the result that the fans saw some brilliant hockey at all stages.

For the Old Boys the scoring was divided up as follows: Heffernan 2, Clancy 2, Matthews 3, Campbell 2, Crane 1, while the home teams successful marksmen were: Park 2, Halpin 3, Bradshaw 2, Spratt 1, Kelly 1.

The line up was as follows:

Old Boys—Goal, Derocher (Ottawa College), defence, Matthews (R.M.C.), Crane (Argonauts), rover, Heffernan (T.R. and A.A.), centre, Campbell (Varsity), right wing, Clancy (Toronto Bank League), left wing, Burritt (Argonauts), subs, Parker (Hamilton), Morrow (Toronto Bank League).

Peterborough—Goal, James; defence, Bond and Spratt; rover, Halpin; centre, Park; right wing, Bradshaw; left wing, Kelly; subs, Rose and Kennealey.

Again That Cry For More Goals in N. H. L. Cash Customers Tired Of Scoreless Games

New York World: Nothing better was needed to strengthen the argument of those who are demanding more scoring in the professional hockey matches of the National Hockey League than the results of the four games played last Thursday night and the three of Saturday. On Thursday night Les Canadiens played with Toronto, the New York Americans at Montreal, with the Maroons; the Boston Bruins at Detroit, and the Chicago Black Hawks at the Garden here with the Rangers. One game went to a decision! The Rangers defeated the Black Hawks 1 to 0. The Americans and the Maroons, two magnificent teams on the defense, played 'em close to their chests and into 0 to 0 tie. The Bruins and the Cougars had a 1 to 1 tie, and the Maple Leafs and Les Canadiens the same thing. Five goals were scored in 270 minutes, or four and a half hours of desperate, more or less, struggling. Saturday night the Rangers repeated the American feat of a scoreless overtime tie. They played Les Canadiens. The Ottawa Senators and the Maroons played a 1 to 1 tie. Another night there was only one decision, the Pittsburg Pirates winning, 3 to 0, from Detroit. No wonder the customers are beginning to yawn.

TORONTO CLUB BEATS LONDON

Millionaires Win 2-1 Victory in First Game On Stratford Ice.

KITCHENER WINS 2-1.

STRATFORD, Ont., Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—In the first Canadian League game of the season, played here last night, the Toronto Millionaires defeated London by 2 to 1. The Millionaires liked the home of their adoption, the Stratford fans like the Millionaires, the combination was good, the players gave of their best, and the fans responded with hearty applause.

IN SECOND PLACE.

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 22.— (Canadian Press.)—Nosing out the Kitchener Flying Dutchmen 2-1 in a gruelling overtime game here last night, Windsor Bulldogs hurdled their beaten rivals and jumped into second place in the Canadian Hockey League standing.

PENALTIES COSTLY.

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press.) — Needlessly carrying their hickories too high, and suffering useless penalties, the league leading Detroit Olympics, despite this, plainly outclassed the local entry in the Canadian League to win last night's fixture by 5 to 2. The Hams were never in the game, the big, aggressive American team giving them such a rough ride that at times they seemed afraid to approach the visitors defence, while the Detroit forwards, all lanky youths, came sweeping in, smashing through everything, or else just simply skating around the Hamilton second line

The Toronto Victorias at Aurora game, postponed from Thursday, January 17, will be played Friday of this week.

St. Michael's will go to Preston Wednesday night for a senior fixture with the Riversides. This game originally was scheduled for January 2, but had to be postponed owing to lack of ice. Jack Hemphill of Waterloo has been appointed referee.

The Oshawa at Varsity intermediate game, scheduled for Thursday of this week, will be played Friday night.

Wallaceburg is playing a postponed game at Chatham to-night with W. Legg of London as referee.

The Brampton at Georgetown intermediate game, which was to have been played last night, was postponed until to-night.

Caledonia plays at Cayuga Wednesday night and the teams play back back at Celodania Friday night. A. R. Oliver of Galt has been appointed referee for both games.

CURLING

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 22.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence).—The two rinks that will represent the local curling club left for Cobourg this morning and will start in the first round of the district bonspeil at ten-thirty. They are in charge of experienced skips and a good account is expected of them. The rinks are: J. P. Archer, James Gay, W. S. Wiggins, F. C. Bonnycastle, skip; and Jos. Poulton, Marshal West, Harry Denike and R. H. Cole, skip.

The vice-skips' bonspeil is scheduled to begin Wednesday night at seven o'clock. There will be three games, J. R. Smith and Wm. Duncan; R. J. Allen and Gerald West; T. S. Baker and Ray Connor. There will be two series on Thursday night, the first at seven and the second three games at nine. The second round will be played the following night.

Fugazy Asks Dempsey To Form Partnership

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Heretofore in the front rank of rivals of the late Tex Rickard in boxing promoting, Humbert Fugazy yesterday announced himself a candidate for Rickard's niche in the sporting world, and asked Jack Dempsey to be his partner.

Declaring that Dempsey's success as a promoter appeared assured, the New York promoter arrived here to talk over partnership plans. After a conference Dempsey said he had declined to consider such a project until after his temporary job of putting on the Sharkey-Stribling bout here February 27. He is acting for Madison Square Garden Corporation, whose head Rickard was until his death early this month.

TWEED HOCKEY CLUB WINS SEVENTH STRAIGHT VICTORY

PLAY SMART HOCKEY.

Seven Penalties Issued in Final —Victors Lead All the Way.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 22 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Tweed hockey club continued in its unbroken line of victories when it defeated Campbellford by the score of four to two in one of the fastest games that has been played in the Trent Valley hockey league this season. With four more victories to their credit than any other of the six teams, the Tweed team appear to be in a fair way to closing the season at the top of the league. Last night, victory was an uncertain quantity till the last period was well under way. At the end of the first session, the visitors were leading by one goal without the local team having scored at all. The second period saw the visitors leading by the same margin, but with one more goal added to each list of counters. When the smoke cleared at the end of the game, the Tweed team had gained a victory by two goals and continued in their series of victories unbroken. Walter Jackson, Peterborough, refereed the game and had no trouble keeping the game in hand. Only in the last period did he find it necessary to issue penalties. In that period there were seven penalties handed out.

First Period

Tweed got the first try at the net but did not score. Ingram began his thrillers early in the period, but did not get any counters. With ten minutes gone, both teams concentrated all their efforts and held Campbellford well down in their own end of the ice. Campbellford got a good opportunity to score on a rebound, but missed. Smith drew the first blood when he scored on a pass from Max Geraldi with seventeen minutes of the period gone. Almost in the same minutes he drew a penalty for bodying. The home team back-checked, but when combinations carried them to the Tweed net for a shot, they missed their rebounds and failed to get a count. In the last three minutes of the period, they got more shots on the Tweed net than in all the rest of the period. One feature of the period was the little subbing which was done by either team. In the first period there were nine shots on the Tweed net, and thirteen on the home goal. Five of the offsides were charged to Tweed and three to Campbellford. The single penalty went to Tweed. Score: Tweed, 1; Campbellford, 0.

Second Period.

Campbellford concentrated twice in front of the Tweed net at the first of the period, but failed to get a count. With five minutes of the period gone, Ingram evened the score when he tallied on a solo rush from centre ice. Tweed began to sub. Martin started his old game of jumping sticks, but didn't get far. Sanders saved in a tight place when the Tweed forwards were well past the local defence and had an open shot. There followed a bombardment on the Tweed net, but there were no results. Ingram drew a penalty for tripping. Max Geraldi scored for Tweed at the end of seven minutes, and put the visitors back in the lead. Ingram came back on and in a few minutes drew his second penalty for swinging his stick. The gong sounded with the game in Tweed area, and the score two to one in favor of the visiting team. There were eleven shots on the Tweed goal and six on the Campbellford net. Four of the offsides went to Tweed with one to Campbellford. There were two penalties charged against the home team.

Score—Tweed 2, Campbellford 1.

Third Period.

Tweed started the shooting, but Runions got the first score for Campbellford when he evened the count in the first three minutes of the play. The home team had a decided edge on the play till Ingram drew a penalty and they were forced to adopt defensive tactics. Pollock's checking featured the play. Smith drew a penalty for tripping, and Ingram came back on giving the home team the advantage in numbers for an interval. Lambert was injured and had to be relieved. Three man combinations by both teams provided plenty of thrills, but no scores. Ingram took a shot at the Tweed net, and landed the rubber against the dressing-room doors, twenty feet above the ice. With nine minutes to go, Ray Quinn scored for Tweed on a straight rush. Shepherd drew a penalty for tripping and the visitors kept the Campbellford team pretty well bottled up in their own area. Max Geraldi drew a penalty for tripping, and his brother George followed suit. There was an argument in the penalty box and Max Geraldi got out before his time. The referee stopped the game till he could order Geraldi back into the box. The gong sounded when the face-off was starting and the game went to the visitors with the score 4 to 2. There were three shots on the Tweed net and seven on the Campbellford goal, and one to Campbellford. Three of Four of the offsides went to Tweed the seven penalties were charged against the visitors and the remaining four to the home team. This loss to the home team puts them in third place in the league with three wins and three losses. Frankford steps up to the second position with three wins and two losses.

The line-up:

Tweed — G. Quinn, goal; R. Quinn, right defence; A. Geraldi, left defence; G. Geraldi, centre; G. Smith, right wing; M. Geraldi, left wing; E. Geraldi, E. Martin, subs.

Referee—Walter Jackson, Peterborough.

VIEWS ON SPORT

The 6 to 4 victory of the Oshawa Shamrocks practically puts the Junior Petes out of the running and gives Oshawa the group honors.

If the Peterborough Juniors were to go out and win every game from now to the finish, which would mean defeating Oshawa three times and Bowmanville twice, they would be tied with Oshawa Shamrocks. It is a mathematical possibility, but otherwise practically beyond our wildest dreams.

* * * * * *

The game last night was one of those flashing, dashing affairs that keeps the fans on their toes and gives them plenty to holler about. There were ten goals scored and there was enough excitement around the nets to satisfy all. It sent the fans away talking because there were two occasions on which it looked as though the Petes had scored. Hatton took a shot, missed the net but grabbed the rebound and heaved the rubber at the nets. Levecque fell across the goal mouth and it looked as though the puck had gone across the goal mouth, but the goal umpire refused to raise his arm and in spite of a peaceful argument the score was not allowed. The other occasion when it seemed like a sure goal was the time Calladine rounded the nets from behind and shot, the goalie again went down and the game stopped while the shot was under consideration; again a score was disallowed, but the goal umpire was replaced. With those two goals allowed it would have given the Petes six goals and the game might have had a different complexion, victory rather than defeat.

* * * * * *

After such a game battle by the Blue and White and their great margin of play in the second period in which they went out and got three goals that Levecque never had a chance on, and the two that were disputed, it was heartbreaking to see Oshawa come out in the third and slam in three goals in quick order. It took the pep out of the Petes' attack for several minutes, but they soon began to pep up and proved their gameness and strength by coming back and scoring the last goal of the game.

* * * * * *

Doc Rowden, the hefty and fast-skating defence man, whose rushes along with those of Black's are the main threat of the Oshawa attack, was injured early in the game and played under the handicap of a very painful wrenched shoulder.

* * * * * *

The fans are beginning to get enthused about the games in the City League now, and are becoming aware of the fact that there is good hockey featured at these games. The game to-morrow night that promises to be the prize dish is the C.G.E. vs. the Tool Room. Both these teams are well up in front and both have experienced players.

SAINTS TO PLAY IN BOBCAYGEON

Junior Section Leaders Have Another Trip to the North.

St. John's Juniors received word from Secretary Hewitt of the O.H.A. this morning that the Bobcaygeon fixture postponed from December 28 must be played to-morrow night, and, accordingly, the Saints will take another jaunt to the north. Bobcaygeon lost in Lindsay last night by 2 to 1, the Monarchs getting their goals in the first five minutes of play. The Lindsay team will play St. John's here on Friday night, and the results of to-morrow night's battle in Bobcaygeon and the Lindsay clash here will have much to say about the section championship. The present standing:

	W.	L.	T.P.
St. John's	3	0	5
Bobcaygeon	1	2	5
Lindsay	1	3	4

Games this week:

New And Novel Sport For Winter Months

QUEBEC, Que., Jan. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—A unique sport was tested by four daring skiers at Quebec yesteray when a C. P. R. freight engine speeded along at 40 miles an hour over the snow-covered road and towed behind it Jack Strathdee, winter sports director at the Chateau Frontenac; Ivand Nelson, Arnold Stone and Oliver Kahldahl, all well known ski instructors. Skijoying behind a locomotive is peculiar to Quebec, although it is undoubtedly one of the most unusual winter sports enjoyed here.

Veteran Points Out Faster Game When Teams Minus One Player.

WANT WIDE OPEN GAME.

Hockey Fans Clamoring For More Results—Many Suggestions Made.

NEW YORK, January 22. — Count that day lost whose low descending sun has not shone on some new suggestion for more scoring in hockey. The wail for fewer of those 0—0 and 1—1 combats on the indoor ice has been heard in every city where the adopted game has gained a foothold in this country and the cry seems to be increasing in volume.

When the hockey moguls gather to make their plans for another campaign they will have to consider as many suggestions as there are delegates in attendance. Ideas on what the game needs vary considerably among the rule makers, but the public seems to be satisfied that each game needs a few more goals.

The agitation is more a product of hockey in this country than on the other side of the Canadian border, where it developed its high standard before invading the domains of Uncle Sam. In Canada the extra stress on the defensive side of the game has been taken as a matter of course. Low scoring has been the rule since the sport was introduced.

On this side of the border the fans yearn for more results. They prefer a 5 to 4 game to a 1 to 0 affair any time The pitching duels of baseball passed out of vogue years ago, though one is encountered occasionally. For the most part the baseball fans prefer hits and runs. So, too, the hockey fans appear to want goals.

Wide Open Game.

Some of the hockey officials point to the rapid and continuous growth of the game in the United States as an argument that the fans like the sport as it is. Others insist that the dissatisfaction which is so frequently voiced by the hockey followers may mean the loss of present-day patrons, unless a change is considered. The game would draw far greater crowds, these propotents of more scoring insist, if the defense were not so trong. A wide open game in which the scoreless tie would be next to an impossibility is advanced as the ideal.

Wider nets, less padding by the goalies, a change in the off-side rule, legislation to prevent falling down in front of the cage and numerous other suggestions are bobbing up every day. Somebody went so far as to propose that the goalie serve all penalties for fouls, leaving his cage unprotected during the two minutes of penance.Other suggestions were so radical as to change completely the rules of the game.

Tommy Gorman, manager of the New York Americans, like most men who have been connected with the game for years, is not willing to admit that the present rules injure hockey as much as some of the critics aver. But as a practical hockeyist he is willing to admit that the voice of the public on such a question cannot be ignored. His theory is to let the rules alone and play hockey with five-man teams.

Eliminate Defense Man.

"Give the goalie all the privileges which he now enjoys," says Gorman, "and make no rule changes. These regulations have been worked out after years of study and competition. The answer would be found in the elimination of one defense man. We once had seven-man hockey and by eliminating the rover we helped the game considerably. Further elimination would help even more, I believe. The best hockey, it seems to me is to be seen when each team has a player in the penalty box and is playing with only five men on the ice.

"Some are inclined to blame managers for low scores and defensive tactics. If too much defense is injjuring the game, as some insist, the fault does not rest with the managers, who must make the best of conditions and rules as they are found. To attempt wide open hockey is suicide for any team fighting for a place in the playoffs, because it opens the way for the other team to score once or twice.Then that team, after scoring, can fall back on defensive hockey and hold the lead to the finish. By giving the people what seems most satisfactory a team will pile up defeats and be of no interest at all to those same fans.

"Just take out one defense man and the game will improve is higher scoring is an improvement A wider net is my second choice but I believe the elimination of one defense player is the logical move."

Lenglens Sail For Home On Friday

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 22 (Canadian Press). — The New York American says to-day that Suzanne Lenglen has engaged passage for herself and mother on the French liner Paris, sailing Friday, and that officials of the line are holding in reserve a stateroom for Baldwin M. Baldwin.

The Lenglens, who were reported Westward bound after their somewhat hurried departure from the California home of Baldwin's mother, Mrs. Anita M. Baldwin, have evaded all efforts to locate them. Baldwin, who although still married, was at various times reported a suitor for the hand of the former world's tennis champion. also left his mother's home at the same time.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"A WOMAN OF AFFAIRS."

The combination of Greta Garbo and John Gilbert in this picture is just as successful as usual The dark young man with the electric eyes and the exotic lady with the sensual mouth enact a tragedy in this picture. Greta Garbo, as the heroine, Diana Merrick, has the whole action of the production. Gilbert, even as the hero, just tags along with her and watches her adventures with amazed eyes.

In this picture, Miss Garbo is the intense, passionate type, without a spark of humour. The story progresses to a logical ending, after a great deal of backing and filling, in episodes which create a very uncertain mental attitude on the part of the watchers. For those who like their romance in the raw, with plenty of passion and the faculty on the part of the actors of taking everything very seriously, "A Woman of Affairs" will appeal immensely. But it has an unpleasant, sombre atmosphere that persists to the end.

Hugh Trevelyan, a part well taken by Lewis Stone, and Constance (Dorothy Sebastian), the young wife of Nelville Holderness (John Gilbert)are the only likeable characters in the piece. They are kind and good. Without them, it would be a story of macabre drawing and errotic tendency Diana Merrick (Greta Garbo) is a new role for this actress and she brings to it the characteristics which make her a wonderful vamp, but don't fit in exceptionally well with the part of a society girl of "zipper" temperament. In many of the episodes she looks decidedly tough, rather than sophisticated ,and she overdoes the passionate scenes

Diana is madly in love with Neville, who returns the love, but his father Sir Morton Holderness (Hobart Bosworth), objects greatly to the infatuation, and finally succeeds in parting the lovers. Diana, after two years, marries David Furness, and on their wedding day he is arrested as an embezzler, and suicides, to escape the consequences of his crimes. Diana conceals the facts of the case and allows the world to draw its own conclusions as to her character and her husband's action. Thereafter she becomes a "woman of affairs" and builds up an unsavory reputation by her actions while abroad for eight years. Her young brother, Jeffrey, who had made David Furness a hero, and had come to hate his sister for her supposed part in David's death, is ill and dies, refusing to see her. Diana returns to England and arrives just three days before the marriage of Neville to the lovely and innocent Constance.

Sometime after the marriage Diana becomes ill, and Dr. Trevelyan, her old friend, sends for Neville, who goes to Paris to see her. Thereafter the whirligig of passion and regret recommences again, and she succeeds in throwing several wrenches into the machinery of Neville's life.

But Diana, who is a "gallant lady" according to the sub-titles, and a very foolish one, according to the action of the play, takes a liking to Constance, and refuses to spoil her life, even for the sake of romance. She does the inevitable thing and closes the chapter with a terrific bang, her dead hand protruding from the overturned car that forms her Juggernaut.

It is an intense and passionate picture, compelling the attention with its action, repelling the mind with its inferences.—Jeanette.

Association Team Defeated 32-30 in City Basketball League Fixture.

GOOD CAGE WORK.

"Y" Seniors Are Victorious Over "Y" Elementary in Girls' Game.

With the Bakers nosing out the Y.M.C.A. team by a 32-30 count, the City Basketball League got away to a flying start last night in the Y.M.C.A. gym., at nine o'clock; this, the first game proving decidedly interesting and providing flashes of really good cage work. At the end of the first half, the Y. team was out in front by 16 to 12, but the Copper counters came back strong on the home stretch and outscored their opponents 20-12, to nose out by the one basket margin. Doug. Loomis was on the whistle and handled the game satisfactorily.

The teams lined up as follows:
Bankers.—Grose, 2; French, 4; Wickett, 2; Smith, Kingston, 24.
Y.M.C.A.—Grant, 10; Cooper, 2; Stanger, 2; Vickers, 16; Telford, Ellis.

LADIES" BASKETBALL GAME

A very interesting game took place at the Y.W.C.A. last evening—"Y" Seniors vs. "Y" Elementary. The "Y" Elementary are newcomers to the senior league and are to be congratulated on the good showing they made in their first game of this season. The score ended in favor of the "Y" Seniors, 21-6, but was no indication of the keen playing on both sides.

The game was well handled by "Bim" Sturgeon with Don Grant on the side keeping time.

BIG MUSEUMS DO PRACTICAL WORK

Four Scientific Institutions in London Prove Daily Value to Industry.

LONDON, Jan. 22 (By the Canadian Press).—The National History Museum in South Kensington, the Science Museum in Exhibition-road, the Museum of Practical Geology in Jermyn-stree and the Royal Botanic Gardens, with the Herbarium and Museums at Kew, are four great scientific museums in the London area maintained solely or chiefly from public sources. Each has its visitors of the sightseeing kind. Each has its clientele of serious specialists, who visit the collections with a defined purpose and who know something of the continuous research that lies behind the public exhibitions.

These museums, however, and their trained staffs have an immediate practical utility, on which much stress is laid in the Interim Report of the Royal Commission on National Museums and Galleries, because they are an invaluable and not sufficiently recognized agency in the development of industry and of part of the time of the staff than is generally understood is occupied not merely by curating and abstract research, but in studying and advising on problems of immediate practical moment.

Insects dispute man's lordship of the earth more seriously than any other living creatures by direct attacks on his food, his health, and his habitations. If an insect plague is to be fought, the exact species must be identified as a first step towards distinguishing between harmful and harmless and towards finding out the weakest point in the life history against which measures may be taken with most chance of success. Advice is sought from the staff at the Natural History Museum. The whaling industry is recognized to be in gave peril from reckless exploitation. When it was decided to collect knowledge on a sufficiently broad basis for the devising of international protection and regulation the Natural History Museum was at once called on. The scientific staff of the Discovery expedition is now at work at the Museum examining the results of their inquiries in southern seas.

One example is sufficient to prove the practical advantage to the Empire and the world of the Royal Botanic Gardens at Kew. The cultivation of rubber and the industries dependent on it represent a value of hundreds of millions of pounds, and have become possible through the agency of Kew. In June, 1875, F. E. Wickham arrived at Kew with 70,000 seeds of the Brazil wild rubber tree, which he had been commissioned by the India office to collect. These were sown on a space of 300 square feet. Some 2,500 germinated, and in August, 1900 were sent to Ceylon in charge of a skilled gardener. About 1,700 reached Dr. Thwaites at the Peradenya Botanic Gardens in excellent condition. The plants were established in Ceylon, and the plantations of Para rubber in India, Burma, Balaya, and elsewhere are the result.

At the Museum of Practical Geology the expert staff are constantly giving advice and information on ores and minerals of economic value and on gems and, ornamental stones. The Science Museum is designed to illustrate and aid the application of science to all branches of industry, and these functions it performs by a magnificent library and by loan collections and apparatus.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE KEEP LOOKING FOR A WINDFALL

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

"When my rich uncle in America leaves me his fortune" is a very common expression in Europe of which we have no exact equivalent. But we, too, share the universal hope of getting rich. We pay out good money to the fortune teller to confirm this hope. We continue to expect a windfall even when we know that there is not the slightest probability of any good coming our way.

To be wealthy is the hope and wish of almost every normal person. And although most of us are aware that we shall never attain riches by our own efforts, we keep hoping that wealth will yet come to us through the generosity of some other person. We get a thrill from flirting with Lady Fortune even though she gives us the cold shoulder.

The desire for unexpected wealth originates in daydreams in which we picture ourselves accomplishing wonders, doing heroic acts, getting notoriety, fame, wealth, and all the desirable things that we admire and envy in others.

Back of this is the universal impulse for self-expression, the desire to do something big and impressive, to leave our footprints in the sands of time. This perfectly legitimate urge enables the gifted to do many worthwhile things by which the whole world benefits.

We keep looking for a windfall also as a means of bolstering up our failing courage in the severe, and sometimes bitter, struggle of life. Hope springs eternal— and without hope we should become discouraged and quit.

Anticipation of good creates and maintains a high personal morale in the midst of failure and disappointment.

Where a windfall is highly improbable, the desire for it creates a better morale which is beneficial; where it is more than probable, the expectation is enervating, and throws a damper on individual initiative and effort.

For this reason a rich man's son is really handicapped despite his great advantages; he must be more of a man than the average to succeed in his own right.

Nevertheless, no matter what our chances may be, we all keep looking for a windfall because it is a short cut to wealth and supposed happiness. This same motive prompts human beings to look for the fountain of youth, the philosopher's stone, the royal road to learning, and the happy hunting ground —it is like a furnace in the chilly atmosphere of downright failure and meagre success.

Why do you do what you do? Ask Dr. Thomson. Write him in care of this paper and send stamped envelope for reply.

JEAN VALJEAN AND THE BISHOP

Last night to a large and appreciative audience in St. James United Church, Dr. Cleaver gave, in his inimitable manner, the thrilling story of Jean Valjean. With vivid word-pictures and graphic descriptions this great character was made a living one before the eyes of his listeners, who followed breathlessly the unfolding and development of his personality.

To those who heard it for the first time, the story or parable was an especial delight and to those to whom it was familiar it was given an added and deeper significance.

Beginning with the story of Jean's boyhood, which was, indeed, a barren one, the speaker carried his audience swiftly along through the varying fortunes of his life, enlivening the discourse with many humorous touches; and giving point to the object lessons which might be read by everyone.

After the death of his parents, Jean went to live with his sister and upon the death of her husband found himself the sole supporter of his sister and her seven children. Through poor wages and inability to provide food for these children, Jean was led to steal a loaf of bread. He was caught in the act and immediately sentenced to five years in the prison at Toulon. Here, through his intense desire for revenge, Jean developed his body in many ways and was even able to educate himself in some measure. He repeatedly attempted to gain his freedom and to escape from prison and for these attempts (for he was always caught) his term of imprisonment was lengthened out to nineteen years.

When he was, at last, set free he was cheated of a part of his prison wages and upon examining his passport, he found that it stated him to be a "dangerous convict". These acts further deepened his hatred toward mankind.

He set out for a neighboring town but his passport ruined his chances to obtain occupation or even lodging. After repeated rebuttals, he was taken in by a saintly bishop who treated him as an honored guest. The story of this bishop's life and work was a little sermon in itself.

In the night which Jean spent in the bishop's guest chamber he was overcome by the temptation to steal the bishop's spoons. Again he was caught and brought back to the bishop for identification by the police. Still hoping for good things from the poor convict, the bishop explained to the astonished guards that he had "given" the spoons to Jean. He had, indeed, the night before told him that anything in the house was Jean's but had not expected to be taken so literally. Bishop then gave to Jean a treasured pair of silver candlesticks telling him that "he had bought his soul for God with this silver."

The bishop's influence made itself felt finally but not before Jean committed one more sin for which he forever suffered—that was, the stealing of the coin from a poor little Savoy lad. From that time, at which he uttered his first prayer for forgiveness, Jean Valjean was a new man.

He set his face toward the next town and upon arriving, found great excitement over a fire at the guard's station. Jean rescued the children of the chief guard from a terrible death and his passport was forgotten.

He began work in some small rooms in the town, manufacturing jet, finally became rich and his business expanded into a factory. He was known for his benevolence and was unwillingly made mayor of the town. His true identity was suspected by Javert, a police officer, and this suspicion was justified when Jean, now know as "Father Madeline" rescued an old man from under a heavy cart, by exerting his great strength. Javert reported his suspicions but was condemned by his superiors who reported that the real Jean Valjean had been arrested. This Javert confessed to "Madeline."

The latter could not allow another man to suffer in his stead, so went at once to give himself up. Previously Jean or Madeline had become interested in Fantine a discharged factory worker of his who was dying and whose child Cosette, Madeline had promised to bring to her.

After declaring himself to be the guilty Valjean at the court in Arras, Jean hurried home to see Fantine. Javert came to her bedside with the arrest for Jean, and feeling that her last friend was gone, Fantine died.

In the night, Jean escaped from the town jail, and early the next morning drew his savings from a neighboring bank and buried them conveniently. During his search for Cosette, he was arrested by Javert and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Once more, by an act of bravery, Jean Valjean made his escape and, this time, was thought to be drowned. He rescued Cosette from her guardians who treated her as a drudge, and they lived happily for a time in Paris, until once more discovered by Javert. Jean made his escape with Cosette into a convent garden, where by chance he met the old man whose life he had saved. Jean was given work, Cosette taken into the convent and they were again happy. The years sped by, Cosette grew up and Jean felt that he must take her from the convent. A home is taken in Paris and soon the love affair of Cosette and Marius unfolds itself. In spite of all obstacles put up by Jean, who is now an old man, the lovers are true.

In a breath-taking climax, Jean rescues Marius who is fighting with the revolutionists, saves Javert's life who later drowns himself, and finally consents to the marriage of Cosette and Marius.

Jean now feels that his heart has broken and calling his children to his side he dies, pronouncing his benediction upon them. Although they see no 'chariot of fire" there must surely have been one for such was a fitting close to a life of magnificent self-sacrifice.

The pronouncing of the benediction brought to a close a service of great benefit and inspiration. This meeting also brought to a close Dr. Cleaver's stay in St. James Church where, for the past week, he has been holding services of a helpful nature, dealing with "The Problem of life and how to solve it."

PILES GO QUICK

Piles are caused by congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause. That's why salves and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds, because it relieves this congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has given quick, safe and lasting relief to thousands of Pile sufferers. It will do the same to you or money back. McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store and druggists everywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

RAINDROPS FROM SMOKE

Dust in the air—even coal smoke—eventually may come into wide practical use in rainmaking. Such was the recent assertion of Prof. C. F. Knipp, a chemist of the University of Illinois, who demonstrated how, with the aid of dust, experimenters now can make rain fall in the laboratory.

A vessel is filled with air moistened to the saturation point, explains Popular Science Monthly. When this air is expanded, the moisture turns to fog. Then dust is introduced by lighting a match and allowing smoke to filter into the vessel, instantly the fog turns to raindrops.

They Have Given Great Satisfaction

"I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills for my children on several occasions," writes Mr. M. Munroe, Canoe Lake, N.S. "I am glad to say they have given me great satisfaction in the case of involuntary urination. I shall continue using them and would not be without them in the house." Kidney Trouble is very common among all classes of people, both young and old. A lot of very valuable time is usually wasted by using unsuitable treatments. Dodd's Kidney Pills Help all Kidney Troubles.

Obituary

WILLIAM ROBERT SKITCH.
LINDSAY, January 22. — The death of William R. Skitch, an old pioneer of Lindsay, took place at the Ross Memorial Hospital yesterday morning. Mr. Skitch, who was in his 87th year, had had a severe fall on the icy pavement on Thursday afternoon and had injured his hip. Pneumonia set in and he died yesterday morning.
Mr. Skitch was one of the pioneer settlers of Lindsay, having lived here for the past 50 years. He carried on a carriage business for many years but for the past 20 years had been living in retirement. He was born in Cornwall, England, in 1842 and came to Canada with his parents when he was nine years old. The family settled in Port Hope, and there he was brought up and educated. He learned the carriage business in Peterborough, in Metheral's carriage shop, and having learned his trade came to Lindsay, where he started business for himself.
On February 15, 1869, he married Elizabeth Thurston, of Dunsford. She predeceased him having died on Aug. 12, 1923 He leaves to mourn his loss two brothers, Alfred Skitch, of Welland, and Edward Skitch of Campbellford; one daughter, Mrs. H. J. Henly, of Winnipeg; and four sons, Herb W. Skitch, Toronto; W. F. Skitch, of Peterborough; Albert E. Skitch of Vancouver, and Percy H. Skitch, of Lindsay.
In religion Mr. Skitch was always a staunch Methodist, and after the Union belonged to the United Church of Canada. He was a Liberal in politics dustries Fair. The Prime Minister will attend, and Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, President of the Board of Trade, will be chairman. The Fair is being held in two sections, at London and Birmingham, and with at least 2,500 concerns participating, will this year exceed in magnitude any of its predecessors.

BOGNOR, Sussex, Jan. 22.—Everybody in Bognor to-day was naturally delighted at the announcement His Majesty would become a temporary resident for the period of his convalescence. This little Sussex town is of the old-fashioned type, and has never been modernized to meet the necessities of a great summer influx of holiday-makers. Consequently the general bulk of excursionists, despite its many natural allurements, pass it up although it has the favor of many of the older generations.
Bognor obviously has much to recommend it for a person in the King's present state of health. Its equable temperature and peaceful surroundings are gentle but powerful assistants towards convalescence. Sir Arthur Du Cros' residence which the King will occupy is about half a mile from Bognor, and there is every reason to think His Majesty will secure the complete rest desirable. The local people at any rate are determined to do everything to secure this.

Radio Now Used As Watch Regulator

Indicative of the trend of the times, was an incident during Judge Hawley Mott's address to some sixty boys in the Y.M.C.A. last night.
"And now that we have compared a boy with a watch, how do we regulate a watch?" asked His Honor, hoping for the answer, "By Greenwich calculation."
Came the reply—"By the radio," sir!"

COUNTY COUNCIL ELECTS WARDEN

Reeve J. F. Breckenridge, of Belmont and Methuen Heads Peterborough County.

SESSION OPENS.

J. F. Breckenridge, Reeve for Belmont and Methuen, was elected Warden of the County of Peterborough for the year 1929 at the inaugural meeting of the council in the court house this afternoon. No other names were put forward, so E. M. Elliott, county clerk, declared Mr. Breckenridge elected by acclamation. H. B. Rye, of North Monaghan, and John Clark, of Galway and Cavendish, moved Mr. Breckenridge's nomination. Mr. Breckenridge entered the county council in 1923 and has been a member ever since. In 1927 he was chairman of the Roads and Bridges committee and last year he had charge of the finance department of the county.
Since 1880 Belmont and Methuen have only twice been honored with having their reeve occupy the warden's chair. In 1880 Reeve J. Brown was the first warden to come from the united townships while in 1921 W. Griffith occupied the Warden's chair.

FATHERS AND SONS ARE ENTERTAINED

George Street United Church's Annual Banquet Proves a Big Success.

The Father and Son banquet put on by the Sunday school of George Street United Church last evening was a huge success. About four hundred and fifty boys with their dads sat down to a sumptuous meal served by members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Church.
The tables were very attractive with decorations of potted red cyclamen and red candles. At the head table were seated Rev. J. E. Todd, who acted as chairman and toastmaster; Rev. W. Harold Young, George Robertson and R. C. Heard.
After singing the Doxology, with Harry Northrope at the piano, the supper was heartily enjoyed, being intercepted with community singing and class yells; many being quite unique. Harry Northrope made a splendid leader for the numerous songs.
Douglas Carlisle led the boys in singing "O, Canada," followed by "The Maple Leaf," by the fathers.
After a toast to the King, proposed by George Robertson and responded to by singing, "God Save the King," Ronald Payne, the representative of the Older Boys' Parliament, made a short speech, telling how the boys' work had been carried on and that the sale of bonds by the C.S.E.T. had facilitated this work.
The T.O.B. Class gave a musical treat, which received prolonged applause. A toast to the Sunday School was proposed by Harold Wiman and responded to by A. F. Hagerman, who said, "When we think of Sunday School we think of organization — superintendents, teachers, text books, staff of teachers, etc. Here we are studying the only text book time has proved worth-while. Fathers should see that sons go to Sunday School and go with them. We have great opportunities, but these mean further responsibilities, which we must live up to."
Charlie Elliott's Class put on an amusing stunt, "A Mock Marriage," which brought down the house. Charlie acted as parson, being seated in his study when the curtain rose. Soon a knock came and when the door opened a country couple entered who wished to be married, accompanied by a couple of friends who acted as bridesmaid and groomsman. I. Woods, the blushing bride, was attired in a sleeveless pink silk gown, and was attended by Garnet Dainard as bridesmaid.
The nervous and trembling groom was Norm Watts, who was ably supported by Ken Miller.
A toast to "Our Fathers" was proposed by Clair Northey and responded to by H. O. Fisk.
A toast to "Our Sons" was proposed by J. E. Middleton and responded to by Ernie Magee.

Rev. Mr. Young Speaks

The speaker of the evening, the Rev. Harold Young, was then called upon and received a great ovation when he rose to speak. Mr. Young said he never ceased to wonder at the many excellencies of George street people, and he would carry back to Toronto a bundle of pleasant memories of the many expressions of good will tendered him while here.
"Our great opportunity for happiness is not something in remote places of the future. We often sigh for things and think if we only had them it would be bliss—perhaps a fine house, a car, or beautiful clothes, but right here is our greatest opportunity for joy and happiness in our home life. As a boy in your father's home you can enjoy the greatest unshadowed carefree happiness. The greatest reproach a father can have is having a son and failing to give him fatherhood. This is more important than success in any walk in life. Let us be pals to our sons. How many of us have boy we understand? We have a great chance; will we take it?"
C. H. Saunders moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Young, which was heartily seconded by all present.
Charles Elliott moved a toast to the leadies, which was responded to by Mrs. C. E. Smith, president of the Ladies' Aid.

OLD OFFICERS ARE RETURNED

Seventy-eighth Annual Meeting of Little Lake Cemetery Board is Held.

REPORTS SUBMITTED.

The acclamation to office for another year of all its officers featured the annual meeting of the Little Lake Cemetery company which was held yesterday afternoon in the Board Room of the Toronto Savings and Loan company. By virtue of this decision, B. F. Ackerman, who presided at the meeting, having been president in 1928, will again be the head of the company, E. A. Peck, M.P., will serve another term as vice-president, Felix Brownscombe will continue his duties as secretary-treasurer and William James will be superintendent for 1929.
The directors, also chosen at this annual meeting held a meeting of their own immediately afterward. They were B. Shortley, E. H. Hall, A. Stevenson, W. G. Morrow, E. A. Peck, M.P., B. F. Ackerman, R. Denne, R. J. Kidd, H. A. Morrow.
The reception of the Director's report, as submitted by president Ackerman, and the superintendent's report by William James, held the interest of the annual meeting for some time.

Directors Report

"The directors have pleasure in submitting to the shareholders their seventy-eighth annual report for the year ended December 31st, 1928.
"A perusal of the treasurer's financial statement will show the company's accounts are kept under two headings, namely "Special Accounts" and "Operating Accounts". The Special Accounts are mostly in connection with the "Capital" which the Operating Accounts deal with the ordinary work of the Cemetery.
"Our largest income is derived from interest on Bonds" and amounted to $3,729.38, while from "Greenhouse Sales" made almost entirely to lot owners for plants to decorate their lots, $3,346.50 was received, as compared with $3,160 last year. From care of lots, flower beds and vases $3,063.30 and from digging graves $2,417.00.
"Some of our largest expenditures are care of grounds $2,245.19, greenhouse wages, $1,478.92, digging graves $1,426.07, care of lots $1,307.62, and cutting grass $1,221.40.
"Investments made during the year were $3,300. City of Peterborough debentures bearing 4½% interest but bought to yield 4¾% and maturing in 1946, 1947, and 1948. Also $3,000 in town of Riverside debentures bearing 5¼% interest bought to yield 5.15% maturing in 1947. We also purchased house No. 26 Ware Street, for the sum of $2,000.00 and spent an additional $498.00 for plumbing and heating, so that all told we invested $6,798.00 on capital account as compared with $6,500.00 last year, at a yield of about 5%.
"There were nine agreements entered into during the year for the perpetual care of lots, for which $3,595.00 was deposited with the company. This makes a total of 111 agreements and $24,166.21 since this fund was started. We would like to again impress on the lot owners the wisdom of arranging with the company now, for the keeping of their lots in good condition for all future time."

History Written

"During the year we had a history of the Company written by Frank H. Dobbin, which deals with the operations of the Company from its commencement up to the present time. Reference is made to a number of prominent men who in former years were instrumental in laying the foundation which has enabled their followers to bring the cemetery to its present state of perfection. A perusal of this book will prove interesting to all the lot owners. A copy of the book has been placed on file at the public library where it can be seen by all those desiring to do so.
"Our 'operating account' shows a profit of $478.83 for the year, while this is not as large as the previous year, it is more than the average for a number of years past and will, I trust, prove satisfactory to the lot owners."

Superintendent's Report

On section "O" 357 loads of filling have been placed and this has been graded and seeded, this finishes section "O" making about 350 lots ready for burial.
On section "M" we have placed 459 loads of filling, same has been graded and seeded at a cost of $886.26 for filling, labor and seed. We have ready 300 lots for burial.
On section "O" 565 feet of drain tile has been laid. One catch basin and 60 feet of drain tile has been laid on the roads.
No. three greenhouse has been painted inside and out, also the iron fence from the front entrance to the railway tracks.
26 lots have been sold.
33 foundations put in for monuments.
234 burials during the year.
9 lots have been placed under perpetual care.

DIED

LaPLANTE.—Died at his residence, 87 Lock street, Tuesday, January 22, Noah T. LaPlante, in his 89th year. Funeral, Thursday morning, at 9 o'clock from the Sacred Heart Church.
